THE PEGASUS

The interest in looking back over the achievements of one hundred years at the time of the Centenary, and the additional interest in the publication of the Centenary History have led Collegians to a greater awareness of the importance which history plays in their lives, and they have become equally aware of the need to maintain adequate records as a vital part of their service to the future.

The very possibility of the recently published History was due mainly to several outstanding records: the presence of the 1911 History which had been assembled by men who knew the College and collegians right back to 1861; "The Pegasus" which was instituted in 1909; the minutes of the Old Geelong Collegians' Association since its foundation in 1901; the collection of many valuable photographs, programmes and other material items. This is of course not to mention the invaluable memories of many old collegians; the editors and compilers themselves having had intimate connections with the School for the last fifty years. Unfortunately, even now, there are still many things, especially in the first twenty years, that will never be known because no records have been kept. Many still may ask, "What is the use of looking back to the past?" and "Is it really worth keeping records at all?" The importance of the past can be seen when one looks at it as being responsible and thus explaining the present and possibly even more important as giving us a guide for the future. Surely in this light records must prove most valuable. Our past is responsible for our very existence.

It is vital that a definite decision be made as to what is important and how its accuracy can be maintained; and when these decisions are made, where such information should be kept. It is quite obvious that in its capacity as chronicler "The Pegasus" has a vital part to play. As the real stuff of history is after all made of trends, attitudes, thoughts, influences, and influential humans and "The Pegasus" is very often the only indication of these things which will survive for future generations, it is most important to accept the challenge which this presents. And the challenge is of course thrown down at the feet of the present school community. Our activities have, first of all, to be worthwhile reporting and our standard of reporting (which is done by the boys themselves) has to be high. The School will very often be judged by the standard of the magazine. Quality, therefore rather than quantity is what is required; we must not allow the magazine to become a mass of trivia. "The Pegasus" then must stand on its dignity and always attempt to present a high standard of thought and accuracy. In fifty years its tone may be taken as the Geelong College tone. Let us be careful to give a serious account of ourselves, lest others think we were all a shallow lot.

SPEECH DAY, 1961

Speech Day was held on Thursday, 7th December. The Moderator of the General Assembly of The Presbyterian Church of Victoria, The Right Reverend G. A. Wood, was in the chair. The prizes were presented by The Chairman of The College Council, Sir Arthur Coles, and The President of The Old Collegians' Association, Mr. H. C. Fallaw.

Two special presentations were made during the proceedings. A portrait of Sir Arthur Coles, painted by William Dargie, was presented to The College by the Moderator, on behalf of The College Council, in recognition of the service of Sir Arthur as Chairman of the Council for the past twenty-two years.

A copy of "The Geelong College 1861-1961" was presented to Mr. B. R. Keith, in appreciation of his work as its editor.

PRINCIPALS REPORT

Moderator, Sir Arthur, Mr. Fallaw, Ladies and Gentlemen:

This is the year in which The Geelong College has set out upon the adventure of the second century of its history. It is, therefore, an especial honour and an unusual responsibility to be called upon to present this Annual Report, for this, in a sense, is the first of a new series. It is curious how, having been endowed by our Creator with ten fingers, we attach such great significance to 100 years. Perhaps this is a further indication of the depth of divine wisdom, for as it turns out, a century seems a very satisfactory unit of history, long enough to allow for significant social change, but yet short enough to be spanned by intimate personal memory. It seems to me, Sir, that one of the most important consequences of this Centenary Year has been an increased awareness of our remarkable heritage as a College, and of the greatness, not only of the ideals, but of the men by whom this heritage was created.

The College, from time to time, has done honour to such men, sometimes merely by verbal comment at the time of their passing out from our community, sometimes by noting their contributions in our official Histories, (as has just been done so admirably in our Centenary publication), sometimes by erecting plaques or memorials, or by planting trees in their honour (as we have done at the Preparatory School this year), sometimes by naming buildings or Houses after them, and in a few special cases, by hanging their portraits in the Morrison Hall. It is fitting, in this Centenary Year, that We should do honour in this way to the man who has guided the Council as its Chairman for the past twenty-two years, and has been a most generous benefactor to the College, not simply in material ways, however lavish this has been, but also by the willing devotion of a great deal of time and energy to our welfare, Sir Arthur Coles. I think it would not be inappropriate to remind ourselves, also, of the charming and gracious part which Lady Coles has played through all these years, and in all these undertakings. Their latest act of kindness was in giving to all the Council and Teaching Staff and their husbands and wives, a most delightful Centenary Dinner. Such acts are of immeasurable value in encouraging the happy personal relationships which exist throughout the life of the College. The portrait has arrived this very morning from the artist, William Dargie, but unfortunately it is still wet, and must be kept indoors. At the conclusion of this Report, however, the portrait will be formally handed over to the College in tribute to you, Sir, by our Chairman for today, the Moderator of the Presbyterian Church of Victoria, the Right Rev. G. A. Wood, B.A.

It was because we wished to do honour, not only to one, but to two of our own community, that the Council agreed that no other distinguished visitor should be invited to this Speech Day. It is surely sufficient that, in addition to our Council Chairman, another faithful Old Collegian, who has served this College actively and vigorously in many ways, on the Council for the last eleven years, in connection with our two recent Appeals, which have made possible the new Preparatory School, as chairman of the Committee organising the Centenary celebrations, on the Old Collegians' Committee, and as father of four boys who have followed him here—it is surely sufficient that he, also, can be with us today in his capacity as our State Moderator. He has been honoured by the Church in being called to this high office, and thereby has brought honour to the College. We have added our tribute in asking him to be our Chairman today and presently to present the portrait of Sir Arthur to the College.

Before he presents the Prizes, Sir Arthur has been asked by the Council to make one other presentation in recognition of one of the highlights of the Centenary, but about this he will, no doubt, speak himself.

As I indicated last year, I do not regard it as my function to record in detail in this Report all the happenings of the school year. Indeed, in a year as full as this one, it would require a whole book, and, in fact, a special edition of "Pegasus" has been published for this purpose. There are, however, a number of significant developments which need some comment.

But first, let it be said that, despite the many extra activities and preoccupations connected with the Centenary, and despite the considerable time and energy involved in the planning and implementing of the various developments to which I am about to refer, nevertheless, as far as I can judge, the standard of academic work, the range of general activities and the performance of the College in sport this year have been at least as good as ever before. The Cadet camp, the Exploration Society trip to the Beltana area, where a memorial plaque was erected, the joint play with "Morongo," the House Music and other musical performances, the P.F.A., the work of the House of Guilds, the "Pegasus", the new literary venture, "Icarus", the Debating, the new Railways Club, the Bird-watchers', and so on, have again given evidence of a vigorous community life. And in the realm of sport, although we were unfortunate in the final of the Head of the River, it is a tribute to the continued consistent standard of the Rowing that every crew reached the finals. And this year, in addition, we went very near to winning the Cricket. What is really perhaps more important, we have this year given an opportunity for an even larger number of boys to enjoy and to improve their sporting talents. In particular, this was so in the Athletics, where we seem to have had a much better season. I suppose it is a sign of our maturity as a school that we almost take for granted the regular round of events which play so important a part in the development of each boy's personality.

Superimposed upon this standard pattern has been the programme of Centenary celebrations, in which many of you have taken part; and also, not so prominently, a number of alterations in the organisation of the College. It is about these I now wish to speak.

Although still in their infancy, the new Day-boy Houses have begun to prove their value. The Housemasters, with no new facilities to help them, have worked hard to make the system a success, and I am sure many parents would bear witness to the help they have received. It will be some years before the scheme is fully in operation, for the essence of it is the continuity which it can provide in each boy's development; at least the framework on which to build is now in existence. Moreover, I think it has already begun to have some effect in the overall standard of behaviour and morale, for at least we are now able to discover more quickly which boys can be relied upon to do their best, and which need continual encouragement. There will be one change only for next year. Mr. Profit is to retire from the Housemastership of McArthur House, which, believe it or not, he has held for thirty-seven years.

He will be replaced as Housemaster by Mr. Mahar, but will continue to be our Sports Secretary.

Likewise, the new arrangements for Warrinn, completely separated from Senior House, have flourished under the wise guidance of Mr. Bickford, and are now working as well as they can ever be expected to work until the happy day when we can provide completely new quarters for this our third senior school boarding house.

In my view, two major problems in our boarding house arrangements still remain. One is the lack of quarters in the Houses for married Housemasters. Until this can be solved, we cannot again achieve the continuity of control which is so essential to the whole welfare of a boarding house, and hence to the Welfare of the whole school. We have had an example of this during this year. We were all delighted to congratulate Mr. Robertson, the Housemaster of Senior House, upon his marriage to the daughter of one of the Council, and to welcome his wife into the College community. But this has meant that he must live outside the school, in a house which was bought for the purpose in Prospect Road, near the main College gates. This is not a satisfactory arrangement for a Housemaster, and he has quite understandably, for this and other reasons, asked to be relieved of his Housemastership. He has fortunately agreed to continue for the beginning of 1962, until I have had time to make some other suitable arrangement.

The other serious shortcoming of the boarding house system seems to me to arise from the fact that it is arranged in whole year-groups, and each boy must pass from House to House as he moves up the School, so that no Housemaster has an opportunity to watch a boy's development throughout his complete school career. Moreover, this system means that all the senior boarders, at Vth and VIth Form level, are placed together in one House, with no responsibility for any of the younger boys. Nothing seems more calculated to encourage an irresponsible attitude, and the problems created for the Housemaster of Senior House seem to be almost insurmountable.

For this reason, it is my intention to rearrange things so that we have, eventually, three "vertical", instead of three "horizontal" houses. But it is obviously impossible to do this until the material conditions of the three houses are comparable, that is, until Warrinn is replaced. In the meantime, Mackie and Senior will be reorganised, whilst Warrinn remains as a "horizontal" cross-section, much as at present. This will involve a change in the name "Senior", but not, perhaps, for a year or so yet. As a start, some of next year's Fifth Form boys will be placed in Mackie, and some Third Form boys in Senior.

Before any major building can be undertaken at the Senior School, the Preparatory School must be brought to a more complete stage. We are hoping that we will be able to open for use on February 14th next the north-west wing at present under construction. This will contain two music practice rooms, a large studio upstairs for Art, Craft and General Science, and an Assembly Hall to seat 300. This Hall is to be known as the "Sir Horace Robertson Memorial Hall", in memory of one of our most distinguished Old Collegians who was for many years a member of the College Council, and from whose estate we have recently received a generous bequest.

The Council also approved, at its meeting last month, the building of a further section of the Preparatory School, at the south end of the present block, to contain a dining room and servery for the boarders, and changing rooms for sport. It is intended that all cooking should continue to be done in the Senior School kitchens, which are being re-equipped for the purpose, and that the meals should be transported to the Preparatory School in insulated containers. When this building programme is complete, we hope by the beginning of second term, all the immediately available funds from the Centenary Appeal will have been spent, so that there is likely to be a delay of some years before the boarding house at the Preparatory School can be completed. However, we have an alternative which I shall explain later. Along with the building activity, great strides have been made in the preparation of the ovals and grounds, including the planting and care of a large number of trees by the boys themselves, under the competent supervision of Mr. Denis Mainwood. Our greatest need now is for tennis courts.

The additional space released by the new wing will allow us to accommodate three Second Forms at the Preparatory School next year. There will be a fourth Second Form at the Senior School, for the older boys at this level. This will allow the Preparatory School to grow to its full and permanent strength of about 300, though it is possible we may have some unfilled places for a year or two in some of the lower grades. We anticipate, however, that the rapid growth of Geelong, due to the tremendous capital expenditure on secondary industries here in the next few years, will quickly increase the pressure for entry, making it essential, as I warned last year, that all day-boys should enter at primary level. The total enrolment for the whole school this year has been 743, an increase of 10 on 1960. A further increase for 1962 is anticipated.

At the Senior School, apart from a vigorous maintenance programme, the only structural alterations have been in the considerable improvement of the Staff Common Room. However, the Council has been fortunate to make two purchases of new property, under very favourable conditions. Through the generosity of Mr. W. G. Stinton, a loyal Old Collegian, the College has been able to acquire, for a fraction of their value, two blocks of land, and two useful buildings, which were formerly a part of the Stinton's Nursery in Stinton Avenue, a few hundred yards down the hill from Warrinn. One of the buildings has already become the College's maintenance workshops, and the other will be in part a store and in part headquarters for the work in Agricultural Science and other outdoor activities. The land will be used for experimental plots.

The other purchase is that of "Mossgiel", a large house of about seventy-five squares, in first-class condition, set in a beautiful garden of almost an acre, and situated in Noble Street, directly opposite the Mackie Oval. The College is greatly indebted to Mr. J. M. Carson, who has lived there for many years with his family, for his kindness in giving us first option of purchase, at a cost well within the limit he might have hoped to obtain in the open market. We have been promised possession in April.

Because of the probable delay in the building of the boarding house at the Preparatory School, it is proposed to move Rolland House to "Mossgiel" in May. With a few comparatively minor alterations, we are confident that we can accommodate there the whole forty-four boys and staff, in much more satisfactory surroundings than their present rather limited area. If, by then, the dining hall at the Preparatory School is built, the amount of daily bus travel can be halved.

The departure of Rolland House from the main school building will make possible a re-organisation of Senior House, the Library and the administrative offices, and an increase in the total number of boarders. Planning for this is well advanced, and some work will be carried out during the forthcoming holidays. This will help to give Senior House conditions comparable with those at Mackie, and will also, I hope, provide a study for the use of Day Housemasters.

This long recital of building developments and their consequences should at least help to make clear how very closely the organisation and administration of a school of this size are related to its physical facilities. Many of the needs of a first-class modern education which we would like to meet, cannot be dealt with until we have created the right physical environment for them. But this is only half the picture. The other factor, of at least equal importance, is that of finding and keeping the men to meet these needs.

I think we are making good, if slow, progress in the matter of staffing. It is true that I have not yet been able to find replacements for either Mr. Henderson or Mr. J. H. Campbell, who have both passed retiring age, but fortunately for us they are both still willing and able to carry on. Apart from this, however, we are already fully and well staffed for next year at the Senior School, and have almost completed our requirements at the Preparatory School. Our needs there have arisen partly as replacements, partly because of three extra forms, but also because the Council has decided, on medical advice, that Mr. L. J. Campbell, despite a remarkable recovery from his serious illness a year ago, should be granted leave for the whole of next year, at the end of which he reaches normal retiring age. He will retain his position as Headmaster of the Preparatory School whilst on leave during 1962, and Mr. Watson will be Acting-Headmaster. We all hope that Mr. Campbell will be with us at the College from time to time, and it would be inappropriate to speak now of his long and faithful service. Let us, at this stage, simply wish him a happy year of leave, restful enough to allow for a continued steady improvement in his health, and yet active enough to bring him the enjoyment that only the sort of busy life he has always led can provide.

Two others who have served the College long and faithfully, retire this year. They are Miss Fraser, who has been Matron in the Junior, now Rolland, House since 1936, and Miss Whale, who has been Matron in Senior House since 1948. It is impossible to over-rate the influence of such steady and devoted service upon the hundreds of boys who have passed through these boarding houses in their time. We will be fortunate, indeed, if we always have matrons of the quality of these two to carry on this essential task. We wish them both a long and happy retirement, a well-earned rest after many years of unselfish and demanding work. Mrs. Faulkner, the widow of the Rev. W. R. Faulkner, will take over in Senior House, and Miss Grenfell will carry on alone, for the time being, in Rolland House. I am sorry to have to report that we are also losing the services of Miss Nancy Bonney, who has been on the music staff for eighteen years, and has had a great influence on many a young pianist, particularly at the Preparatory School. We wish her well in all her new ventures.

There is one other staff change made during the year which I feel requires a special mention. As you no doubt remember, about the time when I first arrived, our Bursar, Mr. G. J. Martin, was recovering from a brief illness, which, though perhaps not serious, was a warning that he could not continue indefinitely to carry the full burden of the work he had undertaken for many years. I must confess, also, that I soon found more to be done than seemed possible in a twenty-four hour day. To help us both, the Council agreed to the appointment of a non-academic Administrative Assistant. The position was widely advertised, and finally Mr. Bruce Jamieson was appointed. Mr. Jamieson is a trained accountant, an elder of the Presbyterian Church, and a man of wide experience in office procedures. We welcome him, and his family, to the College.

His advent could not have been at a more fortunate time. For the Council has recently undertaken a thoroughgoing examination of all the accounting and office procedures here, with three specific objectives—firstly, to see that there are no wasteful or uneconomic methods being used, secondly to introduce an adequate system of budgeting, and budget control, and thirdly, to ensure a more rapid payment of fees. As a result of these investigations, you will find that a number of changes are to be made as from 1st January next, two of which I think deserve some comment.

In the past, one of the major tasks which the office has had to undertake is the sorting out of tradesmen's accounts for items bought by boarders and charged to the College, so that these could, in turn, be listed as disbursements on each boy's terminal account. This was not only a lengthy process, raising office costs and seriously delaying the sending of the fee accounts but, because of the period between payment by the College and reimbursement by the parent, involved a considerable increase in the College working overdraft. To avoid all this, and, it is hoped, to provide a better service all round, the Council has now requested Bright and Hitchcocks, Ltd., to operate here the same service as they have been giving successfully for some years at Geelong Grammar School, whereby they take over the Tuck-shop and attach to it a General College Shop, through which can be supplied every type of goods or service required for boarders. House-masters will continue to control all purchases by the issue of orders, but these will be given only for purchases at Brights, or at one of the firms with whom Brights have made arrangements for the particular item. If parents wish their sons to make purchases elsewhere, this can only be done by private arrangement, and with the written approval of the parent, and such private purchases can no longer be charged on the College account. Brights will do all their own accounting, and an account for all items will be sent by them direct to parents, once a term. It is not anticipated that any inconvenience will be caused by the new scheme; indeed, the availability of the shop and the Bright's representative at the College should greatly simplify such shopping as is essential. It is intended, moreover, to improve the facilities at the Tuck-shop itself, a development which is well overdue. Our one regret is that the new arrangements mean that we must sever connections with several firms who have served the College well for many years.

The other change to which attention needs to be drawn relates to the matter of overdue fees. For some time now, the Council has been carrying a very considerable burden of unpaid fees, some of them dating back two or three terms. The College must not only pay overdraft interest on this sum, but is prevented from spending a like sum in urgent capital development, because these debts permanently increase the authorised overdraft to its limit. The Council has decided to tighten up considerably the policy in this regard, and, as a last resort, to refuse readmission to any boy whose fees are still outstanding at the beginning of the following term. This does not mean, of course, that the Council will not consider special cases, but any such special arrangement must have the Council's approval in advance.

All this is relevant to the difficult problem of the level of fees. The Council hopes that it will not be necessary to increase fees for the beginning of 1962. There will undoubtedly be a rise in costs in some areas of the school economy, but it is hoped that the increase in numbers, together with improved control and efficiency, may offset such rises. There is, however, one possibility which will make a fee adjustment inevitable. There is at present before the Teachers' Tribunal a claim for considerable increases in teachers' salaries. As staff salaries are the largest single item in the College budget, any change here must be offset by a comparable fee change. When, if at all, and how much this will be, is not yet known.

Until our material and staffing needs have been put in order, it is difficult to make many changes in our academic structure. The Senior School is now stabilised on a graded four-stream basis with courses at each level chosen to suit the ability of the group. We will next year introduce Agricultural Science as an alternative to General Science for the C and D streams at Third Form level, and we are adding Social Studies to the subjects available for matriculation. One of our greatest needs now is to build up the numbers taking matriculation, and, in particular, the numbers having a second year of matriculation studies, so that we can have at least two classes at this level, one working to a more advanced standard. Much thought is being given these days to the problem of the absurdly high failure rate in University first year studies. I am quite convinced that one of the major causes is the tendency for many boys to move on to University as soon as they have a minimum matriculation pass, when they clearly need both greater maturity and stronger academic foundations.

Perhaps, at this point, it would be appropriate to note three other matters of academic interest to Geelong. In August, Dr. J. R. Darling retired after thirty-two years as Headmaster of Geelong Grammar School, our nearest Public School neighbour and our old rival on the sports field. He has been a good friend to three Headmasters of the College, and a remarkable influence in Australian education generally. I am sure you would be glad to join me in wishing him many years of happy retirement, if his new responsibilities can be called that. No doubt because both schools have a large proportion of boarders, and both have close links with the Western District and with non-metropolitan life in general, these two great schools seem to me to have far more in common with one another than with any of the Melbourne schools. I hope that they can continue to grow in mutual co-operation and respect in the years to come. We have already enjoyed an opportunity to welcome their new Headmaster, Mr. T. R. Garnett, to the College, and we wish him and his family many years of happiness in Australia.

A few days ago, the completion of the first buildings of the Marcus Oldham Agricultural College was marked by the unveiling of a memorial tablet. This is a new experiment in independent education in which the College should take a great interest, for it may well serve, in the future, to complete the training of many boys who have passed through this College. I understand that we are shortly to be represented on their Council.

It is perhaps premature to say much of the third academic event. I wish simply to record that the Victorian Government Tertiary Education Committee recently spent a whole day in Geelong examining the case for the establishment of at least part of a Third University in this area, and to let you know that this College is already represented upon the local committee concerned with this possibility.

To return to more domestic matters, this Report would be incomplete without an acknowledgement of the support and encouragement which is received year by year from so many different sources. The Sir Horace Robertson Bequest has already been mentioned; in addition, we have had a gift of a Tape Recorder from Sir Arthur Coles, a Medicine Chest for the Preparatory School from Mr. M. W. Malkin, a Rotary Cultivator from Mr. A. Austin Gray, an anonymous cheque for £50 for the Preparatory School grounds, a promise of some form of memorial to our Founder, the Rev. A. J. Campbell, from his great-grandson, Mr. J. F. M. Campbell, and a whole library of valuable History books from Mr. J. H. Campbell, not to mention innumerable other gifts of Library books, trees, historic documents and so on. The total contributions to the Centenary Appeal actually collected this year amount to £28,705.

But it would be quite wrong to suggest that the support and assistance that the College receives year by year is, or needs to be, purely material. It is no doubt a mark of any great undertaking that it attracts the loyal and active interest, and the willing service, of all who are associated with it. Particularly in this Centenary Year have we been conscious of the tremendous contribution made to the life of the College by Old Collegians, both individually and through their Association, and by the various parents' groups. Year by year, Old Collegians, bring honour to the College by the part they play in the life of the community. To take one instance, since we are about to have an election, there are now four Old Collegians playing an active part in State Parliament: The Hon. Sir Gordon McArthur, Mr. J. M. Balfour, Mr. R. M. Gillett, and now Mr. H. W. Birrell.

This kind of indirect contribution to the welfare of the College goes on all the time. But it was the more direct service of those helping the College, Old Collegians and parents, in its Centenary and other activities to which I wished to draw attention at this point. It is hoped that next year we may be able to build up a more definite Parents' and Friends' organisation, so that the good work they have already done may be continued and developed.

The final responsibility for the welfare of the College, of course, rests with the Council. There has been only one change in membership this year; Mr. A. W. Dennis, of Warncoort, resigned in February, after sixteen years of service, and was replaced by his cousin, Mr. R. C. Dennis, of Birregurra. The Council has, in my opinion, worked very hard, not simply meeting monthly, but providing also two committees, one on Building and one on Finance, each of which have also met monthly. Much of the development described earlier in this report has been made possible only by the Council's willingness and, indeed, determination, to press on with the task entrusted to them. The College is fortunate at this important period of its history to have such able and diligent leadership.

But the Council members themselves would be the first to acknowledge that the welfare of the College is not only in their hands. The greatness of this College has always depended, and always will depend, upon the quality of its staff. I am sure that you are as well aware as I am that very little of what has been achieved this year, or any year, could have been of first-class quality but for the willingness of the men and women who make up the teaching, administrative, domestic, maintenance and ground staffs to do more, sometimes a lot more, for the College than could be regarded as within the strict bounds of their duties. And many of the boys could be added to this list. We have had first-class leadership from Guy Gregg, the Captain of School, and from many others at all levels of the School.

It is well to consider, before this Report is brought to a close, wherein lies the source of this spirit of service, this loyalty, this confidence in the importance of the College and its ideals, for these could hardly be regarded as characteristic of the community in general. Does it lie simply in tradition? I hope not, for unless it is continually nurtured by new enthusiasms, the value of tradition quickly fades. Is it merely enlightened self-interest? Perhaps for some, but surely the essence of service is that it goes far beyond self-interest. Are we largely influenced by an appreciation of our good material endowments in buildings and grounds? No doubt this helps, but I have never known material well-being to be a source of power. Surely the lesson we have learnt this year from our review of the past is that the source of all our strength lies in the influence and example of those amongst us who have retained their faith, sometimes conscious, often hardly recognised, but nevertheless deep-rooted, the faith they have learnt from their Christian forebears, through which we, with them, perceive that it is the things of the mind and spirit and character which really matter. It seems to me that it is of vital importance that this faith should be passed on from generation to generation. And to do this, the College must always provide at least three things: firstly, a knowledge of the Christian heritage, which we try to give through regular class teaching; secondly, all opportunity for worship and meditation; in this we are limited by the overcrowded and unattractive conditions in the Morrison Hall, and the lack of any other space to be set aside for religious exercises; and thirdly, an awareness of and participation in the life and work of the Church as it goes out into the community. We need to be continually reminded that it is only within and through the Holy Catholic Church that we can work effectively for the salvation of mankind. It was with this in mind that an application was made recently to the Presbytery of Geelong for permission to transfer the worship of the College boarders on Sundays from St. George's to St. David's. For it seems to me that by such a change, bringing the parish Church with which we are associated so much nearer to us, visibly present even as we play our football or move from class to class, we will make easier an awareness of our link with the wider Church, and open up new opportunities for worship and service. This is important to the preservation of our faith, through which alone we can face with courage the uncertainties and problems of the future. For, in the words of St. Paul, "faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen".

*EXTRACTS FROM A TRIBUTE TO THE LATE LIEUT. GENERAL
SIR HORACE ROBERTSON*

paid by Brigadier J. D. Rogers at the opening of "The Sir Horace Robertson Memorial Hall" at the Preparatory School, on 14th February, 1962.

Sir Arthur, Moderator, Reverend Gray Robertson, Headmaster, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is indeed a signal honour that I should be asked today to pay a tribute to a great Australian and a very old friend.

This is the story of a boy whom I might perhaps describe as a boy of average worth and ability, who became in his lifetime one of the greatest and most picturesque figures in Australia's history, and one 'who became well and affectionately known throughout the whole of the A.I.F. as "Red Robbie."

After graduation (from the Royal Military College at Duntroon) in 1914, Horace Robertson went straight into the Army to Palestine and the Jordan Valley.

During the second World War, as a Brigadier, Robertson commanded the 19th Brigade during the capture of Bardia and Tobruk and had many high commands later in the war as a Major General, including the command of the first Cavalry Division, and at various times Commander of the 2nd Division, the 3rd Division, the 5th Division, the 6th Division and G.O.C. Western Command.

At the end of the war he was promoted Lieut. General, as Commander of the First Australian Army, and a few months later became G.O.C. Southern Command. In 1946 he was appointed by the British Government as Commander in Chief of the British Commonwealth Force, with Headquarters in Japan, and for portion of that time commanded the Commonwealth Forces in the Korean fighting.

He took part in many civic activities. I will refer here only to three of them in which I saw the result of his work—the College Council, as President of the Royal Commonwealth Society, and a Committee man of the Metropolitan Golf Club. In these and many other interests he always brought a clear mind and resolute action to bear on all deliberations.

In the first war he was awarded the D.S.O., the Order of the Nile, and was several times mentioned in despatches. In the second World War he was awarded the C.B.E. and later was raised to the Knighthood of that same Order. He received from General MacArthur a senior Order of their Legion of Merit and later received the Order of Military Merit from the Korean Government. Again in the second World War he was several times mentioned in despatches. This is indeed an amazing record.

I have tried to think what were the essential characteristics of this man, whose life was one of outstanding success, and I think it can be put into very simple words. First, he knew his job. No-one could ever question his military capacity. Second, he looked the part. He was most meticulous in matters of dress and bearing. Third, he inspired his men, and fourth, his men were always proud of him. Those are attributes that would make any man great and could be applied to a Master of this School, or—if you like—to the Head of a big industrial enterprise. May I just repeat them: he knew his job; he looked the part; he inspired his men; and they were proud of him.

At the beginning of this talk I said that Robbie was a boy of average worth and ability. There must be dozens of such boys in this Prep. School today, and a number of them have undoubtedly the ambition to serve the State as he has done. He will be a great example to them.

We can indeed all be proud of a great Old Collegian, who has left behind him a high tradition of service—to his School, to his Country and to his God.

SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

The activities included are only a small proportion of all School Activities carried out during the first half of the year. A combination of the summaries in the June and December magazines will give a more complete account.

SOCIAL SERVICES

Again this year the Social Services were organised by a number of senior students under the guidance of the Chaplain, arranging talks both from inside and outside the school to bring to the notice of the boys information about the "deserving causes". The committee consists of R. N. Douglas, H. C. Forbes, P. J. Illingworth, D. G. Peace and R. B. Collins (Secretary).

Badges were sold during March which was Red Cross month and Miss Webb, an active member of the organization, told us about the tragic state of the victims of the January fires, and the practical work which Red Cross was doing to help them readjust their shattered lives. Mr. Sparks from the A.I.M. gave us a vivid picture of its work, and in particular, of his "charge" in the Kimberley district—his talk brought home to all of us just what courage and faith these dedicated men have.

P.F.A.

The College Branch of the Presbyterian Fellowship of Australia this year has a membership of more than 110 and, despite the tendency in Victoria, for a decreasing number of senior members, the membership for senior forms is higher than in previous years.

As usual, the study side of the four square policy has received most attention and has this year taken several forms. There have been several discussions: on the meaning of "Ye are the salt of the earth" and "Ye are the light of the world"; the Jews; and how to spend one's money.

Two speakers have visited the P.F.A. this term: The Reverend John Anderson who spoke on modern Palestine, and how his visit there had given much more meaning to the Bible; and The Reverend William Rae, whose topic was "Counselling". Two films, one on Gandhi and the other about the consequences of car-stealing, have been shown.

We have also had a visit from the Geelong P.F.A. executive who explained the problems confronting P.F.A. groups throughout the state: falling membership with respect to the 14-18 age group, population, and the falling proportion of senior members. The executive outlined a course to increase Christian awareness and it was this series of studies that was investigated at the Point Lonsdale conference.

Twelve members are serving as Sunday School teachers to the Rolland House boys, and other spheres of service are entered as opportunity is offered.

Combined Conference With Morongo

As a result of the willing co-operation of Miss Shaw, senior members of our P.F.A. were able to join with the senior group of the Morongo P.F.A. in a combined conference at the Toe H Camp, Point Lonsdale over the week-end of May 12th-13th.

An interesting programme was arranged preserving balance between serious study and light-hearted recreation, and all those present thoroughly enjoyed the experience. We were appreciative of those who acted as leaders: Miss Shaw, Mrs. Shanks, Mr. Thwaites, Mr. Clayton, Mr. Hutchings and Mr. McLean.

We believe that such conferences are valuable and hope they may become a regular feature of our Fellowship.

MORRISON LIBRARY

After the increased activities of the Centenary Year, the Library has settled down to the steady, exacting work required to ensure growth and smooth running.

A library should provide a most necessary and vital service to any school. It must supply extensive material to supplement the formal work of the classroom; it must provide books on a wide variety of subjects to develop the individual; and it must provide food to stimulate the imagination. This material can take many forms such as books, magazines, pamphlets, newspaper cuttings, maps, charts, or purely pictorial matter. If one bears in mind that after the task of selection, each individual book has to be collated, stamped, accessioned, classified, catalogued, marked by a call number, covered, its catalogue cards filed and finally placed in its correct position on the shelves, one realizes just a portion of the work involved in maintaining a useful library. Each member of both the Senior and Junior Library Committees helps willingly to give this service to the School.

As an extension to the Library, a series of lunch-time talks was started last year. These proved valuable, and so have been continued this year. Mr. Bickford most capably opened the series with a general introduction to books and reading, and Mr. Mackie followed with a talk entitled, "Impressions of a New Australian", which proved both informative and entertaining. Next term, we intend to embark on a series concerning the development of Australia in fine arts, literature and world affairs.

JUNIOR CLUBS

This year has witnessed a new departure in organized occupations, in that all boys below the Fourth Form, instead of joining the Cadet Corps, have indulged in what have come to be known as "Junior Clubs" or "Third Form Activities". (The latter designation is only partly correct, as the Remove also joins in).

This large group of middle-school boys has been given special opportunities for experience in the membership and administration of clubs without the usual physical and moral dominance of the seniors. On this basis several Third Formers have already emerged as assistant instructors to their fellows.

So far the clubs have covered public speaking, dramatics, first aid, junior citizenship, photography, printing, railways, leather work, model aeroplanes. Once each month a programme of selected documentary films has replaced the club activities. A boy is advised to take up a different activity each term, to enable him to discover more about his own preferences and those of others.

Everything in the scheme is experimental.

Changes are likely to occur in the list of clubs and in the work being done by each. It is hoped, for example, that music and rifle shooting will be available in the near future.

There are clear signs that the boys appreciate what is being offered to them—which includes the services of several masters and visiting instructors.

August Camp

An extension of Junior Clubs is the camp and educational tour to north-eastern Victoria, planned for late August. This provides for further widening of the boys' awareness through travel, inspection of industries and visits to national projects like the Hume Weir and the Kiewa hydro-electric scheme.

About 70 boys, accompanied by masters, will take part in this venture. One group is to be accommodated in lodges at Harrietville and Albury, the other at the Tallangatta Conference Centre, controlled by the Department of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church of Victoria.

RAILWAY SOCIETY

Although membership is not up to last year's level, the society has had an interesting term. The main event was the excursion to Dinmont on the narrow gauge Beech Forest line which is to close on June 30th, but from which carriages were withdrawn early in April. The excursion, although organized by the Geelong College Railway Society was well patronized by Geelong Schools (particularly Geelong Grammar School) and members of the public who could not buy tickets for more ambitious trips organized by the Railways Historical Society and the Puffing Billy Preservation Society.

The trip to Dinmont and back, although only fifty miles, took five hours owing to the steep climb, the senility of the 942 locomotive and the size of the load (more than 200 people). However no one was bored for railway enthusiasts drank in features of Victoria's last narrow gauge goods line, and others gazed at the superb scenery and smelt the moist eucalypts.

Less ambitious excursions included a trip to the Geelong engine sheds very early in the term, and one to the Moorabool Viaduct. There was also a film night which had fewer railway films than had been intended but which did include a Donald Duck cartoon.

Affiliation with the House of Guilds and the Victorian School Railway Clubs Association continues.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

London, 1962,

Dear Sir,

I read with great interest the December 1961 Centenary Pegasus. It contained reports of several remarkable addresses to collegians—given in particular by The Reverend Professor J. W. McCaughey, Professor J. D. hegge, Pastor Doug. Nicholls and the Principal.

In his Centenary Sermon Professor McCaughey succinctly remarks, "If a Christian society is not producing the non-conformist, then there is something wrong with it . . . The 20th Century needs them, with its rich nations growing richer and the poor nations growing poorer . . . Who is going to say, 'Stop. We can't go on like this;' Who is going to disagree with our easy ways? Who are the non-conformist Geelong Collegians?"

Sir, grant Professor McCaughey and me the mutual satisfaction of an assurance that I have long been one of such collegians. Some of my friends and contemporaries may recall a small book published in 1943, called "Youth Sees Tomorrow" in which, albeit naively, I violently criticized the trend of the education which I had just received. I am glad to remember the encouragement given to a young man by Mr. Rolland at Speech Day of that year, and have long held him in respect and affection for it. Though for the last twelve years I have lived in England I can say that I have remained an arch 'non-conformist' and that my interests have turned to the eradication of racism. I well know what it is to be regarded in the words of the Professor, as "not just an amiable eccentric, but a despised fool".

Despite everything, I think we 'non-conformists' can offer proof that Geelong College does produce all sorts and conditions of men, and that, in return, by the variety of their experiences, such people have contributions to make to the future life of their school which time alone makes opportune. All life is change. Even Buddha recognised this 2,500 years ago with the phrase, "Life is a bridge; don't build a house on it!" Can one say jocularly, "Presbyterians Please Copy?"

Finally, "Who will point to better paths?" asks Professor McCaughey. Sir, I am not afraid to try. My advice will be very simple, and it is this:

The Geelong College must become a multi-racial college, and it must take a special interest in the education of the aboriginal and native peoples who are fellow citizens of Australia and its domains. Until this modern step is taken we shall fall short of our Christian ideals, lose touch with the climate of the contemporary world and fail to provide a normal human background to the lives of those boys who are seeking to understand and serve the modern world.

The reward will be two-fold. Not only will it be in what one does to teach others, but it will also come from what others have to teach us!

Warm greetings and good wishes from Britain to my school,

Nigel Drury.
(1933-1938)

PEGASUS APPEAL

One of the most important historical documents in any school is the complete set of school magazines. Geelong College, of course, has complete sets of "The Pegasus" which date from 1909. It is believed, however, that the College should have more sets, and through these columns an appeal is now made for past copies of "The Pegasus". It may not be too much even, to appeal for complete sets or partially complete sets, but individual copies, particularly early ones, are also needed.

There are, no doubt, many people who treasure complete sets or individual early copies and it should be emphasized that any copy or copies given in answer to this appeal will be equally treasured: they will be handled carefully and safely preserved. The fact that such records, kept at College, would be more readily accessible enhances their immediate value, and they will certainly become more valuable (and more difficult to collect) with the years.

The present aim is to complete five additional sets, but at this moment, apart from the official bound copies, the College has past copies of an adequate number only back to, and including, 1957, and even of these, June 1959 is missing. Before 1957 there are five copies each of December 1949, June 1951, December 1953, June 1954, and December 1956 only. It is obvious then, that this appeal is ambitious, but if there are Old Boys and Friends of the College who appreciate the value of such an attempt and are generous enough to contribute to it, then its ambitious nature alone need be no stumbling block.

The master-in-charge of "The Pegasus" (Mr. A. D. Mahar) would be very pleased to hear from any would-be donors, either to accept gifts of past copies or to answer questions regarding the appeal. Any response will be a valuable contribution to the heritage of The Geelong College.

It will be noticed elsewhere in this edition that the "Prep. News" has again sprung to life. Copies of the original "Prep. News" would have great appeal in the Preparatory School Library and the Librarian would therefore be delighted to hear from any proud possessors of this literary document.

CRICKET

Master-in-Charge : E. B. Davies, Esq.

1962 proved to be a very satisfactory year for Geelong College cricket. The boys enjoyed wonderful playing conditions and beautiful weather, and the results obtained by all teams gives promise that our school will be a force to be reckoned with, in future years.

Just over one hundred boys were on the cricket lists this year, and, except for some "B" teams, all were able to play regularly each Saturday. Each age group was able to practice on two evenings each week, and additional matches and practices were arranged for Under 14 cricketers on Thursdays while Junior Clubs were in progress. This proved a valuable means of giving match practice to boys who, otherwise, were not able to gain places in "A" or "B" teams.

The good results obtained were largely due to the coaching staff who spent many hours at the practice nets and Saturday matches. Good coaching at the early under age level is the basis of good senior teams.

Matches for "B" teams were, in some cases, hard to obtain. This is mainly due to ground shortages in some schools. Entering teams in the local Geelong competition for Under 15 boys may help to solve this problem. These matches are played on Saturday mornings.

Apart from the coaches there were many others who helped to make the season a success: ground staff, dining room staff, office staff, parents, Old Collegians (particularly trophy donors), and boys who scored, and operated sight boards and score boards.

FIRST XI

Coach: E. B. Davies, Esq.

John Davies and Graham Hallebone, Captain and Vice-Captain of last year, were again selected to lead the team for 1962.

With eight boys returning, and capable players to fill the other places, it was thought the XI would perform well enough to take premiership honours. However, this was not the case, as once again, our neighbouring rivals, Geelong Grammar, proved too strong, and therefore dashed any hopes of a premiership for 1962. In the final round, the XI also met defeat at the hands of Scotch College. This meant we were placed 4th on the premiership table.

Winning the toss seemed to play an important part in the results of matches, as we won every match when the toss was won, and lost when the toss was lost.

Although the team had some outstanding performances given by Paul Sheahan (2 centuries, and 23 wickets), John Davies (84, 87 and 9 wickets), Rob Russell (21 wickets), and newcomer Philip Marshall who showed great promise; the remainder of the team failed to live up to its early promise. The batting was brittle and the bowling lacked penetration, although the fielding was very good in all matches.

At the end of the season the XI were privileged to play against a school-boy XI from Ceylon. This match proved to be very interesting, and many helped entertain the visitors while they were at College.

A disappointment to most of the XI was the cancellation of the trip to Scots College, Sydney. This was, in part, due to the late Easter and the unavailability of some members of the XI.

Boys who played in P.S. Matches were:

G. E. T. Andrews, C. C. Blair, J. E. Davies (Capt), S. T. Green, M. D. Gretton-Watson, G. P. Hallebone (Vice-Capt), M. J. Knox P. J. Marshall, R. K. Robson, R. T. R. Russell, A. P. Sheahan, D. G. Williamson,

FIRST PS. MATCH

*Geelong College v. Caul field Grammar School.
At Geelong College, 2nd-3rd March.*

The College captain, Davies, won the toss and elected to bat in perfect conditions. The wicket played very truly, but the outfield was rather slow. There was a slight breeze from the Pavilion end.

College started rather badly and, after 26 minutes, had lost 2 for 26. However Davies and Sheahan saved College and carried the score to 3 for 219. Then the batting tailed off and the innings closed at 275, leaving Caulfield 26 minutes batting before stumps.

This time proved valuable for College, as Caulfield were 2 for 15 at stumps. On Saturday, Caulfield resumed and were dismissed for 80. And in the follow-on, Caulfield again slumped and were dismissed for 118, due to tight fielding and excellent bowling by Robson and Russell.

Best Performances:

Batting: Sheahan 119.
Davies 87.

Bowling: Russell 3 for 26 and 4 for 25.
Robson 2 for 7 and 3 for 11.

SECOND PS. MATCH

Geelong College v. Brighton Grammar School.
At Brighton Grammar School, 16th-17th March.

Davies again won the toss and College batted in hot, humid conditions. The pitch played very fast and true, but the ground was rather sandy and bare.

College began confidently with Green and Hallebone stroking the ball well until Hallebone played one on and the first wicket fell at 58. Sheahan held the innings together as the College batting tailed off until Marshall came to the wicket. The College innings closed at 253 for 9.

Brighton Grammar failed, due to some magnificent catching and tight bowling, especially by Russell, and they were dismissed for 98. However Brighton batted soundly in the second innings, with Russell again the main wicket taker, and were dismissed for 286. This left College some 7 minutes batting.

THIRD P.S. MATCH

*Geelong College v. Geelong Grammar School.
At Geelong Grammar School, 23rd-24th March.*

Richardson, the Grammar captain, won the toss and elected to bat on a perfect day with a slight breeze blowing off the bay. The pitch played truly.

Grammar started very soundly and with steady batting reached 3 for 127. But then College took charge and Grammar slumped to 9 for 168, due to good bowling by Robson and Sheahan. Grammar dramatically recovered with a solid last wicket partnership, and were finally dismissed for 272. The College batting failed, due to sustained bowling by Murch and offered only token resistance to be 9 for 92 at 3 o'clock. Nevertheless, Marshall, with intelligent placement, and Williamson, with dour defence, held the Grammar attack at bay for two hours, until College was dismissed for 142.

FOURTH P.S. MATCH

*Geelong College v. Xavier College.
At Geelong College, 30th-31st March.*

Davies won the toss for the third time and College batted first. It was a rather humid, sunny day and the pitch was good.

College lost its first wicket at 11 and Davies and Sheahan, and later Davies and Marshall, saved College by carrying the score to 4 for 164. From then the innings tailed off with Russell 19 and Robson 12 adding valuable runs. Davies batted forcefully for 84 and held the innings together. Xavier started solidly until Russell broke through with intelligent bowling and Xavier slumped from 1 for 61 to 8 for 101, but then they rallied and added 69 runs for the last 2 wickets. Russell capped off a great performance by cleaning up the tail, and Xavier were dismissed for 170. College batted out time, with Green making a pleasant 44 runs.

FINAL PS. MATCH

Geelong College v. Scotch College
At Geelong College, 6th-7th April

Watters, the Scotch captain, won the toss, and Scotch batted on a perfect pitch on a perfect day. The wicket was hard and reasonably fast, and the ground was green and firm.

College gained an early break-through when Gretton-Watson had Stewartson caught at first slip. But then Scotch built up a solid innings of 207, Sheahan taking the bowling honours. College started disastrously as Green was caught off the first ball of the innings. Nevertheless, Sheahan, Marshall and Russell consolidated the College innings until College was dismissed for 146. Scotch batted again and steadily built up a total of 172. Hallebone, this time, shared the bowling honours with Sheahan.

CEYLON MATCH
Geelong College v. Ceylon N.S.C.A.
At College 3rd April.

Davies won the toss and Colledge batted on a soft, slow wicket. The day was overcast and light rain fell at times. Green and Hallebone started soundly until Green was run out. Hallebone and Sheahan had a partnership which realized 60 and then Hallebone, with solid defending, and Davies, with hard hitting, carried Colledge's score to 3 for 179. Hallebone remained unconquered with 82 and, as top scorer, was presented with a bat from the Ceylon government. The Ceylon boys did not offer much resistance to Russell and Gretton-Watson and s'umped to 8 for 43; but Sirisena, with artistic stroking, and Jayatillake carried the score to 9 for 83 and then Sirisena and Aponso closed the innings at 111, with Sirisena making 46 not out. In Ceylon's second innings, the batsmen struck out at the bowlers and Balasingham made a brisk 35, but time was too short and their innings closed at 6 for 88.

Outstanding* Performances:

Batting: Hallebone 82 not out.

Davies 50.

Bowling: Russell 4 for 21.

Gretton-Watson 2 for 11 and 2 for 17

K. W. Nicolson Trophy

The K. W. Nicolson Trophy was won again this year by the First XI. This trophy is awarded to the school team judged to have the best performance for the season. Congratulations go to them, and it is hoped that they can continue their good work in season 1963.

ROWING

Master-in-charge: J. H. Campbell, Esq.

Captain of Boats: D. M. Birks.

Vice-Captain of Boats: J. R. Irvine.

With 130 keen oarsmen and coxswains, the boat club began on 14th February a most enthusiastic and spirited season. D. H. McN. Berney, H. C. Forbes and R. J. M. John were elected to the 1962 Rowing Committee.

Under Mr. Campbell's able guidance, a most competent board of coaches set forth on the arduous task of choosing and training their respective crews. Due to the late start of school this year, we had only eight weeks in which to train, and so both coaches and boys were tested by an intensive training schedule, in order to reach their peak of form and fitness.

With the typical Geelong College fighting spirit, all boys did their utmost, and on Boat Race Day we were able to field five first class eights.

Eighteen members of the boat club subsequently took part in the Easter Regatta at Mildura where success was enjoyed by all. Messrs. T. Dowde, Jim Ferguson and Don Mackay organized the trip and, without a doubt, it was an excellent way to finish the 1962 rowing season.

FIRST VIII

Coach: A. B. Bell, Esq.

Under the experienced tuition of our industrious coach, we began rowing on the first day of school with exercises in the gymnasium at night. We rowed in the "A. B. Bell" until the Barwon Regatta where valuable experience was gained, and then moved into the "Alan Tait." Due to very open competition this year, there were many changes, and it was not until ten days before boat-race that the crew was finally seated. David Salmon, a former cox, played an important role in giving us that final polish that is so necessary to a rowing eight.

The crew was. Bow, C. W. Whitehead, 11.6; 2, R. O. Burger, 12.3; 3, D. M. Birks, 13.5; 4, T. A. Hinchliffe, 12.10; 5, H. C. Forbes, 12.5; 6, R. J. M. John, 12.0; 7, D. H. McN. Berney, 12.9; Stroke, W. L. Eehmann, 11.0; Cox, D. W. G. Downey, 8.7.

HEAD OF THE RIVER

On Friday, 13th April, the first heat was won comfortably by Xavier College from Geelong Grammar School, and the third heat found Melbourne Grammar School hotly pressed to beat Caulfield Grammar School.

Geelong College, Scotch College and Wesley College were drawn in the second heat.

Wesley snatched an early lead in the race which looked like deciding the Head of the River. Their lead gradually opened up to about a length at the half mile with Scotch and College having a tremendous battle for second place. At this point Wesley suffered a setback, but recovered quickly to go to the line half a length ahead of Scotch, with College three quarters of a length behind in third place. The winners' time was 4 minutes 46 seconds.

On Saturday, 14th April, College met St. Kevin's College, Brighton Grammar School and Carey Baptist Grammar School in the Eosers' Final.

Due to a family bereavement Timothy Hinchliffe was unable to row and Ken Andrews rowed in the fourth seat.

From very early in the race there was little doubt as to the winner. College held their quickly-gained one length lead till the half-mile and from there finished strongly to win convincingly by two lengths from Brighton, with Carey a close third.

Congratulations must go to Wesley on so finely winning their second consecutive Head of the River.

SECOND VIII

Coach: J. M. Ferguson, Esq.

On the first day back at school, a self appointed crew took to the water. On the same night exercises were started. The crew did not remain stable for long however, because on the first gruelling Saturday many changes were made, both internally and externally.

Instead of rowing in a training boat at the beginning of our period of training, we moved straight into our racing boat, the "Riverina". We began five mile 'swing throughs' very early in the piece and it was not until two days or so before the Barwon Regatta that we had a break from these.

On the afternoon of the Regatta we went up to the start of the race looking forward to our "training row" in which we came second, about three-quarters of a length behind the Barwon Maiden VIII.

We settled down from then until the Boat Race on concentrated and serious training. Every night we did a punishing 'swing through', and with these added to our nightly exercises, we could feel ourselves gradually becoming fitter.

Nevertheless, we could not begin to settle into a sure combination because of all the changes between the various crews, until the last few weeks.

We approached our heat in a confident manner, knowing that it was going to be a very difficult and energy-consuming race. The gun went off, and we went to a lead of about half a length, in front of Xavier, which we maintained till the finish.

The Saturday was a fine day for rowing, and we were all looking forward to our final. At the gun, we jumped to a lead of about two feet with a rating of 46. But Scotch and Geelong Grammar made up this ground rapidly. By the half mile peg, all crews were on even terms. We brought our rating down to 40 for the middle distance. At the mills, we were a canvas behind Grammar, and about two canvasses behind Scotch. All crews 'bowled' in an effort to win this closely fought race; but the final positions did not change at all. Scotch won, Geelong Grammar came second by a canvas, and College was a further canvas away third.

The second eight agreed unanimously that they would not have obtained the standard of rowing that they did, had it not been for the coach, Mr. Jim Ferguson, and the great times they had with him.

The crew was: Bow, D. E. Gardner; 2, K. T. Andrews; 3, A. J. Forbes; 4, J. R. Irvine; 5, J. H. Champ; 6, R. J. Eawler; 7, A. J. Paterson; Stroke, G. M. Cotton; Cox, J. D. Roydhouse.

THIRD VIII

Coach: R. W. Purnell, Esq.

The early part of our training was carried out in the "Pegasus III". In the early stages, the crew was, understandably, unsettled, and we had a long succession of strokes. Under the able guidance of Mr. Purnell, training progressed satisfactorily. For a great deal of the time we were matched against the Fourth VIII, whom we found particularly tough opponents. Only the most confident of our crew claimed we could beat them. Our congratulations must go to them for their success in the finals. When we graduated to the "A. B. Bell" we showed much improvement.

Midway through the season we raced over a mile against the Geelong Grammar Thirds and the Barwon and Corio Maiden VIII's. After a good start and an initial lead, the greater strength of Barwon and Corio told, and Barwon went on to win from Corio, with College two feet behind, and Grammar a length further back.

We continued training, concentrating now on starts and sprints, interspersed with courses. Despite 'surfing' conditions on a few occasions, we gained balance and a degree of skill, and we acquitted ourselves quite well in work with the First and Second VIII's.

On Boat Race Day weather conditions were quite good, and we received the protection of the south bank from the light south-easterly breeze. We made a good start, and we quickly gained a length and a half on Xavier and Melbourne Grammar. We held this lead, and in spite of the unsettling influence of wash and wind at the mills, crossed the line first.

Elated by the morning's performance, we approached the start of the Winners' Final. This time, we did not make a good start, and having thus lost the advantage and initiative, we had to row the entire race from behind. We were again unsettled by the wind, and did not settle down. We never really looked like winning, despite the measures we took, and Caulfield crossed the line first, winning from Geelong Grammar, with College about half a length away in third position.

The crew was: Bow, T. F. McNair; 2, G. H. John; 3, W. T. Troedel; 4, T. J. Holden; 5, P. R. S. Kidd; 6, J. S. Johnston; 7, G. G. Irvine; Stroke, J. D. Troedel; Cox, R. E. Singer.

FOURTH VIII

Coach: R. George, Esq.

Our training commenced on the first day of term in the "Pegasus II". We were fortunate in that this was to be the boat in which we raced and so we had all season to become accustomed to it.

It was a few weeks and many changes before we settled down into a crew, and then more intensive training began. Throughout the season we trained with the Third VIII, having many a close tussle with them, and we feel that they helped us to attain the form we were able to produce at Boat Race.

At Junior Regatta we managed to defeat Geelong Grammar by half a length after an exciting race.

On Boat Race morning we again met our old rivals, Geelong Grammar, in our heat. Once more it was a close race, and after 'flopping' in the rough water, we were fortunate to win by a canvas in the time of 2 minutes 32 seconds.

In the final we were matched against Melbourne Grammar School and Xavier College. We were able to take the initiative at the start and after a good, clean row, we crossed the finish line three quarters of a length ahead of Xavier, with Melbourne Grammar only a canvas away, third. Our time for the final was 2 minutes 37 seconds.

We feel that our success was mainly due to the persistence and perseverance of our coach, Mr. Bob George, who devoted much of his time to us, and we only hope that we were able to justify his tireless efforts.

The crew was: Bow, I. L. Gill; 2, W. H. Thomas; 3, R. P. McCann; 4, D. J. H. Baker; 5, D. A. Ellerman; 6, A. J. Drew; 7, G. P. Bade; Stroke, R. J. B. Hede; Cox, C. M. S. Kemp.

FIFTH VIII

Coach: S. Thomas, Esq.

This year we began the season from "scratch", as many of us had never rowed in an eight before. We started in the "Norman Morrison" and after about four weeks we moved into the "Pegasus III". After an accident, Mr. Albert Bell kindly lent us the "Reg. Taylor" from Corio Bay. On 7th April, the annual Junior Regatta was held in which Geelong Grammar defeated us by one length with the College Sixth VIII another length away third.

On Boat Race Day we were drawn against Geelong Grammar and Carey. We rowed in the North Station. After a nerve-racking false start we got away well and led until the mills. Just after the mills we slumped and Geelong Grammar easily beat us by a length with Carey three feet away in third position. In the Intermediate Final we all got away well and in the sprint Xavier overhauled us to win by three feet and we were three feet ahead of Wesley.

The crew was: Bow, D. J. Steel; 2, P. J. Griffiths; 3, A. B. Urquhart; 4, I. G. Howden; 5, D. I. W. Lawson; 6, P. E. J. Roberts; 7, R. J. Wishart; Stroke, W. M. Patterson; Cox, P. J. Mitchell.

OTHER CREWS

The junior crews, this year, had a very enjoyable season on the river. The Sixth VIII rowed well from the start, under the able coaching of Mr. Gordon Cowie. The Seventh VIII performed well under Mr. Denis Craven, and the Eighth VIII under Mr. Ian Blair seconded by Mr. John Selle. There were, in addition, two practice IV's and two tub IV's, and valuable assistance was given to these by Mr. Andrew Lawson and M. R. Campbell from School. Mr. J. H. Campbell, as in previous years, gave great assistance in arranging the junior crews.

The Junior Regatta (against Geelong Grammar School) was held on 7th April.

HOUSE ROWING

On Monday after Boat Race, the House VIII's and IV's commenced training with only three days to the race.

Race day came, and after much trouble from the wind, the gun went and all the VIII's got away together. Rather early. Calvert caught a crab which gave McArthur, Shannon and Morrison, (who were level until the mill), a great advantage. McArthur rowed well to win but credit must be given to Calvert for moving up to come second by only half a canvas, with Morrison in third position and Shannon in fourth.

In the IV's, Calvert won, followed by McArthur, Morrison and Shannon.

The winning crews were:

McArthur VIII: Bow, I. E. Gill; 2, R. O. Burger; 3, A. J. Forbes; 4, K. T. Andrews; 5, H. C. Forbes; 6, J. S. Johnston; 7, A. J. Paterson; Stroke, W. L. Eehmann; Cox, D. W. Heath.

Calvert IV: Bow, R. J. Wishart; 2, I. G. Howden; 3, G. P. Bade; 4, D. J. H. Baker; Cox, J. D. Roydhouse.

SWIMMING

Master-in-charge: T. V. Dowde, Esq.

This year's swimming has been quite successful. We participated in four inter-school meetings, of which the first two were held at Xavier College and the other two at Scotch College and Geelong Grammar School respectively. Our team was not sufficiently strong to win any of these meetings, but considering the lack of training facilities at the school and the size of the school compared with the other Public Schools we did very well to get the results we did: three seconds and one third.

We also managed to retain the 'Strahan Shield' by winning the aggregate at the Geelong All Schools Swimming Meeting. Our relays won their events and places in individual events were gained by P. I. Bennett, P. R. Murray, J. A. Moreton, B. R. Olsen, G. T. Bigmore and D. L. H. Batten.

At the Melbourne All Schools we gained third and fourth positions in the Under 14, and Open relays respectively.

The Swimming Committee this year consistted of C. G. Seward (Captain), J. A. Moreton (Vice-Captain), D. E. Davies, P. I. Bennett and P. R. Murray.

The Results of the Inter-school Meetings were as follows:

At Xavier College, 24th February.

1, W.C.; 2, X.C.; 3, G.C.; 4, St K.C.

At Xavier College 3rd March.

1, X.C.; 2, G.C.; 3, G.G.S.; 4, B.G.S.

At Scotch College, 10th March.

1, S.C.; 2, G.C.; 3, C.B.G.S.

At Geelong Grammar School, 17th March.

1, C.G.S.; 2, G.C.; 3, St K.C.; 4, G.G.S.

HOUSE SPORTS

The Inter-house Competitions held at Eastern Beach on 13th March made it apparent that although we had few very brilliant boys this was to be a good year. Two records were broken, in the Open and Under 15 relays which, with the general high standard of all events showed that a good over-all team could be selected to compete against other schools.

The competition between the Houses was very keen and the result was in doubt until the last event which McArthur won thus enabling them to take first position in the sports from Calvert.

TENNIS

Master-in-charge: E. B. Lester, Esq.

Once again, tennis as a major sport has gained prestige and popularity. After only three seasons, almost one hundred boys are enthusiasts, even though we have only three courts.

With Alan Henderson as Captain, the First Tennis Team was fourth in the P.S. Competition, losing only to Caulfield Grammar School and Scotch College.

All eight players: A. G. Henderson, A. M. Bowden, I. D. Corr, R. D. Cuzens, A. Illingworth, M. J. Marshall, J. M. Paton, and G. R. Synot, received school colour and cap awards.

Again, College defeated Geelong Grammar in the traditional Boat Race morning tennis match in which those who do not normally play tennis as their major sport have an opportunity of representing their school in it.

The Second Team also had a very successful year, losing only to Scotch. Team members were: R. D. Cumming, A. D. Currie, P. M. Hobday, P. S. T. Knight, J. E. Leishman, A. M. McLean, K. A. I. MacLean, E. E. L. Soon, J. F. Stephens and D. R. Warfe.

Looking at the numbers of these returning and the talent amongst our juniors, we see great promise for next year.

"ARKABA"

'Arkaba' spells adventure, fitness, hardships—a challenge to youth, character development through adventure. The 'Arkaba' Badge Course is modelled on the lines of the English Outward Bound School. The eleven youths aged from 16-19 years, who attended the course were to live together for 24 days, enduring the hardships of the exacting bush journeys, the hazards of rock climbing, the weariness engendered by long hikes, and enjoying the immense satisfaction of the set task being accomplished. It was a far cry from the city Banks, Insurance offices, Workshops, School and University lecture rooms, to the rugged grandeur of the Grampians in Victoria's Western District; but it was something we had looked forward to.

We had arrived at Strachans, our base camp.

The 24 day school was divided into periods of basic training, bush walking and rock-climbing. The days of basic training were spent learning the principles of map-reading, knots, and first-aid. The physical training in preparation for the bigger course schemes, consisted of circuit training and four mile cross-country runs.

A bush search and rescue operation was conducted, in which one of the instructors, posing as the injured man, was seen to fall from a rocky out-crop in the nearby Victoria Ranges.

We, as a rescue group, elected a leader, made the necessary preparations, notified the emergency to the nearest medical aid, prepared two packs containing: the First-aid kit, hot water and hot tea, torches, food for two meals, two maps and compasses (one spare set), spare jumpers, and rope to make the bush stretcher; and within fifteen minutes were on our way.

On finding the victim, the leader nominated two First-aiders, who with himself attended the patient, whilst the rest of the group was employed in the construction of the bush stretcher.

We struggled down the five miles of steep mountain side, having bites of lunch on the move, whilst our patient realistically thrashed about on the stretcher, testing not only its strength, but ours and our tempers. The party moved ahead, two boys bashing a track guided by the leader, six bearing the stretcher and two boys resting.

The leader was responsible for the choice of route—a good route out meant saving precious hours, yet a longer route, avoiding difficult terrain might be better for the patient's Well-being,—these were the decisions we had to face.

The first three day scheme was conducted in the Victoria Ranges. This training scheme was led by assistant instructor John Hudson. Each boy carried in his pack, a sleeping bag, a ground sheet (under which he slept), a spare jumper, torch, two gallons of water, three days' rations, as well as two group maps and a first-aid kit. (Each boy carried a snake bite outfit with him at all times.) The rations provided for:—

Breakfast: rolled oats, raisins, honey, milo, 4 oz. tin baked beans.

Lunch: dry biscuits, cheese, marmite, dates, milo, 1 orange, 1 carrot.

Tea: soup, peas, meat, instant pudding, milo.

This diet of tinned foods was eaten cold because of the State Fire Restrictions.

Included in the course syllabus, was a 24 hour orienteering course, the first to be included on any such adventure course. Three patrols each of four members, were required within the 24 hours—11 a.m. Friday, to 11 a.m. Saturday,—to call at seven check points, which were placed at certain map-references. The patrols were given a briefing and time to plan their trip and submit it to the instructors for approval.

Lunch for the first meal was carried with us, then for tea and breakfast, we were required to call at two 'Hash Houses', and spend a half hour rest period. During the 24 hours, we covered 68 miles, by road, bush track, and across country.

After a day's rest, we commenced our three day rock-climbing scheme on the Chimney Pots. The first two days were spent learning the basic principles of rope work, knots—the bowline, the rock-climber's knot which fastens him to the safety rope, and belaying—anchoring oneself to the mountain and feeding out the safety rope.

We commenced on a rock slab about 40 feet in height, climbing, hands and toes of boots gripping the tiny rock notches, and later abseiling, (roping down).

The third day, Mr. Lovegrove, led us over the Temple, a huge 3000 feet rock, each pupil following in turn, attached to the safety rope, which the leader was belaying. We climbed a series of tiers, from 80-120 feet, (the full extent of the nylon 4000 lb. breaking strain rope), finally scrambling up the chimney, before reaching the summit. With the aid of a 200 foot hemp rope, we abseiled down the steepest side of the rock.

The last five days were spent on a single scheme which was to culminate the activities of the course. The five day hike was planned by ourselves, and carried out with instructors' approval. During the hike, we covered 80 miles, climbing 4000 feet, with days of near century heat, and one day and night of unrelenting rain. On occasions when the route being traversed, was considered dangerous, one of the instructors accompanied the party.

The 'Arkaba' course is normally based in the Flinders Ranges, in the vicinity of Wilpena Pound. Owing to the extreme summer conditions experienced in the Flinders, the South Australian National Fitness Council approached the Forestry Commission of Victoria for permission to hold the summer course in the Gramians. This is the first time, that the course has been held in Victoria. The course is usually attended by 20 or 30, and costs £35. Most of the boys are sponsored by business firms, industry, commercial concerns, and parents.

This, the third course, was attended by eleven boys: two Victorians, and nine South Australians, and had as its instructors, Mr. Ted Lovegrove, camp leader; Mr. Bob Horman, director of training for the Victorian Associated Youth Clubs; Michael Popkin, a graduate of the Eskdale Outward Bound School; and John Hudson, an Adelaide University student. Mr. Lovegrove, formerly an instructor at Eskdale, and the Kenya Outward Bound School, has had much experience, climbing in the New Zealand Alps, the Swiss Alps, and the Austrian Tyrol.

Camp evenings were spent debating, studying and in recreational activities like listening to records—Bush Ballads, Sea Shanties, and songs of the Whalers.

At the conclusion of each day, whether at base camp or on a mountain top, the duty instructor gave short readings from philosophers such as Gandhi, Buddha, Schweitzer, Confucius, and St. Thomas Aquinas. The boys voluntarily led and attended these short meetings before bed each night.

THE HIKE ON WILSON'S PROMONTORY

Jan. 29 - Feb. 10, 1962

Raising large clouds of dust on the unmade road, we sped towards Wilson's Promontory, full of anticipation of the hike to follow. There were eight of us altogether, Mr. Keith, Ian Keith, Derek Berney, Brent Davey, Ross Day, Peter Griffiths, Neil Craig and myself. Mr. Davey who drove some of us down, stayed until after we climbed Mt. Oberon. About noon, after five hours solid driving the two cars wound down out of the hills to Tidal River itself. Before us in vivid greens, blues, browns and yellows 'was the National Park that was to be our home for the next thirteen days.

The first two days were spent setting up camp, exploring Tidal River, and swimming in the clear blue sun drenched waters of Norman Bay (Tidal River) only four minutes walk from our camp site. However this beach did not look nearly so inviting at six a.m. the next morning, when we were awakened by the more athletic leaders and hurried down to the sea for a "refreshing swim". The hot showers and breakfast that followed were really appreciated. The same day we climbed Mt. Oberon (1,845 ft.) by road, and after seeing the P.M.G. transmitter (which transmits to Tasmania) and having lunch at the top, we cut our way down the other heavily wooded side. That night we attended a lecture by the head ranger, Mr. Bob Turner, who showed us slides of the country through which 'we were to hike.

The fourth day, 1st February, was a day for relaxing and playing baseball and cricket on the beach, but the next day saw our party cutting the way through a muddy swamp on our way to dump a supply of food for our main hike. Now, with the restricted use of water, we were really getting used to hiking.

The following day the excitement of adventure reached its peak as we broke camp and proceeded to Sealers' Cove on the first leg of the hike. Arriving after a fairly easy walk on track all the way, We pitched camp, and went fishing on the rocks at one end of the beach. Altogether we caught about twenty fish which served as a nourishing meal that night. However, that night, after six days of perfect weather, it rained and was still drizzling when we left Mr. Keith and Ian to "bush-bash" to Refuge Cove. With no cut track, wet undergrowth, mist and light rain, it was no wonder that when we arrived at Refuge at about 2 o'clock that afternoon we were soaked to the skin. Luckily by the time we had changed clothes and pitched camp the rain had stopped so that by Monday morning, our day off at Refuge, the sun was shining and the sky cloudless again. That night we had fish given to us by fishermen, and had supper of crabs' legs dug up from the beach.

Refuge Cove is a most picturesque place with a small creek, two beaches of golden sand, deep blue water and narrow heads (though deep enough to allow the Queen Alary to pass through.) On the granite rocks that surround and protect the cove on nearly all sides, are painted the names of ships that have called there. One, the Pleola, will probably be known to members of the Geelong Yacht Club.

Tuesday, 6th February, again saw us on the move, this time on the hardest part of the hike, from Refuge Cove to Waterloo Bay. Altogether this took seven hours of "bush-bashing" through dense growth higher than trees. Most of the time we could not even see the track, let alone the sun. However, we finally made Waterloo and there is little wonder that we slept well that night. Next day after an easy morning's hike through knee high scrub we came to the Halfway Hut, our food dump, where we again met Mr. Keith and Ian, dumped unneeded supplies, picked up our fresh food, and proceeded southward to Roaring Meg, a stream of very cold water as we found out when we washed in it.

The next day, the 8th, we walked to the lighthouse at S.E. Point. At this isolated place, live three families whose only connection with the outside world is a ship every fortnight and the radio. (Remember the incident last year when the lighthouse-keeper had a heart attack and the only way to get him to hospital was by helicopter which had to land in a very small space?) The lighthouse-keeper and his assistants greeted us warmly and showed us over the lighthouse. While we were signing the visitors' book we noticed the names of other Geelong College parties that had visited the lighthouse.

The following day, we broke camp at Roaring Meg, (Brent had his tent let down for him, even if it was at six a.m.) and we headed back to the Halfway Hut where we picked up the other gear, and then via sand dunes, to Tidal River in light rain. The hot showers really felt good after all that time. Some left with Mr. Keith that night and the next day, Saturday, 10th February, the rest of us left Tidal River in Mr. Davey's car, not knowing whether to feel glad or sorry, but definitely richer for the experience.

THE COLLEGE

A goddess does the College seem
 Whose eyes do down upon you gleam,
 She looks so grand and full of might
 A sunrise fine in morning light.

The birds upon the College ground
 Seem to make a sweeter sound,
 They sit in trees and chirp away
 And herald in each golden day.

Her ivy leaves with colours tipped
 As if they'd been in rainbows dipped,
 Her English style of buildings grand
 This school's the finest in the land.

The ovals green at pearly dawn
 The early dews with gems adorn,
 The school's so happy blithe and gay
 As crisp and pure as England's May.

And when I'm forced in time to leave
 This my heart fore'er will grieve,
 A lifetime long will ne'er efface
 My 3'ounger days of College grace.

THE GARDENER

Behold the gardener! He doth arrive,
 Full garbed in the manner of his trade,
 And bearing; in his creased and crinkled hands
 His implements: the humble rake, the hoe, and spade.

At day, full hard he worketh at his toil,
 To trim the trees, and weed the flower beds,
 And now and then to fertilize the soil
 Lest it turn dry and frail as he.

At night, transported thence by an Invention of our modern time,
 He returns to dwelling crude, and rests,
 And dreams of dreams so gay, yet so sublime.

Move on through time just half a century,
 Shall I be then as he is now this day
 Hard-working, easy tiring, worn out by life
 In his subdued and subtle way?

WEEKLY ROUND-UP

On Monday morning, first day of the week,
 When a snug warm bed is all we seek,
 We get Geometry.

On Tuesday morning, when all we desire,
 Is a deep arm-chair and a roaring fire,
 We get Geography.

On Wednesday morning, so crisp and clear,
 When the crash of breakers we wish to hear,
 We get Arithmetic.

On Thursday morning, so dull and dead,
 When our heads feel sore and our feet like lead,
 We get Algebra.

On Friday morning, last day of week,
 When our worn out bodies are tired and meek,
 We get a double P.E.

On Saturday morning when we're all in bed,
 And we all are sleeping the sleep of the dead,
 We love the world.

On Sunday morning, when we all do search,
 For a little peace before going to Church,
 We hate the world.
 After Sunday comes b————Monday!

WHAT I LIKE DOING BEST

The thing I like to do best in the world is to wander: to wander among the birds and the animals. The place I like to wander in best is a large, deep valley at home on my father's farm. There is a small creek flowing through the bottom of it, and in its chocolate brown soil grow gum trees and wattles. There are stepping stones across the creek and the water seems to wander slowly along the shallow gravel bed. In the spring time I can wander through this wild paradise, with the tender scent of the wattle and gum tree flowers in my nostrils, listening, and watching a score of different birds tending to their young. The musical notes of the magpie, the weird cackle of the jackass, the harsh caw of the crow, all seem to fill my ears. Surely this is a paradise beyond description. Often during the summer I rise before the sun, and ride my bike across the trackless paddocks, down the steep hill to this valley of peace. While I walk through the valley I realize that, though it seems so peaceful, many animal dramas are being enacted. The sly red fox may be melting through the grass, stalking some unwary rabbit or duck, or even a lamb. The fierce eagle may be descending from the misty heavens on top of a rabbit. The snake may be unleashing his poison upon a mouse. This is the only place on earth I know of where time seems to stand still. I always feel a tremor inside my body when I see these animals and birds enacting their songs and feeding habits. One side of the creek is very rocky, and among the ant-hills which frequent the rocks, I once found an echidna. I like to think as I wander through the valley that it is my own little world. A world that in my mind, is more pleasing than all of man's vast civilizations.

LORSQUE TU FERMERAS

When you close my eyes to the light,
 Lower them slowly, for they will have given you
 All that can hold passionate love
 In the last look of their last fervour.

Beneath the still light of the funeral torch,
 Bend your sad and beautiful face towards their farewell,
 To imprint forever in them the sole image
 Which they will keep in the grave.

And let me feel, before the coffin is nailed down,
 Our hands uniting on the white enshrouded
 bier,
 And near my face on the pale pillow
 Let your cheek rest an ecstasy of time.

And afterwards, let me go far aw^Tay with my heart,
 Which will preserve you as a flame so strong
 That even as I cross the dead and compact world
 The other dead may feel its ardour!

MACBETH

ACT I.

In the north of U.K. on one miserable night
 Three witches present quite a hideous sight,
 Near a cauldron of most oderiferous brew
 As three chemists might stand while inspecting their goo.

Then one dishevelled maiden with yellowish teeth

Says, "I'll meet you and Mac upon West For-res Heath".

Comes the day and the witches as evil as ever
 To see Mac and Banquo on West Forres
 Heather,

(They're both of them soldiers of no mean renown

Whose exploits are (literally) talk of the town:
 But surely the kind of lieutenant type which is More likely to murder than hobnob with bitches).

"Good evening Macbeth, thane of Glamis and Cawdor

And ruler to be," say the dames (in that order).
 Macbeth turns bright red and enraged screeches
 "Liar,"

But Beth has gone high and he wants to go higher.

He knows he's had Glamis, ten years to the day.
 But what of the rest that those scientists say?
 For Cawdor's quite well and is surely alive (Although kingship's not something at which not to strive).

Then MacB being dubious happens to query
 The witches who being unsociably wary
 Disappear as one says 'at the eye of a blink'
 And Macbeth changes colour from crimson to pink.

His offsider Banquo, considerably dazed
 Tells Macbeth that his company leaves him amazed.

Now a little revolt in the North of the land
 Had (to misquote the 'Herald') got quite out of hand.

Macbeth's been dispatched (with some troops)
 to the border

To break up the Norse and a traitor named Cawdor.

The latter defeated and bound to be killed,
 There was left a spare thanedom that had to be filled.

This heard, good King Duncan to parliament ran

And said to the premier "Mac. is the man."
 When Glamis heard this, he let fly with
 "What ho!

Three minus two means just one more to go."
 And sat down, an epistle to write to his wife,
 The traditional cause of all family strife.

Chez Duncan, the Thane soon finds out with dismay

That 'til step number three there will be some delay

For the post that Macbeth had hoped he'd have won

Had unfortunately gone to young Malcolm,
 D's son.

At home Herr Macbeth soon finds out that it's wise

To cut, if you can matrimonial ties.

By himself he could conquer his vaultingambition

But his wife spelt an end to that happy position
 As a reader with foresight I'm sure you'll agree
 It was murder allowing King Duncan to tea.

When the visit by Duncan to them had been fixed

It should have been known that their motives were mixed.

You think it's near over? In that case have fun
 This play has five acts and we've finished act one!

ACT II

Macbeth's now prepared to commit the foul deed.

And thinks of the power of which he has need.
 So taking up daggers he turns to his task.

(His purpose, by now, it is futile to ask).

And repairs with all haste good King Duncan to kill

Neglecting his guards who of beer 've had their fill.

But when he returns, having murdered at last,
 His wife stares amazed and then screams out aghast

"Your paws are all bloody—go wash them at once!

You may be the King but you're also a dunce.
 The simplest cop who can add two and two
 Would, on seeing your hands say 'The killer is you.'

And your hands being washed, please go straight off to bed

It seems that late hours are bad for your head.
 And as for the daggers you've brought with you here
 They were meant to be left with the guards,
 —do you hear."

Next morning Macbeth is awake once again
 When he hears someone ask "Is the King stirring thane?"

"Stirring what?" asks Macbeth as he climbs
 from his cot.

Then a man from the King answers "He stir-reth not."

For our royal master's murdered "Pray whom?" asks Macbeth

"This night says Macduff, our good King met his death

And not very far from our royal master's rooms
 A couple of guards met a couple of dooms.

Donalbain and Malcolm, the sons of the King
 Are of course most disturbed at this terrible thing

And were terribly wise as we're going to see
 To respectively England and Ireland to flee.

But there seemed to the others to be little doubt
 That the royal assassins by now'd been found out.

And very soon after the news gets around —Macbeth's gonna Scone and he's gonna be crowned.

ACT III.

Now back in Act I I'm afraid I have erred;
 To a promise to Banquo I should have referred.
 He'd beget, said the witches, a long line of kings
 And Macbeth (in Act III) asks, "Have I done
 these things

That none of my offspring shall rise to the throne;

That I shall be last of my kind, crowned at Scone,

If my family's claim to the crown I cement
 Dear Banquo and Fleance, I must circumvent
 I've murdered a King and it didn't seem hard.
 Would a couple more deaths scare a man murder-scarred?

I'll line up some soldiers to kill them tonight
 And pay triple rates if they do the thing right."
 That evening Macbeth had arranged for a meal
 And invited the thanes of the country to feel
 They were most honoured guests of their land's highest Thane

(A man who was hoping that long he would reign).

After entree Macbeth thinks he's had too much booze

When having from killers extracted the news
 That tho' Banquo is dead (here's some cause to to be gay)

His son, comrade Fleance has flee-en away.
 But as if that's not all, in the midst of the meal
 A terrible sight to the table doth steal;
 Macbeth sees ghost Banquo and both appear white

For the King is abhorred by the hideous sight.
 The lords see it not and say, thane unto thane
 "It seems that our King's p'raps a little insane"
 But the Queen with no limit of womanly guile
 Bids adieu to the guests with the pleasantest smile

And admits that she knew that her dear husband had

On one or two times seemed a tiny bit mad.
 Now just as friend Banquo'd suspected the King,
 A couple of lords do the very same thing,
 And like Duncan's sons reason "Tis better to bolt

And seek foreign aid for domestic revolt."

ACT IV.

Now Macbeth has considered that all is not well
 Since the partial success of his purposes fell.
 And resolves to go out on the very first train
 After noon just to meet the hags on their terrain

To see just how long he'll continue his reign,
 Or if there'll be murder all over again.

Not of others—Macbeth doesn't care for them much

But he hopes no-one dare his royal personage touch.

The dames greet the King as he comes to their heath

With a spectacle likely to bring mixed relief.
 A couple of spectres announce, "Guard your life
 From Macduff the militant, great Thane of Fife."

And another, "Be resolute, laugh you to scorn,
 For no-one's to fear if he's of woman born."

And the third says, "There's no-one alive who will kill

You till Birnam Woods come to Dunsmane
 Hill."

But last's a procession of Kings. At the end
 Is a ghost of Thane Banquo, Alacbeth's short dead friend,

King Macbeth can't help thinking that if he is tough

He can cancel one vision by killing Macduff,

And so hurries off to Fife's home with all haste
 His children and wife and his lands to lay waste
 But despite all the deaths, all the blood's shed
 in vain
 For everyone's home save Macduff, viz. the Thane.
 The latter had fled to fair England's green land
 To see Duncan's son Malcolm who had been heir, and
 Join up with some army as quick as can be,
 And with military skill cause the villain to flee.
 Comes Thane Ross with the news of Duff's family's death
 And Macduff vows he'll soon put an end to Macbeth.

ACT V.

Back in Scotland, Beth's spouse has gone mad
 (soon she dies)
 But it seems not her husband to greatly surprise.
 In his insecure lair he is thinking he's right
 For till Birnam Wood rises he need not take fright,
 And every man living's from mother been born
 So thoughts of defeat are just something to scorn.
 When somebody taps him and asks him to see
 A mysterious movement, as tree after tree
 Of Birnam's great Wood to his castle removes
 And with a most terrible pointedness proves
 That the fearful hags' prophesies all may come true
 Which means that Macbeth's years may be all too few.
 You ask how the Woods can from Birnam advance
 Regarding me with an incredulous glance.
 But here's my reply to that dubious frown—
 Duff's men have been ordered to cut the trees
 down

And use them to act as a kind of disguise
 While approaching the spot where the enemy lies.
 At long last Macbeth finds himself facing Macduff
 And says "Well my man, it's a little bit rough
 But the witches predict that you're certain to die."
 "How come," says Macduff "pray reveal to me why."
 "Well you see it's a known biological fact
 That by no mother's son can myself be attacked
 With a chance of success"—"Hold a bit!" says
 Thane Fife,
 "And treasure what's left of your miserable life.
 For from my fair mother I wasn't quite born
 But untimely ripped—there's your fiendish plans torn.
 So now say good-bye to this life and prepare
 For a sojourn in fire and sulphurous air."
 And after a fight, the proud King's soul did go
 To help stoke the boilers in regions below.
 And Malcolm at last was as majesty crowned
 To be followed by Fleance; The finish was bound
 To occur since the witches could never be wrong.
 And here ends Will Shakespeare's most dolorous song.
 The moral is brief: What the spirits say goes
 And any who seeks to revise his fate goes
 As Macbeth did. So kindly deduce from this play
 That whatever your felony, crime doesn't pay.

POST SCRIPT.
 Macbeth being shorter than most Shakespeare plays
 It would pay you to look at it one of these days!

PREPARATORY SCHOOL

The third year in our new school began with the opening of the magnificent new wing containing the Sir Horace Robertson Memorial Hall, the Art and Science Hall, and the Music practice rooms.

At our first assembly, on Thursday 15th February, we were pleased to welcome several new members of staff. Miss Hamnett and Miss Nicholl came to us from the Tasmanian Education Department; Mr. Rachinger from the Victorian Education Department; Mr. Hatton from Mercer House; Mr. Keary from Brisbane University; and Mr. Wardle from The Gordon Institute of Technology. Mention was made of the addition, that morning, of three new forms to our Prep. School—2A, 2B, and 2C forms. A warm welcome was also accorded to Mr. Mackie from Senior School and the Rev. A. J. McAdam who are with us part time, and to the fifty new boys, particular mention being made of the boys promoted to us from the Kindergarten.

The Easter Service this year took place in St. David's Church. The Prep. Choir was heard to advantage, as parents joined the staff and boys, in worship led by the School Chaplain, the Rev. E. C. McLean. The Rev. A. J. McAdam gave the address, and the lessons were read by the Principal and the Acting Headmaster.

The Anzac Service, broadcast for schools from the Shrine of Remembrance, was recorded and played over our P.A. System, at 11 a.m. on Anzac Day. It proved an impressive ceremony with the school assembled around the Flag Pole and the Form Captains placing wreaths at the appropriate time.

At our morning assembly, earlier that day, Mr. D. Roydhouse, Acting President of The Geelong Legacy Club, spoke concerning the real meaning of Anzac Remembrance, and the Honour Roll was read. This Anzac Remembrance was led by the School Chaplain.

A very enjoyable address was given, on Friday 6th April, by the Rev. Ron Sparks, concerning his call to the Inland Mission adventure at Ord River, Western Australia.

Social Service

The Social Service Committee which consists of representatives from each form is particularly active this term. Executive positions are held by J. Crellin and I. Penrose, Honorary Joint Secretaries, and D. Wardle, Honorary Treasurer, who has been kept busy depositing the many contributed coins in our bank account.

Once again we have invited speakers to talk to the boys during the Morning Assembly, and we are grateful to Miss Webb (Red Cross) and Mrs. Eldridge ("Karingal") for speaking about their organizations. The committee has also made excursions to The Red Cross Rooms, "Karingal" Training Centre for Mentally Retarded Children, and The Geelong Legacy Club.

During the term, we held several fund-raising efforts to supplement the usual Friday donations. Boat race mascots were made and sold by the boys of 5D with ribbon kindly provided by Mr. K. Nail. A railways exhibition was staged, and a scavenger hunt organized on the last day of term. We also collected and sold milk bottle tops, and held several drink stalls.

An innovation this year was the giving of presents on Anzac Day, for Ex-Servicemen at home or in hospital. The boys responded readily to the Committee's suggestion, and a large collection of magazines, books, soap, chocolates, cigarettes and even socks, was handed to the Welfare Officer of The Returned Soldiers' League, for distribution.

Art and Handwork

The Art and Handwork centre which has been described as "palatial" in "The Prep. News" editorial has been the centre of much industry, both during the school periods and after. The activities after school, which have attracted a good many boys have included: working in leather, balsa modelling, making tiled tables, book binding, clay modelling and mosaic mural work. These activities have led to the naming of the centre as "Little Hog", or as Mr. Thwaites said "Little Piglet". The activities at the "Little Hog" have been carried out under the supervision of Mr. Rachinger, Mr. Mainwood and Miss Hamnett, with the help of the Art and Craft Committee, which consists of I. Bonney, G. Brown, R. Chisholm, J. Crellin, A. Davey, D. Green, J. Hedley, P. Hocking, D. Jolly, R. Morris, P. Osmond, D. Renfrey, J. W. Roydhouse, P. Russell and C. Stinton.

Library

This year, The Helen Mackie Library has continued to develop, and a healthy interest is shown in the library throughout the school.

The inclusion this year, for the first time in The Preparatory School, of three of the second forms has created a need for books suitable for this age group. The boys have more than justified the buying of such books by their keen interest in reading.

This year, two committees have been formed: The Senior Committee, under Mrs. Wood, with A. Walter and R. Spokes as the Chief Librarians; and The Junior Committee, under Mrs. Burrell, with T. Thwaites as the Chief Librarian. These committees help keep the shelves in order, organize displays, process books, record and display magazines, cope with overdue books and generally help to keep the library running smoothly.

Our thanks are due to several donors of books, particularly to: Dr. D. N. Seward, for his gift of three beautiful volumes on Butterflies, Parrots and the Pacific Ocean; the Rev. A. J. McAdam, who has kindly lent us a number of religious books; Mr. V. H. Profitt; P. Peardon; Mr. N. N. Rachinger; Mr. R. H. Wilson, for his gift of a set of bound volumes of 'The National Geographic Magazine'; and the Rev. E. C. McLean; as well as all of the boys who have lent material for displays.

Music

The musical high-light of first term has been the impressive Festival of Music, held at Scotch College, on 11th May. There, our choir joined with those of the other Church Schools in massed choral presentations, under the baton of Mr. P. Chapman—as well as contributing two works by Norman Kaye: "A Song of Courage" and "A Song of Victory". Following the festival, our boys remained in Melbourne overnight, and played a football match next morning with the Choir boys of Scotch College. Quite a memorable weekend for our musical forces!

Mothers' Auxiliary

A milestone has been passed in the establishment of a mothers' auxiliary which will meet each month at the school to develop friendships and establish a bridge head between the community and the school. At the inaugural gathering, more than one hundred mothers were present to hear the Principal, Mr. P. N. Thwaites, speak concerning the future of Geelong College. Despite a rainy day for the second meeting, another large congregation listened to Mr. Watson speak on the aims of the Prep. School before being introduced to the members of staff concerned with the work of the primary forms. For the present, Mrs. Hamilton has kindly agreed to act as President and Mrs. Betts as Secretary.

"The Prep. News"

A new publication began in first term. If the thirteen interesting pages of information produced by the boys is a true indication of what we can expect in the future, we wish their News a long life.

Swimming

On the Thursday before Easter, Mr. Thwaites gave out fifty-three Senior Certificates and Mr. E. B. Davies gave out sixty-three Junior Certificates. Earlier in the term twenty-three boys had gained their Herald Certificates. Also G. Bigmore, D. Green, D. Batten, A. Gordon, A. Walter and B. Fleming passed their Bronze Medallions. D. Renfrey, R. Bowen and R. Spokes have been recommended for their Intermediate Star. Another fifty boys are to be tested for their Bronze Medallion or Intermediate Star during the last weeks of the school year.

Scores so far:	23 Herald Certificates.
	63 Junior Certificates.
	53 Senior Certificates.
	3 Intermediate Stars.
	6 Bronze Medallions.

On Saturday 24th Alarch, a number of our best swimmers joined with Senior School at the Eastern Beach Pool to represent Geelong College in the All Schools Carnival.

David Batten excelled in the Under 12 Events, Gary Bigmore in the Under 14, and David Clarke in the Under 10. Our relays were particularly strong and College retained the "Strahan Shield" with 87 points, 60 points ahead of the nearest rival.

On Saturday 28th April, sixteen of our best swimmers represented us at Wesley College in an evening contest with Wesley, Haileybury and Ballarat Colleges. Although David Clarke, Gary Bigmore, David Batten and Billy Fleming won events, our relays were out-classed by the strong Melbourne teams. It was, for us, a most enjoyable experience.

Final scores: Wesley 84, Haileybury 53, Geelong College 512, Ballarat 31.

Cricket

The cricket season was notable, not only for the unusually long spell of fine weather, but also for two main developments in our Prep, cricket arrangements. Firstly, we shared the Under 14 Public School Competition with Senioi School, achieving some good results. Secondly, two very pleasant games between fathers and sons declared open the new turf wicket area on the lower cricket oval. Since then more turf has been purchased and placed in position near the classroom area for use, in the future, as practice wickets. (Nearby the Tennis Court is steadily taking shape under the skilful direction of Mr. Head, Mr. Wardle and Mr. Hobbs).

ORIGINAL CONTRIBUTIONSTHE SIXTHS GO TO MELBOURNE

By J. Keddie, 6J.

On Friday 6th April, the members of the sixth form, Geelong Preparatory School, went on a trip to Melbourne to see the Zoo, the docks, and the Malayan Exhibition.

Mr. Hatton and Mr. Mainwood accompanied the boys. The first stop was at the Zoological Gardens, where we were shown around. Some of the boys brought along their cameras. When we had seen everything, we had our lunch; perhaps the best part of the excursion for some of us. Then on to the bus and away we went.

The wharves were very interesting, as there were plenty of ships in dock. The "Princess of Tasmania" was in too, although she was only glimpsed from a distance.

At the Exhibition, we were met by our guides who took us through an excellent display of products of Malaya, and national costumes. We then saw a most educational film on rubber. It showed us the various stages it goes through.

I am sure that those who went have benefited from the excursion. It will also increase our knowledge of our neighbours in other countries. I hope you have the opportunity to visit this and other displays like it.

AN AUTUMN WALK

By L. R. McLean, 5A.

One pleasantly warm Autumn evening, I started off on a walk, with my dog, Toby, scampering beside me. I headed for a nearby, tree-lined creek which was spanned by a narrow bridge. High above me, a little skylark filled the evening with its outstanding song from the sky above. At length I reached the tinkling, icy-cold creek. Graceful willow trees dipped their golden boughs into the icy stream below.

I crossed the stream, being very wary of crossing the rotten planks in the centre of the bridge. Now the frog chorus floated from the reeds alongside the running stream. I walked along a narrow path which I knew would lead me across the creek and through a grassy field to home. As I entered this grassy stretch, I was suddenly filled with awe at the fiery sunset with the sun sinking low behind the western horizon.

That night in bed, I thought over the day's events and decided that Autumn was the most inspiring season of all.

OUR PREP.

By M. I. McDonald, 2A.

Under the Southern Cross by night,
 Stands this school which is mine for ever,
 Always shedding forth its light
 Of knowledge and of right endeavour.
 On the Banks of the Barwon, it stands on high
 For everyone to see,
 Here many a boy sets his aims on the sky,
 Yes, this is the school for me.
 The Geelong College Prep. School of course is the name,
 With its vision of proud liberty.
 On fields of sport and by classroom fame
 Its name will ever be honoured, you'll see.

THE MILLS AT DEVILS' POOL

By D. Wardle, 1B.

Devils' Pool is a small, deep, natural lake held in by blue stone cliffs, just below Buckley's Falls. The falls were named after William Buckley, the "Wild White Man" who escaped from the H.M.S. Calcutta in 1803. Buckley lived in this district, with the aborigines, for over thirty years.

The pool and the falls are on the Barwon River, near its junction with the Moorabool River, at Geelong. The water above these falls was used by two mills which are still to be seen there.

On the south bank of the river, was the Barabool Water Mill, and here, in 1856, John Highett, Esq. ground local wheat for flour. Some of this flour was sent to Ballarat to be sold at the diggings.

In 1888, the Flour Mill was turned into a starch mill by J. and A. Price. Starch making did not bring much money so then it was turned into a Jam Factory.

When the Mill was turned into a Jam Factory, they used the fruit from the orchard above the mill.

The water for jam making was filtered through sand filters.

That stopped soon after, so the building just fell into ruins.

About 1900, a Mr. Baum bought the mill, the orchard, the homestead which John Highett built and the land, for farming. Some of the original pear and apricot trees still bear fruit.

On the north bank of the river, an old blue-stone building can be seen today. This was built in 1878 for the production of brown paper at first and later made newsprinting and writing papers. It was not supported enough by the people of Victoria, and many attempts were made to bring success. Paper has not been produced there since 1923.

Today it is used for ice-making and fibre glass boats, but water still flows down the water races.

SHOWERS

By C. Proudfoot, 2A.

Rush up to the bedroom and strip till you're bare,
 Grab up dressing gown then hop down the stair;
 Now to the showers and pull off your coat
 And stand on the drain hole creating a moat.
 Off to the windows as quick as a flash . . .
 Yank them all down, back to showers dash,
 Then out of the water and turn on the hot,
 Creating much steam till visibility's not!
 The master on duty's swept up in the strife,
 So the curtain comes down on this true picture of life.

THE LAUGHING KOOKABURRA

By D. Gorell, 5D.

Each morning at the break of day,
 The bushman's clock awakens me,
 So hearty, joyous, bright and gay,
 From high up in our old gum tree.

Ho, ho, ha, ha, ho, ho, ha, ha;
 I wonder what the joke might be.
 Ho, ho, ha, ha, ho, ho, ha, ha;
 What can he see from yonder tree?

Oh many times around I've hid,
 But ne'er a sight nor sound was near
 To make me laugh like Jacky did
 On every day of every year.

Yet join I must his glad refrain,
 Ho, ho, ha, ha, ho, ho, ha, ha,
 At dawn, at dusk, in sun or rain,
 Together we laugh—ho, ho, ha, ha.

KUALA LUMPUR

By J. Duigan, 2A.

During my two and a half years in Malaya, I saw much of the capital city, Kuala Lumpur. This city is the meeting place of many races. Indian, Chinese, Europeans, Malay, Pakistani and many others. It has up-to-date buildings, clubs, swimming pools and hotels. In the poorer quarter, narrow streets are marked by stalls where people are selling many varying foods, from fish to birds' nest soup.

A meal in a Chinese restaurant is eaten with chop sticks, and consists of something like this: Birds' nest soup, sharks' fin soup, fried prawns, Nazi Goering (fried rice and various vegetables) Lychees and cream. This would be a small meal at a party with Chinese food. They often have 15-20 courses!

The King of Malaya's palace is in Kuala Lumpur, and while we were there the throne changed three times. The first King of Malaya died after about four years of ruling. The sultans of the states elected a new king, the Sultan of Selangor. After reigning only six months he died, and at present the King of Malaya is the Sultan of Perlis.

EUCLA

By W. Ferguson, 5D.

Eucla is on the Great Australian Bight, ten miles inside the Western Australia border. It was started on the 8th December, 1877 as a telegraph station between Perth and Adelaide. It was quite a busy place then, with a population of fifty. But when the Transcontinental Railway was built, a telephone line was put alongside of it, so there was no need any more for Eucla.

Mr. R. Gurney and his family stayed on and ran sheep and supplied petrol to passing motorists. It also became an official weather station. Its surroundings are bare and desolate with no water except for a small bore.

Now it is sad to know that the old telegraph station is coming to an end. The wind is blowing the white sand over the land, and gradually will cover the whole area. The Gurneys are moving their petrol station up on to the high ground of Eulca Pass. They will be ready to serve travellers who drive over to Perth for the Commonwealth Games.

THE SPIDER

By J. Collins, 5D.

The Spider does not eat his victims, he only sucks juice from their bodies. He kills:—flies, snails, slugs and other garden pests by injecting a poisonous fluid through his fangs. Most of the spider family are not dangerous to humans.

There are however two dangerous species in Australia. These are the Redback and the Funnelweb.

Redbacks usually hide under rocks or in dark places such as old sheds. They are known by the red stripe on their backs, and their poison is equal to that of many snakes.

The Funnelweb is a glossy black spider and is often up to two inches in length. It is always aggressive and ready to attack. Luckily for Victorians the Funnelweb is mainly found north of Sydney.

A common Australian spider is the Huntsman often called the Tarantula. The spider is not dangerous to humans. It does not spin a web but runs its prey down in the open.

ASSOCIATION ACTIVITIES

ANNUAL REUNION

The Annual Meeting of the Association is to be held in the Norman Morrison Hall, on Saturday, 28th July, following the P.S. Football match against Geelong Grammar School on the Grammar oval at Corio. The Annual Dinner will take place at Sladen House, Pakington Street, at 6.15 p.m., when guests will include Prof. Robert W. Honeycombe, (who will be the guest speaker), and Mr. P. N. Thwaites (Principal of the College).

Prof. Honeycombe, who left the College in 1937, took his Doctorate of Philosophy at Cambridge, and became professor of physical metallurgy at Sheffield University England. He was awarded the Rosenhain Medal in 1959 in recognition of his outstanding contributions to the field of physical metallurgy. Prof. Honeycombe is at present on loan to the Melbourne University.

Entree cards for the Dinner are available from the Association Office, or from Mr. W. McCann, "Highview" Highton, Geelong, at a cost of £2/0/0 each.

MELBOURNE BALL

Encouraged by the success of the functions held in recent years in Melbourne, the Melbourne Committee is arranging a Dinner Dance at the Palais de Danse, St. Kilda, on Friday, 27th July.

Representatives of Old Boys Associations of the other Public Schools will be present at this function, which will be held in a new room at the Palais.

Tickets are available from Mr. G. W. Ewan, 1 The Nook, North Balwyn.

BOAT RACE BALL

The efforts of the Social Committee were rewarded by the Boat Race Ball being booked out a week before the function and by the excellence of the Ball itself.

The central motif was a platform in the centre of the dance floor on which was placed a speed-boat and two figures representing Mr. J. H. Campbell and Mr. A. B. Bell—two men who have contributed outstanding service to the College rowing club for many years.

The official party comprised the President of the Association (Mr. H. C. Fallaw), the Principal of the College (Mr. P. N. Thwaites), the Vice-Principal (Mr. D. D. Davey), the Vice-President of the Association (Mr. K. S. Nail), and their wives.

The Chairman of the Social Committee (Mr. W. McCann) was ably assisted in the planning and conduct of this most successful occasion by the other members of his Committee, Mr. B. J. Solomon, Mr. J. Fidge, Mr. B. G. Thorn, and Mr. D. C. Pigdon.

Once again Mr. W. Wishart provided booking facilities, and he and his staff handled this part of the organisation with enthusiasm and efficiency.

A profit of approximately £40 was earned for the Centenary Building Fund.

HERBERT ALEXANDER PURNELL, who was associated with the firm of Robert Purnell Pty. Ltd., for more than half a century, died after a long illness. Mr. Purnell was a keen ornithologist and philatelist, and was an office bearer of several Masonic Lodges.

H. G. PHILIP, who left the College in 1904, died on September 25, 1961. He owned a grazing property, "Kulkurt", Tatyoon, at the time of his death, and was an Elder of the Tatyoon Presbyterian Church. Mr. Philip was also a keen sportsman.

INVESTMENT

After discussions with the College Council, the Committee of the Association decided to invest £11,000 of its Life Members' funds in the College itself, in the form of an unsecured loan bearing interest at 5% per annum.

This action was taken to enable the College to purchase a property in Noble Street, Newtown, "Mossgiel", which is now being used by the Rolland House boarders, and which may ultimately become the replacement for Warrinn House.

As the funds had previously been invested in Commonwealth Loans, some of which yielded only 3 1/8% interest, the Association's earnings should be augmented by the change. Fortunately, the investments were able to be realised at more than their nominal value, so that no capital loss was incurred.

PHILIP G. PULLAR was head prefect at the College in 1909, when he also rowed in the Head of the River crew. He was very active in sport in his younger days, being well known as a footballer, golfer and bowler in Mooroopna and Tatura. Mr. Pullar was President of the Tatura Agricultural Society from 1923 to 1927, and was interested in several community and church organisations.

ROBERT J. SMAIL, who died on March 27, was engaged with his brother in a wool and skin business in Ballarat for a number of years.

PETER G. SINCLAIR, whose father is Colin Sinclair ('10), was fatally injured in a car accident on December 13, 1961. He left a widow and a son, aged three years.

ALEXANDER G. TREWIN, who attended the College from 1943 to 1945, died on June 1 as the result of a road accident. He was on the land at Wonwondah East, and was an enthusiastic member of the Horsham branch of the O.G.C.A. He was aged 31.

WILLIAM McCALLUM MACPHERSON, aged 21, died tragically in a motor accident at Stawell on May 13. He attended the College from 1955 to 1957, being prominent in tennis and football. He went on to a wool classing course at the Gordon Institute of Technology, and thence to his family's property.

CREW TO REPRESENT AUSTRALIA

A coxed four representing Corio Bay Rowing Club and coached by Albert Bell, has been chosen to represent Australia at the Commonwealth Games in Perth and at an International Rowing Contest in Switzerland. The crew comprises four Old Collegians, DAVID CAITHNESS, DAVID JOHN, DEREK NORWOOD, and DAVID RAMAGE.

The Mayor of Geelong, Cr. A. R. McAllister, tended a civic reception to the crew on Tuesday, 29th May.

It was later announced that the crew would decline the invitation to compete in Switzerland in order to concentrate on the Commonwealth (James) event.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

(Extracts from "Pegasus", 1912)

The Senior Prefect for the year is G. N. I. Morrison. He is supported by D. P. I. Dunlop, W. W. Leggatt, G. A. N. Mitchell and W. J. Reid from the boarders, and by J. I. Birnie, J. H. Campbell and E. W. Opie from the day boys.

At a recent meeting of the General Games Committee, it was decided to award an "Honour Badge" to any boy who succeeded in gaining a place in any four out of the following teams:—cricket, football, rowing, shooting, and running. This distinction will be somewhat difficult of attainment, and it is not anticipated that more than one or two boys in a year will succeed in gaining it.

We have received a copy of the School Song, "Jubilation", written by Alan F. Wilson, and set to music by the Rev. Alfred Wheeler. It is dedicated "To the boys, past and present, of the Geelong College, on the occasion of the Jubilee 1911". Copies are obtainable at Allan's at the moderate price of 2d.

The Norman Morrison Memorial Hall erected in the Geelong College grounds by Old Boys as a tribute of love and affection towards the late headmaster of the School, was formerly handed over to the School Council at the Annual Reunion of the Old Collegians on Friday, May 31st, 1912. It is a substantial brick building of striking design.

The usual awkward gap between football and cricket seasons was this year to some extent filled by the completion of the new tennis court, which was so kindly presented to us by Mrs. Hawkes.

(At a meeting of Head Masters). After considerable discussion the following resolution was unanimously carried by those present, "That the Heads of the Public Schools for boys and girls, approve of the three-term system, and agree to recommend their Councils to adopt it." This system will probably be adopted by the Council of the College and may come into force next year.

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO

(Extracts from "Pegasus", 1937)

This year's General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Victoria held unusual interest for Geelong College by virtue of the fact that the Principal, Rev. F. W. Rolland, had been chosen as Moderator Elect. The induction ceremony was performed at the opening of Assembly on Monday, April 26, by the Rt. Rev. A. Irving Davidson, the retiring Moderator, and an Old Collegian.

The place of Air. Bechervaise as Warden of the House of Guilds has been taken by Mr. R. E. Radcliffe. Mr. G. Logie Smith has been appointed as full time music master to assist Mr. Shepherd whose regular visits continue.

The House of Music has now been completed and presents a distinguished appearance to both the street and School sides.

The year 1937 will be long remembered by the tragic epidemic of infantile paralysis.

(Old Boys) Charles Naples Brown has been elected Mayor of the City of Geelong for the third successive year. James D'Helin has been appointed as organiser of the Geelong Centenary celebrations, which will commence in October, 1938. Ross Quick is outdoor sales manager for Washington's, Mildura, and in the tennis world holds the district championship. E. W. McCann is President of the Geelong Agricultural Society. Dr. F. M. Burnet has played an important part in the work of Consultative Council on infantile paralysis.

(Football) Unfortunately, the fourth and fifth rounds of the Public School matches had to be abandoned owing to the outbreak of infantile paralysis, but it seems most likely that Melbourne Grammar would have been premiers, followed by Geelong College and Xavier.

Who, when he was playing cricket on the old "cow paddock", did not dream of a lovely smooth oval? And now we have it.

Generations of College Boys have come to regard with affection and respect the Rev. Canon Wheeler of All Saints' Church of England, Newtown, who conducted his farewell service as Vicar on October 17.

The Council is planning a new boarding house for sixty boys. The completed building will be reminiscent of an Elizabethan Manor House, and will thus be in keeping with the Tudor style chosen for the whole scheme. This house will hold a dominating position on the very top of the College Hill. The cost will be about £17,000. Towards this sum the Trustees of Mackie Estate have donated £10,000.
