THE PEGASUS

This is a year in which the College is on the verge of taking an important step in educational progress. Application has been made to the Department of Education for this school to be granted "A" class accreditation. What does this mean, and what are the factors behind it?

Basically, "A" class accreditation means that a school is empowered to award the Leaving Certificate to its form V students on the basis of term tests and internal examinations. The present system entails teaching towards a final examination, using a standard syllabus. The existing system is, however, by no means perfect. Education is not just passing examinations, and the principle by which a candidate's whole year is assessed at one examination is inequitable. The whole year is thus geared to one final examination, and education in its fullest sense becomes an impossibility. Further, results are not known until mid-January, and thus decisions on a boy's future are unnecessarily delayed, while most job opportunities have already been taken.

The advantages of the internal system of Leaving Examination are clear, for the whole year is taken into account and the education a boy receives assumes more balanced proportions. A borderline case therefore has the advantage that good work throughout the year may count in his favour. A big advantage administratively is that the results would be known before Speech Day, and thus, not only would a boy know his next step, but the school could simplify its arrangements for boarding houses and classes much earlier.

There are some difficulties to be overcome, in that the school staff have to undertake the responsibility of marking the third term papers, as well as maintaining a constant programme of tests and assessment throughout the year. On the other hand, the qualified teacher in an "A" class school has the opportunity to plan his own syllabus and give it a depth previously not possible. Enthusiastic staff members have the chance to use modern teaching methods with the boys. Surely one of the great advantages of this is that the top level boy need not be restricted, but can be kept working at capacity, towards tertiary education. It seems that "A" class accreditation is a better system for all concerned, and in fact means a better education. Numerous Melbourne schools have taken up this system, and it will not be long before we will know whether The Geelong College is to be added to the list. After all the times "they are a-changin'." Victoria's Matriculation is undergoing close scrutiny, and it is conceivable that it too may be replaced by an internal system in the future.

VITH FORM

The following report appeared in The Colac Herald on Wednesday, March 27th.:

GEELONG COLLEGE TEAM "INVADE" WINCHELSEA

Splendid Work on Youth Club Building

Thirty senior Geelong College boys, the Vice-Principal, a teacher and the school carpenter "invaded" Winchelsea last week on a goodwill mission.

Residents looked on amazed as the boys arrived in combi-buses and started to unload a pile of equipment from a station wagon.

Out came extension ladders, ladder planks, electric sanders, wire brushes, sanding blocks, tins of paint, paint brushes, putty and knives, jemmies, chisels and saws.

Then the boys marched on the Winchelsea Community Youth Club building and with precision tackled repairing the outside walls.

This building, recently leased by the Winchelsea Shire Council to the club, had not been painted for over 20 years.

Part of the cement sheet back wall was broken and the whole building an eyesore to residents.

Months of planning and organising by the Vice-Principal, Mr. Des Davey, and the club President, Rev. J. Kennedy Paton, were undertaken before the project started.

As soon as the boys arrived they set to work immediately in previously planned groups.

One group sanded down the front wall and gave the major section of it a coat of priming oil and red lead.

Another group started on the numerous broken windows and replaced the glass.

All the broken cement sheets from the back wall were removed and replaced with new corrugated iron by group three.

Group four painted the cement sheets which had replaced the windows in the bluestone part of the building, while others chipped the grass around the walls.

In just over two hours the work was done. It was estimated every five minutes of the combined 30 workers' time equalled one man working for two and a half hours.

The Youth Club Committee were delighted so much could be accomplished in such a short time.

Next Thursday half the team will return and apply the undercoat and the following week the other half of the team will give the walls a final coat of paint and trimmings.

Donations of oil, undercoat and primer from firms in Geelong, Winchelsea and Colac, goods supplied at cost, the boys' free labor and a Government grant made the project of restoring the hall possible.

Naturally when work was done the boys were enthusiastic about the afternoon tea supplied by the Youth Club Ladies' Committee.

On behalf of the people of Winchelsea Mr. Paton thanked the College staff and the boys for their interest and solid work in this community project.

P.F.A.

Management can make or break any club, business or society. This could be the reason there has been so much success in the P.F.A. this term. Much has been achieved by the hard working committee—Lex Spry, President; Peter Young, Secretary; Andrew Hewitt, Treasurer; Reg Eagles; Brian Smibert; Keith Borthwick; Peter Barr; Adam Wettenhall and John Faulkner—under the guidance of Mr. Martin.

The committee is always thrilled by the capacity attendance of interested members at our meetings. It is through the interest shown by members that we are able to gauge our success.

Some of the highlights of the term have been a spectacular address with slides by Mr.

JUNE, 1968—9

Prenter; a study of the serious side of "Peanuts" led by Mr. Martin; our annual Boat Race panel; a panel of masters answering questions prepared by the committee; a film entitled "Food or Famine", and a most comprehensive and interesting review of the play, "A Devil to Pay", presented by Mr. Thwaites.

After two combined committee meetings with the Morongo P.F.A. committee it was decided that we would have a ferry trip across Port Phillip Bay and a barbecue on the last Sunday of April. This was a great success from all accounts.

This term was successful in getting everybody interested in our cause. The next two terms, we plan to make even more successful, for we intend to fulfil our P.F.A. policy by helping people in our community.

LIBRARY

With the return of quite a few members of last year's Library Council it would appear that Mrs. Wood's unenviable task in the library will be made somewhat easier. However, despite the experience of the Councillors, the problems of controlling and organizing the library have increased. Already, lack of space has forced some spare periods to be carried on away from the library and its reference material. Shelf space is also nearing full capacity as the never-ending demand for books is met. In this area, though, we hope to gain some respite as a small amount of space is to be made available to us when the present Headmaster's house is reallocated.

At the end of last year we were very sorry to lose the services of Miss H. Bryant who had made a valuable contribution to the library during her years here. We have been fortunate in finding, as her replacement, Mrs. M. E. Kristiansen from Belmont High School.

Adrian Davey and Tony Johns have already provided us with an interesting range of speakers for the library talks and appear to have an imposing list still to come. So far the speakers have included Mr. Wardle and Mr. Webb, both of whom gave us accounts of their recent overseas trips; Mr. Albert Bell, coach of the First VIII, speaking on rowing; and Peter Holland and Adrian Davey on their experiences on the first Victorian camp of the Outward Bound Movement at Howman's Gap. A film of the Hawkesbury River camp of this movement was also shown.

Again this year, representatives from the College journeyed to Melbourne to the Children's Book Council Secondary Schools' meeting, although we did not participate this time. Plans are afoot for a Library night to be held early in second term at which prominent author, Judah Waten, will speak to representatives of the Hermitage, Morongo, Geelong Grammar and ourselves.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to Mr. J. F. Strachan for his valuable gift of books and also to Mr. A. Austin Gray and Dr. H. N. B. Wettenhall for their substantial gifts of money and books. Miss P. Barnfather and Mr. R. K. McArthur have also been generous in donating magazines.

SOCIAL SERVICE

Committee: Malcolm Anderson, Peter Betts, Geoff Chapman, John Dickson, John Faulkner, Robert Grover, Geoff McAdam, Bruce Plain.

At the start of the term Mr. Martin set about forming a committee to organize the weekly social service collections for the year. Luckily a few boys from last year's committee again showed interest and so we did not have to start from "scratch".

At the first meeting it was decided that the basic plan for collections set down by the 1967 committee would be followed with different, specific appeals being supported. The plan as it stands allows for about ten one-week appeals, five two-week appeals and one major appeal which is likely to be spread over at least five weeks. Whilst the committee has decided which appeals will be aided, it has left a few weeks vacant so that any late appeals can be considered and, if necessary, aided.

10—THE PEGASUS,

Apart from planning the appeals over the year, the committee's other main task is the job of presenting the appeals to the School. This involves either inviting a guest speaker with a good knowledge of the appeal and its aims, or having one member of the committee prepare a talk on the appeal from any available information.

So far this year the collections have been averaging slightly less than $15.00 a week and have been directed towards the Corilong Centre for Mentally Retarded Children, the Church's Chaplaincy in the Geelong Hospital, Red Cross, Abschol—scholarships for aboriginal children, the Missions to Seamen and the fight against epilepsy in Australia.

EXPLORATION SOCIETY

THE NADGEE TRIP: JANUARY, 1968.

We left Geelong at 7.15 a.m. on the last day of 1967. Our destination was a wild life reserve in the extreme south-east corner of New South Wales, sometimes known as The Nadgee. On our arrival at the Merrika Administration Centre at 4.30 p.m., we made ourselves known to Mr. Hope, the Warden Ranger, and gained his permission to enter the reserve. Our first camping site was Newton's Flat. The mini-bus found it hard going but finally made its destination, where it remained undisturbed for the next ten days. Tents were pitched, and then we ate and sang to the accompaniment of Mr. Hope's son playing the guitar.

On Monday we made ourselves acquainted with the immediate surroundings, where monitor lizards and snakes were observed in the morning. The lizards proved to be a pest for they scavenged any food that was not shut away. We walked south along the beach and rocks, which proved to house excellent oysters. We spent a lazy afternoon fishing and caught plenty of parrot fish. That night all slept well but Mr. Elliott, who was woken up by a snake on his sleeping bag, but being unable to find it, he persuaded himself he had dreamt it so he could get back to sleep.

Tuesday was an easy day of beach-combing along Newton's and Jane Speir's, but on Wednesday we vacated Newton's Flat at 8.20 a.m. hoping to reach Nadgee proper. We paused at Little River then soon after sighted the rare Ground Parrot. Ian Baird's enthusiasm roused the dormant ornithological curiosity of most and, working as a group, we flushed five parrots. We reached the Nadgee home-stead site a little after noon, and lunched heartily. The afternoon was particularly relaxing and the whole atmosphere was pleasantly soporific.

The following day we walked to the Nadgee beach. Peter Young picked up a tick on the way and despite special attention from Mr. Keith's first aid kit, the tick's head remained lodged in his shoulder. A rather unsuccessful period of fishing followed, for whereas Parrot fish abounded, Bream or anything else worth eating seemed very scarce. After some rather aimless scrub-bashing we came to the jeep track which we followed back to camp, stopping only to talk with Mr. Hope.

The next morning the weather was clear and we started off fairly early. Our destination was Cape Howe. Mr. Hope had suggested that we volunteer to carry ten metal fencing posts. We were therefore obliged to carry them to the last marker on the Cape Howe track. Cutting across moorland we came to Salt Lake. This was a bird (Baird?) paradise, with a good variety of birds both on and around the lake. Countless black swans, ducks, Pied Oyster Catchers, Dotterels, a small Tern, a pelican and an Alouet. We made quick work of the actual Cape Howe track and lunched on the Victorian side of the border (so we thought, but the Cape is just a number of huge shifting sand dunes, which makes estimating the border rather difficult).

Some large aboriginal middens provided archeological interest, although shells and sharpened stones seemed to be all that remained. By 2.15 p.m. we were on our way back, although at various speeds—in fact we left Mr. Elliott and Ian Baird at Salt Lake with the birds.

On Saturday morning we were woken by the gentle patter of rain on our tents (some were woken a bit earlier by the cold, dank feeling of a saturated sleeping bag). As it rained all day there was nothing to do but eat, then go back to bed or, if that was unsuitable, anywhere else that was dry like the water-proof, concrete-floored toilet block. There were 150 points of rain that day. The drizzle continued till Sunday morning so we decided to delay climbing Mt. Tabletop until the following day. The afternoon was clearer and we walked to the beach, sighting two more ground parrots.

Monday was better and things had dried out quite well. The winding track up and over Tabletop would eventually bring us back to Newton's Flat. From the mountain's summit there was a magnificent view in all directions. To the south is the Mallacoota township and inlet, Gabo Island and the lighthouse in Victoria; to the east miles of New South Wales coastline and the Pacific Ocean; to the north and west the Australian Alps, and also the track back to Newton's. Snakes, Lyrebirds and a Wonga Pigeon were sighted on the track. We arrived back at Newton's in good time and made ready to return the following day.

We left Nadgee at 8 a.m. via the Ranger's, thanking him and saying farewell. At Nadgee it was cool and drizzling, but across the border, we found our State sweltering in century heat, making the return trip very uncomfortable. The tail-end of the party reached Geelong at about 7.45 p.m.

Those who took part were: B. R. Keith, Esq.; F. W. Elliott, Esq.; R. B. Jamieson, Esq.; I. A. Baird; J. W. M. Dickson; I. A. Keith; D. M. Rolland; P. C. Young.

STAFF JOTTINGS

Five new members of staff took up appointments at the Senior School. Mr. R. T. Dobb, B.Comm., B.Ed. (Melb.), became Senior Economics master; Mr. R. Humphries, B.A. (Adel.), Senior French master; Mr. R. S. Hunt, B.A. (Agra), joined the mathematics staff; Mr. A. Mel. Scott, B.A. (Melb.), the English staff; and Mrs. M. E. Kristiansen, Library Association Registration Certificate, replaced Miss H. Bryant as assistant librarian.

Three additional young men also joined the boarding house staffs: Mr. C. N. Beel; Mr. D. E. McLellan, LL.B.; and Mr. R. Worland.

Mr. B. R. Wardle was welcomed back to the staff after his year's leave of absence abroad. Mr. Wardle has now transferred from the Preparatory School to Senior School where he is largely responsible for the Intermediate General Studies group, and has taken over Vocational Guidance work and the McArthur Housemastership, the latter two responsibilities freeing Mr. A. D. Mahar to act as Housemaster of Mackie House.

ROWING

Master-in-charge: T. L. Macmillan, Esq.

Captain of Boats: A. G. Davey.

The season started with six eights on the water, and within a few days of resuming school, the first three eights started nightly exercises. These continued until ten days before Boat Race, and an unusually high standard of exercises was reached. In a few days the First VIII, in the "Wimmera O.G.C.A.", was reasonably stable, and all crews settled down to solid training. Good use was made of some very hot Saturdays early in the season to build up stamina with long "swing-throughs" to the breakwater, and, after little more than a fortnight of training, Albert Bell and Robert Purnell had the First and Second VIII's going over the mile course, often accompanied by Syd. Thomas and his tough Third VIII.

A week or two before Barwon Regatta on 9th March, the effects of exercises were being felt, and all crews were becoming steadily fitter. Despite a number of changes the senior crews were settled again by the Regatta. The First to Fifth VIII's competed, and all gained valuable race experience against varied opposition from all over Victoria.

With only three weeks to go from Barwon Regatta to Head of the River on April 5th, 6th, the senior crews all concentrated on cleaning up their rowing and reaching the peak of their fitness. The First VIII, which had rowed in the "J. H. Bromell", took the "J. H. Campbell" for a row the night it was delivered, and decided to row in it for Head of the River. For the first time the First and Second VIII's could be compared in similar boats: the "J. H. Campbell" and "Wimmera O.G.C.A."

On Tuesday 26th March, the Boat Club farewelled Albert Bell, leaving on an overseas trip, and for the remaining ten days till Head of the River Alan Sykes took over the coaching of the First VIII.

The last week arrived, and all crews were prepared. All crews were very fit and the excitement rose as the days passed. On the Friday morning the school gave the First and Second VIII's a send off, and that afternoon saw the Second VIII sweep down the course to an exciting record-breaking win over M.G.S. and watched the First VIII come a sood third to C.G.S. and B.G.S.

The Saturday morning was the start of the rowing for the Third, Fourth and Fifth VIII's. All rowed well, the most impressive race being the Third VIII win over St. K.C. That afternoon the Third VIII came a close, exciting second to a powerful W.C., the Fourth VIII won their losers' final, and the Fifth VIII narrowly won their intermediate final. The First VIII came second in the losers' final, and the Second VIII came fourth in the winners', with M.G.S. breaking the record. Our congratulations go to Melbourne Grammar School, winning the Head of the River, and the Second Eights, in very fast times.

JUNIOR ROWING

For most of the season we were able to boat three junior eights, and the fours were always in constant use. The Sixth, Seventh and Eighth VIII's did not row in the Barwon Regatta, but rowed, the following week, in the Victorian Country Rowing Association Regatta on the Barwon. One week before Boat Race the junior fours rowed against several Ballarat College fours in a picnic regatta on the Barwon.

The crews that went to Melbourne for the Junior Regatta on 20th April did rather better than usual. The Sixth VIII came third in the winners' final, and the Eighth VIII were second in the intermediate final, so the prospects for the future are extremely good.

BOATS

On Saturday 24th February, Albert Bell named a new double rigged training pair, the "Norman Purnell" and this has been in use all the season.

Only four weeks after being commissioned, the First VIII took delivery of a new practice eight from Alan Sykes. They were so pleased with it that they decided to row in it for Boat Race, and a week later, just one week before the Head of the River, Miss Sheila Campbell named the eight "J. H. Campbell" in recognition of the long years of association of "J.H." with the Boat Club as Rowing Master. Even now, "J.H." is a familiar figure on the river bank, and will always be welcome in the shed and in the launch. The "J. H. Campbell" is the first boat under a College Council plan to make regular additions to the equipment of the Boat Shed.

The Boat Club is extremely grateful to the generosity of the Old Collegians for providing such things as the "Norman Purnell" and many other material needs in the Boat Shed.

A GOOD YEAR

1968 was a good year, despite its disappointments and apparent lack of success. The fighting spirit ran high all the season, and the way in which the exercises and hard rowing were tackled showed how keen the crews were. The hard work amongst the junior crews should be a basis of a strong Boat Club in the near future. On a Sunday late in the term, when all rowing was over, various members of all crews, from First VIII to junior fours, gathered at the Boat Shed and gave it the works. All the boats were hosed down, and, where possible, covered. The shed was given a complete clean out. Then, leaving an unnaturally clean shed, everyone boarded a bus to Anglesea for a barbecue, and rowing could then be forgotten—until next year.

The activities of this season could not have come about without the unending enthusiasm and assistance of a lot of men. The contribution of our dedicated coaches is an obvious one, but the crews are no less indebted to Mr. Macmillan and Mr. McNeill, both of whom were constantly behind the scenes, organising and encouraging. Among the many others who should be mentioned are Mrs. Cloke and her staff, and Messrs. E. B. Davies, P. N. Everist and D. R. Salmon.

Master-in-charge: E. B. Davies, Esq.

Last year, for the first time, the players asked the coach to appoint the Captain and Vice-Captain. Consequently, David Barkley and Jamie Williamson were appointed for the 1968 season, with David Johnstone, Philip Marendaz and Robert Sheringham making up the remainder of the committee. These boys performed their duties very well, David and Jamie were excellent leaders both on and off the field, and thus the team performed better than was first expected. Our skipper this year became one of the greatest toss winners ever by winning five out of seven tosses.

It was pleasing to see so many players assemble at school almost ten days before school was due to commence. This showed enthusiasm, and the practice gained proved very valuable. Apart from net practice, matches were played against St. Joseph's and the Old Collegians. A pleasant day was had at the MCG when the boys watched the Victoria v. Queensland Shield match. Thanks go to the parents who supplied billets for boarders during this period.

The hot weather proved very trying to players, almost every match being played in very hot conditions, a big problem for fast and medium pace bowlers. They stuck to their task well, however, and were the most successful bowlers for College this year, both Leigh Bennett and Crichton Collins doing very well. Lack of rain made most grounds fairly rough and poorly grassed and it can be said that the College ovals were probably the smoothest

FIRST XI

Standing: P. S. Barr, D. G. Fairbairn, I. A. McPherson, D. E. Clarke, G. A. David, A. M. R. Hewitt, D. J. Murray, I. L. Bennett, R. J. Forsyth.

Sitting: R. J. Sheringham, D. A. Johnstone, D. S. Barkley (Captain), E. B. Davies, Esq., J. G. C. Williamson (Vice-Captain), P. L. Marendaz, A. H. Johns.

Absent: C. N. Collins.

we played on for the season. However, more ground balls were missed than usual, and fielding errors probably played an important part in some matches. The "tracks" at all grounds were very good and batsmen should have scored well at all times. Our "tracks" were as good as, if not better than, usual, this being a tribute to Stuart Rankin, his staff, and the 7 a.m. watering brigade of boys.

Our team can be well satisfied with the season's results: 3 wins, 3 losses and a draw. On paper we did not appear to have a very strong team, but, after the first match, real progress was shown, and we were not very much behind the premierships teams. The improvement shown by all players was the highlight of the season and this makes the coach's job seem worth while. Some other highlights of the season were:

First P.S. match against Scotch. Jamie Williamson's 35 n.o. and 58 in totals of 118 and 113. Crichton Collins' 4/83 from 17 overs.

Second P.S. against Geelong Grammar. Jamie Williamson takes 7/69 with his spinners, and makes a good 61 runs with the bat. David Johnstone's solid 58 was a match winning effort.

Third P.S. against St. Kevin's. Philip Marendaz gets his toe broken with a fast yorker; this seemed to be the end of our batting too. David Barkley returns to form with a very good 50 in our second innings. The boys learn how lack of concentration loses matches.

Fourth P.S. against Wesley. Jamie Williamson's great 98; will he ever forget the nervous nineties? "Mick" Sheringham comes good with a patient 42 in a match winning partnership of 128 with Jamie. "Floss" Hewitt's solid 30 helped too. Leigh Bennett's opening overs in which he took 2/5, then had 3/16, and then bowled a morale boosting ball which beat star Wesley bat Michael Moss. Leigh's final figures were 5/75. Crichton Collins' marathon bowling effort in bowling 18 consecutive overs and taking 3/47 in his best effort for the season. Crichton's bright 33 in our very poor second innings was also a highlight.

Fifth P.S. against Xavier. Our best team batting for the season, after being given a great start of 84 runs by David Barkley and Philip Marendaz. Another good innings by Jamie Williamson, 57, and solid batting by all batsmen.

18—THE PEGASUS,

Sixth P.S. against B.G.S. Leigh Bennett almost replaced ten minutes before the match commenced due to illness on previous day bowls extremely well to get 7/34, his best for the year. College loses 4 wickets between 5.30 and 10 to 6 after a light appeal fails. David Clarke and Ian McPherson make a gallant 7th wicket partnership to bring the College total to within 16 runs of Brighton. College then lose 4 wickets for 10 runs to be 6 runs down. David Barkley's 85 not out in 85 minutes almost brought College an outright win.

Seventh P.S. against Caulfield. College batsmen fail against speed of Morphet. David Barkley (61) and "Mick" Sheringham (46) were the only batsmen to offer resistance. College have Caulfield in trouble with 3/47 but rain on Saturday makes bowling impossible in morning and finally washes out play. Caulfield thus shares premiership with Haileybury.

In the skills of the game our batting was the best for a number of years, almost every player was capable of making runs because of marked improvement in technique. The fast and medium pace bowlers bore the brunt of our bowling. They bowled 324 overs while the spinners contributed only 62 overs. Leigh Bennett was the most consistent bowler and took most wickets (18). Crichton Collins, although still inaccurate at times, bowled fast and showed great stamina; he was our most improved bowler. David Barkley helped the attack greatly with good movement and control. Ian McPherson and David Johnstone also bowled well at times and picked up valuable wickets.

Lack of an off-spinner was apparent but Jamie Williamson and David Murray provided adequate leg spin when required. Special mention goes to "Mick" Sheringham for his good wicket keeping after the skipper was asked to take the ball. "Mick" caught eight batsmen and stumped two.

As in the past few years, our fielding was not high class, and although some good catches were taken, especially by David Clarke and Jamie Williamson, this part of our game let us down at times. Lack of good slip fielders was also a handicap, and the throwing of most was not as good as the coach would have liked.

Our trips to Melbourne were, as usual, very successful and the team spirit developed very well. This was greatly helped by the barbecues given us by Mr. and Mrs. John Chambers and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bunyan to whom we were most grateful. Again we had a faithful band of parent supporters who assisted in transport and many other ways, and the Rev. A. Barkley and Mrs. Barkley gave the team a wonderful night to wind up the season.

TENNIS

Master-in-Charge: M. B. Keary, Esq.

Captain: J. W. M. Dickson.

This year, tennis in most Public Schools has been hampered by the drought. However, we were able to water daily, thus preventing the predicament that was faced by other schools of having no playable courts. The First Tennis Team ended up playing six out of seven matches at home, because the opposition had no courts of their own that they could use. Despite their continual employment, the courts stood up to it well, largely owing to watering by tennis players every morning, and the care taken by the groundsmen in keeping them in good order. Facilities were augmented this year by the use of Kenwith Park, for which we are very grateful.

Mr. David Jarman, an Old Collegian, this year offered to help in the tennis coaching, and took up the position vacated by Mr. Chislett at the end of last year as coach of the First Tennis Team. Mr. Jarman and Mr. Keary together moulded a team that was both happy and successful. John Dickson was chosen as captain and in a most unassuming way proved to be a fine leader. In every match but one we fared better than last year, notably against Geelong Grammar whom we beat easily in our second match and also in the traditional match played on the Saturday morning of Boatrace. We were well represented in the open and under 15 A.P.S. teams by B. G. Fagg, P. B. Henshaw, T. A. Longton and J. Cherry. They played against the A.G.S. on 20th April. The Seconds, Under 15As and Under 15Bs also performed very well this year, all winning more games and matches than they lost. Much of the credit should go to Mr. Wardle, Mr. Dobb and Mr. Baker who helped tennis and coached tennis teams this season. Owing to the very efficient organization of all matches and the concern shown by Mr. Keary, the season ran smoothly.

We also played a number of social matches against the Hermitage and Morongo, and a Staff-versus-Boys match, which, as usual, proved most worthwhile. We again appreciated the work of Mrs. Cloke and her staff who on these occasions, and every Saturday, provided and prepared refreshments for the players.

The Tennis Committee of 1968 was: Dickson J. W. M. (Captain), Fagg B. G. (Vice-Captain), Dennis T. R., Grainger C., Hardy P. C.

SWIMMING

Master-in-Charge: R. Salen, Esq.

Captain: J. W. Roydhouse.

SWIMMING TEAM

At Rear: C. S. B. Szaday, P. S. Lowe, P. R. Davies, A. T. Purnell, M. D. Kroger, N. A. Russell, G. A. Webb.
 Standing: J. McDonald, W. C. Phillips, P. J. Longden, D. W. Scott, D. G. Abrecht, R. C. Bell, C. F. G. Bull, G. J. Lindquist, T. B. Chapman.

Sitting: J. C. Anderson, T. P. West, J. W. Roydhouse, B. Salen, Esq., Master-in-charge, D. K. Lindquist, G. M. Harding, B. A. Eagles.

Although 1968 was not a highly successful year for the swimming team as far as beating other schools is concerned, it was undoubtedly extremely enjoyable for all.

In the Public Schools competition we were doomed for the wooden spoon. Lack of Under 16 and Open swimmers was quite a handicap, and on frequent occasions swimmers from the Under 15 and Under 14 ages were drawn to fill the gaps. Our best recruit this year was undoubtedly Greg. Lindquist, who swam in all age groups, and managed to gain about one fifth of the whole team's score. Other swimmers doing well in under ages were M. D. Kroger. P. S. Howe, P. Longden and W. Phillips. Performing well in the Open division were D. K. Lindquist and J. W. Roydhouse.

Lack of divers was another drawback. There were several unnamed, and untalented, 'triers', but they scored more laughs than points. With the completion of the Kardinia Park Pool, training was more convenient and successful than in the past years. The team, on the whole, was keen to train, and made good use of the pool and the kick-boards the school purchased.

The team was again successful in retaining the Strahan Shield in the Geelong All-Schools Competition, for the seventh consecutive year. Our thanks go to the 'Preppies', for the large part they played in winning this shield.

The season ended with an enjoyable swim and barbecue at the surf at Ocean Grove, organized by Mr. and Mrs. Salen.

House Sports:

The House Swimming Sports were held in pleasant conditions at Kardinia Park Pool on February 26th. Shannon House eventually won, with McArthur closely second. The final scores were:

Shannon1291	points, 1.
McArthur110	points, 2.
Calvert1041	points, 3.
Morrison1021	points, 4.
Mackie76h	points, 5.
Warrinn	59	points, 6.

26—THE PEGASUS,

The Open Championship was won by D. K. Lindquist, with L. Ritchie runner-up.

Other individual championships resulted:

Under 16: A. T. Purnell (Mo), 6 points, 1; D. E. Clarke (McA), 4 points, 2.

Under 15: M. D. Kroger (McA), 5 points, 1; P. S. Lowe (C), 3 points, 2.

Under 14: G. J. Lindquist (S), 5 points, 1; W. C. Phillips (S), 3 points, 2.

For the first time this year Novelty Events were introduced as an extra attraction. They did not count in the final points, but provided enjoyment for spectators and participants. As well as these, an exhibition swim was given by Olympic swimmer, and Old Boy, Peter Doak. It is hoped that in the future interesting activities such as these can be organized, in order to make the sports the success they were this year. The full results are as follows:

PREPARATORY SCHOOL

Sir Hugh Ennor, Sir Arthur Coles, The Right Rev. Rhys A. Miller and the Principal.

As a fitting prelude to the year's activities, the new Science Wing was officially opened by Sir Hugh Ennor, Secretary of the Department of Education and Science, Canberra. The dedication of the building was performed by the Right Rev. Rhys A. Miller, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church of Australia in Victoria.

At our first assembly we welcomed the new members of staff. Mr. P. J. S. Longley came to us from Guildford Grammar, (W.A.), and is Master of Form 5C. He brings a valuable contribution as an experienced resident master as well as a Form Master and active sportsman. Mrs. I. R. Jackson is our new Librarian, and serves in the dual role of a trained teacher and a Librarian. Mrs. B. M. McCarthy has taken charge of Form 3A and Miss G. L. Ford has been Form Mistress of Form 4B. Miss Ford has just left us to take up a teaching position at Uplands School, Penang, and we have already welcomed Mrs. S. P. Baxter as the new Form Mistress for Fourth Form.

Notwithstanding the difficulties of the drought, there has been a record number of boarders enrolled this year. This has been possible by accommodating fifteen boys at Mackie House. The total enrolment of the Preparatory School now stands at 344.

The appointment of House Captains resulted as follows: Hugh McKindlay (Rolland House), John McKenzie (Bellerophon House), Jamie Wishart (Helicon House), Robert Crockett (Minerva House) and John Clarke (Pegasus House). These five boys were inducted by Mr. Thwaites as School Representatives.

Classroom activities have kept abreast of current trends and requirements. The general Studies course at Second Form level is away to a good start and already is proving its worth. Team teaching in the field of drama is bringing added zest to the teaching of English, practical science is providing all manner of fascinating opportunities for discovery and each new day produces some matter for excitement. Already this year, a successful English Camp has been conducted, the Government Aircraft Factory at Avalon has been visited, a dairy farm and dairy have been inspected, a harbour cruise of Geelong Port facilities has taken place and excursions to the Planetarium and Museum of Applied Science have again been of tremendous interest and educational value. As in 1966, the Preparatory School Choir was invited to sing at the Choral Festival at Scotch College, on 3rd May. Over fifty boys participated with great credit to the school and the Music Master, Mr. H. R. Newnham.

Social Service contributions have been most generous and this has resulted in donations being sent to Corilong Centre, "Age" Appeal for Vietnam, Red Cross, and Bethany Babies' Home. To commemorate Anzac Day, Mr. A. R. Duell, the President of Geelong Legacy Club, spoke on the meaning of the occasion and the importance of continuing to strive against all forms of wrong and difficulty. At the conclusion of the ceremony, a wreath was laid at the base of the flagstaff as a reminder of the sacrifices of those who gave their lives in the service of their country.

It is not often that the grounds of a school become a heliport. Such was the case one lunch hour recently when important visitors to the city returned to Melbourne by helicopter. The lower oval was marked out for the landing and the boys were able to watch the procedure from a distance.

There was a moment or two of disappointment when the pilot landed at Senior School in error, but this all added to the excitement. Soon the helicopter arrived at the Prep, and whisked the visitors away—providing ample material for written expression.

The usual Easter Service was held at St. David's on the Wednesday prior to Good Friday as we left for Easter Exeat. This is always a very impressive occasion and is made so by the presence of parents of both day-boys and boarders. The Choir lent dignity and meaning to our worship, especially with their concluding anthem, "Peace be Unto You".

David Aingimea and Lionel Fritz came from Nauru to study with us.

Possibly the most effective way of expressing our success at swimming is in observing the growing number of certificates for proficiency being awarded to our boys during the swimming season. The awards for this year are as follows:—

Instructor's Certificate 1, Bronze Medallion 28, Intermediate Star 59, Intermediate Star Bar 10, Senior Certificate 52, Junior Certificate 33, Herald Certificate 21.

Nevertheless, the competition side of our swimming is quite strong. The Prep, was happy to be able to contribute swimmers to complete the College Team which won the Strahan Shield for the seventh year in succession.

We have recently completed a very successful cricket season. Despite the drought, the boys have been extremely fortunate to have first class playing conditions. The wickets were excellently prepared and, because of this, some very good batting performances were recorded.

Under 14, Under 13A, Under 13B, Under 12A and Under 12B teams were fielded this year. The Under 13A's and Under 12A's had a very successful season as they defeated all the schools against which they played.

30—THE PEGASUS,

During the season there was a number of outstanding individual performances: N. Durman 65 against Geelong Grammar; P. Donnan 52, J. Mann 53 not out, and J. Finlay 6/31 against Ballarat Grammar; A. Johnstone 5/30 and P. Gallagher 43 not out against Geelong Grammar.

One round of House Cricket was completed in the first term. The competition provided a great deal of interest with Helicon proving to be the strongest House. A further round of House Cricket will be completed in third term.

The Women's Auxiliary are happy to have Mrs. N. J. Lindsay as President for 1968. Speakers at meetings this year have included Mr. B. R. Wardle, Mr. I. R. Watson and Mr. P. N. Thwaites.

The School grounds, in common with so many places, have shown the effects of the long drought. Only through the patient watering by a number of people have valuable trees been saved and the turf wickets kept in good condition. It is a great relief to see ample rains making our worries a thing of the past, and enabling further plantings to take place. The grounds will soon be restored to their past attractiveness. There is always improvement being made to some part of the school property. The buildings are looking smarter than ever with a new coat of paint and there has been asphalt resurfacing of a large area. With the provision of effective padding around the trampoline, this piece of equipment is now completely safe.

SWIMMING SPORTS

The Preparatory School held its annual swimming sports at the Kardinia Pool under ideal conditions on March 13th.

The house championship was won by Helicon House. The final points were:

Helicon House 267, Bellerophon House 232, Pegasus House 182, Minerva House 167.

PEGASUS AND AD ASTRA

As indicated in previous issues of The Pegasus, the functions of this magazine and Ad Astra have been under regular review by the General Committee of the O.G.C.A. for some time.

The affairs of the Association are in a stage of transition involving a modernization of procedures and a close examination of costs. In recent years The Pegasus has become one of the Association's greatest expenses.

The Committee considers that the function of The Pegasus is to carry information of permanent record value in the life of the College, whereas Ad Astra, with its informal newsletter style, is more suited to deal with passing Association activities and chatty personal notes.

While Old Collegians are naturally interested in what is happening at the College, many of them have stated that they do not require such complete details of all aspects of school life as are given in The Pegasus.

It is intended therefore to reduce further the Old Boy content of The Pegasus and to include in future issues of Ad Astra a concise report on the main events at the College. Doubtless many men will welcome such a summary of the situation.

In keeping with this line of action, the Committee has decided that, with effect from 1969, The Pegasus will be sent only to:—

- (i) all Old Collegians who have left College during the previous two years;
- (ii) Old Collegians who request it annually on an order form which will accompany each December issue.

The request form for 1969- will be included in the next issue of The Pegasus, in December, 1968.

OLD BOYS' DAY 1968

The annual reunion of the O.G.C.A. took place at the College on March 16, when there was a good attendance of Old Collegians at all functions, from the luncheon of Branch Presidents at the Preparatory School to the reunion dinner held in the College dining hall in the evening.

Many members expressed their approval of the change of season and enjoyed the cricket match between College and Xavier.

At the annual general meeting of the Association, office-bearers were elected for the ensuing year as shown on the previous page. The annual report was presented by the president (Mr. F. W. Brown).

Guest speaker at the dinner was Mr. J. M. Bechervaise, M.B.E., F.R.G.S., a former master at the College, well known as an author and Antarctic explorer.

ANNUAL REPORT

The president reported that the Annual Giving Programme had been well supported by 823 donors who contributed more than $20,000.

The College Council has indicated that building of the Rolland Centre will be commenced in the second half of 1969 if support continues at this rate.

During the year a number of reunions was conducted by Branches and Years. Year activities continue to grow slowly, and the Association hopes to encourage further these enjoyable opportunities for contemporaries to maintain contact with one another.

On the sporting side, a successful season was enjoyed by our hockey and tennis teams, the latter winning the premiership of "A" Reserve Grade. For the first time in several years an O.G.C. golf tournament was held at Geelong, and it is hoped to repeat the event in 1968.

The Association is represented on other bodies as follows:—

The College Council: Messrs. A. Austin Gray, K. S. Nail, M. T. Wright.

Association of Vic. P.S. Old Boys: Mr. G. W. C. Ewan.

Tennis: Messrs. W. T. Cook, R. D. Money.
 Golf: Messrs. D. I. Carmichael, B. Davis.

During the year, stocks of the Association lapel badge were exhausted and the Committee felt that it was an opportune time to consider a more modern design. (Stocks of the new badge will soon be available).

The president thanked all who had contributed to the Association's work, mentioning specially Sir Arthur Coles and members of his Council, Mr. Thwaites and Mr. Davey. He expressed his personal gratitude to Mr. D. G. Neilson (Hon. Sec.) and Mr. B. G. Thorn (Hon. Treas.) for their support in the running of the Association.

In accepting office as president for a second year, Mr. Brown stated his confidence in the continuing success of the Association.

The financial report, presented by the honorary treasurer (Mr. B. G. Thorn) indicated a satisfactory position. Association investments totalling $26,814 include $22,000 on loan to the Geelong College. The "Maggie" Memorial Fund, now standing at $2366, is being held till it can be applied to the provision of matron's quarters in a future new boarding-house. General funds showed a surplus for the year of $659.

SPEECH DAY 1967

SENIOR SCHOOL

Speech Day was held on Thursday, 7th December. Sir Arthur Coles was in the chair, and the prizes were presented by Lieut-Colonel C. V. Holland, B.C.E., M.I.E., F.A.I.B., Chairman, Victorian Division, Outward Bound Movement, and F. W. Brown, Esq., President of The Old Geelong Collegians' Association.

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT

Mr. Chairman, Mr. Holland, Mr. Brown, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It would be a most interesting exercise to attempt to discover the reasons and motives which each one of you has in being present at this Speech Day Ceremony. Perhaps you are here because you rightly believe it to be part of your responsibility as a parent to support your son at such formal school functions, especially if he is leaving school today; perhaps you have come to admire him as he receives a prize; perhaps you had to come to Geelong to collect his luggage anyway and are glad to rest your feet for an hour or so in these pleasant garden surroundings. Perhaps you have been looking forward, as I have, to hearing what our distinguished guest, Lieut-Colonel C. V. Holland, B.C.E., M.I.E., F.A.I.B., may have to offer us from his store of experience and wisdom, not only as the head of a very remarkable civil engineering firm, but as the father of three Geelong Collegians and the Victorian Chairman of the Outward Bound Movement. May I welcome him and Mrs. Holland on your behalf?

Perhaps, although it seems unlikely, you may even have come to this Speech Day from a sense of mild curiosity to know what the Principal may say this year in the 107th Annual Report of the College. I must confess that I shared the same curiosity until very recently, for it is always difficult to find a theme which will steer a course between a catalogue of already familiar events, and a discussion of educational theory which is merely a restating of well-known and well-understood ideals. But, as so often happens, I have, I think, found the right course by remembering that education is essentially concerned with people, boys, staff and parents, rather than things or events or theories; and I suppose I had already recognised this when I invited as our guest speaker one who gives so much of his time to a movement concerned primarily with the development of personality, the whole man.

After all the purpose which we presumably all have in common for The Geelong College, whether we are members of Council, members of staff, parents, Old Collegians, or in any other way associated with the College, is to create the circumstances which will most fully allow each boy who passes through the school to develop his "full stature". These circumstances are a combination of material environment, human endeavour, and moral and spiritual principles, which together nurture that changing complex of personal relationships which we call a school community. Unless we are, year by year, somehow trying to make this place into a more adequate community, wherein each individual can grow as God meant him to, we have failed in the high purposes of our founders.

My task, therefore, in this report is to examine what progress we have made this year in this high ideal, remembering that progress must be measured in terms of people rather than things. The first step in such examination is to look at some of the men responsible for this progress.

There are here today four new members of Council: the Rev. F. H. Camp and the Rev. W. B. Hastie, nominated by the Presbytery of Geelong, Mr. M. T. Wright, nominated by the Old Collegians' Association, and Mr. F. H. Davey, another Old Collegian of the era of the late thirties. During the year, two men who had served the College through its Council, one for twenty-four years and one for nineteen years, decided to resign: they were Mr. F. E. Moreton and Mr. C. L. Hirst. Also with us today for the first time are Mr. F. W. Brown, the President of the Old Collegians' Association, who in accordance with long tradition will present the Games Trophies, and the Rev. Reynolds Waters, the new minister of St. David's. The College community has been saddened by two deaths this year, the first of which was that of the Rev. Kenneth MacLean, late minister of St. David's, and for some years a member of the Council.

The death of Mr. Brian Lester in June, after his long and cheerfully courageous fight against steadily increasing incapacity, brought to an end a very remarkable career. He was appointed to the College staff as Senior Mathematics Master at the age of 29 in 1932, and since then has assisted many hundreds of boys to achieve an interest and understanding of his subject, which has carried many of them through to high academic distinction. But, like all great schoolmasters, this was only a part of the contribution he made to this community; he will be remembered also for his interest in tennis, Housemastering, in stamps, in singing, in many other areas, and above all for his consistently high standard of concern for every boy for whom he had any responsibility. However fortunate we may be in finding other men to carry on his work, we will sadly miss him, and Mrs. Lester, from amongst us. You will notice on the prize list a new mathematics prize presented by the Lester family in memory of Brian.

And there are others we will also miss greatly next year. Mr. John Carrington retires from Mackie after 27 years as its Housemaster. Indeed he has been so much a part of Mackie, almost from the time it was first built, that it is very difficult to imagine the House without him. I believe this College has a very good reputation as a boarding school throughout Australia, and much of the foundation for this reputation has been laid by John Carrington. He is another great schoolmaster, who must have helped countless boys over difficult periods of their growing up, and who has never failed in his fatherly concern for all those in his charge. It is good to know that he and Mrs. Carrington are to live quite near by, so we should see them often at the College.

Mr. George Martin, Bursar of the College from 1941 to 1965, and Mr. Jack Firth, who retired from the Preparatory School staff in 1965, have continued their work at the College this year on a part-time basis, but are now finally leaving us. I am sure they know how much their work has been appreciated, and that we wish them well for the future.

Others leaving the teaching staff are Mr. P. H. Chislett and Miss Bryant from the Senior School and Miss Knapton, Miss Kilburn and Mr. D. H. Pearce from the Preparatory School. Mr. T. H. Reid, who has been on leave in Canada and who was due back next February, has now decided to remain in Canada for the time being, and has resigned. I am glad to say that all these have already been replaced, and that we have recruited some very well qualified and experienced men and women. The list of newcomers is as follows:

Mr. R. T. Dobb, B.Com., Dip.Ed., to be senior Economics master.

Mr. R. Humphries, B.A., to be senior French master.

Mr. R. S. Hunt, B.A., to assist in the Mathematics department.

Mr. A. Mel. Scott, B.A., to assist in the English department.

Mr. P. J. Longley, to assist in the Preparatory School.

Mrs. M. C. Jackson, to be the Preparatory School Librarian.

Mrs. M. Kristiansen, to assist in the Senior Library.

We are glad to have Mr. Don Webb back from a very interesting six months overseas. Mr. Bryan Wardie will return from leave early next year, and is to transfer to the Senior School staff. He will become Housemaster of McArthur House, in place of Mr. Mahar, who is to become acting-Housemaster of Mackie House. Although Mr. Keith has now reached the age for retirement from the teaching staff, he is to remain with us during 1968 in a somewhat more administrative capacity.

There is one other departure of which many will be sorry to hear. Mr. L. T. Hobbs, known to generations as "Snow", is retiring after 37 years on the grounds staff, as senior groundsman from 1941 until he took over the new Preparatory School site in 1962. He has long been well-known throughout Victoria for the fine cricket pitches which he prepared at the Senior School, and now he has the added distinction of developing the new Preparatory School site into a magnificent area of park land. His fine work on both sites will remain as a fitting tribute to his years of service.

These, and the other fifty or more members of our teaching and administrative staff, are the men and women who have tried to see to it that the purposes of the College are fulfilled. But they cannot succeed without the material facilities which have always been necessary but which are becoming even more essential in this technological age. We have made one substantial step forward in this area this year by the building of a science laboratory at the Preparatory School, to be used mainly by boys in Forms I and II. The contract for this building was let to D. A. Constructions Pty Ltd., in June for approximately $30,000, almost all of which is to be covered by a grant from the Commonwealth Government. The laboratory will be officially opened at 2.30 p.m. on 7th February next. Amongst the rather smaller improvements in facilities, perhaps the most important have been the installation of the language laboratory at the Preparatory School, the upgrading of the Sixth-Form room, and the equipping of the Morrison Hall. I shall say something more of the significance of these developments later.

You may, however, have observed another item in our building programme which certainly seems to the boys of less immediate value, and may even have seemed to some quite unwarranted when so much else is needed: I refer to the building of the new house for the Principal. Let me explain more fully the Council's reasons for this project. Until perhaps twenty years ago, it was assumed that the boarding houses could be adequately staffed by single men; indeed this College was well served, long after many other schools had given up the struggle, by three bachelor Housemasters in L. J. Campbell, J. H. Campbell and Carl Ipsen: and in addition John Carrington and his wife have been content to live all these years in what was originally intended to be the matron's quarters in Mackie. But it has been apparent for some time now that the provision of adequate married quarters for boarding Housemasters, and, if possible, also for at least one of their assistants, in each of the Houses, is of vital importance to the stability of the College. Since 1960, it has been possible to provide two small flats in Warrinn House, and an even smaller one in Morrison House, but it has remained a high priority for the Council to provide something more adequate in both Morrison and Mackie, and ultimately in Warrinn, when it can be rebuilt. The Morrison problem was the easiest one to solve by moving the Principal from the quarters which successive Principals have occupied since 1871, and by redeveloping this area, together with the existing small Housemaster's flat, to provide two adequate three-bedroom flats and also rooms for the matron, who up till now has had to live across the road. This re-arrangement has been planned for some years but, despite its urgency, could not be undertaken until the Council had accumulated sufficient capital funds: and this, of course, is a slow process when it is obvious that neither Appeal Funds nor specific gifts nor Government Grants can be made available for such an apparently mundane purpose. It is hoped to have the Morrison accommodation completed by April or May, at the latest. The Mackie problem remains unsolved as yet.

Steady progress is being made in the development of the grounds at both Senior and Preparatory Schools. Some of you may have noticed some unwarranted publicity in the "Geelong Advertiser" about our endeavours to secure the use of additional land for playing fields by adding an area of river flats to the Preparatory School property. Whilst our need for this is not urgent at present, it may well become so if the school grows by another 100 or so boys. We have an option to buy this land from the present owner but find that its zoning under the Geelong Town Plan prevents us from developing it for recreational purposes. The matter is still under consideration by the Council.

I have already referred to the installation of a language laboratory at the Preparatory School. This has enabled us to introduce a completely new and more interesting approach to the teaching of French: so that the new approach can continue into senior forms, we have now begun to arrange for a similar installation at the Senior School. We are also taking steps to create a special Geography room. These are further examples of the facilities needed to implement the rapid and radical changes which are taking place in so much of the academic programme of secondary schools. We will need to move steadily ahead into these new fields in the next few years if we are to retain our place amongst the leading schools of Australia. It is good to hear from the Prime Minister that the Federal Cabinet is to consider further grants to independent schools for libraries. I hope the interpretation placed on the term "library" will be as a "resource centre", including many new methods of storing and retrieving information, rather than just a room full of books.

There is another area in which I believe we have been breaking new ground this year. As many of you know, we introduced this year at Third Form level, under the general direction of Mr. Stock, a new programme of General Studies for those boys who found formal academic work difficult. This has proved remarkably successful, particularly in the new approach which has been adopted to the teaching of English, and in the good standard achieved in much of the practical work. We have arranged a display of some of this work in the Morrison Hall, which I can recommend to you as well worth seeing.

We are now well advanced with plans to take this work a stage further. It is common knowledge that the academic standard required, and the competition, for entry to all forms of tertiary education continue to rise. This has meant an increasing pressure for success in academic examinations in secondary schools and, therefore, the secondary school programme has tended to become more and more irrelevant and frustrating for those boys who are unlikely to achieve these high academic standards. We are trying to find some means of providing a general secondary education for these boys, which is neither irrelevant nor frustrating, with the emphasis on success rather than failure, and on enjoyable involvement rather than bored endurance.

We believe we are on the way to the right answer. After careful examination of several alternative possibilities, and in close consultation with a number of people in the Technical Education Branch of the State Education Department, and at the Gordon Institute Trades School, we have now applied for approval to adapt to our needs a number of courses already in existence in some technical schools. These courses will lead boys in the General Studies stream towards a Technical Intermediate Certificate in 1968, a Technical Leaving Certificate in 1969 and, in some cases, we hope, to either a technical or an academic matriculation in subsequent years. Let me emphasise that this does not mean that we are attempting to provide a technical education at the College, nor that all these boys will be successful in these different examinations, but simply that we are attempting to make use of much of the insight and experience gained in technical education fields as a means towards a fuller general education for the less academic boy. After all, the whole of this generation of boys is destined to live in a world in which technology will have reached a point hardly imaginable to those of us who are already struggling to keep "with it".

The general supervision of the work in the General Studies stream will remain in Mr. Stock's hands, especially at the Third Form level, but he will now be assisted in the Fourth and higher Forms by Mr. Wardle, in the subjects of technical drawing and woodwork by Mr. White, and in practical subjects like Farm Mechanics, by the staff of the Gordon Trades School. We regard the appropriate staffing of this area of the work of the College as a matter of great importance, and we hope that the whole scheme will have the result that many boys, who in the past have left school at about Intermediate level, regarding themselves as failures, will now continue to a successful fifth and sixth year of secondary studies.

Despite this encouraging progress, we still have a long way to go before we can feel that every boy has every possible opportunity to grow to "full stature". This is why the College Council and the Old Collegians have continued to plan, both architecturally and financially, for a number of other major building developments. The most urgent of these are the Rolland Physical Education Centre, Stage II of the Morrison Hall, a new Warrinn House and a new academic and library building. And there are a number of less spectacular but equally important needs, such as better working conditions in the form of small studies for senior boys, additional music facilities, and a new staff common room. All of these are being planned, but all of them must await the availability of sufficient capital funds.

No doubt there are many parents and Old Boys of independent schools who wish they could attend school functions, and read literature prepared by the schools, without finding this continual reference to the need for money. I agree, it would be very pleasant indeed for our children to enjoy all the benefits of a first class education without anyone having to worry about the cost; but this just doesn't happen. Someone must pay either in the form of taxes, or fees, or gifts. If we want to retain the virtues of our independence, which allows us to select our own teaching staff and introduce new ideas when we want to, we will always need fees and gifts, though we are happy to see a growing contribution also coming from taxes. We can only reasonably complain if our money is misspent, but I hope none of you thinks that is the case here. I can assure you the College Council works very hard at the job of seeing that you get value for money.

And, indeed, we have many supporters and well-wishers who understand our needs and are generous in their response. This year about $13,000 has been added to the Building Fund for Morrison Hall, and about $17,000 for the Rolland Centre. The Commonwealth Government has provided $16,800 for the Preparatory School Science Block, and has promised another $12,000. The State Government has promised about $13,000 with no special requirements as to its use, and this will allow us to provide a number of new facilities, including the language laboratory, geography room, some equipment for the General Studies course, and shelving for the school library. There have been a number of notable special gifts, including the whole of the new seating for the Morrison Hall from Mrs. C. Cameron, the curtains for the stage from the Women of Geelong College, the Public Address system from the Baulch family in memory of Neil, a portrait of Norman Morrison from his sister, the late Mrs. Clive Gaunt, a bequest from Mr. K. M. Davidson, a gift for music from Mrs. G. S. Hawthorne in memory of her brother Norman Atkins, and two other pictures, together with many regular gifts for prizes and scholarships.

So much for capital funds. There is, of course, also the problem of preventing too rapid a rise in annual running costs, in the face of the steady rise in general costs within the Australian community. In particular, educational costs per child are increasing, at something over 4% per annum, largely because teaching staff salaries and superannuation have moved rapidly in recent years towards a level more in keeping with those of other professions requiring a University degree, and specialised training. If, therefore, this school wants to keep up with the best available elsewhere in Australia and to provide new courses and facilities such as I have already described to you, it seems inevitable that there must be fee rises from time to time. After a careful investigation of our needs, the Council has determined a new scale of fees for 1968 representing an increase of approximately 6%: somewhat less, I am happy to point out, than at some other independent schools.

But "man shall not live by bread alone". I have already digressed too long to speak of material needs and problems. The important question is whether all this is helping to turn your sons into the sort of young men we would like them to be. There seems to me no doubt that the quality of the best boys who leave this school is remarkably high. Every year we find amongst the senior boys leaders who show by their self-discipline and willing unselfish service that they understand what is needed to make any community happy and effective. This year again we have had more boys who might have been School Prefects than we needed, so some who were worthy of it may well have been disappointed. But whether it be as Captain of the School, as a School or House Prefect, as a leader in games, in our cultural organisations or in any of the great variety of other activities, described for you in Pegasus, their contribution has been important and most of them have responded well to any challenge placed before them. Indeed, without their help, this would be a dull and unproductive place, and I am grateful to them.

In particular, I was very pleased to note the recent appearance of a new publication called "1861", which I hope will continue next year. There is a great need for boys to learn to express and exchange ideas through their own channels of communication. All too often, in "teenage" society today, the best of our boys and girls are prepared to stand aside and simply watch the antics of the larrikins without comment. Anything, such as debating or creative writing, which can make them more articulate, so that their more sensible attitudes can become known, is to be encouraged.

Whilst most of the senior leadership has been good, I am not so happy about the attitudes of many boys a little lower down in the school. There seem to me to be too many boys who are preoccupied with themselves, insensitive and ungenerous, content to take all that their parents or the school can offer them, and to give very little in return. Let me give some examples.

In any school, and particularly in a boarding school, there is always a certain amount of cheerful, friendly joking, scoring off one another, laughing at other people's peculiarities. This is one of the ways in which people learn to live together. But this "heckling", as the boys call it, can easily deteriorate into positive mental cruelty, and seems to do so more often now that the grosser forms of physical bullying have been eliminated through more careful supervision. There have been too many cases over the last few years of boys being made to feel positively "unhappy" and "outcast" through the insensitive verbal attacks of their contemporaries, and this often leads these boys to adopt the same tactics to defend themselves. Thus evil creates evil, and it is only possible to overcome evil with good. It is important that the great majority of normal, happy, balanced boys should be sensitive enough to know when to suppress this sort of "heckling" and courageous enough to do so. I am glad to say that there has been some sign of a greater awareness of this recently. This is the sort of positive leadership we want from boys.

Another example of this general "malaise" is the poor response from many boys to our attempts to interest them in the tragic needs of others. Whilst they are quite happy to spend 10c or 20c a day at the tuck shop, their contribution to our weekly collection for the less fortunate, whether in Asia, or in our own country, is likely to average as little as 2c or 3c. Too few have any real concern for anyone they do not see face to face.

One further example is sufficient to make my point. We have here as attractive school grounds as anyone could wish for, and yet, despite our adequate supply of rubbish tins, far too many boys do not hesitate to drop papers or tins wherever it suits them, and few boys pick them up voluntarily. We do, of course, see that the place is kept clean and tidy, by continually reminding boys of their responsibility, but why should this be necessary? Why are so many boys so insensitive to the beauty which surrounds them?

No doubt the causes of all these shortcomings lie partly with our comfortable, affluent, materialistic society, partly with parents, partly with the school, and partly with the individual boy. As far as the school is concerned, this brings us back to the proposition with which we started, the need to be continually building this place into a more Christian community. I would like to close my report by making brief mention of two new ideas with this as their aim.

Compared with most boarding schools, the College is fortunate in two ways: firstly by being situated in a well-endowed provincial city, away from the pressures of the capital and yet not isolated in the country, and secondly because we have deliberately maintained a balance between the number of boarders and day-boys. This should mean that we have a unique opportunity here both to avoid the sense of isolation and self-centredness which often afflicts boarders, and to provide day-boys with a fuller school community life than is possible in a predominantly day school. I believe the contribution to be made by each group is equally important, and that there is much to be gained by each from the other. It is for this reason that we introduced this year a "Valedictory Dinner" for the day-boys leaving school, as a mark of recognition and appreciation, similar to that held every year for the boarders. Perhaps if the catering problems can be overcome, a combined dinner can be held next year.

40—THE PEGASUS,

For the same reason, I am examining with the Housemasters ways in which each Day House might be associated with a particular Boarding House, so that boys in the two Houses will have more opportunities to share in common activities. I expect to be in touch with parents to enlist their support for this move during the coming year.

Whether these ideas are worth while or not, it is certain that we must all renew our efforts to influence the attitudes which boys adopt as they grow up, for these are the pressures which develop character and spiritual quality. In particular, we must look to the insights of our Christian faith, for it is only through the Christian understanding of man's need for the love of God, and the love of his fellow man, that we can build right relationships in our community, and throughout the world. We must more often heed the injunctions:

"Rejoice with them that rejoice, weep with them that weep", and "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil the law of Christ".

PREPARATORY SCHOOL

HEADMASTER'S REPORT

Principal, distinguished guests, members of staff, boys of the School, ladies and gentlemen:

On the occasion of our forty-seventh Speech Day we have you facing in the direction of our new Science Laboratory. Naturally we like to display the latest addition to the School and so we give you this opportunity to study the exterior of the new building as you listen to the annual report. Although the official opening will take place at the commencement of the new school year, at 2.30 p.m. on Wednesday, 7th February, you are invited to have a preview of the interior at the close of this ceremony.

In welcoming today's special guests I refer to Mr. K. S. Nail, who has kindly consented to present the School prizes and speak to the boys of the School, to Mr. A. P. Sheahan, who has agreed to present the sports prizes, and to Mr. L. T. Hobbs, who retires today after serving the School as groundsman for thirty-seven years.

Mr. L. T. Hobbs has been part of the College landscape for so long that it will appear a little strange without him. When Teddy Rankin retired on the 1st May 1941, Snow Hobbs became the senior groundsman at the College. Some eight years ago he transferred his attentions to this new site and we express our appreciation and congratulations to him today for his excellent work. We have been singularly fortunate in having the services of a perfectionist in the laying of turf wickets and the planting of ovals and lawns—and in the variety of tasks associated with pioneering a new site. We hope he is going to keep in close touch with us in his years of retirement and watch with pleasure the increasing beauty of these grounds. It may be of added interest to the School community to note that the first one hundred and seven years of history of The Geelong College grounds has been in the hands of three outstanding groundsmen and all closely related. Mrs. Hobbs is the niece of Hugh McKay, the original groundsman who came from Scotland with the Morrison family and exercised such strong control over the vegetable garden, the orchard and the cow paddock of the early school. After Hugh McKay came Teddy Rankin, renowned for his football skill and his devotion to the College and its grounds for forty years. He was a first cousin to Snow Hobbs. Even though today marks the end of Snow's long era, his second cousin, Stewart Rankin (a nephew of Teddy Rankin), continues to serve as senior groundsman. No doubt all of this indicates a very good reason for the pride with which the grounds have been tended down through the years.

Paul Sheahan entered the Prep, in 1956 at our fifth grade standard and from the beginning excelled at lessons and at sport. We have watched him grow in grace and in knowledge and we recall his splendid year as Captain of the School in 1964. Today we congratulate him on his brilliant success as a cricketer and for his modesty and good sense under the spotlight of public acclaim. Early this year we were immensely proud that he was chosen as the Cricketer of the Year and was presented with the "Golden Peanut Trophy" by Sir Donald Bradman. The boys of the School are much more interested in that trophy than they are in this report and I am sure they could almost give you a ball to ball description of the exciting test match that the trophy commemorates.

Mr. Ken Nail attended the College from 1930 to 1942, when he served as School Prefect, Captain of Athletics and member of the College Crew. Following his studies at the Melbourne University he entered business in Geelong and has been prominent in Church, community and College life ever since. In 1962 he was chosen to represent Australia at the second Commonwealth Study Conference held in Canada, which was presided over by the Duke of Edinburgh. As a member of the College Council and father of two boys attending the Prep. School during the past twelve years, he has given to the members of our School wise counsel, generous support and kindly encouragement.

Today is graduation day for the eighty-five boys of second form. They have had a very successful final year at the Prep, and now leave us for further adventure and development at the Senior School. Our congratulations and best wishes go with them.

Nineteen-sixty-seven has been noteworthy for the building of the Science Laboratory and the installation of a Language Laboratory. Two such additions in the one year is quite an achievement for any school.

Language Laboratory: The Language Laboratory was an immediate result of the Vice-Principal's overseas investigation. We were delighted when the College Council decided to ask Mr. Davey to arrange for the installation of electronic equipment and the seven secondary forms at the Prep, began this audio-lingual approach to French. Several opportunities have been given to parents to see the boys at work with this equipment and the new approach has been stimulating for the teachers and for the boys. Arrangements are being made for the installation of electronic equipment at Senior School, so that our boys will continue with the technique begun here. We would like to thank Mr. Davey for selecting the equipment and adapting it to our use and for his tireless assistance in the first year of its operation. This has been an exciting and valuable educational development affecting the whole school!

Science Laboratory: The Science Laboratory has been a gift of the Federal Government in the interests of more effective teaching of Science. Because our secondary forms inhabit the upstairs rooms it is natural that we prefer the Science Laboratory to be at that level and the College Council has undertaken the extra expense involved. This of course also means that, when further finance becomes available, we will be able to complete an indoor gymnasium or some other such feature at ground level. You will have already noticed how effectively the School architect, Mr. P. N. Everist, has managed to link the new building to the main building and, at the same time, conform in every detail to the original architectural design. The positioning of the laboratory at this north eastern corner has a double advantage in providing shelter to the quadrangle in the wintry months and a covered area for day boys at lunch time; it also relieves traffic from the western side of the School where classes constantly move to and from the library, the music hall and the guild hall. Already Mr. Cameron has spent much time in consultation with Mr. Grainger, Senior Chemistry, and Mr. Seaton, Senior Physics, in re-organising the syllabus and planning a more effective approach to the study of Science at the Prep. School.

General Studies Department: Members of staff were most interested in the Principal's decision to set up a Department of General Studies at the Senior School. They have noted with satisfaction the sound foundation being laid in this area of work and have decided to relate the course of study at Second Form level to this new development. With your permission, Mr. Chairman, I would like to repeat to our parents today the words you used in your 1966 Speech Day Report: "Our ideal, which we have not yet entirely achieved is to design for each boy an educational diet which he can digest with pleasure and which will allow him to develop his whole personality whilst remaining and feeling a full and responsible member of a school community which is small enough to be concerned with every individual as a person". Here at the Prep. Mr. Kemp has willingly accepted the responsibility to set up an effective programme of work in this General Studies Department. We congratulate Mr. Stock on the splendid results at Third Form level and we are pleased that Mr. Wardle has agreed to watch the further development of General Studies at Fourth Form level.

Music: I trust you read your copy of The College Parent and keep up with the changing educational pattern. In the July issue Mr. Newnham gave a comprehensive account of musical activities at the Prep. Those who attended the Musical Evening in second term spoke of the wide variety of work presented and the enthusiasm shown by the boys. In third term the House Music Competitions were more keenly contested than ever and they involved practically all the boys. Of more recent days has been the interest aroused through the use of the wind ensemble at morning assembly. Both at the Carol Service and again here today further evidence has been given of our good fortune in having such a Director of Music at the Prep. Twice this year Mr. Newnham has been invited to visit the Teachers' College to demonstrate, with the help of these boys, some of the success of Carl Orff's vital approach to music making.

Social Service: We believe that a spiritual and social development is of utmost importance to our boys. They are naturally generous and responsible, but they need training in the helping of others less fortunate. The School Chaplain, Rev. A. J. McAdam, has wisely led the boys of the Social Service Committee into considering and choosing a number of charities to be supported and has encouraged that the giving, however small, be from the boy's own possessions. This regular training is meant to produce an attitude rather than an amount of money, and an awareness of personal responsibility. We would hope that the boy is being encouraged to think clearly and in an unprejudiced way on social and religious issues. Most parents are quite conscious of the impact being made in this direction and their kindly support and guidance is needed if the boy is to grow up loving virtue and beauty, attuned to spiritual realities, clear eyed, creative, adaptable, prepared to live as an active member of a community which demands his service and his zeal.

Wide range of activity: Vital lessons concerning life and happiness which a School such as this tries to give cannot be formally taught, but are rather discovered through real life experience. A wide range of sporting activities; varied art and craft experiences; music and drama; hiking, cycling, boating and camping activity arranged by the Adventurers Club; educational tours of the Harrierville area for the boys of Second Form, and a taste of the outback at Barneys Lake, N.S.W. for eleven city boys of First Form—have all combined to give the School vitality and maturity.

Outdoor activities have had a joyous zest about them due largely to Mr. Kemp's leadership. We were justly proud of the fine example set by Peter Longden and his two brothers, Bruce and Greg, in rescuing two young people from drowning at Barwon Heads on February 11th. The determination and skill of the sports teams has reflected the keen competent coaching of staff members. Greatest success attended the undefeated hockey team, but perhaps as great an impact was made by the introduction of tennis matches with the girls at The Hermitage.

Rolland House: Rolland House has been an efficient and happy community ably led by Mr. Cameron. The matron and resident staff have been well supported by the medical and domestic staff and the boys have effectively assisted in the smooth organisation. The fifteen members of the House Committee have demonstrated fine qualities of leadership. Day masters have lent their support to the resident staff and have constantly remarked on the excellent tone of the boarding House.

The pressure for entry at First Form level still continues and this has meant that eight boarders resided at Mackie House during 1967, arriving here for breakfast each day and returning to Mackie House after evening study. Next year the College Council has decided to admit even more boarders at the Prep. School level: so, besides the seventy boys living in Rolland House, fifteen more will be occupying a large dormitory at Mackie House. In the way of accommodation these boys will tend to have the best of the two schools and, because of the larger number involved, the boys of Mackie House may need to return there for evening study.

Staff: On behalf of the parents and boys I express a word of appreciation to the teaching staff. Mrs. Sweetman and her two assistants have maintained a most efficient Campbell House. They have had the strong support of the Women's Auxiliary led so well by Mrs. Strachan. Similarly, we have had at the Prep, a very active bridge of friendship between the home and the School, thanks to the Women's Auxiliary so capably led by Mrs. Lucas. Besides the well attended Parents' Night and the regular Auxiliary meetings, this year we made it possible for parents to visit the School to see their boys at work and join the class teachers at morning coffee in the Robertson Hall. This move proved quite successful as it gave smaller groups the opportunity for useful discussion.

Our congratulations for work well done and best wishes for future success go with Miss Knapton and Miss Kilburn, who leave us today for further experience and adventure overseas, and to Mr. Pearce who has accepted appointment to Christ Church Grammar School, Western Australia. Both Mr. Wardle and Mr. Hatton have enjoyed their teaching experience in England during the year. Mr. Hatton will continue his teaching in England for another year, but Mr. Wardle will return to new responsibilities at our Senior School. All of his friends at the Prep, congratulate him on his new appointment and our keen loss is somewhat compensated by the knowledge that he will be adding strength to a very important development for the whole school. During this year we have been conscious of the excellent work done by Mr. Rachinger, Director of Studies, and Mr. Kemp, Master in Charge of Outdoor Activities. I am delighted that these men have accepted these same responsibilities for the coming year. In expressing my personal thanks to the teaching staff for its effective service to the School I would like to add that Mr. Rachinger has also had a successful year as President Art Teachers' Association in Geelong; Mr. Newnham likewise, as President Geelong Music Society; Mr. Kemp has been engaged on an Art Diploma Course at the Gordon Institute, Mr. MacPherson has attended Melbourne regularly to complete the Advanced Teaching Certificate at Mercer House and Mr. Cameron, despite a very busy first year as Housemaster of Rolland House, has regularly taken his place in the Cadet Corps and as a commissioned officer of the Citizen Forces.

Grounds: With the help of the staff, the boys and parents, we have managed a good outcrop of ground improvements during 1967. Cyclone fencing has been added to the main tennis courts, to the newly sown lawn tennis courts and to the new turf wicket area developed beside the lower oval. Drought conditions and water restrictions have thus far prevented us from using these new areas. The solid brick hit-up wall, however, has been put to very good use, while the blue-stone retaining wall at the south-eastern corner of the quadrangle has improved the approach to the main oval. A brush fence has been added to the backyard at Rolland House; a rabbit proof fence has been stretched across the property; an enclosure erected at the river's edge to house fifty Australian shrubs. These shrubs have been the gift of Dr. Norman Wettenhall, and represent the beginning of a school sanctuary. Another plantation of mellaleucas has been established near the lower School entrance; the Mayor and Councillors of the Newtown City Council visited us on Arbor Day to plant pines near the main school entrance on Aberdeen Street, while another twenty-five trees were planted by the boys along the western area facing the School building.

Gifts: The fun and frolic and fellowship of Open Day was the key that opened up these possibilities—added to which was the generosity of Mr. Vickers-Willis who provided expert tennis coaching for the boys while the proceeds went to ground improvements. Early this year members of staff were delighted to add to their staff room an attractive table, two desks and eight comfortable chairs as a gift from appreciative parents, whose boys had moved on to Senior School. Mr. Griffiths has again kindly provided the School with a trampoline mat. Mr. Trethowan has donated a tennis racquet; a parent has recently handed me a generous cheque for school equipment; another parent has kindly presented perpetual trophies for the outstanding cricketer and footballer of the year; the best and fairest player both Under 12 and Over 12 will receive each year a small replica of these trophies. The Women's Auxiliary of Campbell House has provided more useful outdoor equipment; here at the Prep, the mothers have presented us with two paintings to add to the beauty of classrooms.

During this year there has been a drought upon the land. For many this means anxiety and hardship. There is nothing attractive about parched lands and dying stock—but where there is water there is life and health and hope.

Sometimes methinks, with Amos of old, that there is a drought upon the land for the things of truth and beauty and the Word of God.

Too often we are concerned with the things which are to be seen, forgetting that around us and within us is the Kingdom of God with its beauty, it's refreshing. Particularly in this time of drought let us recall the words of Christ when He said:

"But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life".

THE ALARM

With the bells jangling in his ears,
 Cold fear lighting up his eyes,
 The escaped prisoner
 Was hunted like an animal,
 The centre of a man hunt.
 On and on rang the bells
 Reverberating about the escapee's ears,
 Driving him to near madness;
 The shouts of the men could just be heard
 Over the jingling of the bells;
 Slowly,
 Stealthily,
 The prisoner crept on;
 At last he was free.
 On, on, on,

A VOLCANIC ERUPTION

With a tremendous bellow of wrath the fire-god spews his fury out of the bowels of the earth in the form of molten lava and debris. With an elongated hiss, like that of an attacking python, scalding steam is forced up from the depths. Geysers of fire are hurled up with a roar of revenge, twisting and writhing in agony. Bubbling scoria erupts like a fountain of water in a crystal-clear pool. The mass of flame and lava presents a fantastic picture, seen only by a handful of people.

Peter Richardson, IX

THUNDER STORM

Crashing thunder shatters my ear; sudden stripes of rain come lashing down; long strings of lightning strike at tall buildings trying to smash them with its fatal fist. Again and again I hear the crack of thunder. The cattle, fearing the frightful noise, run for the shelter of the swaying trees. In my bed I feel warm and secure.

D. Pleuckhahn, 5C

THE MOON

A silvery captive of the earth,
 Held down by the chains of gravity,
 Watching as man destroys himself,
 With bombs, machines, all fantasies;
 This shining silver immortal,
 Is worshipped by man.
 Cautiously she awakens and dawdles
 From horizon to horizon,
 Then slowly sinks
 Into a sleepy, silver shimmer,
 Only to repeat her task again and again,
 Shining through tall pines,
 Glistening on soft, clear water,
 Again and Again.

Neil McLean, 2J

WIND

Wind is blowing the trees,
 Howling as he tears through the leaves.
 As he passes, the branches
 Shiver and bend away.
 Wind is someone
 Heaving great sighs of air.

SENIOR SCHOOL

HAIL LINUS

Hail blanket
 Hail O Great Pumpkin . . . (that lands in the pumpkin patch every year on pumpkin night). Hail O enemy of the Blanket . . . (who with sharp teeth, a Van Gogh and a billiard table tries to conquer the security of Mr. L. . . . but is foiled again and again . . .). Hail O Blanket, again . . . (who has suffered much but who still survives the mauling hands of big sisters and the teeth marks of S. . . .). Hail O Linus . . . (who can catch a baseball one-handed travelling at the speed of a dog, who has chomped his chompers on the Blanket . . .). Hail O Hater of Linus' television programmes . . . (but who cannot do a thing about it . . . even with her psychiatric knowledge, which she sells to all-comers at the very reasonable price of five cents . . .). Hail O

Friend of Linus . . . (who's a bit of a lunk-head at times . . . not you, O Great Pumpkin . . . Mr. Loser, with a capital C.B. . . . known to few as Blockhead, known to many as just C.B., but known to most as Charlie B. . . . who has undying faith in human nature, even though for the umpteenth time Lucy has pulled away his football before he could kick it thereby . . .) Hail O Friend of Lucy . . . (who's fond of everyone and everything (except Lucy) . . . who's fond of many people like Beethoven and . . . Beethoven . . . and lots of other people like . . . Beethoven and (yawn) . . . his piano . . . and (yawn) Beethoven (yawn) (yawn) . . .

"But, ah . . .", says a reliable source named Sigmund Froot, "the blanket represents an innate desire to return to childhood and the mother's womb."

"Ah . . .", says Linus "why not try looking upon it as a conversation piece."

"Ah . . .", says Froot, "the attachment to the blanket and the struggle to keep it, represents a fear of breaking the maternal bonds . . ."

"Ah Ah . . .", says Linus "security, like liberty has to be won and rewon many times . . ."

"Ah, But . . .", says Froot "the fear of being without the blanket represents a neurotic escape from the erotic world of the adult . . ."

"Ah . . .", says Linus, "I love mankind, it's people I can't stand . . ."

"Ah . . .", says Froot "... I give up . . ."

Linus' blanket today is the cars, houses and money (in fact anything that gives you a sense of security) of tomorrow . . . Linus' blanket today is the wives, family, and lovers of tomorrow . . . in fact Linus' blanket is the childhood and warm summer afternoons of adults . . . you might almost say that Linus' blanket is . . . well . . . is . . .

A blanket is like a house . . . it's like a person you can talk to . . . it's a knowing . . . it's really pretty wonderful . . . BUT, it can also be buried by big sisters (who are the crab grass in the lawn of life) and also found by dogs, who feel once in a while their existence is justified. . . . But no matter what shape your blanket's in . . . it still has to be washed on Mondays and "the eternal struggle for security, which knows no seasons" still goes on . . . Security is the quintessence of life . . . even if it does come in the form of a billiard table and a Van Gogh or a kite that never works or a nasty little brother of a Linus, who loves a five bit psychiatrist of a sister. . . .

We all rely on something. We all want to feel secure (and we do it with love, money, power and lots of other etceteras . . .). We all want something we can turn to it in times of national disaster (like C.B. when he has to lean his head against a tree . . .). We want a blanket . . . but we must have lots of blankets . . . we just can't rely on one or heaven help us when Monday washing day comes along. We get PANTOPHOBIA . . . or some other dreaded disease, now will we not. . . .

"Ah . . .", says Froot, quoting an obscure Chinese proverb, "Do not put all eggs in one basket, please", or the more common version, "Don't hang all your bombs in one F-111."

"Ah, Ah, Ah," says Linus, "I thought you had given up . . ." But how much can we read into Peanuts? How much did Schulz put there? Can we analyse the strips? Could well be . . . Can we generalize the situations and place ourselves in their places? I'll allow you. . . .

Says Lucy "I give up . . . there's no use trying . . . no matter how hard I try I can't read between the lines . . ."

Says Froot "Ah, but I believe you can read anything you damn well want into it . . . (complexes, neuroses, psychoses, etc. . . .) it's certain to be there somewhere . . . and ten-to-one you will be right . . ."

Says me, "Froot, I agree . . . It's a wizardry of complicated, intricate networks based on an intuitive insight into social and humanistic understanding . . ."

Says Schulze, "(Dumb) people read a lot into the strip, but actually it's just about all the dumb things I did when I was a kid . . ."

"Oh, Lord . . ."

Thanks Schulzie . . . thanks a million.

That's all I need . . .

It's just ducky . . .

I couldn't have done better myself . . .

From the bottom of my lousy heart I thank you . . . you iconoclast".

WINTER'S NIGHT

Dark, rattling
 windows shake;
 torrid currents swirl
 in the tranquil darkness of sleep;
 rain,
 pit pat,
 falls on the barriers which keep us safe;
 for everyone,
 a strange warmth
 for everyone,
 each on his own: together,
 from the cold of the winter's night,
 security
 in rest,
 in sleep.
 Shower over;
 drip, drip,
 a new sound
 resounds
 through the stillness:
 relief
 from the tension
 of the incessant drumming,
 rattling and rain-glass-splashing
 of the panes, in the night.

CHRISTMAS EVE AT SHEEPYARD FLAT

A loud stream of angry sparks
 Shot up into the Fire-ban air of the night,
 And a flicker of rich light
 Danced across the close river,
 Murmuring in its rough stony bed.
 Around the fire
 Everyone stared deep into the endless flames;
 Behind them the deserted tables,
 And the cars, were piled crazily
 With greasy plates, and the light glittered
 From empty bottles.

They were all there,
 Everyone from years back,
 And their old friend Joe was in the middle of it all.
 His river flowed past,
 His warmth
 Brought them back, year after year.
 Someone was singing;
 The tangled noise
 Of talk and song
 Was flooding out onto the patient river flats.
 A few more arrived from across the lovely ranges
 Cheerily joining the fun.
 Nobody went home for a long,
 Long time,
 And the dying fire,
 The essential fire,
 Kept a stream of lively sparks
 Flying all the long night.

A. G. Davey, VI.

STEP INTO SPACE

OR

UP AND OFF THE FIRE LADDER

Step by step he clambered into the sky.
 Higher and higher he went till he moved out of sight.
 We wondered for his safety.
 Then out of the sky it came.
 An Angel or a bird? No,
 Our friend. He swooped upon us
 As if he was the rainbow.

Geoffrey Lumb, 3G.

THE FIRE LADDER

The long steel swayed under blue skies,
 The red clashing with the grey road;
 The sea in the distance smiling back,
 Mocked the city so grey and drab.
 I, a puppet, a lifeless thing,
 Saw below a cluster of dots.
 Those below looked up to see
 Me in all tranquility.

Greg Pyle, 3G.

"A DREAM"

Impossible to see
 But real to me
 These muddy waters
 Held attraction for me.
 Pitching and hurling,
 Swinging and swirling,
 These massive waters
 Swept over me.
 Aided, abetted,
 Finally freed,
 These mighty waters
 Had not won me.
 Downwards, downwards,
 Towards the sea,
 These greedy waters
 Carried others, not me.

THE CASE FOR CONSCIENCE, CONVICTION AND STRENGTH!

The case of Conscientious objector Simon Townsend has brought to a head the whole matter of conscience in our society today.

As I see and understand it, conscience is the faculty which makes clear the distinction between right and wrong and which influences conduct accordingly.

Unfortunately many have incomplete or impaired consciences or perhaps they are simply cowards unable to stand for what they see as right. These are the conformists who simply conform to avoid criticism. Then there are the few who stand by their convictions against all the might and glory of the law and "the people", indeed their bravery in standing against such a formidable "foe" makes nothing short of heroes of them, although they remain unrecognised as such by society.

At present in Australia, as in most countries exercising National Service conscription, most notably the U.S.A., those of the 'draft' age must register for the draft and express their objections, conscientious or otherwise, to National Service after registering.

The true conscientious objector, however, says that, although he knows that there is provision made for people like him to be exempted from military training, he cannot accept this. He believes that, by registering for the draft, he is giving the government the right to determine whether he should learn to kill or not, a right which he believes neither the government nor any other body has. In not registering for the draft the conscientious objector believes he is applying for a permit not to kill, and no-one, he says, should need a permit to love.

In Australia we have had few such people come to notice in the relatively short life of our National Service scheme. America has many such objectors. The Voice of America in a newscast in early April reported the imprisonment for four years of a young man named Tommy Rodd.

Tommy Rodd had refused to register for the draft and consequently was convicted and put on parole. He broke parole by participating in a demonstration and was sentenced to four years' gaol. He has been described as "one of those rare shining people with the so deceptively gentle strength that is required to follow the path of conscience without a single deviation as to easier paths or an uneasy pause for reflection and reconsideration about where the path is obviously heading, and to do this quietly, calmly, firmly, politely, and without a trace of bravado or shrill defiance."

Tommy Rodd has, of course, been called the names that all such stubborn people have been called. In the light of these few Simon Townsend, who registered for the draft and objects only to the Vietnamese war, can only be considered a sort of semi-objector. However he is using the best means at his disposal to support his objections.

The alarming thing about all this is that people object to the objectors. "How dare they object!" we hear people say. "How dare they object to killing and making war. How dare they preach love. How dare they . . ."

Yes—how dare they preach love and non-violence in this Christian society. They dare do it just as Ghandi, and Martin Luther King did it and perhaps Jesus Christ would have had something to say on the matter, had he been born in our time.
