EDITORIAL.

Early this year the Headmasters' Council of the Associated Public Schools invited five Independent Melbourne schools to join the Association. 1958 will be an historic year for those five schools, just as was 1908 for the Geelong College when it was admitted to the Association. There has been much controversy on this move; pro and con have been argued with great zest and little logic or understanding of the position. It must be remembered, however, that our real heritage lies in the vision of our forebears and there can be no doubt that the decision of the A.P.S. Council is timely and will be beneficial to both new and old members of the Association.

In previous years, Australia enjoyed a great prosperity, and along with a large increase in population came a rise in the standard of living. This was conducive to a greater desire for education generally, and secondary education in particular, which could not be met by existing educational establishments.

This position has been alleviated both by an increase in the size of all Independent schools, and increased educational facilities provided by the Government.

In common with other Independent schools, the A.P.S. intake was increased, but it was still not possible to absorb all who wished to have a Public school education.

The admission of the five Independent schools is a step towards overcoming, this problem, and at the same time to permit expansion of the Associated Grammar Schools to the benefit of those who desire a Church school education.

It is clear that the move made by the A.P.S. Council was decided upon with a proper appreciation of the real needs of education in Victoria and did not seek to benefit directly, either the existing Associated Public Schools, or the newly admitted schools.

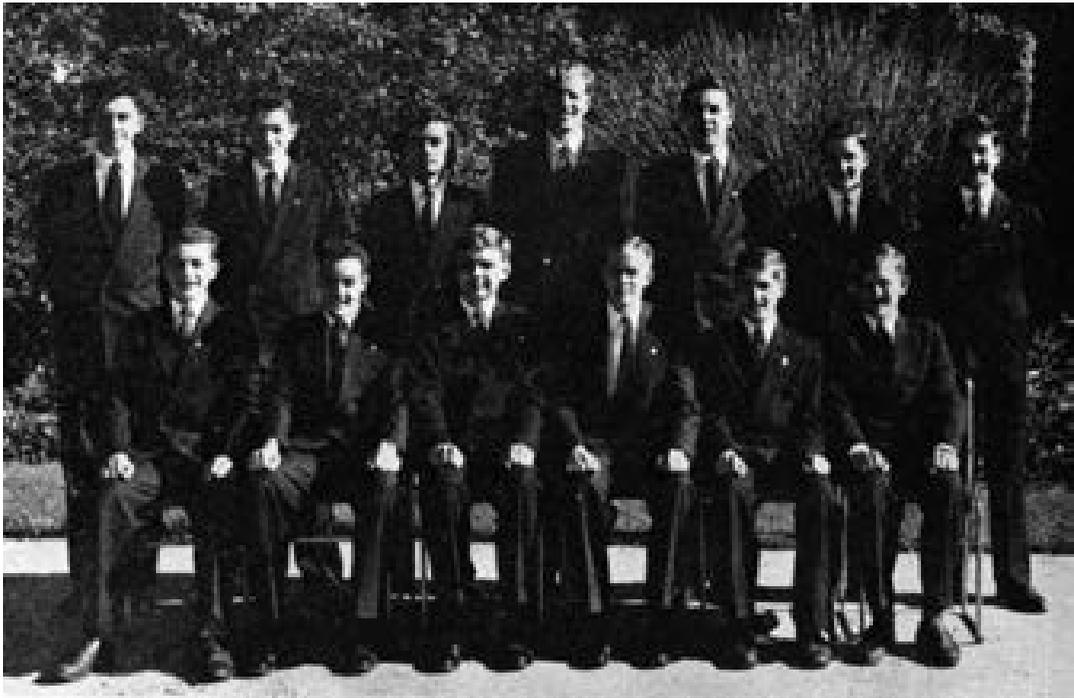

In attempting to overcome the broad problem of Church education, the steps taken have, as is usual in such cases, created a number of lesser problems; ones such as inter-school competitive sporting events, and to an extent, the break in the traditional restriction of the Association, which has for fifty years been composed only of six schools.

The problem of competitive sport is one of mechanics in the main, and once the basis of thought on inter-school competition is changed, then the extended field can result only in a higher standard being attained. The Combined Sports this year, in which the "new" Public Schools took part, showed that the mechanical problems can be overcome. The result was an athletic meeting, full of interest and without loss of tradition auguring well for the standard of future competitions. Possibly more difficulties exist in cricket and football, where by reason of the increased number of schools participating, it may not be practicable for every school to play matches with each member of the Association. In this way, premiership decisions may not be as clear cut as in the past. However, this is not a matter of supreme importance if sport is looked on as being played for the sake of the game, without undue emphasis placed on winning.

It is commonly stated that we live in a changing world, but the uncommon feature seems to have been the rate of change in post-war years.

Tradition is not preserved with moth-balls, and maintenance of a "status quo" does not make tradition. On the other hand, a spirit of forward vision and adaptation of their affairs to meet changed conditions cannot but strengthen the traditions of the A.P.S. Let us bring our traditions up to date and offer our fellowship and share the common interests with our new members, to whom we extend the hand of true comradeship in genuinely welcoming them to our Association.

Mr. MACMILLAN.

The departure of Mr. Donald Macmillan, for Scotch, ends a comparatively short stay as a master, yet one which has equalled in intensity his earlier period at the College as a student Whatever Mr. Macmillan does is done with zest and vigour. In school, as Geography teacher and director of "Pegasus", and in the Cadet Corps, as Commander of "A" Company, he has worked his charges hard; in sport, as a coach of athletics and rowing, he has transmitted something of his own thoroughness, with the ideal of perfect fitness, which carried him to the highest ranks of the athletic world.

Our loss is clearly Scotch's gain, yet we dare to hope that such a staunch Old Collegian will some day return home again. In the meantime we shall expect to watch his career develop successfully elsewhere.

STAMP CLUB.

Mr. Lester has again been of great assistance to us, and for this we are genuinely grateful.

He has obtained for us special first day covers, has been organiser of our various exhibitions, displays and visiting speakers. His interest in the club has been unlimited and it is only through minor unfaithfulness of our members that the club was prohibited from becoming one of the most lively organisations in our College, which is the place it should fill. The House of Guilds council has been of great help, too, and has purchased, for our use, a new catalogue.

Although we have not met as a club very often, our individual members have been active. The stamping interest in the school in the form of a club has, perhaps, been allowed to lag, but we have many people interested in philately and it is to be hoped that next year these will form a very strong and active organisation.

We arrived home at 7.15 p.m., after a most interesting day.

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT, 1958

From time to time through the years one reads and hears criticisms and commentaries upon the place of the Independent school within the educational system. During this year much has been written and said both adversely and favourably, and I feel that perhaps some comment here would be appropriate. Indeed, I have felt it to be the more necessary since I listened with interest some weeks ago, as no doubt many of you did, to a broadcast programme arranged by our national broadcasting authority in which boys and girls of junior adolescent age were apparently asked to comment upon the difference between State High Schools and Independent Schools. I want to say at the outset that, in my opinion, this broadcast was in very poor taste. What the children said in showing their respect and affection for their schools was admirable. Each one showed a commendable pride in, and loyalty to, his or her school. To instil such loyalty is right and to foster a pride in the school one attends is praiseworthy. In so doing broader loyalties may be inculcated and developed. But to encourage children to indulge in silly comparisons and criticisms born of ignorance is surely both ill-advised and unworthy. There is no question of better or worse, superior or inferior. We have in our community a dual system of education which is good. There are two groups of schools which have grown up together and for each of which there is ample room and a real need. They are not opposed to one another. The difference between them is one of foundation: the one based on a religious foundation, the other being specifically secular.

To understand the position clearly it is necessary to turn back the pages of history for a moment. As in England, so in the Australia of the last century, education of children was left to religious and charitable bodies — to voluntary church organisations and to private individuals. It was not until 1872 that the Government of Victoria seriously undertook responsibility for the education of children up to the primary stage. In that year an educational system was instituted which was to be free, compulsory and secular. When this Act was passed there were already in the State 590 private or church schools, and by 1905 the number had increased to 750. In 1910 came the Registration of Teachers and Schools Act, which was entirely beneficial, efficiency being guaranteed by the State authority. Many of the weaker schools dropped out, leaving the stronger, more efficient ones to gain additional strength. Side by side with this substantial group of schools already well established there now began to grow a splendid State system which has developed through the years into the fine educational structure with which we are all familiar. So the dual system came about and with its establishment parents were afforded a choice—to use for their children's education the secular schools of the State system, or, if they so desired, to send them to schools with an avowedly religious foundation.

There should be no question of rivalry or competition between the two groups of schools. On the contrary, there can be and there is very definitely developing a healthy co-operation. They can exist together in a democratic State to their mutual advantage, just as any other government provided utility may flourish side by side with that of a similar nature set up by private enterprise. Their aims are not quite the same and are in some measure complementary. If there are some attributes of the one which are valued by parents, surely those parents have the right in a democracy to send their children to the school which to them seems to provide the type of education they would choose. Such a choice is often made at considerable sacrifice by parents who value the wholesome freedom, the professed religious foundation and the emphasis which is laid upon the value of personality and individual development. Tens of thousands of Australian parents have sensed, if they cannot clearly define, the value of education in church schools and cherish it. Free from the shackles of rigid outside control these schools have been able to make experiments and to lead the way in the development of new ideas and possibilities. The late Professor Fred. Clarke, Professor of Education at the London University, wrote of them— "They are in general alive and vigorous educationally and continually adding to their already rich facilities. The real point of criticism is not that their education is bad, but that it is so good and so much needed that it ought to be more generally accessible".

The church school is a miniature community, separate and self-controlled, yet not in the monastic sense isolated from the everyday life of the society of which it is a part. It is designed and equipped to inculcate a reverence for the highest in life, to develop the natural gifts of its citizens through self-expression and opportunities for leadership. It recognises the need for preserving and practising high standards of personal conduct, of cherishing things that are "lovely and of good report". These are some of the things it aims at doing, how ever inadequately and with whatever lack of success those aims may be pursued. Not all its boys can achieve the standards of the school as they pass out into adult life. There are failures, of course, but no school can be judged only by its failures. The great majority of its boys as they leave school, take with them a sense of social, civic and religious responsibility which, as they grow in stature, enables them to become good citizens and leaders wherever they may be. This is not to suggest that the church school is complacently satisfied with what it accomplishes. Far from it. There is probably none that is not fully and humbly aware of its short-comings.

One of the most prized advantages of the Independent schools, almost all of which are church schools, is the freedom of choice of the Headmaster and the Staff. It is one of the important administrative duties of a Headmaster to select the kind of men with whom he and his colleagues can work with friendly co-operation in the pursuit of common ideals commensurate with the religious basis of the school's foundation. He endeavours to gather together a staff of men whose aims and ideals are mutually agreeable, who love the work, for whom it is more than just a means of livelihood, who put duty before money or leisure, and who command both liking and respect from the boys among whom their work lies in school and out of school.

The expressly religious basis of the education provided is, of course, the chief characteristic of this group of schools. To a religious man, especially to a Christian, education which has no such basis is a contradiction in terms. Purely secular training can become a stark and heartless thing. If God is for us the beginning and the end of life in any full and real sense, the knowledge of God is the most important thing in life. For us, then, whose task it is to try to help others to frame their lives, the background of all our teaching must be the desire to give them this knowledge, or rather to help them to win it. His Excellency The Governor-General, Field-Marshal Sir William Slim, recently wrote: "Though we may not realise it, all the good in our Australian way of life, its freedom, the value we place on the individual, our thoughts for those less fortunate than ourselves, stem from our Christian heritage". In this somewhat chaotic world and materialistic age when there is so much confusion of thought and few see clearly what lies ahead, it is surely well that young people leaving school should already have some conviction; something which they will find strong and helpful in the struggles of life; something of which they have reason to be sure when perplexity faces them. This is the justification for the existence of church schools and the value of the education provided by them. Having in view the whole of life, they try to furnish that kind of equipment for life which will help our young people to a better and fuller service of God and humanity. I submit that in these days the need for such schools, and the burden on them, is greater than ever, because so many families have neglected their responsibility for religious and moral training, and because of the apparent failure of some of the church organisations to capture and hold the imagination of the young.

Despite the difficulties, the disappointments and the failures, there must be no relaxation of the conscious effort to train the young to pursue the Christian way of life. Other ways are all too easily assumed in a community which has largely turned away from Christian thought and Christian teaching. Education cannot escape the responsibility of presenting a view of life and of guiding those who have not learned how to guide themselves. This is the heart of the whole matter. As religion itself should affect a man's whole attitude in every part of his life, so religious education should permeate and possess every part of education.

In some respects this year 1958 will be remembered as one of the most momentous of the first century of the school's life, a year in which some important decisions have been made and some interesting forward steps taken. Firstly, the funds for the proposed new-Preparatory School reached £60,000 — and in consequence the architects have been instructed to proceed with the working drawings for the first stage and tenders for the building will be called immediately. It is anticipated that the foundation stone will be laid early in the new year and that the new school will be ready for occupation in 1960. Secondly, after many months of difficult negotiation and careful planning on the part of several members of the Council who are especially qualified in this field, a new, modern and substantial superannuation scheme for members of the staff is in course of preparation. It has been approved in principle by both Council and staff and will be implemented as soon as possible. Thirdly, a history of the College covering the first hundred years is being written. To the pleasure of all concerned, this intricate and very important undertaking has been given into the capable hands of Mr. Claude Notman, an Old Collegian peculiarly fitted to carry out the task.

At the outset of this report, I want to record my thanks to all those who have made these things possible; the Council, the Fair Committee, and the host of helpers who ensured the success of the Fair in first term, the Old Collegians' Association and members of the staff, both men and women, in their various capacities.

I should like to express to the Vice-Principal and the teaching staff my appreciation of all that they have given to the school this year, especially to Mr. Davey, the Vice-Principal. This has not been an easy year for him; but, characteristically, he has thrown himself wholeheartedly and with conspicuous energy into his work and has completed his first year in his new role with distinction. I am grateful to him for his devoted service and loyalty.

We are saying good-bye this afternoon to various members of our teaching staff and I want to assure them that wherever they may go our best wishes go with them into the future. I must make special mention of the loss to the school of Mr. G. Logie Smith and Mr. D. R. Macmillan. Each has been closely associated with the College for many years. Mr. Logie Smith joined the staff in 1937 as a young man without experience but with abundant energy and a striking personality. In his twenty-two years as Director of Music he has given distinguished service and by his enthusiasm and mastery of his subject has raised the standard of music both at the College and in Geelong to a high level. The memory of the opera performances of the Glee Club will remain a monument to his capacity and musicianship. Mr. Macmillan joined the College three years later as a small boy of the Preparatory School and, except for a short period when he was a University student and afterwards undergoing teacher training in England, he has been a part of the College life. He was Senior Prefect in 1946. He joined the teaching staff in 1954 and has since then given splendid service in several capacities. Mr. A. A. Grainger and Mr. G. W. Young, an Old Collegian, came to us at the beginning of the present term and in the new year we shall welcome Mr. D. W. Martin as Director of Music, Mr. G. Robertson and Mr. K. Clayton.

The work of the school goes on with little alteration from year to year and no marked change in the regular classes has been made recently. The syllabuses throughout the school are designed to lead on to the work prescribed for higher classes by the University. Change comes rather in the population of the school and sometimes one sees a variation in the intellectual calibre of those who reach the matriculation level. At the end of last year results at the public and matriculation examinations were again satisfactory. Twenty-seven boys completed the Leaving Certificate and thirteen others missed qualification by failing in one essential subject. Thirty-seven qualified for Matriculation, gaining between them forty-eight Honours. The best achievements were those of A. C. Heaney, J. R. Morlet, D. G. Paul and I. R. Wills, each with honours in four subjects. Thirteen boys won Commonwealth Government Scholarships, while D. A. T. Gawith won the Exhibition in Agricultural Science. Ormond College Scholarships were won by M. J. Alexander, A. G. S. Kidd and A. Yule. A. Yule, Dux of the College last year, was too young to proceed to the University and returned to school. This year he substituted humanities for the sciences at the matriculation level and is, for the second year, Dux of the College. He is also Senior Prefect and I take this opportunity of congratulating him on a very fine performance, one which is not often achieved by any boy. Also deserving of congratulations are M. S. Keating and B. J. Cairns, respectively second and third to the Dux.

The school year opened with a Service at St. David's church, attended by the whole school, as well as Council members. An atmosphere of reverence prevailed and a fine address given by the Chaplain set the thoughts of all on the course to be pursued for the year. The regular Sunday evening services in the Morrison Hall are now a part of our life. Sometimes there are film services; and often speakers from outside the College are welcomed, as well as members of the staff. The membership of the P.F.A. group remains numerically fairly constant but there was this year an improved quality and loyalty. Meetings were held each week and once again a fine panel of speakers was arranged. A new departure was made in the arrangement of two Saturday conferences of senior boys and Morongo girls, instead of the strictly male camps. At one conference speakers from Melbourne conducted a leaders' training class and at the other Bible study and discussions were held at the Lara church. A third conference for younger boys was held at Point Lonsdale and conducted by members of the staff. More than twenty boarders have been regularly engaged in Sunday school teaching, as well as many day boys. Classes for prospective communicants were held early in the year and at the June Communion thirty-six boys were admitted to Church membership.

We have enjoyed a good year in the various branches of sport. We have won no premier-ships but have been able to field good sound teams throughout, and in every case have been well up on the list. In this I refer not only to first teams but to all teams right down to the most junior. Teams have been well coached and we express our appreciation to those masters, old boys and friends who each year give much time to this side of the school life. The boat club enjoyed outstanding success in spite of the fact that, owing to the extreme youth of many members, only eight crews were boated. We were unable to retain the Fairbairn Cup; but never before have our junior crews done so well, winning from seconds to fifths. A happy culmination to the rowing season was the visit of the senior crew to Perth. They took part in a splendid race on the Swan River and were given a very enjoyable time by their hosts, the boys of Hale School. The senior cricketers enjoyed some interesting and, at times, exciting games, with two wins and a draw to their credit. The fine batting of I. R. Redpath, who scored two centuries, and the very good bowling of I. R. Scott, were the outstanding features of the season. The second eleven won all but two matches and the K. W. Nicolson Trophy, given to the team which does best in its own section. Footballers brought to their games greater vigour and determination this year, with the result that they finished the season equal third on the premiership list. All teams were assiduous in training and played with zest. The V. H. Profitt trophy was won by the Under 15 "A" team. The athletics team was a very even one. Every boy taking part won some points for his team. The outstanding performances were those of D. J. Braden in the Half-mile, G. Simpson in the Shot Put, and the four boys who constituted the Two miles Relay team. The House Sports competition was very closely contested, McArthur House finishing the year with the best aggregate by a small margin.

The cadet corps maintained its high standard of efficiency and members acquitted themselves well in competition with other units. The year started with the full strength of three companies, each commanded by a member of the staff. As well as the usual weekly training parades, the unit took part in the Annual Anzac Sunday Church Parade at St. George's Church where the guest speaker was Lieut.-General Sir Horace Robertson; The Commonwealth Youth Sunday March; and the Fair for the Preparatory School Building Fund. The shooting team was second in the competition for the 17th Brigade shield and McArthur won the House shooting, the best rifle shot being F. J. Funston. In the other competitions, the Mortar Platoon was second, the Machine Gunners and the Guard each third, and the Drill Platoon fourth. The year's training concluded with an excellent passing out parade on the senior oval on 30th October, when the guest for the afternoon was Mr. D. Munday, an Old Collegian who is President of the Geelong Branch of the United Services Institute.

Handicrafts are an ancient means of education and, as far back as the 17th century, craftsmen were highly esteemed by scientists, many of whom were themselves skilled in crafts. It is well known, for instance, that Newton made the telescope which he demonstrated before the Royal Society. The first man in more modern days to see that craft-work should be an essential part of a good general education and to make handicrafts an integral part of a national school system was Uno Cygnaeus, the founder of the folk-schools in Finland. He introduced it in order to develop a sense of form and a feeling for beauty and to give children a general practical dexterity which would be useful in adult life.

In following out this general principle, we use the House of Guilds as far as is practicable for class instruction in various manual arts. Beyond the middle school, however, it is not possible to take these classes. Older boys are given every possible opportunity to use the facilities provided at the House, and some do so, often discovering and developing a gift they did not know they possessed. I would, however, suggest to parents that they encourage their boys to make the maximum use of this opportunity for creative activity. The House of Guilds provides the means for the profitable employment of leisure hours which can give birth to a life-long interest. Those boys who have found enjoyment in the House this year have produced a steady stream of work and some have attained a very high standard of craftsmanship. The James Fraser Sutherland Memorial Prize was won by J. G. Venters for his stock whip and crutching outfit.

As well as individual work, the House successfully accomplished a number of community projects. Notable among these was the time and energy devoted to the needs of the Fair held in first term. More recently the provision of a great mass of material for the Glee Club was achieved: scenery, properties and the programmes for the two operas presented in October were all the work of the House of Guilds. The layout of the grounds begun last year has now been completed, and in due course an attractive shrubbery on the northern boundary will enhance the outward appearance of the property. Other works projected for the near future are expected to Thirty-seven qualified for Matriculation, gaining between them forty-eight Honours. The best achievements were those of A. C. Heaney, J. R. Morlet, D. G. Paul and I. R. Wills, each with honours in four subjects. Thirteen boys won Commonwealth Government Scholarships, while D. A. T. Gawith won the Exhibition in Agricultural Science. Ormond College Scholarships were won by M. J. Alexander, A. G. S. Kidd and A. Yule. A. Yule, Dux of the College last year, was too young to proceed to the University and returned to school. This year he substituted humanities for the sciences at the matriculation level and is, for the second year, Dux of the College. He is also Senior Prefect and I take this opportunity of congratulating him on a very fine performance, one which is not often achieved by any boy. Also deserving of congratulations are M. S. Keating and B. J. Cairns, respectively second and third to the Dux.

The school year opened with a Service at St. David's church, attended by the whole school, as well as Council members. An atmosphere of reverence prevailed and a fine address given by the Chaplain set the thoughts of all on the course to be pursued for the year. The regular Sunday evening services in the Morrison Hall are now a part of our life. Sometimes there are film services; and often speakers from outside the College are welcomed, as well as members of the staff. The membership of the P.F.A. group remains numerically fairly constant but there was this year an improved quality and loyalty. Meetings were held each week and once again a fine panel of speakers was arranged. A new departure was made in the arrangement of two Saturday conferences of senior boys and Morongo girls, instead of the strictly male camps. At one conference speakers from Melbourne conducted a leaders' training class and at the other Bible study and discussions were held at the Lara church. A third conference for younger boys was held at Point Lonsdale and conducted by members of the staff. More than twenty boarders have been regularly engaged in Sunday school teaching, as well as many day boys. Classes for prospective communicants were held early in the year and at the June Communion thirty-six boys were admitted to Church membership.

We have enjoyed a good year in the various branches of sport. We have won no premierships but have been able to field good sound teams throughout, and in every case have been well up on the list. In this I refer not only to first teams but to all teams right down to the most junior. Teams have been well coached and we express our appreciation to those masters, old boys and friends who each year give much time to this side of the school life. The boat club enjoyed outstanding success in spite of the fact that, owing to the extreme youth of many members, only eight crews were boated. We were unable to retain the Fairbairn Cup; but never before have our junior crews done so well, winning from seconds to fifths. A happy culmination to the rowing season was the visit of the senior crew to Perth. They took part in a splendid race on the Swan River and were given a very enjoyable time by their hosts, the boys of Hale School. The senior cricketers enjoyed some interesting and, at times, exciting games, with two wins and a draw to their credit. The fine batting of I. R. Redpath, who scored two centuries, and the very good bowling of I. R. Scott, were the outstanding features of the season. The second eleven won all but two matches and the K. W. Nicolson Trophy, given to the team which does best in its own section. Footballers brought to their games greater vigour and determination this year, with the result that they finished the season equal third on the premiership list. All teams were assiduous in training and played with zest. The V. H. Profit trophy was won by the Under 15 "A" team. The athletics team was a very even one. Every boy taking part won some points for his team. The outstanding performances were those of D. J. Braden in the Half-mile, G. Simpson in the Shot Put, and the four boys who constituted the Two miles Relay team. The House Sports competition was very closely contested, McArthur House finishing the year with the best aggregate by a small margin.

The cadet corps maintained its high standard of efficiency and members acquitted themselves

well in competition with other units. The year started with the full strength of three companies, each commanded by a member of the staff. As well as the usual weekly training parades, the unit took part in the Annual Anzac Sunday Church Parade at St. George's Church where the guest speaker was Lieut.-General Sir Horace Robertson; The Commonwealth Youth Sunday March; and the Fair for the Preparatory School Building Fund. The shooting team was second in the competition for the 17th Brigade shield and McArthur won the House shooting, the best rifle shot being F. J. Funston. In the other competitions, the Mortar Platoon was second, the Machine Gunners and the Guard each third, and the Drill Platoon fourth. The year's training concluded with an excellent passing out parade on the senior oval on 30th October, when the guest for the afternoon was Mr. D. Munday, an Old Collegian who is President of the Geelong Branch of the United Services Institute.

Handicrafts are an ancient means of education and, as far back as the 17th century, craftsmen were highly esteemed by scientists, many of whom were themselves skilled in crafts. It is well known, for instance, that Newton made the telescope which he demonstrated before the Royal Society. The first man in more modern days to see that craft-work should be an essential part of a good general education and to make handicrafts an integral part of a national school system was Uno Cygnaeus, the founder of the folk-schools in Finland. He introduced it in order to develop a sense of form and a feeling for beauty and to give children a general practical dexterity which would be useful in adult life.

In following out this general principle, we use the House of Guilds as far as is practicable for class instruction in various manual arts. Beyond the middle school, however, it is not possible to take these classes. Older boys are given every possible opportunity to use the facilities provided at the House, and some do so, often discovering and developing a gift they did not know they possessed. I would, however, suggest to parents that they encourage their boys to make the maximum use of this opportunity for creative activity. The House of Guilds provides the means for the profitable employment of leisure hours which can give birth to a life-long interest. Those boys who have found enjoyment in the House this year have produced a steady stream of work and some have attained a very high standard of craftsmanship. The James Fraser Sutherland Memorial Prize was won by J. G. Venters for his stock whip and crutching outfit.

As well as individual work, the House successfully accomplished a number of community projects. Notable among these was the time and energy devoted to the needs of the Fair held in first term. More recently the provision of a great mass of material for the Glee Club was achieved: scenery, properties and the programmes for the two operas presented in October were all the work of the House of Guilds. The layout of the grounds begun last year has now been completed, and in due course an attractive shrubbery on the northern boundary will enhance the outward appearance of the property. Other works projected for the near future are expected to provide more accommodation for certain sections.

This year has been one of the most interesting and successful in the history of the school's House of Music. Membership of the orchestra was built up to twenty-four, including for the first time an almost complete wood-wind section; the band was the largest and probably the most accomplished we have had for years; and the male choir increased its membership to fifty-three and reached a standard of efficiency which won the respect of many experienced musicians. Instrumental soloists and small choral groups also did splendid work. Several concerts were given during the year, two to aid the building fund. During second term the House competitions resulted in a win for Shannon House. The Tasmanian tour, due largely to the generous help of Mr. K. Field of Devonport, proved to be a strenuous but satisfying culmination to an outstanding musical year. The concerts given in Hobart, Swansea, St. Helens, Launceston and Devonport realised approximately £400 for Tasmanian charities. In Launceston, before an audience of 900, the concert party excelled itself and reached its highest peak of performance. At the Youth Concert presented in Geelong under the direction of the Geelong Symphony Orchestra, four boys performed movements of a Pianoforte Concerto, and during the year three others who play the flute, French horn and trumpet respectively, became regular members of the Geelong orchestra. The Pianoforte examinations conducted by the University of Melbourne resulted in 12 honours, 12 credits and 6 passes being obtained. There were no failures. The outstanding performance was that of G. B. Hair, aged fifteen, who gained the Associate Diploma of Australia with 183 marks out of a possible 200—a first-class result which brought most favourable comments from the examiners. The school owes a debt of thanks to the teachers, Mr. Cooke, Miss Bonney, Mr. Miers and Miss Birrell, for the excellence of their teaching and their devoted interest in their pupils.

The climax of this year of high achievement was provided by the Glee Club. Suggested as a means of celebrating the twenty-first anniversary, "Trial by Jury", with its cast of principals from the 1938 production, past Glee Club members as chorus, their wives, "sisters, cousins and aunts", developed greater significance when it became known that this was to be Mr. Logie Smith's last year at the College. "Trial by Jury," performed as a curtain-raiser, proved to be a great success, the infectious abandon of the players influencing the boys in their presentation of "The Gondoliers". This performance was worthy of the high tradition established through the years and brought the 21st opera season to a fitting conclusion. We owe a great debt of gratitude to all those whose work, though sometimes unspectacular, was so essential to the presentation of the opera. Mr. Webb and members of the House of Guilds have since 1955 designed and made the scenery and printed the programmes. With Mr. Smith has been associated for the whole period of 21 years Mr. J. H. Campbell and for most of that time Mrs. Carrington has not only led the orchestra, composed of friends of the College, but attended during the cold winter months to play for rehearsals. Then, too, a host of parents and supporters have always been on hand to help with costumes and make-up and the many tasks which must be carried out, both before and behind the curtain, to bring about a successful production.

These Glee Club presentations have been a worth while feature of College life, not only because they have afforded the opportunity to develop some fine musical talent but also because a sum of money, in the neighbourhood of £5,000, has been provided for the scholarship fund for the sons of deceased or incapacitated

tated servicemen; almost £1,000 for the new Preparatory School Fund; and some smaller amounts for other causes in the earlier years.

The College is most grateful to several generous donors of splendid gifts and legacies. Once again through the Old Collegians' Association a new racing eight, the "Alan Tait", was added to our fleet. To commemorate the winning of the boat race for three years in succession a fine film of the finish of each of the three years was presented by the Vacuum Oil Company, through Mr. J. D. Rogers. Mr. A. Wallace Smith most kindly made possible the purchase of a Television set which has been used by junior classes for teaching purposes, as well as for entertainment by Senior House. To all these donors we extend our sincere thanks. Three most generous legacies were also received during the year and have helped to make possible the beginning of the building of the new Preparatory School. These were from the estates of the late Helen Mackie; the late Dr. R. K. Birnie; and the late Dr. T. J. M. Kennedy. In addition we record our gratitude to many Old Collegians and friends who have made substantial donations to the building fund. Many have asked that their names should not be mentioned.

It is with sorrow that we record the deaths during the year of several "Old Boys", many of whom took a leading part in the life of the College, of the Old Collegians' Association and of the Community in which they lived.

They were:

J. M. Baxter	A. E. McGennan
P. C. Dowling	E. R. Mockridge
J. F. Guthrie	R. A. Richardson
K. G. Hearne	D. G. Robertson
R. Lambie	W. M. Robertson
E. R. Mackay	J. A. Trebilcock
S. A. Mack	A. H. Wettenhall

We also lost another good friend who, though not an Old Collegian, became a beloved member of the staff — Mr. E. V. Butler, formerly Headmaster of Ballarat Grammar School and for seven years a master on our staff.

Of the many Old Collegians who have won distinction for themselves and brought credit to their College, we offer our warm congratulations especially to the Very Reverend Sir Francis W. Rolland upon whom the Queen bestowed a knighthood in January last, and to Sir Macfarlane Burnett, who received in the birthday honours one of the highest distinctions. For his outstanding services to medical scientific research he received the Order of Merit, the number of which is limited to 24. We are proud, too, of the fine record in the scholastic field of Professor G. M. Badger, Professor of Organic Chemistry, University of Adelaide; Professor R. W. K. Honeycombe, Professor of Physical Metallurgy, University of Sheffield; Professor E. C. Slater, Professor of Physiological Chemistry, University of Amsterdam; and Professor C. M. Williams, Professor of History, University of New England, N.S.W. Dr. J. R. Phillips earned a Doctorate in Agriculture and has received an appointment as senior lecturer in Mechanical Engineering at the University of Perth. Dr. Donald McLean, a Virologist at the Children's Hospital, Toronto, Canada, has also become Assistant Professor in Bacteriology at the University of Toronto. Mr. F. D. Walter is a member of the Interim Council for the new Monash University. M. S. John at the Melbourne University Conservatorium of Music has been awarded the Lindsay Biggins' Memorial Scholarship, which provides a year's study at the Juilliard School of Music, New York. N. McPhee concluded an outstanding law course by winning the Supreme Court Exhibitions in Evidence and Mercantile Law, and D. N. Sutherland shared the Howard Smith Exhibition in Engineering Part I. Another splendid performance was that of J. S. Bromell who led the Diploma School at Lincoln Agricultural College, New Zealand, and also won the Gold Medal for the highest aggregate throughout the course. R. R. Ingpen has completed with distinction his Associate Diploma in Illustration at the Art School in Melbourne, where he was a member of the teaching staff until his recent appointment with C.S.I.R.O.

Library Report.

Work on the re-catalogueing of the books has been continued to such an extent this year, that most of the books have been catalogued. However we have not completed the History or Language sections yet.

During the 2nd Term holidays the glass doors were removed from the shelves in order to facilitate the selection of books. Many-shelves were cleaned of magazines to give us more shelf space, and it is hoped that new shelves will be built over the fire place in the near future.

It is pleasing to note, the increasing number of junior and intermediate school boys who are using the Library at Recess and lunch times. The knowledge and love of books they gain will be a lifelong treasure to them, and it is a pity that more people do not avail themselves of the opportunities open to them. So why not come in, browse around and learn how a Library works, and how to collect information from the vast literary treasures a library contains.

A.R.W

Knowle House.

In the last two terms there has been much to interest and occupy the day boys during the lunch-time break and after school. The main interest was the table-tennis tournament which was organised by R. Bodey and resulted in wins for D. Wright in the Open, and R. J. Bell in the Under 15 section. A challenge ladder was then drawn up from these results and all places have been keenly contested. Also in the pavilion a "koits" board has been established and is proving popular.

The magazines and games in Room "B" were again made available each day to boys having their lunch at school. Many boys make use of this room, especially during the winter months. There is a continual interest in it, as Mr. Nicolson supplies us with new magazines each week.

The day boys and day-boy prefects would like to thank Mr. Nicolson for the keen interest which he has again taken in us. His guidance throughout the year has been invaluable to us.

— D.C.W.

Senior House Notes.

We welcome Mr. Young, an old boy, who has replaced Mr. Jensen since the September holidays.

At the same time we farewell Mr. Watts who is leaving us at the end of term. During the time he has been in charge of Senior House he has been responsible for many priveleges granted to senior boys, and other improvements in Senior House. We wish him well in his new position.

The television set was installed in the Sitting Room during the May holidays and has proved very popular particularly at the weekends. Members of Warrinn are also admitted to watch it providing no Senior House boys are excluded. A scheme is at present afoot to re-surface the table-tennis table and to brighten up the Sitting Room generally.

On the 16th August the Senior House dance was held in Morrison Hall. Some trouble was gone to in order to decorate the hail originally. The dance was a great success and all enjoyed themselves.

We wish the boys who are returning as much enjoyment as we have had during 1938.

R.A.S.L.

Warrinn House Notes.

The boys from Dorm 9 are not so evident by their numbers, but make a great deal of noise. We have voted Charlie Lockart the best voice in Warrinn. He has been very busy the last week organising the ping-pong tournament, though his handicaps are clearly biased. Many methods of intimidation have been tried but Charlie will not change. The result is that many of us find ourselves in impossible positions and have no hope of surviving the first round.

The Dorm. Kings have been able to maintain their dignity against would be usurpers, mainly by dint of their stand-over tactics. They are now in a position where they enjoy all the hot water, while it is doubtful if the rest of the house ever has a hot shower.

The only other group with a chance would appear to be the "Prefects." There are many who tell me that the less said about them the better, and I am inclined to agree with them.

The main event in our calendar this year was the- Dance. The large amount of work-put in was fully justified by the success of the evening. The return dances were given by Morongo and the Hermitage, and both were enjoyed. This very full social season enjoyed by us has transformed many of our younger members. Personal appearances have been improved, and now the school is emptied on Sunday afternoons, as many wend their way to the Hermitage and Morongo.

Under the benign guidance of Mr. Campbell and Mr. Rawling and the capable care of Miss Pouchier, we feel certain that next year's Warrinn will enjoy themselves as much as those before them have done.

Mackie House Notes.

This year Mackie, under Mr. Carrington, has been a very happy house. The boys have had, for the first time in the history of the College, a TV set, and this has filled in many empty moments, and is much appreciated as a relaxation after study.

We sympathize with Mr. Roland, who contracted glandular fever, and so was out of action for five weeks or so. We welcomed his return at the end of October.

The ping-pong table, as well as being used for the more orthodox pursuit of table tennis, has lately been used for games of a different nature, such as blowball, and a peculiar game of draughts.

We thank Sister van Pergan for her arduous work in looking after us, especially during the Glee Club performances.

We are looking forward to the annual baseball matches at the end of the year. Some boys have been out on the oval throwing baseballs around already.

A.Y

Mr. G. Logie Smith.

G. LOGIE SMITH

Less than twenty-five years ago music was not very firmly entrenched in this school. A few boys, viewed perhaps with some suspicion by the majority, learned the piano and there was some singing of the community type, but the general feeling was probably that music, while respectable enough in moderation, was not entitled to take any serious place, either at school or anywhere else.

The situation is very different today. Choirs, Orchestra, Band, Glee Club all testify that many boys have found a new occupation for their leisure, that is to say a new joy in life; and a fairly considerable number have found their life work in music.

The reason for the change is not far to seek. Quite simply, it was the arrival at the College of Mr. G. Logie Smith. A fine musician, now esteemed as such throughout Australia, he showed a dynamic energy, almost ferocity, in his efforts to rouse boys, not merely the few but the many, to share his enthusiasm for music. Philistines there were, perhaps still are, and loud and long were some of the battles that raged, but many who came to scoff remained, if not to pray, at least to enjoy and to admire.

Not only this. Mr. Smith in other ways came somewhat as a refreshing breeze. His flashing bat wrought great havoc among the First XI bowlers and probably earned much respect for music as well as for the batsman. His Duckworthian appeals behind the wicket spread his fame through all Newtown, so that all in the neighbourhood knew when the staff match was on. Football umpires and players could always be assured of encouragement from him. He even spent a not entirely inconspicuous period in the Boat Club.

In other words, Mr. Smith became a vital part of the school, a friendly force whose companionship was valued both by colleagues and boys. Now that he leaves us, it is not only for his tremendous achievement in school music that he will be missed. Our loss is another's gain, and all here and all who have been here during his time will join in wishing him as happy and fruitful a time at Scotch College as he has spent here.

Music Notes.

After the Fair concert, work began on the House Music Competitions. The programme of the competitions was changed slightly from previous years, so as to provide possible material for the Tasmanian trip. All the preparation had to be done in three weeks instead of five, and on the night the four houses performed before the critical ear of our adjudicator, Mr. Brazier, from Geelong Grammar School. After a close contest, Shannon (conducted by A. R. Webb) narrowly won from Calvert (conducted by D. A. T. Gawith), McArthur (conducted by A. Yule) and Morrison (conducted by K. C. Hawken). This is only the second time Shannon have won in the history of the competitions.

The highlight of this year's music, however, was the concert tour of Tasmania in September. Sixty-nine boys and five masters made the trip. The Hobart concert was better than the two done at Skipton and Geelong before the holidays, but the concerts at Swansea and St. Helen's were just fair. However, at Eaunceston, the party had learned to suppress individuality for the good of the team, and consequently we put on the best concert the College has ever done. In fact if some of the people who usually attend School concerts in the Hall had been in the audience in Eaunceston, they would probably have had a very big shock when they heard it. Even the concert in Devonport the next night did not come near the standard of the previous night.

Finally in October, the Glee Club had its 21st birthday, and also its last production under Mr. Eogie Smith. This year's productions were "The Gondoliers" performed by present boys of the College and "Trial by Jury" by the original principals of 1938, assisted by the wives and girl-friends of the men. Three boys from School played in the Orchestra again—Ian Scott (trumpet), Peter Males (French horn), and Roger Webb (flute and percussion).

GLEE CLUB NOTES.

Because of the amount of detailed stagework in the choruses of the "Gondoliers" the standard of the Glee Club's rehearsals was marred until very close to the actual performance. After the usual singing practices during first term the site changed to the Morrison Hall for stagework. As in other years second term was hampered by other distractions and so third term was a busy one for all concerned.

This year a lack of interest in attaining performance standard, especially among the younger members was prevalent. The fatal attitude of many was that "It will be O.K. on the night." It took a lot of work by Mr. Smith to drum this attitude out of many members.

The standard of the performance can only be judged satisfactorily by those who saw it but it seems from remarks heard that it was, all in all, quite successful especially on the last night.

Many of the principals this year had had no previous experience and so much time was spent in teaching them, and reminding- the seasoned ones, of the rules of detailed stage movement, also changing personal characters to the ones required was a difficult task. Mr. Smith often remarked that "you must not be like A or B, but turn yourself into the character of C."

Some of the parts were not filled until only a few weeks before the opera as there was great competition for them.

In the end the part of the haughty, though aged Don Alambra was played by A. Yule whose deep baso voice was pleasantly suited to the part. The two gondolier brothers whom the story is centered around were played by K. C. Hawken as Marco and R. Logie Smith as Guiseppo and although off the stage they seemed sometimes not to act as brothers were quite comfortable in their parts. Their sister wives Gianetta and Tessa were played by V. Wood and H. Wright, whose cheeky manner gave the opera a good lift. The Duke of Plaza Toro was comically played by S. E. Appel and his wife, I. Yule managed the part of the "stand over tactics" wife very well. T. Hinchliffe as Casilda, and M. A. Brian as Luiz made a handsome and romantic pair. The tempo of the opera was set in the opening chorus by A. Howell with his solo as Antonio while the opera concluded with the controversial news delivered by Inez, I. J. Fairnie. Other female parts were filled by R. B. Crawshay as Fiametta, P. J. Illingworth as Nittoria, and P. J. Reid as Giulia, while the other men were B. J. Tynmis as Annibale and C. Fallaw as Giorgio.

Once again we are deeply indebted to Mr. Webb for his effective scenery and to Mrs. Carrington for her invaluable assistance in playing the piano both at rehearsals and in performances. Also to Mr. Campbell whose helpful hints to principals and stage management were always appreciated.

In closing this twenty-first year of glee club performances we must say that we owe our experience and success to Mr. G. Logie Smith whose never failing work and patience has knocked us into shape for a performance which we hope was a creditable one to him. As he is now leaving us this series of Glee Club performances ends with every one up to standard. We hope he has a happy time at his new school and we leave him with the thought that in our minds he is a man who will always remain in our memories as "one of the best."

HOUSE OF GUILDS NOTES.

Once more the House of Guilds has had a successful year and work of a high standard has been done. During the year some new equipment has been purchased and new linoleum has been laid on the floors.

During the term Mr. Webb and his helpers have worked hard to ensure high quality scenery and properties for the two opera's which were presented this year.

The various Guilds have had some most interesting work to show—The Radio Guild has been quite busy—the main activity being by junior boys who were making the ever popular crystal sets. We are grateful to Mr. Eastwood an old boy who has sent a great deal of information to us concerning the New Zealand P X Radio Club.

The Aero Guild has been well patronized and a number of advanced models have been made, both engine-powered and gliders. Some other large projects are now nearing completion.

As usual many films have been processed in the darkroom with varying degrees of success. The dark room has been in constant use all the year by many beginners as well as experienced photographers.

In the Model Engineers Shop the wood and metal lathes have been in great demand, with some clever models and useful articles in wood as a result.

Some advanced leather work of the heavier kind has been completed with success. This includes gun cases and the ever popular bridles, saddle bags and some well plaited whips.

The printers have had a very enthusiastic following all the year and a great deal of high class printing has been done. Some attractive two-colour printing has been done and as usual the 3000 opera programmes came off our hand press. Without doubt the printers have been the most active group throughout the year and in the opinion of experience tradesmen have produced work of a very high standard. McCay and his assistants certainly deserve special commendation.

The House of Guilds is most appreciative of the kindly services of Mr. Crump from the Textile College who has supervised the work on each of the looms.

A number of boats both large and small has been made this year, and accessories for model railways have been popular too.

The grounds laid out in grass so attractively last year have been further improved by the planting of fourteen shrubs of different varieties along the northern frontage. These appear to be well established and as they come to maturity will provide, in place of the old cypress to which we had to say good-by during the year, a pleasing setting for the old House at all seasons of the year.

UNITED NATIONS NOTES.

Third term has been a very busy term for the United Nations Group. This was mainly due to the annual United Nations Week, held this year between October 18th and 24th. This year, we celebrated the thirteenth anniversary of the inauguration of the United Nations Charter.

With the aid of a display set of posters and photographs supplied by the United Nations Association, we were able to advertise both U.N. Week and U.N. Day, Friday, October 24th.

Under the guidance of Mr. Quick, the committee drew up a set of questions on interesting United Nations Activities, and offered a prize to boys who supplied the correct answers. The stimulation of the school interest in its own clubs and societies is essential.

From a suggestion by the Principal to support the United Nation's "Save The Children Fund," it was decided to contribute the proceeds from at least one of the school's weekly collections, to this fund.

A climax to United Nations Week was the visit to the school of the Rev. Stephen Yarnold, joint vice-president of the Victorian Division of the United Nations Association of Australia. Mr. Yarnold spoke on Tuesday, October 28th. His subject: The Task Facing the U.N.

Mr. Yarnold pointed out that the public, and the press, are too ready to condemn the mistakes of U.N. in world affairs and too ready to overlook its "unspectacular successes." He pointed out the part that even though it is very difficult to bring nations to agreement at times, it is better to use vocal arguments than force of arms.

A vital factor in forming the attitudes of nations was nuclear force. The world realized the danger of the atom, and would think twice before engaging in war. As a result, a great amount of propoganda and political juggling existed.

Turning to the problems of the world's "teeming millions," Mr. Yarnold stressed that time is the greatest enemy of the U.N. organizations. After considering the fact that two thirds of the world's peoples are under-fed, it is easy to realize that we, in a school such as ours, have all the advantages possible for a full life.

Time is the only factor limiting the U.N. in its fight to eradicate such dreaded diseases as Malaria, Tuberculosis, and worst of all, Yaws. Time is needed to complete such strides, and to lay down a basic economy, diet, and existence.

Air. Yarnald left us with the appeal to cultivate a sympathetic understanding for the U.N. and its work. It is our duty to know more about this vital organisation, which is the greatest hope of the world today.

Following his address, Mr. Yarnald was pleasantly occupied for some time answering questions on such subjects as the work of Dr. H. V. Evatt in forming the U.N.; Communist China's exclusion from the U.N; the problems arising from the "White Australia" policy; Australia's responsibility to its aborigines; and maintenance of the U.N. Emergency Forces. We thank Rev. Yarnold for his interesting, informative, and moving address.

Finally, on behalf of the committee and myself, I would like to acknowledge the work of Mr. F. R. Quick, for our United Nation's Group

DEBATING SOCIETY, 1958.

This year was the fiftieth since the beginning of the Society and although our numbers dwindled to about twenty after a few weeks it was a most enjoyable year. This was due very much to the enthusiasm of the juniors who comprised the larger part of the membership.

Once again, our meetings commenced at the beginning of the second term, as usual on Sunday nights after tea. We elected a committee of four comprising Messrs. D. C. S. Berryman, D. A. T. Gawith, A. H. MacArthur, and J. W. Thomas and Messrs. W. B. Green and B. J. Cairns the Secretaries.

Only one external debate was arranged this year, and was against the Teacher's College. This was enjoyed by all, although the motion was defeated by the visitors. The subject "That the emphasis on Science in Schools is dangerous" brought to light a number of interesting "incidents" in the life of the school.

Also we are grateful to the Geelong Debating Society for allowing one round of their competition to be held in the House of Music. The two teams were from Fords and Apex, with Mr. Geoff. Neilson as the adjudicator.

The team from Fords won the motion that "Modern life discourages individual initiative."

This year also, we express our thanks to Mr. Henderson for what he has done, not because it is done every year, but because we do appreciate what he has given us. In recognition and thanks, the Society this year presented him with a bound copy of the works of Robbie Burns.

CADET CORPS NOTES.

During second term hard work was done by the Competition platoons in preparation for the elimination heats at camp. Early in August, 4 platoons were completely issued with kilts but instead of wearing spats, they wear long khaki golf socks.

Cadet Camp.

This year we were in the second intake of the August-September camp series and camp lasted from 28th August-4th September. As for previous years, Site 17, Seymour was the location and the weather remained comparatively pleasant. Normal training in fieldcraft, rifle and foot drill was the main feature of "B" and "C" Company operations, while "A" Company worked mainly towards two objectives—the heats of the Guard and Drill platoon competitions, and the two-day bivouac, "Operation Encounter."

In the heats the Guard won comfortably from Wesley College and St. Patrick's College, Ballarat. The Drill Platoon successfully defeated St. Patrick's College, Ballarat.

The bivouac, "Operation Encounter" took place on the last two days of camp, but due to the amount of preliminary administration, the whole action took some five days. Geelong College supplied three patrols and these succeeded in filling first, second and third positions on aggregate points—Patrol 6, under the command of C.U.O. Berryman, and comprising 1 platoon, Mortar and Vickers, filled first place, Patrol 8, under C.U.O. Gawith and containing 3 platoons, came second, and Patrol 7, with C.U.O. Hawken as commander and with 2 and 4 platoons as troops, filled third position.

The bivouac provided a practical experience of military tactics and although some complained of the 16-mile trek, it was generally enjoyed by those participating. College signalmen had the honour of being chosen to operate the new wireless sets used at the major control and check point. (NOTE. Patrol 6 probably won because of a biased umpire accompanying it!.....Ed.).

Military Gymkhana.

This year's gymkhana was held at Scotch College on 27th September. Heavy rain the night before and during the day created unpleasant conditions, and these played havoc with white spats. The Guard Mounting Competition was won by Scotch College, with Albury Grammar School second, and Geelong College third. The Drill Platoon competition was won by Albury Grammar School with Xavier College 2nd, St. Kevin's 3rd and Geelong College 4th. The Specialist's platoon provided a Mortar team which came second and a Vicker's team which came third.

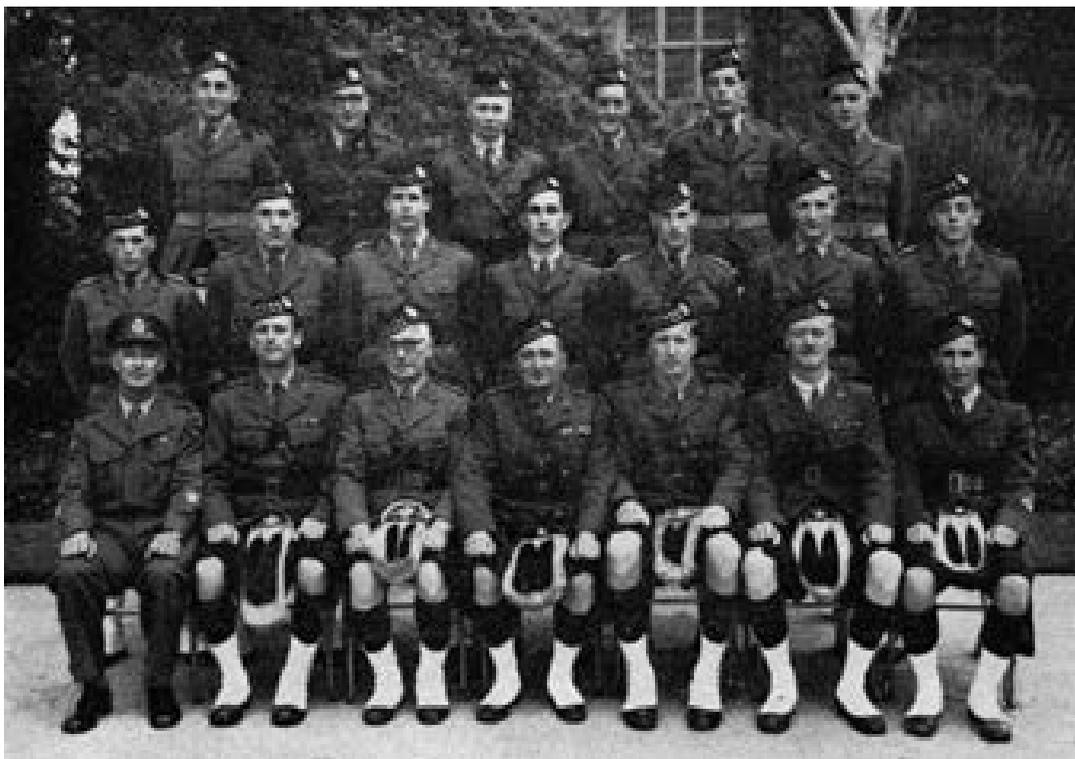

The Guard, Drill and Specialist's platoon are to be congratulated on their fine, conscientious efforts. Particular praise should be given to Sgt. G. R. King, the Guard Sergeant, and C.U.O. D. A. T. Gawith, the Drill Platoon Commander, who, by dint of self-sacrifice and exceptionally hard work, managed to mould their troops into teams truly worthy of Geelong College. It is to be hoped that future competition platoons will uphold the excellent work done by this year's competitors.

Passing-Out Parade.

The Passing-Out Parade was held on 30th October, the feature of the day being demonstrations by the Guard and Drill Platoons. Due to shortage of time, only abbreviated procedures were shown. The salute was taken by Lieut-Colonel M. A. Buntine, and those passing-out were paraded by Captain D. R. T. Macmillan.

In conclusion we would like to thank Captain Macmillan for all the work he has put into the Cadet Corps and to wish him "bonne chance" for the future at his new school.

"OPERATION EVASION"

The raindrops splashed gently onto the canvas roof of the small two-man tent. From its darkened depths issued vague noises of somnolent humans, as a fatigued patrol commander tossed and turned on his earthy bed and endeavoured to force weary body to sleep. Around him all lay still, the silence of the late winter night broken only by the nearby call of an owl and the distant bleat of a lost lamb. The soft breathing of his sleeping batman beside him caused the patrol commander to curse inwardly. As he lay there, he pondered, and remembered with amazing clarity the events of the last few days.

The three-ton truck bounced and lurched along the winding, dusty, bush track, spread-eagling its occupants at every jolt and coating them with layer upon layer of fine red dust. The occupants, their faces, clothes and equipment all of a uniform red tint, peered hopefully out of the sides and back of the truck, trying to identify from the monotonous regularity of trees, trees and more trees, some distinguishing landmark. For them this was no joy ride. They were having their breakfasts shaken up so as to observe the country over which they would have to lead a patrol in two days' time. Suddenly with a grinding of brakes the vehicle halted, throwing its passengers into confusion. Came a gruff, sadistic voice: "Righto, you skungy cadets, out and corduroy this rotten pot hole!" and the cadets, only too willing to show their efficiency, bundled out of their rude conveyances and threw sticks and logs of wood into the offending cavity. Everyone climbed aboard and the trucks rattled across the sticks and onward. Two hours later, after circuitous ramblings around the forset, the trucks rumbled into camp again, leaving a tribe of clothed "red" men to alight.

Twenty four hours later the patrol commander herded his poor, unfortunate flock into the Camp Training Hut for a preliminary briefing, and began to dazzle his inferiors with his great command of the English Language. "Er . . . ah . . . keep quiet down the back . . . um . . . well it is like this . . . you chaps are . . . er . . . um . . . a patrol and you . . . er . . . we are going patrolling" Fifteen embarrassing minutes later the Patrol Commander herded his none-the-wiser flock out again and handing them over to his faithful sergeant, collapsed on a nearby bench. The umpire, finding him wringing out his sweat-soaked handkerchief consoled him, "It was not as bad as all that, old chap—you only left out this, this, that and these."

The bouncing vehicle wheezed to a stop in a bush clearing and discharged its dusty cargo, which prepared itself to move off. The warm morning sun filtered generously through the tall gum trees and heated the already baked bodies of the group of some forty military types. Fully equipped for battle, their perfectly-dressed figures were a sight to behold, as they eagerly awaited the signal to move. Two or three were huddled in a group playing cards; a couple of others were making the most of the occasion to adjust their perfectly-fitting equipment which was hanging at various odd angles from their shoulders. Another pair was engaged in a sword fight with their rifles and the rest were were catching up on lost sleep. The harassed platoon-commander walked round and round in little circles, racking his brains to remember where he had left his fifth packet of chewing gum, while his batman took a surreptitious swig from his water bottle which he had secretly filled with "6 O'clock Lager."

At last came the long-awaited order to move off. "Righto! On your feet and behind your Section Commanders!" ordered the Commander. No-one moved and a chorus of "Why?" "What!" and "Did you say something?" greeted his ears. He tried again. Ten minutes later all was in readiness and the Patrol started on its sixteen-mile trek. For the first hour or so all went reasonably well, except that one section became so engrossed in bird-nesting that a long halt had to be called to send out a search-party. Once under way again the section Commander of the leading section reported that he was not able to contact his scouts, but ten minutes of forced march found them seated on a log enjoying a quiet smoke.

Then the word came back—"Enemy approaching!" The Platoon Commander was at last in his element. Everyone did as he was told and with a murmur that could be heard a mere two miles away. When a furlong separated the two patrols, they both charged. Result—pandemonium for several confused minutes. At last order was restored. Once more the patrols moved onwards in their respective directions. At the first check point, the patrol umpire went to check in, and within seconds a pack of raving lunatics descended madly upon the patrol and were completely annihilated by the stolid defenders (or so they said). Result—a draw.

On the track again, complete with umpire, the patrol was hardly noticeable. Sometimes, that is. Usually the cacophony of injured souls and tortured youths yelling at their lungs' extent, combined with sundry orders to keep quiet, made certain that any enemy in sight was aware of their approach.

A short break to eat, rest and doze, and then on again. Complaints arose; someone had lost his rifle bolt; another his haversack; another his cigarette-lighter. Some somnolent youth had forgotten to pick up his water bottle after the last battle. Delays occurred while a poor being was hauled out of a caved-in mine shaft, and another disentangled from a barbed wire fence.

And at last the first day's bivouac was reached and frenzied activity yielded magnificent dwellings comprising ponchos, string, sticks, and stones. A water truck came to replenish empty water bottles, and after a filling meal of various canned odds and ends, the weary patrol bedded down for its first night under the stars.

The Patrol Commander's leaden eyelids grew heavier and heavier and at last his fatigued body took over control of his mind. Completely enervated, he slept, glad to forget the 10 miles that still lay ahead on the morrow.

THE LAUREATE HEARSE

An Incident in the Tasmanian Tour

There are a few incidents in the trip that will always remain vivid in my memory. Many had their humorous twists, and much of the humour was supplied, either directly, or indirectly, by Mr. Smith.

It was at Swansea, that one of these incidents occurred. I think the setting must be described, in order to gain the full benefit of the situation. The impression I brought away with me, is of a sandy beach, with softly lapping water, and a very long pier running into an unruffled bay. This scene is greatly enhanced at daybreak, as the sunlight begins to awaken the gold of the beach and the mirrored reflections of the bay. It is quiet, and the only sounds are those of the gently swelling water, and the muffled cry of a gull.

Abruptly however, one morning, this soft lull was shattered by the raucous cry of a trombone sliding clumsily through the jarring notes of "The Saints."

This incident had been arranged by Mr. Smith, although perhaps he would have preferred a different march tempo; for the night before he had asked some budding members of the orchestra to play "Reveille."

Oh yes, it was good fun; and the screams of the boys as they abandoned themselves to the joy of the moment, added something to the occasion.

But the absolute peace that hung over Swansea in that early morning, recoiled, shocked by the violent outburst; and for that day it wasn't felt again. In the following few moments, it could be seen on another part of the beach, hiding, but somehow trying to make itself felt against the rising sun and its accompanists. The beach hesitated only a few moments before it was shot with light and joined the spirits of those who plunged into the sea, to emerge instantly, mortified by its coldness.

It was the opening of one of those days, in which everything looks wonderful. A day with sparkling blue water; sometimes running wide and smoothly; sometimes raw and swollen, as it encircled dark rocks. It was also a day in which the sun, threw gums into strong contrast, and produced for us a continual array of breath-taking scenery.

A Library Identity.

His face is tattooed and aged; his hands are long and thin, his voice is deep and echoing. His body too is cut and broken. He has lost the power to move. His form is like a coffin, only the fragile hands and strong voice reveal the life it contains. Throughout the years, many people have looked at him, many have touched him—but that was long ago. Those people have long since died but he has lived. Now he is neglected, old and unwanted; still his heavy heart pumps and sustains his eternal existence. He will never "shuffle off the mortal coil," his time will never come.

Photography At The House Of Guilds.

If there is any joy pointing a camera and pressing the trigger, then the act of filling a fountain pen is an experience never to be forgotten. By this I mean, that there is far more to photography than merely exposing the film. There are far too many people who do not regard photography as a hobby worth pursuing. This is simply because they do not know what subjects are covered by the term "photography." And as a result, few people can be bothered spending their leisure hours pressing the trigger of a camera.

For these 'shutter-bugs'—and there are many at this school—a new, vast and varied field of pleasure is opened up—if they are able to process and print their own films. Most of the school's photographers are unable to do this and some are unaware that this 'complicated' process can be carried out at the House of Guilds. Yet one or two twelve-year-olds are becoming skilled at enlarging their better negatives. This is one of the later steps in photography, and if Prep-school boys can do it, then surely senior boys could also achieve this skill.

If any boy wishes to learn, there are facilities at the House of Guilds for him to be taught and to practise with apparatus which is expensive and difficult to obtain. He may follow typed instructions or he can be taught to develop, print or enlarge—each field requiring considerable experience to achieve a worthwhile standard. Once anybody possesses this skill, then photography is no longer a matter of wishful thinking, or of cursing the local chemist for his mistakes, but an art in which it is impossible to achieve perfection.

He then has the pleasure of focussing the enlarger, watching the image develop, and finally lifting the glossy print from the hot glazer. If he wishes, the photographer may then pursue new fields, such as the processing of several films or the printing of colour slides. But to do these things at home, requires the establishment of a darkroom and its necessary apparatus. Therefore, the opportunity should be taken by all boys interested in photography, to make full use of the adequate amenities provided for them in the two darkrooms at the House of Guilds. They will there find a pleasant and profitable means of passing their leisure hours.

THE ECHIDNA.

About ten or twelve miles from Swansea, our three buses stopped for a short break, to enable the boys to stretch their legs after the drive from Buckland, where we had inspected a very old Tasmanian church. We had all alighted and were admiring the wonderful view over the bay to the uninhabited peninsula, when one of the drivers noticed a dark brown, spiny object about fifteen yards from the rear bus. This creature was reclining in the sun in a patch of open ground and when the driver poked it with a stick it immediately curled up into a spiky ball. We were unable to induce the echidna, for that is what it was, to move, so we left it for a few minutes to give it time to regain its courage. It slowly opened up and poked its long beak out from under the impenetrable coat of spiny quills, and the bus driver with a certain amount of skill, picked it up by one of its hind feet, and held it in the air for everyone to see. The echidna struggled for a while, and pierced the driver's skin with one of its quills, but its attempts to escape were not long-lasting. Many of the fascinated boys obtained snap-shots of this unusual creature, which as soon as it was placed on the ground, rapidly scooped out a hole with its strong claws, and buried its head.

Naval Vengeance.

During the Christmas holidays last year I went for a trip as guest of the captain of the H.M.A.S. Cootamundra. After a fortnight of tedious minesweeping exercises off the Queensland coast, the W.T. office at last received the long-awaited message to return to port, at Sydney.

The weather was hot and humid and the members of the crew were all in high spirits. They were all sitting along the quarter deck rail cooling off in the evening breeze. As I looked down upon the row of heads beneath me a bright idea suddenly dawned on me. A canvas canopy covered the quarter deck where the men were congregated.

I slipped downstairs to the galley and filled up a bucket of ice cold water. No one noticed me carry it to the upper deck. As I quietly poured the water on to the canvas it ran to each side as the ship rolled. Suddenly the stern went down a trough and the water washed off the canvas in a long line all over the men.

Before I had time to make my hurried exit, a row of wet, angry heads appeared along the side of the canvas. Before very long, I was scurrying over the decks with a pack of damp seamen and stokers in pursuit, calling to their friends to stop me, in round naval oaths.

Eventually cornered in the bows, I was led back to the mess decks. While a dozen brawny sailors held me, another gave me the worst crewcut ever seen. It was uneven and hacked short and long in a wild mess. It was not so bad having the haircut, being cooler, but it was the heckling laughter and joking that followed that made me wonder if the first joke was really worth it.

Things I Hate Moot.

—from a Form Essay.

There are many things that I hate, but when I try to think of them they somehow elude my memory. Of course there are the usual things like parsnips, silver beet, washing up, and brothers and sisters; but everyone hates them, and they seem unimportant.

According to the Bible, to hate is sinful, "Love thy neighbor as thyself," but everyone hates something or someone, and with human nature it can't be helped.

I shudder at the mere thought of being told by visitors what a big lad I am growing, and how much I resemble my grandfather's second aunt. The sound of someone scratching a rough surface, of a dentist's drill ready to remove hunks of tooth I would much rather keep, turns my stomach upside down.

I hate the making of the interminable cups of tea my mother seems to require; the perpetual annoyance of having to tidy up my room, which I know better untidy; dressing for cadets and riding my bicycle to school on a public holiday.

However, considering the great national hatred which divides the world today, my hates seem very small indeed.

FOOTBALL 1st XVIII COACH'S REPORT

The 1958 Football Season has been a good one. We had excellent performances in our practice matches, and finally finished equal third in the Public Schools competition. We provided stiff opposition for all teams, except perhaps for Scotch who were Premiers and Champions and too good for us. To them we offer our congratulations.

There are three aspects in the coaching of football:

1. Getting players fit.
2. Teaching the fundamentals of football.
3. Producing team players and team spirit.

Although many were lacking some of the fundamental skills required in good footballers, this year's team made up for this lack by being wonderfully fit and displaying a real, fighting team spirit which refused to admit defeat. This was admirably demonstrated in the way the XVIII fought on to win its last two matches, after some disappointing defeats by Xavier, Melbourne Grammar and Scotch. This team spirit, which it is so gratifying to see, was born of hard training, often five nights a week, which blended all players together, so that none flinched when the pressure was intense in the torrid moments of some of the matches. The football camp at the beginning of Second Term helped enormously, and we thank Dr. Buntine and the school domestic staff for making it possible and so successful.

The season was made so successful by the generous help of many people, so numerous that it is impossible to name them all here.

I would, however, like to thank the coaches of the junior teams for all the work they have done in teaching the fundamentals of football to the younger boys. I would like to thank Mr. C. A. Bickford (under 15 teams); Mr. G. L. Smith and Mr. D. G. Nielson (under 16 teams); Mr. J. R. Hunter (under 14 teams); Mr. E. C. McLean (under 14 and under 13 teams); Mr. E. B. Davies (special coaching in tackling); Mr. Graeme Beach (2nd XVIII); and Mr. V. H. Profitt, the sports organizer who relieves coaches of all administrative worries.

I would thank also, on behalf of the boys, all the parents, Old Boys, and friends of the College, who so generously entertained us during the season, provided transport at various times, and also the necessary finance and materials to develop the mechanical devices designed to help in our training. The Old Boys' Association was particularly generous in making £50 available for the last-mentioned. Assistance, particularly from Old Boys, be it financial, coaching, or turning out for a training run with the team is very much appreciated by the boys and myself.

Tom Gawith did an excellent job, both as Captain of the College XVIII and as full forward (47 goals for the season), and along with Ian Redpath (Vice-Captain), Jim Funston and Doug. Neely are to be congratulated on being selected to play in the Combined Public Schools team. John Gawith and Ken Kumnick were chosen to play in the Under 16 Combined Team.

Finally, I must thank the boys of the school for their enthusiastic help and co-operation, especially the football committee and a host of assistants who kept statistics, operated the score board, acted as trainers and did numerous other unspectacular but vital jobs.

CAPTAIN'S REPORT

This year our College team improved greatly on the past season's performances, and met with moderate success. We had a few players back who had already had P.S. experience and the balance of the team came from the previous year's U. 16 and 2nd XVIII. We began the season well, winning 9 of our 11 practice matches.

Thus we looked towards the P.S. games with confidence and although we went down to Xavier in the first match, the game was of a high standard and College showed plenty of fight and determination. However, our defeats by Scotch and M.G.S. were disappointing games and we failed to produce our best football, although the team was trying hard to do so. After the next break we came back to win our last two matches convincingly against Wesley College and Geelong Grammar. This made us equal third in the premiership. Congratulations to Scotch College on their premiership win.

For what success we had, we must thank our coach, Mr. Quick, who kept us just as fit and enthusiastic when our confidence was dwindling after our first 3 defeats. He was willing to sacrifice 5 nights a week to coach and train us so that we would be really fit and would play together as a team. I would also like to thank those other old boys and men who came along to help coach us, especially Sandy Beach, who was with us practically all the season.

From the early spirit and keenness shown in training, the team developed a fighting determination. The football camp held at the end of 1st term holidays helped towards this end and also developed a team spirit which is an essential part of the game of football. We spent a lot of our training nights practising with the wet ball, but we were unfortunate that we did not have a wet ball in any of our matches. The weather throughout the matches was almost perfect except for occasional windy conditions.

I would like to thank all those boys who acted as officials during the season.

One fault which this year's team made and future teams could rectify, is the failure to listen carefully to the coach's pre-match talk and instructions, because of excitement and nervousness. And so, in wishing our coach, Mr. Quick, and the team next year, the best of luck, I hope they can continue to improve on this year's climb from the bottom.

XAVIER COLLEGE v. GEELONG COLLEGE

(Played at Xavier, June 28.)

The Xavier Oval was in good condition and the weather was fine and dry with a slight wind blowing down the ground. T. Gawith won the toss and kicked towards the pavilion end.

1st Quarter:

College almost immediately swung into attack and had most of the play but the forwards were inaccurate. On the other hand the Xavier forwards made good use of their opportunities. College were winning in the centre through Redpath and Sproat was marking well, but his disposal was poor. Gawith scored College's goal.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
X.C.	3	1	19
G.C.	1	3	9

2nd Quarter:

Xavier did most of the attacking this quarter but their forwards' kicking was astray. College made the most of their opportunities—McCann goaled and Brian and Browning co-operated well for the second goal of the quarter. The College backs played well and returned many of the Xavier attacks.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
X.C.	5	7	37
G.C.	3	5	23

3rd Quarter:

2 goals behind, College began to attack early in the quarter and dominated play for the early part of the quarter. Funston goaled after bringing the ball from the back line. Xavier replied with a goal off the ground, but in general their forwards were inaccurate, kicking 1 goal 6 bhds.. Redpath was providing the College forwards with many opportunities, but they were unable to capitalize upon them.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
X.C.	6	13	49
G.C.	4	9	33

4th Quarter:

Two quick goals by Gibson swung the game to Xavier. College showed courage and determination in trying to even the scores. The backs led by Satchell and Hatton did much to stop Xavier's attacks, but our forwards became crowded and ragged. Sproat goaled for College but Xavier replied with 2 more.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
X.C.	10	14	74
G.C.	5	11	41

Xavier's overall ability and power won for them. The game was fast and hard, of a high standard. Our fast play-on game worried Xavier, but they proved superior in the air.

Goal-kickers:

Gawith, D. A. T., Sproat, Brian, Funston, McCann.

Best Players:

Redpath, Gawith, D. A. T., Gawith, M. J., Sproat, Hatton, Satchell.

2nd P.S. MATCH:

GEELONG COLLEGE v. SCOTCH COLLEGE

(Played at Geelong, July 5.)

The oval was in good condition, the weather was dry, with a slight wind blowing. Scotch won the toss.

1st Quarter:

T. Gawith goaled within minutes of the start of play and College looked set for a good day. The ball returned to the College forward zone, got only 1 point resulted.

Scotch goaled from a free and their forwards continued to attack, bringing 2 more goals for the quarter.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
S.C.	3	2	20
G.C.	1	1	7

2nd Quarter:

Scotch attacked from the bounce and created a loose man effectively on the forward flank. Steele (S.C.) scored 2 goals from these tactics and initiated many other forward moves. Scotch backs turned the few attacks by College and held us scoreless for the quarter. Scotch goaled again to give them a 5 goal lead at half-time.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
S.C.	6	5	41
G.C.	1	1	7

3rd Quarter:

College attacked persistently but only managed 1 behind for the quarter. Scotch settled down again and continued to attack. Funston and Satchell were the few thorns in their way. Scotch's supremacy in the air brought about many forward moves giving them a lead almost impossible to overcome.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
S.C.	9	8	62
G.C.	1	2	8

4th Quarter:

Play see-sawed between the two half-back lines. Hatton and J. Gawith (G.C.) continued to intercept many Scotch attacks. Both forward lines became crowded and Scotch only managed to score 1 point in this quarter and College 2 points. The kicking for goal became inaccurate and rushed as the backlines dominated the game. Satchell (G.C.) did well to keep the Scotch full forward Harris down to 1 goal for the match.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
S.C.	9	9	63
G.C.	1	4	10

This was a disappointing match for College as we were expected to push Scotch to a close finish. However, College appeared to be the fitter side, although outclassed as many Scotch boys went down with cramp.

3rd P.S. Match:

MELBOURNE GRAMMAR SCHOOL v. GEELONG COLLEGE

(Played at Melbourne, July 11.)

The ground was muddy in the centre and a strong breeze blew up the ground. T. Gawith won the toss and kicked with the wind.

1st Quarter:

College attacked with the wind. Browning, Brian and Redpath goaling early in the quarter from fast play-on football to give College a good start. T. Gawith goaled acutely from the scoreboard to give College 4 goals 2 pts. to nil. However, Grammar caught the College backs flat footed and anxious, and scored 3 quick goals to almost neutralize College's wind advantage.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
M.G.S.	3	2	20
G.C.	4	3	27

2nd Quarter:

Grammar took full advantage of the wind straight from the bounce and goaled. College backs fumbled and were unable to clear the repeated Grammar attacks. Redpath was playing well in the centre although roaming far afield and Neely on the forward flank made good position but forward moves resulted only in 2 points. Grammar continued to dominate, with their rucks and forwards winning. They put on 7 goals for the quarter putting them well in front.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
M.G.S.	10	6	66
G.C.	4	5	29

3rd Quarter:

College again failed to make full use of the win, scoring 3 goals to Grammar's 2. With Funston setting the example, the College backs were beginning to settle down and counter the Grammar forwards. Our rucks were still losing, but Simpson and Kumnick battled well. McCann, T. Gawith and Browning scored the College goals.

4th Quarter:

Grammar again utilized the wind and played straight down the centre, however, inaccurate kicking resulted in only 3 goals 7 points. The College backs were still unable to counter the aerial superiority of M.G.S. forwards. Green scored College's only goal for that quarter.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
M.G.S.	15	16	106
G.C.	8	9	57

The result was disappointing considering the promising start made by College.

Goal-kickers:

Best Players:

Redpath, Funston, Kumnick, Simpson, Neely.

4th P.S. Match:

GEELONG COLLEGE v. WESLEY COLLEGE

(Played at Geelong, July 26.)

The College oval was in a heavy condition but the ball was not greasy. The weather was fine. T. Gawith won the toss and kicked towards the House of Music end.

1st Quarter:

T. Gawith opened quickly by goaling for College, but Wesley quickly replied. Play centred around the Wesley forward line where Neely marking well turned many attacks. The College forward line was open and effective and Kumnick goaled. Wesley had more forward moves but cross-kicking hampered their scoring. College took control with play-on football.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
W.C.	2	1	13
G.C.	2	3	15

2nd Quarter:

College attacked and goaled. Redpath injured his leg in an unfortunate clash with Nicol (G.C.). College reorganized their attack. Redpath, although injured, capably passed to T. Gawith who goaled. Play see-sawed between half-forward lines and the College backs (Funston, Neely, Satchell), held Wesley forwards to 1 point for the quarter. Scott and Browning were giving drive to the forwards whose kicking was inaccurate.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
W.C.	2	2	14
G.C.	4	8	32

3rd Quarter:

Wesley attacked from the bounce and broke through the College back line to score 3 goals early in the quarter. College became unsettled but fought back with 2 quick goals by Scott and Hatton. The play then centred between the two half-back lines neither side's forwards able to break through. But both sides goaled again before the end of the quarter.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
W.C.	6	4	40
G.C.	7	10	52

4th Quarter:

Again Wesley attacked from the bounce to score a goal and bring them within 5 points of College. However, College took control of the game with their fitness and determination winning for them. Simpson was battling hard in the ruck and after inaccurate kicking the College began a run of goals. The forwards found Redpath at full forward, who added 3 goals through safe marking. Gawith (T.) added another goal from an acute angle and College began to over-run Wesley, whose forwards rarely sighted the ball.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
W.C.	7	5	47
G.C.	11	16	82

College won their first P.S. game for 3 seasons, mainly due to their fitness and determination.

Goal-kickers:

Gawith, D. A. T. (4), Redpath (3), Kumnick (2), Hatton, Scott (1).

Best Players:

Gawith, D. A. T., Funston, Redpath, Satchell, Neely, Simpson, Scott.

5th P.S. Match:

GEELONG COLLEGE v. GEELONG GRAMMAR SCHOOL

(Played at College, on August 2.)

The oval was heavy, particularly the score-box end, and a wind blew down the centre, but the weather was fine. Gawith won the toss and kicked with the wind.

1st Quarter:

Grammar attacked from the bounce and were first to score with a goal. Play see-sawed with both forward lines unable to break clear. Nicol (G.C.) making good position, scored two goals for College from acute angles. Grammar replied with a goal from fast play-on football. College again moved forward but inaccurate kicking only brought 2 points.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
G.G.S.	2	0	12
G.C.	2	2	14

2nd Quarter:

Scott and Browning attacked for College against the wind. Gawith, T. (G.C.) was marking well at half-forward, but was unable to find the forwards further afield. McCann later goaled for College and Grammar, determined to bridge the lead College had established, attempted to break away, but their centre line was fumbling badly. Redpath (G.C.) broke through and goaled. Neely and Satchell turned many Grammar attacks and they only managed to score 2 points with the wind for the quarter.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
G.G.S.	2	2	14
G.C.	4	3	27

3rd Quarter:

College again attacked with the wind, Browning giving drive from the centre, found T. Gawith who goaled from a long shot. College continued to attack, but the Grammar back pocket cleared repeatedly. The Grammar rucks were dominating play and College was unable to break clear from the packs. However, the College backs held the Grammar forwards scoreless for the quarter, but the College forwards also failed to make full advantage of the wind.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
G.G.S.	2	2	14
G.C.	5	5	35

4th Quarter:

Grammar, determined to even scores, goaled quickly and College tried to close up the game. Play see-sawed between the half-forward lines but the backs held firm on both sides. From another determined bid Grammar goaled, putting them only 8 points behind. Both teams were tiring but their determination to win kept them attacking. College surged forward but only scored a point. When the bell rang Grammar were again attacking with the College backs fiercely crowding the play.

	Gls.	Bhds.	Pts.
G.G.S.	4	4	2%
G.C.	5	6	36

This win provided a good finish to the football season, as it was a well-fought, close match.

2nd XVIII CAPTAIN'S REPORT

At the beginning of the season all boys were keen and willing to train hard. Mr. Quick undertook to coach both the first and second XVIII's, but it soon became apparent that both teams were too much for him to handle. In this case it was the place of the second XVIII to stand down. In doing so, we had to give up our coach. Even then, Mr. Quick helped us as much as he was able, and it is for this that we most sincerely thank him. We would also like to thank Mr. Beach who gave up a lot of his valuable time in coaching us.

Owing to the loss of our coach, the second XVIII elected a committee of three boys to supervise training, select the team for each individual game, and to report the best players for each Saturday, to Mr. Quick. The boys were most co-operative, but, owing to the committee's inexperience in the game of football, the boys eventually became disinterested.

It was pleasing to see the difference between the negative football played at the start of the season, and the good teamwork that was seen later on. Though the boys only managed to win one game for the whole season, they kept on fighting till the end of all the matches with great spirit and determination. Looking back, we feel that we all had an enjoyable and successful season's football. However, in future years, we hope that the second XVIII has the pleasure of having their own coach. On behalf of the second XVIII boys we would also like to congratulate L. R. Nicol, D. j. Braden and W. Lester who graduated to the first XVIII.

UNDER 16

We started the season this year with a close win, but we did not improve as fast as we would have wished, until near the end of the season when we won two more matches, and narrowly lost a few others. During the end of the season we improved rapidly and played harder and better football than ever before. However, the spirit and enthusiasm of the team remained strong throughout the season, mainly due to the untiring vigour of our coaches, Mr. Smith and Mr. Neilson, who gave up much of their spare time to coach us. We feel that we have improved much from last year and we hope to improve much more in the next season. On behalf of the team I thank our coaches for the great help they gave us this year.

U. 15A FOOTBALL TEAM. WINNERS OF V.H. PROFITT TROPHY

UNDER 15 GROUP

It was a severe blow to the Under 15 Group this season that no matches were arranged for "B" teams in the group. Consequently, many boys who were keen to play were not given the chance to develop their ability, and others lost much of the keenness with which they commenced the season. It is to be hoped that similar conditions will not obtain next year.

The "A" side included a few very good footballers; and while the remainder left them to do the work, we played poor football and lost matches. But about half-way through the season all players began to sharpen their training and put an edge to their play. As a result we no longer carried passengers; we no longer had to "plug" gaps. The players who had been "spectators" began to hold down their positions, playing with courage and confidence; and as our stars continued to win handsomely in theirs, success began to come our way. In this part of the season the team played some really good football, but none better than that in which they turned the tables on a very good Wesley side which had given them a "licking" at Wesley.

A feature of the past two seasons of this team is the marked improvement shown by most of the players. No good player lost form; one or two who had been willing and useful became skilful and almost polished players; and others who originally merely filled places became efficient and effective units in the team.

—C.A.B.

We were again very well served for umpires. I have said before that under-age football needs competent umpiring more than that of the older groups; and in this respect nobody could have given better work than R. M. Morrow and L. G. Smith, both Old Boys to whom the School has been much indebted in the past. To them, and to R. J. Watson, who unselfishly and efficiently acted as boundary-umpire for the whole season, I am very grateful.

UNDER 14 FOOTBALL

It was a pleasure to be connected with this group because of the keenness of boys, who are starting on their football careers. Their keenness and sincerity in play, their willingness to learn and to assist as officials have proved an inspiration to a coach, who has only one regret — that he is not able to play.

Mr. McLean took charge of the Under 13 Group and games were played against the Prep. School and other schools. His assistance throughout the season was greatly appreciated.

Thanks to those Senior boys who umpired the Under 14 home matches. One, R. M. Gorell, whose punctuality, standard of umpiring and control on the field, deserves particular mention.

R. Alulligan, in spite of his many and varied duties, found time to assist in coaching and the general running of a team. A mere "thank you" is not sufficient to express one's appreciation.

There was a good nucleus in the Under 14 "A", but perhaps the better team was the Under 14 "B", which comprised able players too small and light for Under 14 "A" requirements. The Under 14 "B" team played only 3 matches against other Public Schools, but it won 2 of them.

The outstanding players in Under 14 "A" were:—

Bell, R. J., Dunn, K. J., McKenzie, J. S., Hookings, I. C. (vice-capt.), Powell, J. M., Knox, M. J. (capt.), Anderson, J. R., Green, S. T.

Those who showed promise in Under 14 "B" were:

Batten, B. N., Strong, R. G., Mansfield, J. W., Hurlstone, J. C., Philp, P. E., Watson, V. R.

UMPIRES.

If umpires are not available for football matches and coaches are forced to do the job the situation becomes unsatisfactory from all points of view.

This year we have been fortunate in having a panel of trained umpires on which to draw. We are grateful to Bob Morrow, Ian Bumpstead and L. Smith (Old Boys) who willingly helped us when asked. Also to Air. D. D. Davey, not only for his help on the field but also for his interesting talks and photographs on the finer points of umpiring. R. M. Gorell, K. R. Trembath, A. C. Lawler, J. M. Butler (central umpires), R. M. Mulligan, M. S. Keating, N. Simpson (boundary umpires), A. R. Webb and K. C. Hawken (goal umpires), gave capable and willing service for which we thank them.

CAPTAIN'S REPORT

Although we had much wet weather during the term the Athletics team showed great keenness and trained hard, despite these adverse conditions.

Cross-country running proved popular during the 2nd term and, at the end of the term, all boys in the Senior School took part in a 30-mile race around the tough College course. In an effort to encourage more boys to take part in athletic training, Mr. Macmillan introduced the relay system in place of the standards. This system was highly successful and undoubtedly raised the general standard of athletics in the school.

Owing to much wet weather our House Sports had to be postponed until October 17th. Although we had them on a Friday, the attendance was good and despite the soft track many good performances were recorded. We congratulate Perry Leach on winning the Geelong College Cup, Don Braden on winning the Norman Morrison Cup, C. W. Fallaw, the Under 16 Champion, W. H. Lehmann, the Under 15 Champion, and J. R. Irvine, the Under 14 Champion. Irvine also showed promise for the future in breaking the Under 14 Long Jump Record.

The Quadrangular Sports were held at Geelong Grammar a day later and although we came 4th, they gave us good experience. We realised that we could not afford to sacrifice the future for the present and so regarded them as preparation and as another day's training with the Combined Sports in view.

We had a beautiful day for the Combined and there was a large crowd of spectators at Olympic Park. Of the five new schools which entered the competition this year, Caulfield Grammar, which came 5th, was the most successful. First place was closely contested, Scotch eventually winning by a 1/3 of a point from Xavier. Again College showed strength in middle distance events, but it has become more obvious that without good sprinters we will not be able to gain a high position in the total aggregate. But we came 7th and feel satisfied that the work of our coaches and of ourselves was well rewarded.

We congratulate our two most outstanding performers at the Sports — Graham Simpson, who won the Open Shot Putt, with a putt of 47 ft. 1 1/2 ins., and Don Braden, who won the Open 880 yards in 1 minute 58.6 secs. Both these performances broke College records and were the results of very hard training during the term.

We thank very sincerely Mr. Macmillan, Mr. Prompt, Mr. Davies and Mr. Campbell, for the time they devoted to the Athletics and we wish Mr. Macmillan every success at Scotch College.

— J.W.T.

QUADRANGULAR SPORTS

This year's Quadrangular Sports between Geelong College, Geelong Grammar, Geelong Guild and Melbourne High School were held at Geelong Grammar School on Saturday, 18th September.

In the morning, the weather, which had been unsettled all the week, promised to wash out the Sports, but fortunately, except for a light shower, the afternoon was fine. A strong westerly wind and a heavy track made conditions difficult. The aggregate points were:—

1st, Geelong Guild, 126 points; 2nd, Melbourne High School, 116 points; 3rd Geelong Grammar School, 115 points; 4th Geelong College, 101 points.

Creditable performances by Geelong College were:—

COMMENT ON COMBINED SPORTS 1958

There can be no doubt that the Combined Sports meeting benefited tremendously with the competition provided by the new members of the association. For spectacle, standard of performance and competition the meeting this year was outstanding.

Although the College could come no better than seventh, the performance of our team was most satisfactory, every boy scoring points for his side. The performances of D. Braden, G. Simpson, T. Sproat, P. Leach and the 4 x 880 yds. relay team were highlights in a very satisfying day for the College. Jim Thomas, as captain set an example in training which, if followed by more boys in the school, would lead to a tremendous improvement in the Athletic standards of the school.

During the last few years this tradition for hard training by the middle distance runners of the College has placed us in the forefront of schools middle distance running. Unfortunately, we do not hold the same position in the sprinting events, which are heavily weighted as point scoring events at the Combined Sports. Therefore, if Geelong College is to finish in the top bracket of place getters, it seems that the sprinters will have to train as hard as the distance runners. Training for five or six weeks in third term is hopelessly inadequate, so that sprinters, distance men, and field games experts must do some training during second term. Such training would help general fitness for football, thus benefiting both sports. Its entirely up to the individual. Let us hope for big things next year.

TENNIS NOTES.

Except in the afternoons of tennis coaching little tennis was played during second term until the last two weeks when entries were taken for the College tournaments. Another stimulant luring this last period was the announcement that a social tournament with Morongo and The Hermitage was being arranged for the beginning of Third Term.

This mixed "American" tournament took place on the courts of the three schools on Saturday, 20th September. The day began cold and threatening, but, although some rain fell during the morning, conditions generally improved slightly. Forty three pairs took part and were present on the College courts to see the final and to congratulate the winners, Peter Bain and Alison McIntosh, and the runners-up, Garry Fenton and Sue Anderson, to whom Dr. Buntine presented small trophies. All agreed that it was a grand day, and we thank all those who made the arrangements at the three schools for this happy function. May it be the forerunner of many more of a similar nature.

This year, by way of much pushing and the use of outside courts, we were able to finish the College tournaments on the last playing day of November. In the Singles Final, I. Redpath won from P. Bain with scores 3-6, 6-2 7-5 after a match in which both players were very cautious. The Doubles Final was won by P. Bain and D. Jarman who defeated I. Redpath and M. Brian 6-4, 6-3. B. Tymms won the Under 15 Singles, defeating R. J. Bell 6-1, 6-2 and then, partnered by I. Hookings, won the Under 15 Doubles from R. J. Bell and C. Seward.

The House Tennis Competition was considerably disturbed by weather, and one match, the result of which would have had no effect on the final order, had to be left unfinished. Shannon, with the same four open players as last year, were the winners with McArthur, Calvert and Morrison, following in that order.

Calvert defeated Morrison, 4 matches to 1.

D. Gawith-Jarman (C) defeated Hazeldine-Keating (M) 6-5, 6-2; and defeated Appel-Hood (M) 6-2, 6-4.

CRICKET PROSPECTS FOR 1959

Trying to gauge the prospects for any event is a difficult task. Cricket 1959, presents for the College XI a twofold problem. Firstly, the advent of new schools to the P.S. competition makes some teams an unknown quantity; secondly, as there is a more than average number of 1st XI boys leaving school, the team will be almost new.

For the 1959 P.S. competition, the schools are in four groups. A team will play the teams in its own group, and one other group. A final match will be played between the first team in each group, and so on down the list. Therefore, a team finishing third will play the third team of the other groups.

This season the College will play practice matches against Melbourne Grammar, Scotch College, Carey, Hailebury, and St. Kevin's. Next year, P.S. matches will be played against Caulfield Grammar (away), Geelong Grammar (home), Brighton Grammar (home), and Xavier Coll. (away). Dates for these matches are Feb. 20/21, Mar. 6/7, Mar. 13/14, Mar. 20/21, April 3/4.

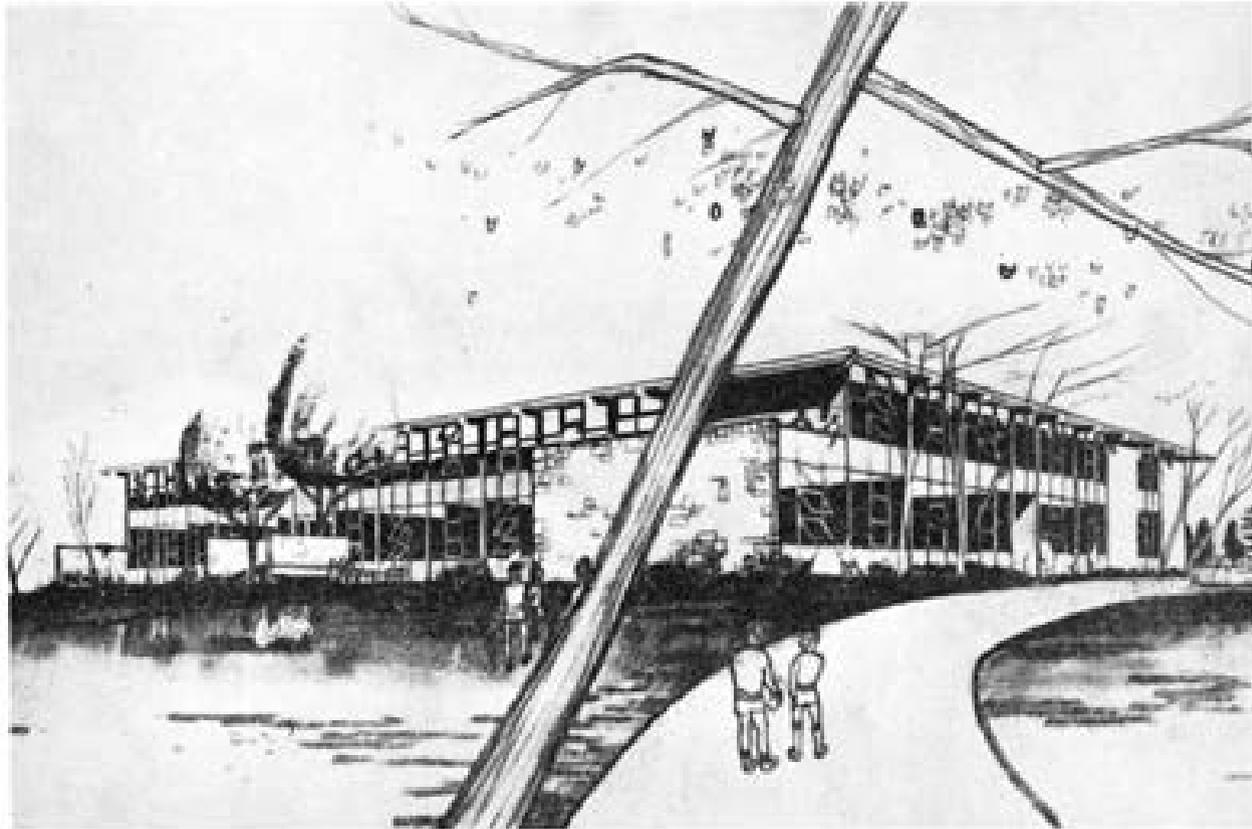

Taking combined sports as a guide it would appear that Caulfield will field a strong XI. Avhile Xavier can be expected to be as powerful as ever. Geelong Grammar were weak in 1958, but improvement must be expected, while Brighton Grammar cannot be taken lightly.

Boys leaving school this year include P.S. representatives, I. R. Redpath, I. R. Scott and A. Lawler. Other 1st XI boys leaving are, D. Wright, W. Green, J. F. Funston, R. Coulson, J. Thomas, and D. A. T. Gawith. Boys returning are J. Wallens, R. A. Hood, who were regular 1st XI players; D. Neely and R. Mulligan, who played one match each. Much will rest on the shoulders of these boys.

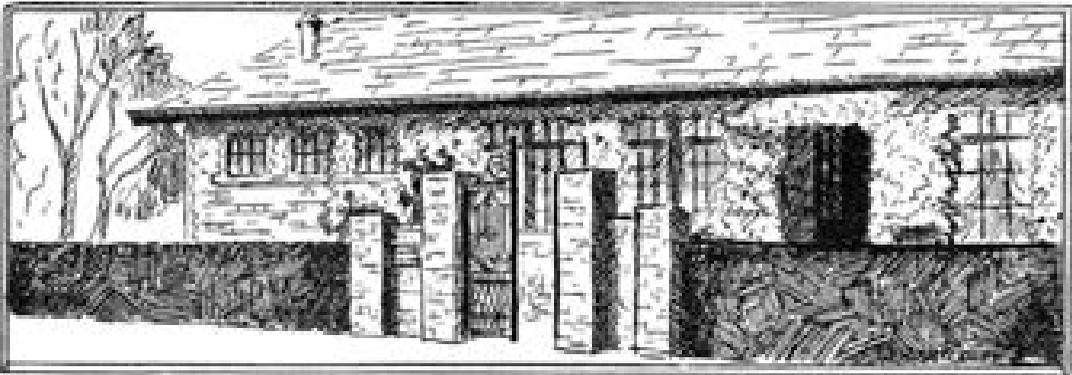

Boys likely to play an important part in College cricket during 1958-59 are K. R. Trembath, J. Holdsworth, S. Appel, B. McCrow and D. Powling. Promising under 16 boys who could press for places in the 1st XI are A. Coulson, B. Fell Smith, J. Davies and P. Young.

It would seem that the 1959 P.S. team will be young and untried; therefore, it is difficult to predict success or otherwise. Much will depend upon the improvement and keenness of these boys, and it is hoped that every boy in the school will give his whole-hearted support, no matter what result is obtained.

Architects' Sketch of New Preparatory School.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL.

The Preparatory School reports another busy and profitable year in all branches of School life.

During the half-year many interesting excursions were made and we are grateful to the following for widening our knowledge of Geelong from the Social Studies point of view: Mr. G. M. Cochrane, Donaghy and Sons, R. S. Mills, Wool Exchange, the New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Wool Stores and G. A. List and Sons.

The Social Service League has completed another active year. All boys of the Preparatory School were members and the committee consisted of B. Davey; T. Hinchliffe; M. Paton; P. Sheahan and P. Smith. R. Russell was an energetic secretary. A total of approximately £100 was raised and distributed as follows:

Rice Bowl Appeal £20, Red Cross Appeal £12/12/-, Anti-Cancer Fund £12: Herald Blanket Fund £12: Russell Mockridge Fund £10. Community Chest £10, Christmas Parcels for Geelong Pensioners £10.

As usual we commemorated United Nations' Week by making the aims and activities of U.N.O. the theme for our work during the week. On October 24th at our special United Nation's Day assembly we were addressed by Mr. AH Asghar who told us in a most interesting way, of life, and customs in Pakistan.

On November 25th, the senior boys of the Preparatory School visited Lerderderg Gorge on a field excursion and also took the opportunity of spending a valuable hour at the Madingley Brown Coal Mine at Bacchus Marsh.

On December 1st, we were privileged to hear an address by Mr. H. Opperman, M.H.R. He told us something of the machinery of democratic government and also of some of the lighter moments in parliamentary life.

The final excursion of the year was spent as guests of the Birmid Company. We should like to express to Mr. Turner and our other guides our thanks for a fascinating hour among fiery furnaces and molten metal.

On December 4th, Forms Lower IVA and Lower IVB, convoyed by parents, went to the You Yangs for their annual Christmas party. As their guests, they had several boys from the Spastic Centre. A pleasant and exciting day was spent by all concerned.

We held our annual Carol Service in the Assembly Hall on December 5th. The service was arranged by the School Chaplain and consisted of carols interspersed with readings from the gospels. Mr. Logic Smith was the accompanist.

This year the Annual Speech Day was held in Morrison Hall because of the threat of unsettled weather. The presence of a very large number of parents and friends necessitated the P.A. system being extended to a classroom to cope with the overflow.

The Headmaster, Mr. L. J. Campbell welcomed the Very Reverend Sir Francis Rolland and Lady Rolland. Sir Francis, before presenting the prizes, told the gathering that in essence, all phases of life were really a Preparatory School. The Kindergarten prepared for the Preparatory School, the present Preparatory School was preparing for Senior School, Senior School was preparing for the University, the University was preparing for the wider outside life and the rest of our lives was a Preparatory School for higher things.

Sir Francis also stressed the fact that it was undesirable to underestimate our own capabilities. He gave two vivid examples. The first was a brilliant but timid student of Mathematics at the College and the second was of a clumsy but invaluable soldier at Gallipoli.

The Headmaster then gave the following report:

As one commences to prepare the School's Annual Report for 1958 surrounded by water pistols, cap guns, knives and many objects used for the propelling of missiles, one realizes to the full that teaching is a dangerous profession. However, with reasonable care and a certain agility it is possible to survive for years in a preparatory school without any grave risk to life or limb.

The real danger fortunately is, to a large extent, in our own hands and centres round our approach to those committed to our charge, for there is no doubt that the seed sown in the mind during these formative years develops into either a flowering plant or a weed, and an everlasting one at that.

The longer I live the more convinced I become of the almost frightening power a teacher has and how mindful he must be of its use, as he endeavours to lead his pupils in the paths of full spiritual, mental and physical development.

These are difficult days in which it becomes more and more evident that there can be no little world of our own in which we may quietly work out our own salvation and shut our eyes and ears to what is happening round about us. At times it would appear that it is quite old fashioned to listen to the still small voice of conscience and follow its dictates. The line of demarcation between right and wrong has so faded with the years that many find it hard to discern.

Are we to accept the hard right or the easy wrong? Does virtue lie in being smart rather than honest? These, and many other questions float through our minds as we endeavour to equip a boy with the necessary principles which will enable him to re-act on the side of right—the fundamental aim of all teaching.

We can, of course, so surround him with rules and regulations that we leave him no choice to make decisions for himself but, in doing so, we are defeating our whole purpose, for the core of all character lies in individuality.

School Work.

From time immemorial there has always been the tendency to concentrate on the few to the detriment of the many. This we strive hard to avoid at all times, realizing that, whilst a highly educated group is desirable, the many are the well springs of the school's character.

The work generally has gone along steadily throughout the year and we have tried, to the best of our ability, to keep all boys working to capacity. To the uninitiated this probably suggests that we have followed some hum drum practice of pouring more and more pints of knowledge into the boy as he progresses from class to class and that is all there is to it.

However, such is not the case, for young-children are not sent to school simply to learn this and that, but to learn to live and to get life more abundantly. Unlike a coaching college, a school is good or bad according to its ability to preserve the simplicity and wholeness of the boy rather than to break his life into so many parts called subjects or occupations, and give him skills in these.

This is not easy to do, especially when the school carries about twenty percent more boys than it was ever intended to do. Although unfortunately I can lay no claim to being a schoolmaster in any true sense of the word, it seems to me that there are three difficult periods in the school life of a young boy.

The first comes when he leaves home and mother for the first time and endeavours to adapt himself to life with complete strangers. This hazard can be overcome only with the help and sympathetic understanding of a good kindergartener, and how fortunate we are to have in Mrs. Sweetman just the person for the task is well known to us all.

There is no doubt in my mind that success or failure in a normal child's career rests to a large extent here. If we fail at this stage we are struggling all along the line. However, there comes a time when the boy must leave the kindergarten. This is the second difficult period and calls for much thought, observation and planning.

At a very early age some are ready to cope with advanced work but are not ready to join groups of varying age. Others are sufficiently well equipped, physically, to meet the demands of a slightly bigger world but are somewhat lacking academically. Nevertheless, they must all be absorbed without any undue upset and kept working to capacity at their various levels or the first seeds of indolence are sown, the harvest from which provides much food for thought in later days.

But capacity for one is not capacity for another, and this important fact must be uppermost in our minds in ordinary class teaching. As you will readily see, whilst this is an unavoidable state of affairs it is, at the same time, a rather confusing one.

After many years of observation, it has been very apparent to me that the confusion must not, on any account, be allowed to remain in the mind of the boy for, if it does, it is fatal to future progress. By gradual absorption into some of the school activities, such as sport, assembly, and various lessons, the confusion is gradually eradicated, with no harm to the child, and for a few more years he moves along quite happily, enlarging his experiences as he goes.

The third and last difficulty, as far as we are concerned, presents itself as boys move from Junior to Senior School, and, situated as we are today, with inadequate accommodation, I can find no real answer to it. This is because we are forced to send boys to the open fields of the Senior School at least a year before even the best of them are sufficiently mature to understand that the open fields provide considerably less shelter than the closed paddock, from which they have come.

Thanks to your generosity, however, in providing funds for a new day school, we should be able to remove this hazard in the very near future.

During the latter part of the year an interesting experiment has been in progress in an effort to assess the value of Television as a teaching aid. In order to do this we must turn back the clock a little.

Over the years many aids have been used in schools, not least among them being the broadcast lesson. On the whole when properly used, it has been of definite value.

Following this came the film strip to accompany the broadcast, and what a great help it has proved to be, for, although the broadcaster was still invisible, the matter under discussion was right before the eyes of the boy. By a careful study of the strip beforehand, the teacher was able to make adequate preparation for what the children were to hear and see. Apart from this, he still had the film available for the follow-up and for reference later on, along lines more suited for his own particular group. It was here that the real strength lay as it overcame the possibility of the lesson being heard, seen and forgotten in just so many minutes.

Then came the educational film, about which much could be said but its greatest value lay, perhaps, in its power to portray motion and conquer time and distance, as well as the ordinary limitation of vision. A worth while study of wild life would be just hearsay without it, for seeing is believing in the mind of the child. Again, the life history of plants and insects could be studied in a matter of minutes instead of months.

What advantages Educational Television will have over these earlier aids still remains to be seen.

It is not new in America but it has never been used to such an extent as at present. We are told that recently the New York State Educational Department signed a contract with a Television Channel which is giving class room instruction for 35 hours a week, within a radius of 100 miles of the Empire State building. It is stated that these lessons are reaching some two million scholars.

In this country Television is still in its swaddling clothes and it is realized that much spade work has still to be done. Experiments are, however, already being made in which we have co-operated with those responsible in an effort to test their educational value over and above the audio-visual broadcasts we have had in the past.

Whilst in America some have hailed Television as the dominating teaching force of the future, others have regarded it as a costly failure. As far as we are concerned the telecasts have been discussed with the authorities but it is far too early to make any public comment, apart from saying that, up to date they resemble the curate's egg.

Music.

In writing the Diamond Jubilee report on Music, I regret if I am a little out in my reckoning. However I am within the third cycle of Gilbert & Sullivan operas and regretfully at the close of Mr. Smith's work with us. I would have little to say on his masterly skill in these productions for it is so well known to us all. Howbeit it is rarely that youngsters of twelve show sufficient talent to take leading parts in Opera, and acquit themselves so well as did Hayden Wright and Timothy Hinchliffe in this year's production of "The Gondoliers." My congratulations to these boys and to Mr. Smith for his skill in bringing out so admirably the best that was in them.

A few weeks ago, when handed the results of the Pianoforte examinations, I had cause to pause and think. The thought ran through my mind—99.9 per cent passes as usual. It was then that I began to realize just how much we take for granted, once we come to know a man and appreciate his capabilities.

Twenty odd years ago Mr. Smith came to us—a mere stripling, one might say—but with that look in his eye which suggested that with Mr. Roy Shepherd's backing and given half a chance no one would ever regret his coming. He looked, and was, every inch a worker. Now, looking back over the tremendous amount he has done, not only for the school but also for the musical world of Geelong and Ballarat, our only regret is that his stay is not considerably longer. In saying Goodbye to him this afternoon we wish him the same measure of success in his wider sphere as he had with us and trust that he will be long spared to continue his splendid work.

Sport

In out door activities the year 1958 has been one of our best for some time and I take this opportunity of thanking those members of staff who, by their interest and industry, have done so much to make it so. Few boys dislike sport. They are so brimful of energy that they welcome the opportunity for a little strenuous exercise, together with the healthy noise that accompanies it at this age.

All Cricket teams had a very successful year and finished the season with considerably more wins than losses. Apart from this, the keenness that marked their play at all times was most commendable.

By a strange coincidence the Football season was an unusually dry one and little or no practice and match time was lost, with the result that steady progress was made by all teams and considerable success resulted from their efforts.

Tennis again received much attention throughout the year and more boys attended the afternoon coaching classes than could be comfortably handled, until we acquired an excellent practice wall, which has been in constant use ever since. This has been a great acquisition and we are full of praise and thanks that a very interested and generous Old Boy of long standing should have given us a free hand in fulfilling a long felt want. Although I have been persuaded to forget his name, his generosity and thoughtfulness shall not share the same fate.

As usual, Swimming occupied much of our time during the better weather of first term. That this time has been very well spent is borne out by the fact that 40 gained their Herald certificates, 39 their Junior certificates and 14 their Senior certificates.

In the Inter House Competitions, Swimming honours were evenly divided between Helicon and Pegasus Houses. Cricket was won by Pegasus House, as was also the Football. Athletics, training time for which was the only one upset by weather conditions, resulted in a win for Pegasus House in the Open meeting, Bellerophon House winning the Standards Competition.

Social Service.

Perhaps the least vocal of our various organizations is the Social Service League. Its very quietness, no doubt, accounts for its marked efficiency. The outward and visible signs of its inward and spiritual grace show that a measure of financial help has been given to many deserving causes including Anti-Cancer Appeal, Russell Mockridge Fund, Red Cross, Save the Children Rice Bowl Appeal and Community Chest. Altogether a sum of one hundred pounds was distributed. As all contributions to this fund must come from the boy's own resources, I feel fully justified in congratulating them on their readiness to help any well deserving cause.

The Years Ahead.

In writing under this heading, what has to be said might well be summed up in the words of Shelley's "Skylark"—"We look before and after and pine for what is not." We are on the threshold of a big expansion move and it is very fitting that we should have with us as our Guest of Honour Sir Francis Rolland, the founder of the Preparatory School, for he himself was on the verge of a similar move when it was suddenly nipped in the bud by the commencement of the Second World War. How devastating this was has been brought home to us by the toil and the sweat and "make do" of the ensuing years.

It is very gratifying to know that, as a result of your splendid and continuous effort in raising and contributing money to the building fund, we shall now be able to commence the construction of a day school in the coming year. How great is the need for it can be gathered from the simple truth that, in the top form alone, there were over forty applicants for places, but unfortunately no vacancies existed.

In view of the fact that, over recent years, few, if any places for new boys have been available, the Council has decided to provide extra accommodation and thus allow a percentage of intake in 1959. We regret that we still had to disappoint a number of hopeful applicants.

So far, so good, but it is of paramount importance that building, once it starts, should continue without interruption until portion, at least, of the boarding school is completed. This is absolutely essential for the orderly functioning of the School, not to mention the preservation of some degree of sanity in those called upon to manage it.

It behoves us therefore to be unsparing in our effort, resting neither day nor night until Rolland House occupies its necessary place on the new site.

Conclusion,

This great scientific age, which has amazed us beyond words, is still the age of little things. The giant of the forest still springs from the tiny seed, the little drops of water still cause the mighty flood, in fact the possible complete and utter destruction of the world depends on the splitting of the minutest particle. Unfortunately, we seem to have lost the art of ruminating on the small things in every day life which things, if put into practice at all times, could well prove to be the contributing factors in the unification of the world instead of its complete disintegration.

Let us consider for a few moments the very simplest of happenings which took place here in our midst, on the week-end of May 10th, and see what we may gather from it.

You good people, anxious to provide more money in order to hasten the building of the new school, held a fair. The contribution of the Social Studies Groups was a pageant—"Children of the Commonwealth"—in which they gave a clear picture of their knowledge of how the other fellow lives and their appreciation of the fact that human beings must not be allowed to suffer starvation simply because they are on the wrong side of a man drawn line. They also showed how they work towards an understanding of the great truth that there can be no privilege without a corresponding responsibility and that, in the final analysis, it is quite obvious that there must be either one world or none.

In our every day living, what is this other than the "Fun of the Fair of May 10th"? People from all walks of life joined together in good fellowship, working happily and spending freely, in an effort to build a school, the chief aim of which is the training of boys who, in God's good time, will go forth to play their part in striving to so live with other people that Peace and Goodwill shall prevail upon the Earth—in short a school the very corner stone of which is the "Great Father of All."

Football

UNDER 13 TEAM

Although it consisted largely of under 12 players, the team had quite a successful season with six wins from the ten matches played. In our annual home and home series with Scotch College we avenged our defeat during the previous season by scoring two convincing victories.

UNDER 12 TEAM

This team is undoubtedly the best combination we have had in recent years. Ably led by J. Paton it won every game in easy fashion. The team was fortunate to have, in Paton and Andrews, two big rucks who were able to dominate the play on many occasions.

UNDER 11 TEAM

With a record of 7 games won from ten played, this team also had a very successful season. It suffered a Toss in the first match against Scotch but in the return match scored a narrow win. Many players showed marked improvement during the season and the good form shown by the team towards the end of the term was a pleasing feature of the season.

UNDER 10 TEAM

Five wins from seven games played was the successful outcome of games played against Bostock, St. Joseph's and Geelong Grammar. Many of the players are comparative newcomers to the game but their enthusiasm made up for their lack of polish.

UNDER 9 TEAM

This team played three games and lost two of them. Most of the players played their first football matches this year and the competition for places in the team was convincing evidence of their keenness.

HOUSE FOOTBALL RESULTS

 Bellerophon 8-8 beat Helicon 2-3.
 Pegasus 8-4 beat Bellerophon 1-7.

ATHLETICS

Standards Competition.

This year inclement weather interfered time and again with our standards and we had finally to content ourselves with one round of events instead of the usual two rounds. In the House Competition Bellerophon scored a narrow win over Pegasus House.

Annual Athletic Sports — Wednesday, 8th October.

In view of the bad weather conditions prior to our sports we did not expect a high standard of achievement at our annual meeting. However, we were favoured by ideal weather and track conditions and three records were broken and two were equalled. This year we began the meeting with an inter-house marching competition which was won by Pegasus House with Helicon House a very close second.

KINDERGARTEN NOTES.

Our Christmas Party on December 8th brought our school year to its real conclusion and once again we are indebted to the many parents who went to so much trouble to make our day such a successful one.

This year Mrs. Ramsay Cook kindly came along to speak to the boys and to present the books given to each of them. It is always a pleasure to note the friendly atmosphere that the parents bring to our functions and we would especially like to thank the committee for all their work during the year.

As this is the last year in the Kindergarten for 20 of the boys we pass on a special wish to them for a bright and successful future in the school years ahead.

After two very disappointing attempts to hold our Sports Day we eventually found that third time was lucky and were able to complete our meeting without further bother.

The highlight of the school year for Form I boys was their visit to the railway yards where, with the kind assistance of several of the men, they were able to explore the trains and behind the scene activities connected with them. Our thanks go to Mr. Davey who arranged this visit for us.

For the younger ones, their picnic to the beach was a most successful event and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

ASSOCIATION ANNALS.

OLD BOYS' DAY.

A departure from the custom of recent years was tried at this year's Old Boys Day on July 26, when the Dinner was held at Sladen House near the Barwon River instead of the College Dining Hall. Following the victory of the 1st XVIII over Wesley and the Annual Meeting, a large number of Old Boys found their way to the new venue in heavy rain, and then enjoyed a very cheerful reunion.

One of the features of the Dinner was the attendance for the first time of representatives of the old boys' associations of the new public schools; and it was appropriate that one of them, Mr. A. Wilcox of Carey Grammar, should respond to the toast of the guests.

It was very unfortunate that the principal guest, Dr. J. R. Darling of Geelong Grammar School, was unable to attend owing to illness. Dr. Buntine ably interpreted Dr. Darling's notes which he had received only a few hours before the Dinner, and gave an address on the expansion of the Victorian Public Schools Association. As Dr. Buntine filled this role, the toast of Geelong College was responded to by Mr. B. R. Keith. In proposing this toast, Mr. C. L. Hirst spoke of the College which he remembered and it was obvious that many a happy memory was recalled in the minds of the audience.

Meeting.

Almost 100 Old Boys attended the Annual Meeting in the Morrison Hall. The President, Mr. J. A. Taylor presented his report, which made particular reference to the writing of the History of Geelong College by Mr. Claude Notman. An appeal was made for photographs and reminiscences (which could be used in this work). The financial statements showed that the Association's funds had reached 110,000 for the first time.

There was some spirited discussion on the transfer of the Dinner from the Dining Hall, and it was finally resolved to treat the move as an experiment to be reviewed at the next Annual Meeting.

GIPPSLAND REUNION.

Almost forty Old Collegians enjoyed the Gippsland Reunion held at the Criterion Hotel, Sale, on October 17. Years of leaving from 1905 to 1957 were represented.

Branch President, J. ("SANDY") McDOUGALL ('46) welcomed the guests, who included the Vice-Principal of the College, Mr. D. D. Davey, Mr. E. B. Lester, and Messrs. J. A. Taylor and K. S. Nail, representing the Association. Other schools were also represented. The President of the Association, Mr. John Taylor, gave the principal address in response to the toast of the College proposed by G. N. WEBSTER ('30). GEOFF. BLAKE ('47) proposed the toast to the other Public Schools.

IVKalee and S.W. Riverina Branch.

On September 12, Old Boys in the Mallee and South West Riverina area attended a successful reunion at Mildura. It was decided at this function to form a Branch, with the following office-bearers:—President, D. W. Mackay ('44); Secretary, R. Jeffreys ('48); Committee, L. H. Ramsay ('51), G. Harding ('41) and R. Wagstaff ('46).

Other Old Boys there were A. S. Douglas ('55), T. M. Douglas ('42), D. Harding ('44), A. T. Howells ('39), M. J. Israel ('51), W. Johns ('41), N. J. Kirwin ('52), W. G. Mackay ('48), I. R. Mackay ('49), K. D. Mackay ('55), W. E. Macmillan ('17), D. R. Macmillan ('46), I. H. Ramsay ('49), F. B. Rogers ('46), J. K. Spalding ('13), K. A. Rix ('53), and I. A. Kneebone ('50).

Mr. D. D. Davey attended from the College.

GOULBURN VALLEY BRANCH.

Eric Baird was re-elected President of the Branch at a Reunion held at the Victoria Hotel, Shepparton, on Saturday, November 15. Messrs. G. Logie Smith, J. H. Campbell, D. R. Macmillan and B. R. Keith attended from the College.

There were over 70 present, including guests from other Public Schools.

G. G. Pullar is still the branch secretary and J. L. Gerrard the treasurer.

SYDNEY REUNION.

Sir John Northcott and Mr. J. McDougall (a newspaper columnist) were the guest speakers at the Sydney branch reunion on May 30. Twenty five enjoyed a cheerful dinner at the Australia Hotel.

D. M. Kennedy was elected President, L. Reid and G. Roope being re-elected Vice-President and Secretary respectively.

1959 BALL.

An Old Collegians' Ball is to be held at 9 Darling Street, Melbourne, on Friday, July 10, 1959.

An active social committee is organising a cabaret ball which, it is hoped, will attract the support of a very large number of Old Boys.

If the support is as great as the committee expects, it will be necessary for you to book a table very soon. This may be done by contacting G. W. Ewan ('Phone WL4762), S. K. Pearson (MU4184), E. K. Doery (XM 1136) or J. G. Mitchelhill (JX2842). Written bookings should be addressed to G. W. Ewan at 1, The Nook, North Balwyn.

It is the Association's intention to continue to conduct a Boat Race Ball in Geelong, probably on less formal lines than previously.

SIR FRANK ROLLAND PORTRAIT.

Believing that many of his friends would wish Sir Frank Rolland to be honoured by having his portrait hung in the Assembly Hall, Collins Street, the College Council initiated an appeal to this end. Interpreting the wishes of all Old Boys, the Association Committee supported this appeal.

William Dargie's outstanding portrait of Sir Frank has since been presented to the Presbyterian Church at a delightful function, at which Sir Frank made an inimitable speech. He said that those who had always hoped that he would finally be hung were now to be satisfied.

LIFE MEMBERS.

The following Old Collegians have become Life Members since the last issue of the "Pegasus":—

S. S. Dow (1940), J. C. Wylie ('55), J. de F. Brown, J. E. Kriegal ('56), P. E. Bowen, R. W. Flavel, W. A. Gibson, D. R. Messenger, C. R. McKenzie, D. B. Ramage, G. E. F. Sides, f. Simpson, D. L. Taylor ('57).

OLD P.S. BOYS TENNIS.

The Committee has received a notice of a General Meeting of the Old Grammarians and Public Schools' Tennis Association, inviting the the Association to enter a team.

Already ten schools are represented and the organisation hopes ultimately to have all the eighteen eligible schools as members.

If any Melbourne Old Boys are interested, they could refer to the Hon. Secretary for more information, or directly to the Tennis Association Hon. Organiser and Secretary, Mr. John L. Hill, 44 Flinders Street, Melbourne (MF0211).

OBITUARY.

Dr. JAMES M. BAXTER, entered Geelong College 1893.

JAMES FRANCIS GUTHRIE, 1881.

Dr. KENNETH GOODALL HEARNE, 1900.

ROY LAMBLE, 1897.

EDWARD RUSSELL MOCKRIDGE, 1933.

WILLIAM MOY ROBERTSON, 1895.

JOHN A. TREBILCOCK, 1890.

DONALD McCRAE KENNEDY, 1920.

Dr. Baxter died in Melbourne on February 14. He became a member of the Association Committee in 1911, a Vice-President in 1912 and 1913, and President in 1914 and 1915.

Senator J. F. Guthrie, one of the world's greatest authorities on sheep and wool, died at Moorabool at the age of 86. He joined Dalgety & Co. Ltd. in 1891, and later became its general manager and head wool expert. He established a famous Corriedale stud near Wagga, and owned three other studs. Mr. Guthrie was elected to the Senate in 1919, and between 1936 and 1945, he was the Federal Government's representative on the Australian Wool Board. Senator Guthrie was awarded the C.B.E. in 1946.

Dr. K. G. Hearne was 76 when he died earlier this year. After completing his education at Geelong College, he travelled overseas and graduated as M.B., Ch.B. at Edinburgh University in 1911. He later gained his M.D. degree. During the First World War, Dr. Hearne served with the Royal Australian Medical Corps, and participated in the Gallipoli and Mesopotamia campaigns. Returning to Sydney, he entered into a medical practice in which he remained until 1953, and spent much time working for the Red Cross Society and Boy Scout Movement.

Roy Lamble was properly described in the year he retired from the College as a "lifelong Collegian." He entered the school in 1897, was Dux in 1900, and a master from 1903 to 1947 except for the war years. For his service as a Brigade-Major in the First World War, he was awarded the Alilitary Cross. His interest in military affairs was applied at the College to his leadership of the Cadet Corps. After retiring, Mr. Lamble assisted the Brotherhood of St. Laurence at Carrum Downs, but still found time to make regular appearances at College functions.

Russell Mockridge gained world fame and popularity as a cyclist. Taking the highest qualities into that sport, he was an idol of the public; and it was thus a cause for international mourning when he was tragically killed in an accident while setting off in this year's "Tour of Gippsland." Russell won two gold medals at the Helsinki Olympic Games, and had many splendid records to his credit. At the time of his death, he was enjoying a very successful season. Before taking up cycling as a profession, Russell had worked with the "Geelong Advertiser" as a journalist, and for a time had studied to join the ministry. He brought great honour to his school and country by displaying Christian qualities in international sport.

William Moy Robertson, who died at Roma, Queensland, on 19th December 1957, was a member of the 1st XI and 1st XVIII, and winner of the College Cup in 1898. He was a member of the Association Committee from 1914 to 1919.

TRIAL BY JURY.

One could scarcely believe that it would have been possible to induce the cast of the Glee Club's first opera to appear together again in 1958. This was done, however, and the result was astonishingly good. The old-timers' voices were still sound, their stagecraft undiminished, and their boldness enhanced.

As well as the principals (whose names appear elsewhere), the following Old Boys took part in the choruses:—Don. Macmillan ('46), Jim Ferguson ('41), John Buntine ('53), Bob. Buntine ('47), Brian Thorn ('53) Ken. Fagg ('51), Alistair Hope ('49), Graham Wood ('55), Sandy Kelso ('43), Brian Roydhouse ('41), Gordon Young ('51), F. Bellis ('56), John Fidge ('57), Harry Michael ('43), Barry Harding ('52), Don Roydhouse ('41), Barry Hirst ('57), Bob. Waterhouse ('44), and Stuart Mockridge ('52). Pianst was Alan Feddersen ('38).
