THE PEGASUS

"Off to Church with you, Son."

"Why, Dad?"

"Just do as you're told and don't answer back!"

Such brief dialogue would have been common in the recent past. But today young people are no longer satisfied to ask questions and receive such answers. And this change is also having its impact in the teaching methods and organization of schools. In the classroom, the students can no longer depend on the teacher's notes to "get them through". The students' own research and note-making are essential.

In school organization, too, the student now plays a more positive role. In 1969, The Geelong College VIth Form suggested that the student voice be heard. It proposed that a body of elected school representatives should meet to act in an advisory capacity to the Principal.

This year, Mr. Thwaites allowed this proposal to be put into effect, and so the Students' Advisory Council, consisting of two members of each form group and a member from each of the six Houses, under the chairmanship of the Captain of School with the Vice-Captain as secretary, was elected.

Problems, of course, were encountered. It was difficult to arrange weekly meetings, the deliberations of unfinished meetings were not publicized, elected members did not find it easy to express the view of their electorate, advanced planning and publication of the agenda was rarely achieved, some frantic student councillors cried for more power to set the resolutions of the Council into action, the electorate was often apathetic, and so on.

But these are the problems of all democratic processes in their infancy. And, of course, without the experiment this year, the pitfalls would not be apparent. Solutions must be found next year. Initial elections need more careful planning and more responsible execution, representatives need to find ways of "sounding out" their electorate, publicity needs more careful attention, and, most important, student power advocates need to appreciate the limits of their mandate. Good sense, tolerance and diplomacy are required. Change will only be achieved through the use of accepted procedures, and the student body must show that it is mindful of this. Only in this way can the school hope to be trusted as a responsible body and so be listened to.

What then does 1971 hold? Enormous possibilities. We must build on the advances of 1970 which are more significant than the above list of problems may indicate.

Sic itur ad astra.

Council Notes

Membership

Following the resignation in February of the Rev. F. H. Camp as a representative of the Presbytery of Geelong, the Council welcomed the Rev. W. H. Littler as his replacement in April.

At this time the Council also agreed to leave of absence for Mr. D. W. Rogers until his other commitments permitted him to return to full-time attendance at Council meetings.

Staff

The teaching activities of two senior members of staff have been seriously limited this year as a consequence of illness. Mr. Lindsay Macmillan has remained on the staff in a limited part-time capacity, and Mr. H. L. E. Dunkley has been absent throughout third term. Mr. Macmillan will remain a part-time member of staff until his retirement in December, 1972, but Mr. Dunkley has resigned. The Council appreciates the very valuable service of both these men and hopes for their return to better health.

Mr. D. J. Whitton was granted study leave to attend a French teaching course for a full academic year in Paris.

The annual Council/Staff Dinner was held on the 18th June, and again proved a great success.

12—THE PEGASUS,

During the August vacation the staff of the Preparatory School acted as hosts to a very valuable Junior Schools' Conference and Refresher School for Headmasters and members of staff from schools throughout Australia.

"Project Pegasus"

A number of members of Council played a very active part in the wide-ranging programme of "Project Pegasus" during first term. The Council acknowledges the remarkable leadership of Mr. F. R. Herd throughout the planning and intensive phase of the campaign, and appreciates his willingness to follow up this good work by remaining Chairman of the Continuation Committee. The speaker at the opening Dinner held early in the first term was the Rev. Dr. J. D. McCaughey, and donors were thanked by the Chairman of Council at a luncheon held in Morrison Hall on the 10th October.

Buildings

The Council is delighted at the completion this year of the first stage of the Rolland Physical Education Centre, the building of the courtyard connecting Morrison Hall with Morrison House, and the modernisation of the ground floor of the Morrison Hall building to provide three new day-boys' common rooms. The work has been very well designed and carried out, and the additions are already proving of great value to the College.

The Rolland Centre was declared officially open by Mr. Lindsay Hassett on the 10th October.

Another fine addition to the College facilities is the Stuart Laidlaw Memorial Swimming Pool, of 25 metres, at the Preparatory School. This was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Laidlaw in memory of Stuart, who was killed in a road accident at Easter this year. The Council is most grateful for this imaginative and appropriate gift.

As a consequence of a grant from the Commonwealth Government, it has also been possible to extend the Preparatory School Library by adding to it an adjacent classroom. These extended facilities, which now include provision for audio-visual work, will be in full operation at the beginning of next year.

A great deal of further planning has also taken place. In particular, the plans for a new Senior School Library, a new Biology laboratory, and for the replacement of the present Hospital, are well advanced, and discussions are already taking place about new boarding house facilities. A decision has been made that, in addition to replacing the present Warrinn House, it will be necessary to replace the present Morrison House, which occupies the former Senior House and Rolland House areas.

It has also been decided that the next stage of the Rolland Centre to be built should be the swimming pool, and that a major replacement of the wood-fired hot water and steam producing unit in the Refectory block area by an oil unit should be undertaken as soon as possible.

The Council has been concerned about the possible need, in the future, for additional land, and has undertaken some enquiries about this.

Finance

Council gratefully acknowledges a number of valuable bequests during the year. A very large bequest to the College is included in the estate of the late Mr. W. B. McCulloch, of Balranald. The Council has also received valuable bequests from the late Mr. A. T. Tait, the late Mr. W. D. Adams, the late Mr. A. K. H. Thompson, and the late Mr. Alexander Armstrong.

During recent years the Council has been very well aware of the economic problems facing families dependent upon income from rural industries, and has decided upon various measures to assist such people. From the Commonwealth Per Capita Grant this year, the Council has set aside $11,000 for bursary assistance to parents in financial difficulties. It has also set up an Endowment Fund, the interest from which will be used in the first instance for further bursaries. The Geelong College Endowment Fund was established in 1970 with the objective of providing a permanent capital fund which shall be used by the College Council at its discretion for the general purposes of the College.

Because of the continuing need for capital funds for such purposes and for new buildings, the Council has established a Capital Funds Committee to co-ordinate all activities related to the obtaining of such funds.

General

The Council has continued to encourage the Principal to take an active part in the affairs of the Headmasters' Conference of which he is the current Chairman, and the National Council of Independent Schools, especially as it seems important at this time to attempt to acquaint the community in general and the various Australian governments of the needs of education at all levels, both State and Independent, and to encourage appropriate forms of government aid to parents in obtaining an adequate education for their children.

The Opening of the Rolland Centre

The College assumed a festive air for Saturday, 10th October, and the opening of the first stage of the Rolland Centre. Over 400 visitors watched the opening ceremony performed by Mr. Lindsay Hassett, M.B.E.

The programme started with a luncheon for donors to the Rolland Centre project in the Morrison Hall, and the occasion brought together Old Collegians of a variety of vintages, some returning for the first time since leaving, and many parents. Amongst the visitors were a party of veteran Old Collegians who were to attend a reunion dinner in the evening.

As the guests took their places for the opening, the Pipe Band put on a display, and later, in College tradition, piped the official party to the Rolland Centre.

14—THE PEGASUS,

In his address, the Chairman of the College Council paid tribute to the generosity of the many friends of the College, who had made the building of the Centre possible. He also paid tribute to the great debt the College owed to the leadership of Sir Francis Rolland and to the continuing link between the College and the Rolland family, some members of which were in the official party.

After a speech recalling his days under Sir Francis's headmastership and the bowling prowess of the present Secretary of the O.G.C.A., Mr. Hassett cut a ribbon on the north stairway to open the Centre officially. A special display showed off the full range of the facilities of the new gymnasium and visitors were particularly impressed by the comprehensive set of weight-training equipment, which makes this one of the best equipped centres in the field in any Victorian school.

As the other visitors viewed the gymnasium, a special programme of athletics was held on the main oval, making full use of the favourable weather that attended the whole occasion.

The formal programme closed with tea in the Morrison Hall.

Perhaps the most memorable aspect of the day was the family atmosphere that pervaded the occasion. There are other occasions that bring together parents, or Old Collegians of similar years, but there are very few that bring together friends and members of the College from so many generations. That all came together to join in the dedication of a building that will perpetuate the memory of Sir Francis, was the warmest tribute paid to him that day.

Library

1970 has been a big year for the Library. The changing trend in teaching methods towards research and assignment work means that the Library has more and more demand upon its shelves. But, whereas in previous years the Library, although catering for the same needs, was able to cope reasonably well and efficiently, the increasing volume of research and the use of the audio-visual departments has reached saturation point.

But, alongside this increase in the volume of work needed to be done in the Library, has come a more than commensurate drain on the Library's housing facilities, as well as an unparalleled level of noise.

Now regarded as a Resource Centre, rather than a Library, the School Library has, as has been mentioned, mounting pressures upon it, in many areas.

Firstly, there is a lack of adequate accommodation and there is much difficulty in moving freely without causing chair movement, beg-pardons and a bigger temptation for how-do-you-do's.

To add to this, is the fact that the Library becomes a socio-resource centre in the depths of a winter freeze when boys come into warm surroundings, talk casually, and glance through magazines. It is hoped that the Day-House Rooms under the Morrison Hall will relieve some of this pressure.

Secondly, there is a great deal of pressure brought to bear on the Audio-Lingual and Visual sections of the Library, but expansion is well nigh impossible and this poses a serious threat of utter inadequacy as the demand for this type of training increases. And so, the Senior Library members and staff welcome with open arms the plan to build a large modern Library within the school bounds in the next three years. Some of the advantages hoped for are worth noting. Some small group discussion rooms will be made as well as a separate informal browsing area. There will be adequate space for a class or classes to be using part of the Library without disturbing the individual working on his own, and the size of the audio-visual areas will probably be trebled. These are but a few of the advantages in store for students, not to mention the facilities available for the staff.

The success of the Library Council has been somewhat hampered by the severe demands made upon its members in other areas of school activity, as well as interruptions made by musical commitments on a compulsory basis.

Our Soeio-Resource Centre.

Working members of the School Library have also slackened pace due to a false impression that the Library is working efficiently without their efforts. But little do these members realize that the efficiency of Library activity has been quietly and tirelessly performed by two over-worked members of staff in Mrs. Wood and Miss Honman.

"Things must be put right," say amazed and somewhat embarrassed members, now on holiday, but things will be put right in the coming year which promises greater stress than ever on the Library's resources, and demands, at the same time, greater co-operation by all members of the school community.

Debating Society

A prominent second term extra-curricular activity was Debating. Again, Mr. Morgan was master-in-charge, with J. Weddell as President for his second year, S. Davey as Vice-President, R. Doyle as Secretary, P. Jensen as Supper Convener and P. Crockett, N. Kearney and A. Johnstone as form representatives on the Debating Society Committee.

Again, attendances were very good this year, with an average of 40 per evening and often more with visitors during competition debates. There was a lack of seniors at our meetings, but this provided a good opportunity for juniors to participate. With a lack of initial organization in the Geelong District Debating Association, our season was limited and the competition had no finals series. Consequently, we included many debates amongst members of the Society.

Objections have been raised in the school as regards the moral issue involved in forcefully arguing a subject in a debate which is contrary to the individual's belief. As a result, the Inter-House Debating Competition has been abolished and a Public Speaking Competition was organised in form levels, which proved to be most successful, although the sixth form did not participate.

This year, we introduced a Geelong Four School Debating Round which involved Morongo, The Hermitage, Geelong Grammar and Geelong College. Unfortunately, Geelong Grammar could not participate, but debates amongst the other three schools, held at the

16—THE PEGASUS,

College, proved highly successful. With excellent attendances, the debates proved to be stimulating social activities if not debating activities. Boosting our "male ego", the debates between the College and Morongo resulted in Morongo being victors, arguing that "The Male Is The Stronger Sex". It is hoped that this competition will continue amongst the four schools in future years.

Besides the many internal debates, our results in competition debates during the season included:

B Grade:

Geelong College defeated Chanel College.

Geelong College defeated St. Joseph's College.

C Grade:

Geelong College lost to Geelong Teachers' College.

Geelong College defeated Chanel College.

Junior Science Club

The four members — Knowles, Donnan, Holdenson and Morton — have been meeting every Friday afternoon under the supervision of Mr. Seaton. Many interesting and original projects have been undertaken, although not all have proved successful.

Donnan and Morton started the year by trying to produce a match that could be struck anywhere, but met with mixed success. Donnan's next project was an attempt to make a nicotine-free sample of tobacco, but this met with no success at all; in fact it went mouldy and led to his next experiment — the growth and classification of yeast moulds.

Morton went on to experiments in copper and silver plating, chemical precipitations and, later, reactions of bases and acids.

Holdenson began with an investigation into the behaviour of convection currents; he later turned to chemistry and tried his hand at producing nylon and rayon but was completely unsuccessful. His next project was undoubtedly the Club's piece de resistance — an automatic boot polish machine. Once this wonderful contraption was started, it would churn out black boot polish for as long as the ingredients lasted.

Knowles' first project proved abortive — the production of various soaps and detergents — although his next project — an automatic cigarette smoking machine for measuring the tar content of various makes of cigarettes — was progressing steadily until another responsibility forced him to abandon his efforts. He re-started the project at the beginning of third term and is currently still working on it.

Pipe Band

Now completing its third year and about to begin its fourth, the Geelong College Pipe Band has established itself as a body of hard-working, enthusiastic young men within the College community. 1970 will be remembered as a year of transition within the band, as the first contingent of pipers from the Preparatory School entered the band and this year forms a pre-dominant section of the Band. 1971 promises more pipers and drummers and the band size is interesting to note. In 1968, there were 5 pipers and 3 drummers; in 1969, there were 12 pipers and 6 drummers; and in 1970, there were 16 pipers and 10 drummers. This figure will remain the same into 1971, and the promise of 10 extra pipers from the Preparatory School suggests that 1971 will be a big year for the band.

It should be mentioned that within the band exists an unspoken, yet very real, sense of loyalty and friendship, and because there is a real purpose, a common purpose, and ambition for the band members in trying to improve their standard, a bond is set up between them and the result is friendship and this is a wonderful reward. But the continuation of the Band is somewhat hampered by the extreme costs involved in buying pipes and drums, and the hope for an independent uniform is but a pipe dream. The success which the Pipe Band has enjoyed has been worked hard for, and this has been noted by many people. The hope of the members of the Pipe Band is not only to be appreciated but strongly supported, and the Band hopes that, in the coming year, support will come, not only from parents of the band members, but from Old Collegians and others who appreciate and wish to preserve an important section of the school community.

Drum Major Hugh Seward will be leaving the Band after 3 years of devoted service and fine example, and his influence within the band will be missed, but the effect of his influence will be something to live up to in the strenuous year ahead.

House of Guilds

Apart from the now familiar H.O.G. programme, which provides the means of doing all the odd jobs which fall to the lot of the boys whether they live at school or at home, some new and more specialized activities have been introduced in 1970.

We were fortunate to secure the expert services of Mr. Andrew Brown in the metal work shop so that, under his guidance, the new metal turning lathe has turned to good use, and arc welding equipment added to the oxy-acetylene equipment has enabled members to attempt more advanced work and in heavier materials. Punches and plumb-bobs and parts for clapped out two-stroke engines have been made on the spot, and with the skills and machines now available the mini-bike craze has flourished with successful results.

In much the same way, a revival of interest in pottery has resulted from the experienced help given by Mrs. Lee, who spends four hours each week introducing the uninitiated into the art of handling clay. Recently, a new potters wheel has been acquired and a number of skilled practitioners have not only turned out attractive and useful clay vessels of their own designing, but have fired them successfully. Already there are eager inquiries for vacancies in the pottery class next year.

Thanks to the enthusiasm and organizing ability of Mr. Tattersall, the photographers have improved their dark room procedures and final results, and benefitted by experience from the excursions where first class photography and advanced processing were demonstrated. Yes, they have successfully developed their first colour transparency film!

In response to many requests, the H.O.G. has now made provision for the ever-popular copper enamelling.

During third term a squad of enthusiastic volunteers designed, prepared and handled on stage, the scenery and properties for "Trial By Jury", and built a series of modular units for use on the stage by dramatic classes, whereby stage settings with stairs, platforms or rostrum can be erected as required in a few minutes.

Once again the instructors and members of staff and H.O.G. Council have devoted interest and hard work, so enabling another successful year's programme to be provided for the enjoyment of all.

18—THE PEGASUS,

P.F.A.

This year, as with most years, the P.F.A. committee started with high ideals and higher aspirations. The committee, with the chaplain, was P. J. Dickson, President, P. A. Baulch, Secretary and S. C. Young, R. S. Anderson, P. J. S. Young, R. K. Doyle, J. T. M. Whiting and P. W. Crockett.

The fulfilment of Committee ideals and aspirations was possibly somewhat limited. The Boat Race Panel, an annual institution, was a great success, as always, with Mr. T. L. Macmillan, Mr. Albert Bell, Mr. Richard Morris, and Hugh Seward and Stephen Davey.

Our College/Morongo activities totalled one: the badge presentation. The proposed combined senior dance, and junior barbecue failed to materialize.

Other meetings were held quite successfully but, all in all, it is to be hoped that next year the P.F.A. is more active than this year.

Social Service

A new system of collecting this year (in Houses throughout a week, giving the would-be donor a much better chance to donate) has given our rather languid Social Service a wash of rosy red on each cheek.

The new system was that, in the beginning, each House set their sights to acquire some commodity or give some service to a foundation chosen by the House.

So each House, on the strength of this, worked for two or three projects, and also the school as a whole supported the Peru earthquake emergency, and the widows of the Westgate disaster.

The final sum for all these will approach $700, compared to last year's $500.

Social Service in the school needs a good hard boost along, out of the rock-hard disinterest that surrounds it, and it will be THE year when Social Service can stand on its own feet with the strength of the whole school's interest. What can be done is always difficult to carry out successfully.

We made a little step toward THE year this year, and we should be able to keep it up from now on.

Music

This year has been one of the best years the school has enjoyed for a long time with regard to music. There are, without doubt, very few people within the school who have not participated in some musical activity or other over the three terms.

The House Music Competition was an illustration of the higher standard of music in the school and was also an excellent example of the ability of the boys in the Houses, whether they be musical or not, to contribute in some way and make for a very entertaining evening. The winners this year were McArthur, but it cannot be said that the other Houses were lacking musical ability and the scores were very close.

DECEMBER, 1970—19

The Trial begins.

The Defence rests.

In term one, two Melbourne musicians, Brian Hansford, bass, and Margaret Scholfield, piano, presented an entertaining one hour programme.

The school was fortunate in second term to hear the visiting Flamenco guitarist, Paco Pena, in concert, and it was certainly an hour well spent.

The highlight of the year was the School Concert, held early in third term. This included performances by the Concert Band, the Orchestra and the combined Chapel Choir and Morongo Choir, who sang "Come Ye Sons of Art" by Purcell. The second half of the programme consisted of the comic operetta "Trial By Jury" by Gilbert and Sullivan. The two soloists in the Purcell were Mr. H. Newnham and Ian Mitchelhill from the Preparatory School, and this excellently-rendered piece was later performed at the Four Schools' Concert at Geelong Grammar. "Trial By Jury" was also a great success. This was due largely to Mr. Mahar and Mr. Webb, and especially Mr. Martin, who put a tremendous amount of work into its presentation, and who was responsible for the high standard of music therein.

The school's reputation for its musical achievements has obviously been maintained this year, and credit is reflected on the work of boys and staff. It is therefore with regret that we farewell Mr. W. L. Lowe who has so capably taught piano at the College for twelve years.

Cadets

Last year's new concept in Cadet training was extended even further this year with the inclusion of the third form in the unit.

During the May training period, B and C Companies went to an area near Scarsdale and had a worthwhile camp under the direction of C.U.O. P. Lowe and C.U.O. M. D. Kroger.

A Company remained at the College and had an extremely valuable and interesting time. The highlight of the camp was the presentation by Mr. Thwaites of the "Buntine Sword". The sword was accepted by C.U.O. S. McD. Davey.

B. and C. Companies were not in the same high spirits for their second camp during August. Several inches of snow had fallen on the campsite the night before camp. The camp was abandoned.

However, a potential N.C.O. course was conducted at Ballarat Airfield, with about twenty-five third formers and twenty-five fourth formers under the direction of Lt. P. Cronk and C.U.O. Davey. The course was a great success with many different activities being carried out. Most Cadets enjoyed themselves and entertainment was provided by C.U.O. Davey, R.S.M. Weddell and C.S.M. Seward.

The third term Passing-Out Parade was a credit to all concerned. It was inspected by Lt. Col. M. Thirwell, M.C., Commander 3 Cadet Brigade, who presented the following prizes:

MAY HIKE — THE VICTORIAN ALPS

We left College at 8.15 a.m. on Monday, 18th May, for a week in the Victorian Alps, south-west of Mt. Buller. Nine of us were squeezed into a hired VW Mini Bus — fitting in Andy Colvin at Kilmore was no easy task! After a lunch stop at Mansfield, we arrived at the Howqua River. A novel start to the hike was provided by crossing the river on a flying fox to Fred Fry's hut. Mr. Elliott departed with the mini-bus, and with Adrian Davey in charge, we set off up a hill which we later realised wasn't very steep at all.

Leaving a beautiful camp-site on Ware's Ruins the next morning, we were confronted by a very steep climb. After climbing for about half an hour we were assured that it would ease off in "a short while". Some members of the party will never forget how long that was!

Wednesday was spent around the fire in Mitchell's Hut while it rained, allowing some members to recover from the previous day, and others to partake of hot buttered toast. Thursday was certainly a contrast. After crossing numerous creeks, our feet were only beginning to dry out when we reached the snow on The Governors. The remaining water seemed to freeze in our socks. Although we had been looking forward to the snow, it was well over a foot deep, and slowed us down very much. We hardly paused at the summit to look at the surrounding snow covered peaks —Mt. McDonald, The Bluff and Eagles Peaks, before rapidly descending to the snowline for lunch at 2 p.m. The afternoon's journey from Lickhole Gap became increasingly faster as we strove to reach the Upper Jamieson Hut before nightfall. We reached the bank of the Jamieson River about a quarter of a mile downstream from the hut, as the light was fading fast. After safely (just!) crossing the waist deep, fast flowing river, we ran through the scrub, Mr. Elliott had beaten us there by a quarter of an hour in the school mini bus, bringing Libby and Kirsty with him, and he picked up a few stragglers about half a mile up the road.

After being awakened by Mr. Elliott's patented alarm clock — Libby and Kirsty jumping around in the mini bus (which they had slept in) — we were up and ready to go — all except the mini-bus. As usual, for the end of a hike, we had to push it a fair way to start it, but once started it ran well. We stopped on the road above Timbertop and strolled I mile down into the valley to the school buildings (one member occupying his mind with the thought of climbing up again, as though the hill was Mt. Everest.). We spent nearly an hour inspecting the buildings (without having to set eyes on a single Grammarian) and a totem-pole image of Mr. Elliott, done when he was a master there, was an added attraction.

After dropping various members at Wallan, Cabourg and Melbourne Uni., the mini-bus took a liking to slipping out of gear, but it got us home faster than walking.

The mainly happy party (one person was heard to say that his children would be forbidden to go on hikes if they ever come to school in Australia) was: Adrian Davey, Eoin Barrett, Andy Calvin, Shaac Johan, Max Kroger, Carl Lim, Michael Menzirs, Ron Ooi and John Slattery, with Mr. Elliott as chauffeur.

Film Education

The year 1970, which heralds a decade of space age development at Geelong College, has also brought with it a revolutionary new addition to the school English syllabus.

Film making and film appreciation was this year introduced into the English syllabus not only for many fourth and fifth formers at the Senior School, but also for one c'ass at second form level at the Preparatory School.

22—THE PEGASUS,

This much-welcomed innovation to the old syllabus has been due to the efforts of the Senior English Master, Mr. Mahar.

Film appreciation was the introduction to the film-work for the year, which took place in first term at the Senior School. It consisted of a series of films screened weekly in the Morrison Hall, showing camera techniques and all the other aspects of film making. These films were viewed by all fourth and fifth formers. Class discussions on film appreciation were also vigorously undertaken. The concluding film in the appreciation series was closely followed by the screening of the film "Twelve Angry Men", which was an excellent film, giving an opportunity for critical film appraisal. This film was viewed by the fourth and fifth formers who were then required to write a critique of the film in terms of film techniques in relation to the story matter.

At the Preparatory School, first term brought the introduction of film making. Form 2K was the only class involved in filmwork for the year under the direction of their English teacher, Mr. Longley. The class was divided into groups of five or six boys, each group making a two or three-minute film in the school grounds. The Senior School had recently acquired a Super Eight Movie Camera for filming purposes. Each group arranged to use the camera at different times during English classes. The second form also viewed one of the films in the series of film appreciation films used at the Senior

School was later taken to the Preparatory School. In addition, an entertaining Western-type film was made by a group of second form boarders at a country setting.

In second term, forms VA<sup>1</sup> and VA<sup>2</sup> began planning films. Each class was divided into five or six small groups. Each group in VA<sup>1</sup> was assigned to make a complete two to three minute movie of some entertaining form and nature, but the stipulations about the type of movie were virtually carte blanche. Each group had use of the movie camera at pre-arranged times either during English periods or out of school time. Each member of the group had the responsibility of one of the five tasks which included the Director, Cameraman and Log Recorder.

A reel of film was purchased towards the end of second term so that each group could partcise the use and master the techniques of the movie camera in a practical way on a short film. The filming proper began at the end of second term and continued into third term. After the films were processed, each group did any film splicing or editing that was necessary.

Form VA<sup>2</sup> was similarly divided into several groups for filming. However, the type of filming in VA<sup>2</sup> was different to that done by VA<sup>1</sup>. VA<sup>2</sup> used a series of slides or film stills to form their complete films. The arrangements for this filming were similar to those in VAI.

At the Preparatory School another short film was made by each group in Form 2K,

"One for the road"
 during Term Two's
 flu' epidemic.

under Mr. Longley's supervision. These films were more complex than those made in first term because use was made of specialised camera techniques, more varied camera shots and a far greater use of action and progressive motion.

In the third term at the Preparatory School no further films were made, but experimenting was done with scratching patterns on exposed film stock then projecting the film onto a screen. This method was not particularly successful, but practice in film splicing was undertaken. The eventual aim was to edit and splice the films made in first and second terms into one continuous film.

The enthusiastic support shown for the varied filmwork done at the College in 1970 has paved the way for an increasing importance of filmwork in the academic syllabus in future years.

Sixth Form

A number of sixth form activities were conducted during the period of the Cadet Camp.

1. Serendip

Fourteen boys were taken to and from Serendip in the mini-bus each day by Mr. Morgan. Under the guidance of an official from the Fisheries and Wildlife Department, the boys were put to work planting trees, making and painting nesting boxes for ducks and generally restoring the natural elements around the area. The work lasted for five week days and, although some did not take to the work as eagerly as they could have, it was valuable exercise in restoration work. The work was done for the Sanctuary at Serendip and the set up of this place was most interesting. The boys were able to see the valuable work being done by the band of workers in the Wildlife Department and to take part in this work.

2. The Broadford Boys

On the 16th August a group of twenty-four sixth and fifth formers set off for Broadford

No. 1 Camp in the State Forests, twenty miles out of Broadford, near Seymour. The atmosphere was far from one of expectancy as reports of heavy snow and rainfalls streamed into the College. However, under the supervision of Mr. Seaton, the group settled into the two and three-man cabins with their well-designed chimneys and artistic murals. After the first meal, a real tribute to Mrs. McKechnie, the camp settled down for night activities. Entertainment was in the form of films and table tennis in a Recreation Hall and a sing-a-long in one of the huts. What with "Sharlies" speeches and "Robinstrills U.F.O's", the activities became most popular.

The first day the group went to the beautiful Murchison Falls area and were assigned the task of making a path down the treacherous slopes of the valley. By afternoon, the rain came and the group adjourned to the camp to repair chimneys and thaw out after a morning of hard work.

The second day saw the completion of the pathway and to mark the triumph Sutherland, Torode and Harvey had a brick battle in the refreshing melted snow. The afternoon was spent playing football on the "oval". Andrews delighted the crowd with his usual display of impeccable disposal.

The third day was spent planting trees, then planting trees and planting more trees; it seemed the trees would never stop coming. The monotony was broken only by heated debates on "The Apathy at the College", chaired by Andrews with opposition presented by Robinson and Wolter. Spirits were lifted, however, by the pleasant site of camp and a sweet aroma coming from the "kitchen".

Planting trees and cleaning up the site took up the next two days; it was obvious that the Commission were knocked off their feet by the group's speedy work.

The less said about the last night the better; it was like all last nights, and it proves that school prefects are all not perfect. The expert leadership of Mr. Seaton and Mr. McKechnie and the unrivalled cooking of Mrs. McKechnie certainly made the whole show.

This type of setting for educational purposes is a new idea, and, according to most of the

He who works
 never feels cold.

boys, the benefits are tremendous. Perhaps the College could start thinking about providing facilities in an area like Broadford in the near future.

3. Rennick Project

Twenty-seven boys and two staff members worked at the Rennick State Forest on the South Australian-Victorian Border. The party was away for nine days and the members carried out tasks such as pine tree planting, soil and native species collection for sampling purposes, wattle removal in young pine stands, some work in the tree nursery, fertilizer trials, tree pruning and the collection of forest litter to determine the fire indices for the area.

The Forests Commission camp was very comfortable and the work carried out paid for the cost of victualling the party. Camp tasks were shared and the whole project was a success according to the District Forester.

Some talks and films were shown of educational interest to the group, especially by the Forests Commission and a naturalist, Mr. A. Austin. The Agricultural class was given the opportunity of observing land use in the area and a visit was made to Mingbool Station in South Australia. Most of the party visited the Softwood Holdings particle board factory in Mount Gambier, followed by a visit to the Princess Margaret Caves, where a barbecue was held.

Sore hands and bent backs were experienced in the first few days, but the group soon became hardened and a good working level was reached. The Forestry Staff were most co-operative and understanding and many members showed great interest in this type of outdoor occupation.

This, or a similar project could be repeated to the advantage of both the Forests Commission and the School, for it welds together a group of young men as an introductory stage of entering the outside world.

Current Affairs

This year our outlook has been broadened by a set of varied and interesting topics. Not only were these topics presented by many professional men of all walks of life, but we also had films and film strips dealing with such subjects as cancer, South Africa, Trinidad, Tobago, Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

Our three visitors in the first term spoke of pressing topics which need action now. The first, Mr. David Bottomly, the former head of the Consumer Protection Board, spoke on his own convictions on this subject, and of the need for consumer protection. Dr. Werner Strauss, from the applied science faculty at the Melbourne University, outlined the present situation concerning pollution. Mr. J. Sinclair, from the C.S.I.R.O. in Belmont, spoke about textiles, emphasising developments in wool, and he discussed wool in relation to synthetic fibres. Also, Mr. D. D. Davey gave a very interesting talk on Biological Warfare.

In the second term, the topics differed widely, varying from politics to road accidents. Mr. H. Birrell and Mr. John Woolfe, of the Liberal and Labor Parties respectively, each outlined the policy of their party for the State Elections. This provided the sixth form with an opportunity to hear statements from these two parties expressed together. Dr. N. Mirza, Professor in Sematic Studies at the Melbourne University, presented us with an overall view of the Arab-Israeli conflict, the reasons why this situation developed, and what it could lead to. Dr. John Birrell, the Victorian Police Surgeon, gave an amusing talk, but a talk that gave us a lot of food for thought on road accident statistics. We were shown slides while he discussed such factors as alcohol and speed. During this term, Mr. R. T. Dobb led a session on Indonesia, and Peter Wade spoke about his experiences at the United Nations Conference in Tasmania.

In third term the number of topics was by no means diminished, but they were all in the first half of the term to allow more study for the exams. The first of these topics was presented by the Rev. Rex Mathias, who spoke on peace as a Christian alternative to war, giving a pacifist's viewpoint. Mr. Stephen Graves, a Post-Graduate student at the Monash University, spoke of his experiences at the United Nations World Youth Assembly in New York this year as one of Australia's representatives. The Rev. A. D. Hallam, the former Minister of St. George's Church, recently returned from Israel. He spoke on his belief in the Zionist cause, and explained why he feels that the jews have their rights to the land. He also outlined the security of Israel in the future. The last talk of the year was given by Mr. Justice Crockett, who spoke on the "Rule of Law", a thought-provoking address outlining the law in the community and how the law should affect the individual.

These meetings each week are of great value, as they give us an opportunity to hear viewpoints which we cannot always come into contact with. They also serve to inspire an active interest in new areas which one might not have been familiar with beforehand, helping us to establish our own particular viewpoint on current issues.

Latin Reading

After a cor in ori journey by mini-curru eleven discipuli docti and one paedagogus finally ululaverunt ad consitionem at the Melburnensem Universitum. Egressi sumus from vehicule and moverunt nos ad lecture theatrum ut we might frui two horas of aurem-bashing and frigidam-mentham-throwing.

The glaber lecturer erat very entertaining and to facere noctem even more enjoyable parsi sumus the carmina (hoc erat a blessing as ut videtur fuerunt an abortivum last year). The College abstulit et the Vth et the VIth form praemia this year and these were duly exdata.

After paucis stops to run back and tollere the cista-apparatum (gear-box) et/vel some refectionem ad Geelong pervenimus.

A via we are gratissimi to Magister Petrus Venatio for his medianoctalem guided peregrinationem of this pulchra urbs but we would probabiliter have been potentes to servare more of the currus if we habuimus iti direct.

Third Form August Trips

FLINDERS ISLAND

In the brisk air of 7.00 a.m., the party of 35 heaved their rucksacks and tents and cartons of food on board the bus and set off for the first leg of the trip to Flinders Island. A couple of hours later, on board an Electra, we caught a brief sight of Flinders Island before increasing cloud covered the sky. In Launceston, it seemed that the winds were laced by the snow that capped the surrounding hilltops. Eventually, off again on the final leg. We flew over the northern chain of islands until the massive, complex blocks of mountains known as Strzelecki thrust upwards and defined the southern approach to Flinders. The party saw the challenge and wondered how many would achieve the climb. Quickly we unloaded from the plane to find that we had been short-loaded. Not too serious though, and we split into two sections.

The three groups led by Mr. Slingo, Dick Moore and John Moore, moved south to set up base at Big River. The road follows the narrow plain around the coast with the tall granite blocks of 2,500 feet or more pressing their majesty almost to the waterline. The deepest valley is Big River and it was here by the flowing water that tents were pitched, mca's cooked, and small parties undertook expiration trips in the moonlight into the scrub and along the beach. By ten, the tents were peaceful.

At about midnight the winds blew and the rains pelted down. In most cases the shelter proved a match for the overhead elements, but not, unfortunately, for the flow of water that cl'aned off the steep slopes into the river bed. Torchei confirmed the worst fears and many a sleeping bag became stiff with water. Mr. Slingo tried in vain to keep dry. At five, he abandoned tent and dismally lit a fire. Others in the group were luckier and escaped serious problems of dampness.

John Moore's group collected their belongings together and began their hike eastward over the ends of the ranges and through rather dense scrub to lunch at the mouth of Reddings Creek. By night, they had made the distance to Badger's Corner and camped wearily by an empty house for the night. Next day was more relaxing with a ride north around the eastern end of the ranges to the hut known as Drover's Dream. The hut is located near the opening of a long valley that cuts deeply into the ranges. It was calculated that if we followed the ridge south we would cross over the backbone of the mountain block and eventually reach Big River. Many of the local farmers had little idea of the intermediate territory, except that it was pig and wallaby breeding country. Rucksacks were loaded for a two-day hike and John's group set off in good spirits at 9.00 a.m. on the Tuesday.

In the meanwhile, Dick's group had set about exploring the landforms around Big River. One mighty peak, appropriately called Razorback, was tackled and defeated. They, too, spent time at the mouth of Big River collecting samples of the natural history and anticipating suitable fishing spots for another day. On Monday, assisted by a ride back along the road to Trousers Point, the group pitched camp in the sand-dunes and then set about climbing Strzelecki. By now the weather had roughened and the track to the summit had turned to slush. It was a hard climb of four hours with extremely strong winds ripping across from behind the block at the top. Down again to light fires and dry off.

Next day, Mr. Dobb took them by utility to Drover's Dream for a rest. Fortunately, the weather began to show its brighter side and on the next day when Dick set off to traverse the ranges to Big River, the sky was clear and calm. They had magnificent views of Franklin Sound and Lady Barron Island as they climbed the ridge to hike south.

What had Mr. Slingo been doing? After that first eventful night of rain it was necessary to dry out and consider alternate activities. Here, the group received tremendous co-operation from local residents. Clothes were dried off in front of fires, a boat was hired and the party spent three days on Green Island. This was a small, flat, half a square mile, that lay in the waters about a mile offshore from Whitemark. The island remained a breeding ground for the Cape Barren geese — quite a number of chicks were counted. In fact, one of the chief activities of the group was to conduct a census of the natural life. Those few days of clear blue skies and moonlit nights completely alone on an island are not easily forgotten. On Thursday, back to the mainland. Next day was perfect for climbing, almost too hot. The race was to reach the top of Strzelecki. The track had substantially dried out and the climb proved steep but safe, and gave everyone tremendous views of the entire island and of the southern ranges of Tasmania.

John's group had covered their hike across the ranges in seven hours — a quite unexpected feat. In the remaining few days, Strzelecki was climbed together with other minor challenges of bushcraft to complete a most rewarding eight days. Dick soon caught up, and tested theories on fishing with a great deal of success.

Two groups, led by Reg Hobbs and Mr. Hunt, moved on the first night, north to the shearing shed at Mr. Eastoe's farm at Emita. This base was only temporary for Mr. Hunt's group moved further north on Sunday to a property near Killiecrankie Bay. In the north of the island the mountains form less of a block, rather they rise like giant boulders on gently rolling sheep country. Killiecrankie is a rock climber's delight. Its walls fall almost sheer to the water's edge and real skill is needed to tackle the steep faces.

Two days of exploration, fossicking for topas, fishing, and, of course, climbing Killiecrankie, easily slipped by. Base was again a hut, with an open fireplace which gushed volumes of smoke into the rooms at night. Late on the second day, Mr. Hunt received a serious scratch across his eye which became infected. On Wednesday, he unfortunately had to return to Geelong for medical treatment of a more specialised nature.

For the remaining days, his group travelled to Palana, tented in the dunes; tented at West End and scaled Mt. Tanner, fished and swam; and tented at Settlement Point, spending a day largely centred on the museum that recorded the early days of the attempted re-settlement of the Tasmanian aborigines on the island.

Reg Hobbs' group covered similar ground with great thoroughness and enjoyment. Their climb of Killiecrankie was perhaps the most challenging and exciting, and all told they covered the ground between Palana and Settlement Point in four days of hiking. In between this more serious activity, there was an afternoon crayfishing. Quite a mixed bag to eat that night!

As in previous years, the five groups competed for the Flinders Island Cup. The contest was extremely close and it turned out that Killiecrankie, led by Reg Hobbs and George Bidstrup, came out in front. Nevertheless, all groups learned a little of the skills of living as a team, and of the need to co-operate in order to meet the demands of hiking and climbing.

Those on the trip were Mr. Dobb, organiser, Mr. Hunt (Furneaux), Mr. Slingo (Crayfish), Reg Hobbs (Killiecrankie), Dick Moore (Shearwater), and John Moore (Strzelecki), together with 29 enthusiastic third formers. Our thanks must go also to the very many Island residents who made our stay so enjoyable.

OTWAYS

After finding the third neutral and starting the mini-bus we set off in rain, with Mr. Tattersall at the wheel, for Moonlight Head. Much to our surprise the rain soon changed to sleet and by the time the bus had chugged over a few hills just past Gellibrand, there was a considerable ground cover of snow, and it was still falling. After much persuasion the mini-bus limped on to Moonlight Head. On arrival, the rain had momentarily ceased and we were able to have lunch and set up our fires and tents before Mr. Elliott arrived with the school Holden and Mr. Ryan, D. Scott, and T. Mahar, who had been leaving food dumps at previously selected positions along the way. Mr. Tattersall and Mr. Elliott then set off back to Geelong, Mr. Tattersall gladly exchanging the mini-bus for the Holden.

28—THE PEGASUS,

The hail forced us to bed early that night, after a quick tea, but fortunately for us, the weather on the following days never looked back and proved to be excellent for hiking (apart from the daily shower at 7.00 p.m. each night).

From Moonlight Head we hiked around the coast collecting food dumps at Johanna Beach and Parker River. We then proceeded across country to Apollo Bay, covering an estimated total distance of approximately 45 miles in four and a half days of hiking.

The countryside that we traversed was ever-changing from day to day, although, as a rule, it was generally high undulating hills overlooking the sea. The type of country over which we hiked was varied, and the methods used to get where we were going included scrub bashing, walking over grassed paddocks, along gravel and bitumen roads, and also along the beach (which usually resulted in at least one member of our party getting wet). The ground cover ranged from low lying heather-like scrub, containing many interesting wild flowers, and thickly grassed hillsides to tall timbered and rather dense forest land, closer to Apollo Bay.

On this hike, however, life was not all easy — Lionel Fritz, our only Nauruan on the hike, displays a good example of this. He came on the hike without a sleeping bag, most of his nights were spent wrapped up in a raincoat in his tent or beside the camp fire. Despite this, he seemed very cheerful and we all enjoyed his company. Other mishaps included Ewan McKenzie getting asthma and of course some sore feet resulted from the final day's walk along the bitumen road.

We reached Apollo Bay on Friday, 21st August (Doug. Silke's and Eoin Barnett's birthday) at about 1.00 p.m., which was a day earlier than had been expected. On arrival, after taking a vote, Mr. Ryan rang Geelong to see if we could be picked up that night, but much to our dismay, we found that the mini-bus was being used and we couldn't be picked up until the next morning. We were then faced with the problem of where to spend the night.

By about 4.00 a.m. just about everyone in Apollo Bay knew that we were there, and Michael Smith's parents offered us the use of their living-room for the evening, which we gladly accepted. After a good night's sleep, we fried our remaining eggs on the Smith's gas stove and were ready to leave by the time Mr. Mahar arrived with the mini-bus and Mrs. Mahar with the Holden.

The mini-bus set off first with Mr. Ryan at the wheel and, after a small mishap when Mr. Mahar's daughter's finger was slammed in the car door, the Holden followed, dropping off John Sutherland en route. At the Torquay turn-off the two vehicles met once more, due to the mini-bus running out of petrol. Soon, both vehicles were back on the road again and in no time were back at the College, to end an enjoyable and exciting hike.

The hike was led by Mr. Ryan and those who went were: Darrell Lawrence, David Scott, Douglas Silke, Eoin Barnett, Ewan McKenzie, Graeme Gummow, John Head, John Jenkins, John Sutherland, Lionel Fritz, Rowan MacDonald, Timothy Mahar and Wayne Hill.

THE MURRAY RIVER

Clarity of voice, and ding, ding, ding . . . "Don't let the skipper die of thirst," lay ahead of a party of third formers and three Matrics, under the guidance of Mr. Stock and Alex Stevenson, on the Murray River excursion.

Evidently, the early departure time scheduled for the long bus trip was too much for doctor's sons, Williams and Wood, so they caught an extra forty winks, while the rest of the group listened to tuneful melodies from the guitars of Weston and Bullen.

The weather attempted to dishearten us in various ways — firstly, by a snow blizzard at Bannockburn and secondly, by some chilly winds at night at our camp site. In fact, Doak cursed himself for not bringing his sleeping bag. However, we were treated kindly for most of the time, and ended up sun-baking on top of the "Rakawi".

Emphasis on the trip was placed on observation of wild life, bushmanship, hiking and fishing. The only species of "bird" that seemed popular was Sloane. The elusive Murray cod kept up its "tradition" and the only thing McMurrich caught was a cold. Observation of wild life on the shores led the curious Morrow too far and he ended up being chased up a tree by a "vicious" goat. Anderson, Johnstone, Tamakin and Clarke were left in hysterics over the incident, whilst having their "annual" bath in a nearby icy-cold lagoon.

The party visited a local citrus grove and enjoyed trampling amongst the fruit trees and collecting bags of mandarins, oranges and grapefruit. Evidently, Weston, Wolter and Deppeler were dissatisfied with the orchard romp and plotted another raid on a nearby orchard, and consequently were lucky to escape from some buckshot fired at their . . .

"Smooth-talking, wild-story-telling" skipper of the "Rakawi", George Winton, guided us through the treacherous, muddy waters of the Murray to Red Cliffs, where the party inspected a power station. On the trail home, scouts Stock and Stevenson searched highways and by-ways for the "elusive" Irymple Road, but were utterly confused by the variations in directions given by "helpful" new Australians. Meanwhile, Steve Anderson and Morrow calmly rowed back down through the "rapids" of Whirlpool Bend to camp. (Anderson must be congratulated for his beautiful body that he likes to expose.)

Mr. Stock provided excellent organization of yet another successful and enjoyable trip, and much of the credit for the trip must go to him.

GIPPSLAND LAKES TRIP

The trip to the Gippsland Lakes by third formers during the last week of second term got off to a typical start in light rain and overcast skies.

Departing on the morning of Sunday, 16th August, we arrived at Lakes Entrance in the evening, somewhat wearisome after the day's travelling.

The trip to the Buchan Caves the following morning was cancelled because of heavy rain. Instead, a bus trip of the Lakes Entrance area was arranged, after which the boats were boarded at Metung.

Reg. Eagles showed the way by running his boat aground within seconds of taking command. He was aptly given the nickname "Captain Blood".

The afternoon was taken in getting the feeling of the boats. Mr. Norman had the unfortunate experience of ramming a pleasure craft. The resulting laughter must have disconcerted him somewhat. The first night proved stormy and most boats dragged their anchors. Finding ourselves drifting towards the left shore, a series of complex manoeuvres were engaged which were hampered by the wind, driving rain, darkness and the confines of our anchorage. The wind had more effect than the rudders and engines combined, and finally caused one boat to run aground.

The crew, on considering themselves stuck fast, retired in a somewhat drenched state. Rescue operations were effectively carried out by Mr. Humphries and his crew the next morning. The next few days were spent cruising and fishing. Interesting places, such as "Spermwhale Head" native reserve and "ninety mile" beach, were duly visited.

On Friday, the 21st August, our group of experienced "sea salts" were homeward bound after an enjoyable week.

HOUSE ACTIVITIES

Calvert House

Housemaster:	The Rev. E. C. McLean
Assistant Master:	A. A. Grainger, Esq.
House Captain:	P. S. Lowe
School Prefects:	C. S. Sutherland J. S. Weddell
House Prefects:	D. C. N. Dunoon G. T. D. Morrow C. S. B. Szaday P. A. Wade

Under the guidance of Mr. McLean, Calvert again, through his fine leadership and high standards, has had a very sound year. Mr. McLean has again stressed that House participation be voluntary. Generally, most boys were prepared to accept and carry out this theme, and so dedication developed amongst the boys, and this resulted in our being so successful.

Calvert has been represented by some fine leaders in the past, and this year was no exception. Peter Lowe led the House capably throughout the year and was assisted by worthy School Prefects in John Weddell and Chris Sutherland, and also by Geoff Morrow and Chris Szaday as House Prefects. Both Peter and John served the Cadet Corps admirably.

Peter Wade won a trip to Tasmania to represent Victoria at a United Nations meeting in May. Geoff Morrow prepared a talk on the cricket tour of New Zealand in January, and also showed some interesting slides.

Chris Sutherland, as conductor, and Peter Lowe and Jeff Mann as pianists, battled very hard to inspire us in the House Music competition. Their enthusiasm and patience was unrewarded as we finished fifth.

We experienced a severe loss during the year. It was the sad departure of "Tim" Maltby. He will always be remembered for his courageous outlook towards life. Craig Harriss left us to join Carey; Jamie Ford transferred to Morrison and Tim Greene joined us from Warrinn.

Calvert has been fairly successful this year and has been well represented in all school activities. We possessed many capable senior boys able to accept responsibility. This was evident when Peter Wade and Don Dunoon were inducted as House Prefects in Term III.

SPORT

Calvert fought with determination in all Inter-House competitions this year and came an overall third.

Peter Lowe must be congratulated for his fine individual performance in House swimming, especially in his organization of the team. He was ably assisted in the under-age groups by Hilton Andersen and David Herd.

We were runners-up in the Open, and the overall cricket competition this year. First XI cricketers, Chris Sutherland and Geoff Morrow, gave considerable time in team selections, and also assisted the team with both bat and ball. The Under 15 side was not disgraced and finished third, with Jeff Mann and John Finlay good performers. House rowing improved slightly from last year, but we lacked talent compared with boarding Houses.

Again, House football was disappointing. Coach Sutherland, although missed on the field, stressed that team-work was essential, but this had little effect on the side, and we finished third. However, Nigel and Peter Steele, Geoff Morrow, Peter Revie and Peter Rosson, did toil hard. Our Under 15 team came second, and shows promise for the future, with many good players in Ian Shaw, Hilton Andersen, Peter McLennan, Jeff Mann and Frank Herd.

Our Under 15 cross country runners showed that they will be a future force, by winning their division. In other age groups the result was poor, with only Geoff Morrow, Peter Rosson and Richard Harrison doing well.

Our Athletics team also looks strong for the years to come with Ian Shaw (record breaker in the Shot Putt) and John Tantau in the Under 15, Hilton Andersen and Jeff Mann in the Under 16, Paul Clyne and Peter Rosson in the Under 17, being outstanding performers. In the Open group, Chris Sutherland, Chris Szaday and Geoff Morrow were good athletes. Calvert's turn-out to House standards was very poor with little interest shown.

The House tennis teams capped off our successful year by scoring well in the competition, with Nigel and Peter Steele, John Cherry and Philip Deans representing us in the Open, and John Finlay and David Mallett in the Under 15.

Mackie House

Housemaster:	A. D. Mahar, Esq.
Assistant Masters:	P. E. Ryan, Esq. (Terms II and III) R. T. Dobb, Esq. P. R. Hunt, Esq. R. F. Slingo, Esq. P. E. Coghlan, Esq. (Term I)
House Captain:	H. W. Torode
School Prefects:	T. G. Johnstone (Vice-Captain) R. W. Moore
House Prefects:	P. A. Baulch R. B. Hastie T. A. Longton M. J. Moore C. W. Power

It is a well-founded tradition that Mackie is a House of high spirits and hard triers and this year was no exception right from the word go.

Mr. Mahar continued to lead the House ably, once again assisted by Mr. Dobb and new masters Messrs. Cronk, Hunt, Slingo and Ryan. Unfortunately for us, we lost Mr. Coghlan at the end of first term, as he left to resume his studies at University. These men provided a solid base for the developing of boys in this community.

Along with the new masters, we welcomed a good team of new boys, mostly from the Prep. School, and these boys soon settled in and became an asset to the place. Miss Rogers did a fine job in her first full year as matron, and along with Mrs. Baker, Jean, Frank, Bert, Dave and Les, kept the House ship-shape throughout the year.

Our Representative Council continued to iron out the House's problems and also provided a budget for House funds.

The highlight of the House's cultural activities was no doubt Tim Johnstone's performance as conductor, complete with tails, on House Music night. His efforts as conductor and organiser were well rewarded, for from the ranks of the choir came a winning sound. However, due to weakness in the instrumental field, we did not come out on top that night. We also recognise Tim's State award-winning Latin reading tongue.

Many big contributions were made to the school life from boys in Mackie. Dick Moore and Rob Hastie figured strongly in rowing.

Tim Johnstone showed spectacular talent behind the stumps for the First XI and was very worthy of the school honours award he received. We must congratulate him on being chosen to play in the A.P.S. First XI, and try to follow his admirable example in facing any difficulty in life.

We also saw Hugh Torode, Bruce Martin, Paul Campbell and Andrew Johnstone as members of the College First XI. The Western District schoolboys' tennis champion, Terry Longton, proved a very worthy captain at school tennis. Chris Power, Vice-Captain of Athletics, proved a sturdy warrior in athletics and football for the school. Dave Baird again contributed to the Boat Club as speed-boat driver, to the athletics season as starter, and as trainer for the First XVIII. Clive Robinson proved a worthy school jester and 'ace' footballer.

Apart from several 'great escapes', Mr. Mahar's ability to quieten a riot and the example of the senior boys, has kept the House on the straight and narrow, with all its members growing into manhood.

SPORT

This year, Mackie rose to its greatest height in the realm of sport. This is due to the rise in our numbers and a great deal of determination mixed with a large amount of natural talent.

Mackie won the House cricket for the first time in history this year. Mackie won the Open division with Hugh Torode, Tim Johnstone, Bruce Martin, Ned Dennis, Paul Campbell and Dave Sutherland putting in good performances. We were runners-up in the Under 15 division with Andrew Johnstone completing a fine century.

The lack of swimmers showed through again and Mackie fought it out with Warrinn for last place again — luckily we lost.

Again, this year, the determination of our slightly less accomplished rowers fought off the strong challenge put forward by Warrinn. The members of both our first and second crews proved strong in body and spirit, so we took out the House rowing.

This year, Mackie formed the 'Aces', a football team of hard triers who worked together with uncanny judgment and skill. The Aces took on all comers and won every game. More important than winning, the Aces showed how the game should be played, as a team and for enjoyment. Our Under 15 side battled on to gain fourth place, but this was enough to give Mackie a win overall in the House football.

The cross country races proved the spirit of Mackie, as we ran out easy winners. Good performances were made by John Moore in Open, Dave Sutherland in Under 17 and Iain Carmichael in Under 15.

Mackie proved too strong for the other Houses in the Athletics, taking out the House Sports by a big margin. Tim Hutton showed much ability and determination in being runner-up in the Open Championship. Andrew Johnstone excelled by breaking two middle distance records. In the Under 17 team, Bruce Martin and Andrew Carmichael also did extremely well.

McArthur House

Housemaster: R. W. Seaton, Esq.

Assistant Master: A. J. Morgan, Esq.

House Captain: D. E. Clarke

Vice-Captain: T. P. West

House Prefect: C. T. Andrews

In all fields this year has proved to be an excellent year for McArthur, though not as materially successful as last year when we won the "Cock" House competition. Our new Housemaster, Mr. Seaton, has shown wonderful understanding throughout the year and all the House has appreciated his leadership. It has been his policy to give every senior boy in the House a share in the House responsibilities, both on and off the sporting field. To carry out Mr. Seaton's policy, committees were set up in every sport and it was this co-operation off the field that enabled us to attain such a high position in the Inter-House Competition. This year has been the first year that boys were not compelled to play House sport. Our results in all sports except the Standards Programme were very good and the majority of the House showed that they were more than willing to compete.

The House Music Competition was a triumph for all McArthur boys. For the second consecutive year Hugh Seward conducted the House Choir and the performance of Hugh and the Choir speak for themselves. Graeme Wood was brilliant in his Piano Solo and Graeme, Michael Menzies and Guy Robertson performed admirably in their Wood-wind Ensemble. The Vocal Ensemble, David Clarke, Hugh Seward, Dan Simmonds and Andrew, David and Graeme Wood, represented us exceptionally well. These individual performances, coupled with the performance of the Choir, gave McArthur a clear victory over Warrinn in the Music Competition.

For the first time, a Senior Dayboys' Dance was held in the Morrison Hall, and it proved a great success, enjoyed by masters and boys alike. We hope that this was a good basis on which future dances can be modelled.

The McArthur House Rooms have recently been completed and extensive use of the Recreation-Common Room and the Matriculation study room will begin in first term next year.

The House was served particularly well by its Prefects, Tim West and Charles Andrews, who combined well with the guidance of Mr. Seaton and Mr. Morgan.

The leadership and example set by House Captain, David Clarke, was most commendable — he was an excellent House Captain.

For the first time in many years, McArthur House was graced by a Captain of School. Hugh Seward performed the task of leading the School very well and has earned the respect and praise of the whole school. Every boy in the House extends his congratulation to Hugh for a good job well done.

The House wishes all the boys sitting for the Matriculation Exams the "best of luck", and hopes that they have enjoyed and benefited from their time among its ranks.

SPORT

In the sporting field, McArthur has proved itself to be a real power. It is always difficult for Day-Houses to compete with the more "closely knit" Boarding-Houses, as they have all the necessary facilities for training on their doorstep and it is no trouble for them to get teams practising together. A Day-House like McArthur can only hope to compete successfully by the dedication of all its members led by a few brilliant individuals.

With a generous allotment of sportsmen in almost every category of the House Competition, McArthur has done very well. The enthusiasm of the boys, with the exception of a degree of apathy in the middle age groups, was very high.

Having only one representative in the First XI, the House was not over-endowed with cricketers. David Clarke captained the School and the House First XI excellently and was the backbone and body of the Open House team. The team, a makeshift assortment of cricketers, swimmers and tennis players, performed well and finished the competition a creditable third. The brilliance and leadership of David Clarke and great performances by Guy Robertson and Donald Thompson helped the team a great deal. It was in the Under 15 division that our cricketers really shone. Captain John Clarke and Jamie Wishart turned on great performances with the bat, and Warwick Oman astounded everybody with his brilliant bowling. Congratulations, from all the House to the victorious Under 15 team, especially John, Jamie and Warwick.

The Swimming Competition was, without a doubt, McArthur's best sporting achievement. From the "first gun" it was obvious that McArthur was the House to beat. As the afternoon drew on, McArthur gradually drew away from Shannon, the eventual second place getters, and won the competition by the large margin of 52 points. It was a combination of brilliant individual efforts and good results in the relays that gave us such great success. In the individual events, David Clarke and Max Kroger swam well in the Open division and Ross Kroger did well in the Under 16. In great style, Philip Hocking won the Under 15 championship and came second in the Open championship. Andrew Wood and Phillip Morton swam well in the Under 14 and Cameron Bull and Phillip Morton acquitted themselves well in the diving.

In the Rowing, traditionally dominated by Mackie and Warrinn, McArthur rowed well. Hugh Seward, Captain of Boats and Stroke of the First VIII, stroked the House First IV for the second consecutive year and he was admirably backed up by David Wood and two promising young rowers in Bruce Longden and Greg Longden. The crew rowed well and finished a good third against the powerful Mackie and Warrinn crews. The second House IV consisted of Bill Green and Peter Mayberry from the Fourth VIII and Chris Fenner and John McKenzie from the Fifth VIII. They finished first in the Losers' Final, but on time, they would have finished third in the Winners' Final. McArthur House managed a very good third overall in the House Rowing Competition.

After a relatively successful first term, the Inter-House Football became the main House interest in second term. Having dominated the House Football for the last two years, McArthur was once again the hot favourite to win the Premiership with the "even" Mackie team looming as our greatest danger. Only narrowly winning our first two matches against Morrison and Calvert, we were rather apprehensive about our coming clash with the "Mackie Aces", who had breezed through their first two games. The match against Mackie, though not officially the Grand Final, was recognised by all the school as the climax to the House Football Competition. It was unfortunate that the match had to be played on the Junior School Oval, as this meant that a lot of glamour and outside enthusiasm from the previous two years' Grand Finals, when McArthur twice defeated Warrinn, was lost. McArthur led Mackie for three and a half quarters and only in the dying minutes of the game did Mackie clinch the game and the Premiership. Inaccurate kicking for goal in the early stages of the game and the loss of Steven Wolter, through injury, probably cost us the game, the Premiership and the McArthur Open Football team's only loss in three years. After the humiliation inflicted upon us by Mackie, McArthur "pulled up its socks" and trounced Shannon and Warrinn in the last two games. The leadership, high-marking, brilliant ball handling and long kicking of David Clarke, was an inspiration to all the House, and he played a large part in helping McArthur come second in the House Football Competition. It was unfortunate that two of our "star players", Guy Robertson and Steven Wolter, missed such a great part of the season, but, along with Charles Andrews, Tim West and Peter Longden, they were a valuable part of the team. It was rewarding to see boys who were not the reputed "good footballers of the school" prove themselves the equal and often beat bigger, older and more experienced opponents. Boys in this category included Cameron Bull, Jim Knight, Peter Nail, John Flanagan and Tony West.

The Under 15 team emulated the Open team in finishing second and played consistently good football all season. Half-way through the football season, McArthur was the glad recipient of an outstanding "new boy", Phillip Weston. From the time he joined the House he has been a valuable, if unconventional acquisition and with his help in the earlier games, the Under 15 team might have managed first place instead of second. Jamie Wishart, John Clarke, Phillip Weston, Bruce Wolter and Lance Wiffen all played well and should be congratulated for making the school "A" football teams.

Charles Andrews, David Clarke, Peter Longden, Guy Robertson, Tim West and Steven Wolter all played in the School First XVIII. Special congratulations to David Clarke, who captained the First XVIII and had a very successful season.

Unfortunately, it was obvious that by the time cross countries came around everybody was becoming tired of second term sports and only a few individual efforts saved the House from utter disgrace in this event. This year's cross country saw the introduction of a new marking system, only the seven best runners from each House counting towards

The cultural side got a chance to show itself in the House Music. Despite good attempts by Steve Spry and Rob Doyle, the other Houses, without exception, were more cultured.

We were glad to welcome back Neil Harvey from the U.S. — same old Neil, plus accent. Jamie Ford and Charlie Andrews were two more day-boy additives to the House, along with Michael Anthony.

The Morrison men may not be cultural giants, but when the Senior Boarders' Dance rolled around, their social prowess was never seriously challenged. We managed to capture many of the best looking girls in the hall. Let's hope the dance counts for "cock" House points next year.

Mrs. Faulkner and Mrs. Cahir proved throughout the year what can be achieved in a linen room and House through their efficiency.

SPORT

In the sporting field, though not always the top House, we have yet to be disgraced.

In the swimming, Morrison was fourth — thanks to the efforts of Captain Roger Harrop and Under 16 equal champion, Ken MacFarlane.

House rowing benefitted from the strength of oar of Ewan Simson and Neil McLarty, but failed to gain any sort of placing.

Cricket was upon us, with Morrison performing quite creditably. Good performances came from our two First XI members, Steve Anderson and Graeme Dickson, ably backed up by Dave McLean and Dave Bouchier. In Under 15, our best players were Andy Bullen and Mark Sanderson — supported well by Jon Anderson.

Football is usually the best supported sport as far as spectators go, and our barrackers did not let us down.

The Open team, losing Steven Anderson, Fred Aiborama, Neil McLarty and Ewen Simson through injury at the start of the season, lost Jock Whiting and Jamie Scholfield during the season. Nevertheless, we played well to come fourth overall. Don Harrison, Graeme Dickson, Ken MacFarlane, Jock Whiting, Jamie Ford and Roger Harrop all played well. Dave Bouchier, in the ruck, was a dominating influence.

Our Under 15 best players included Drew Deppeler, Mark Sanderson and "Farmer" MacIntyre.

Athletics has not, in the last couple of years, been Morrison's sport. This year we weren't given much chance in the sports.

Captain of Athletics, Neil McLarty, and injured Vice-Captain, Jock Whiting, couldn't have heard the rumours about MacClarker in black, or Mackie, or Calvert, because they trained an excellent team, especially the relays, to take out second place in the sports.

Our best performers were Captain, Neil McLarty, and Steve Anderson, in Open division; Ken MacFarlane, the age group champion, and Dave Bouchier in Under 17; and Drew Deppeler in Under 15.

Shannon House

Housemaster:	N. M. Turner, Esq.

House Captain:	S. McD. Davey
House Prefects:	J. W. R. Cook

1970 has been a year of mixed success. The overall results indicate a lack of depth in talent in most sports. However, the House has competed with some enthusiasm, even though the travel restriction of a number of boys has proved a handicap.

Notwithstanding, we have acquitted ourselves favourably, and have been represented in most School teams. Further, we have taken part in other activities, such as chess, and achieved a notable win in this field due to the enthusiasm and leadership of D. Thorn.

In the House Music Competition, Shannon set out to present a pleasing, if light-hearted, programme and, whilst this did not meet with the approval of the adjudicator, it was rewarded by the appreciation of the audience. J. H. and J. P. Van Groningen were perhaps our outstanding individual performers, with good support being provided by G. Mountjoy, G. Lindquist, M. Doak, B. Mellor and D. Thorn. The House Choir was trained and conducted enthusiastically by our House Captain, S. Davey.

SPORT

Shannon continued to do well in swimming and again made second place — our most notable achievement for the year. G. Lindquist is to be congratulated for winning the Open Swimming Championship and, together with W. Phillips, for the leadership and organization of our team. It was pleasing to see good performances among our junior members, in particular M. Doak. Our American pair, B. Anderson and R. Church, gave creditable performances and with the help of J. Hutchison we did well in the Open division.

In cricket, good individual performances were credited to T. Williams and I. Carroll in the Open, and R. Taylor who captained the Under 15 side.

Rowing does not appear to be Shannon's main summer sport, as we did not have one member of the School First or Second VIII to call upon for House Rowing. Nevertheless, we were there and showed signs that next year we will give a better showing of ourselves.

Football was highlighted by the obvious talent in our Under 15 team and we look forward to their support in the Open team in the next couple of years. Although relatively small of stature, they are full of heart and produced some most entertaining games. G. Lindquist and G. Lumb, both members of the School First XVIII, provided the drive in the Open teams, but we lacked sufficient depth of talent to support these outstanding players. We were far from disgraced, played an outstanding game in the fog, and made the other Houses earn their success.

We had some good individual performances in Athletics. N. Wood and M. Doak did very well in the cross country. N. Wood carried on the good work in the School Sports with a win in the Under 16 Hurdles and was supported admirably in that division by P. Hunt. J. Van Groningen did very well in the Under 17 division; and in the Open events, W. Phillips, R. Church and P. McKeon gave their House good service.

R. Barkley, G. Lindquist, P. Hill and J. Hutchison formed our tennis team for the final sporting activity of the year.

Warrinn House

Housemaster:	F. W. Elliott, Esq.
Assistant Masters:	R. B. Tattersall, Esq. R. S. Hunt, Esq. C. B. Chapman, Esq. A. K. Stevenson, Esq.
House Captain:	J. M. Slattery
House Prefects:	E. A. Barnett P. J. Dickson R. H. Thomas A. S. Colvin G. C. Balfour R. A. Jones

For Warrinn, 1970 has brought to light many changes, changes which most of us feel are long overdue. Our sixth year boys (many of whom are second year Leaving — which says a lot for the conditions of our junior studies!) have all had the privilege of bed-study rooms. To make this possible, we have used three of the rooms in Mossiel. The front hall has been refurnished and is now used as an informal gathering and reception area.

Our recreation rooms have been improved, the Warrinn bathroom renovated and fire escapes and alarms installed in each dormitory. These material changes have contributed greatly to the smoother running of Warrinn this year.

Mrs. L. Dale replaced Miss Bouchier as our matron and has carried this role on most effectively. Colin Chapman was resident in Warrinn this year, and along with Alex Stevenson, who had a room in the Refectory Block, Mr. Hunt, Mr. Tattersall and our Housemaster, Mr. Elliott, we have been extremely well served by dedicated masters.

It is with a note of sorrow, however, that we must record the retirement of Mr. Elliott as Housemaster of Warrinn. He has been a tremendously successful and popular Housemaster, as he has shown extreme personal interest and care in each boy under his charge. We all join together in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, Kirsty and Libby, happiness and good health in the future.

Mr. Tattersall is to take charge of the House next year and with his background of three and one half years' residence in Warrinn and his many new ideas, we wish him the best of luck in his new role.

Culture-wise, Warrinn is at last improving. Our "second" in the House Music was, for us, a wonderful feat, and the reason for this was the very good job of our conductor, Peter Dickson, and the solo performers, as well as the Choir in general. We also had a large number of boys involved in the school concert, both as performers and stage assistants.

The Senior Boarders' Dance was reinstated this year and along with our contemporaries from Mackie and Morrison, we had a most enjoyable evening.

SPORT

Overall, sporting-wise we did rather badly. We began with a last in swimming, Rex Jones being the only semblance of a fish in Warrinn. Lack of concentration and dedication by some major players spoilt our cricket chances. Only Neal Durnan batted and bowled consistently. A second in the rowing brightened things somewhat, and we have some promising talent which could give us a win next year — David Sutton and Doug Abrecht being two of these.

40—THE PEGASUS,

Senior football in second term was also disappointing as our main players, Dickson, Balfour, MacGillivray, Sutton and Durnan, could not seem to combine as a strong backbone. However, our under-age team did win.

The Athletic Sports showed that we have some young talent. Glenn Amezdroz, Andrew Hermiston, Tom Silcock and David Sutton performed well in the under-age groups, while in Open division, Peter Young, Ian Wettenhall, Graeme Balfour and Alasdair MacGillivray carried the bulk of the Open events.

Perhaps, with all this young talent shown this year, we may do better in sports next year.

FOOTBALL

FIRST XVIII

Coach: E. B. Davies, Esq.

When our team for the first P.S. Match was selected only three players with P.S. match experience were in the team. These players were the Captain, David Clarke, Vice-Captain, Nigel Steele, who were regular members in 1969, and Greg Lindquist with only one match to his credit. Added to this four players who could have played a significant part in our team were unable to play because of severe injuries: Christian Sutherland (arm), Steve Anderson (knee) and Terry Longton (arm) could not play at all and Peter Steele (leg) played in the last three P.S. matches. In addition an unfortunate epidemic of sickness during the middle of the season put a number of good players out of the team for at least two games.

Considering these problems, the team performed very well for the most part, but could not sustain pressure for four quarters; most games were lost because of one quarter of bad football. The team lacked over-all football skill, but hard work at training gradually improved the players' ability, some to a marked degree. Except at centre-half forward, the team lacked tall high-flying players and suffered consequently in this department. Our rucks, lacking experience, found difficulty in getting the ball away from the centre and this cut off the source of supply to the forwards. However, good team work, a great determination to win the ball plus inspired leadership from Captain David Clarke enabled the XVIII to worry all opposing teams.

The performance of David Clarke throughout the season must rank with the best ever seen in College football, and the team wishes him well in his future football career.

Looking forward to 1971, it seems likely that something like 12 boys may return to school, and, with the addition of some promising players from the under age teams, we look forward to greater success in the future.

Except for the Under 15A XVIII most other teams suffered very heavy defeats during the season. This has caused much concern and steps will be taken to prevent these uneven matches in future.

Many supporters also worked hard off the field: our trainers, Cliff Splatt and David Baird, boundary umpire Christian Sutherland, the Refectory Block Staff, the ground staff, score board operators, and many others. The Coach wishes to acknowledge the good work done by Alex Stevenson and his umpires, and by the coaches of all College teams.

FIRST P.S. MATCH

The Geelong College v. Haileybury College, at Haileybury.

The match played at Keysborough was played in poor conditions because of heavy rain. After an uneven first quarter, Haileybury held a slight lead at half time. The loss of Wolter with an ankle injury was a blow to College. After half time, Haileybury with a dominating half back and half forward line plus good rucks gradually wore down College and overwhelmed the smaller College players.

SECOND P.S. MATCH

The Geelong College v. Scotch College, at College.

A determined College side took the field against Scotch, last year's premiers. The day was fine, but the ground heavy from recent rain. During the first half, the College played their best football of the year. With desperate, hard-tackling football, the College surprised Scotch and were only a few points behind at half time.

After the interval, Scotch successfully cut off the ball from going into the College forward line, and gradually assumed control of the game with good systematic football. College players failed to pick up Scotch players and goals were the result. It was an encouraging performance from the College team, however.

Final Score:

Goal-Kickers:

Clarke (4), Wade (2), Lindquist, Dickson, Crockett.

Best Players:

Clarke, Lindquist, N. Steel, Bouchier, Crockett, Andrews.

THIRD P.S. MATCH

The Geelong College v. Geelong Grammar School, at Corio.

This match, as always, proved to be a very hard affair, and a well-fought match resulted. Grammar, with their best team for some years, were just too strong for the less experienced College players. The oval was in perfect condition, a change from the muddy conditions of the previous two matches. Continuing their good form from the previous match, the College, with very determined football, went to the "dressing room" at half time a few points up.

In the third quarter, Grammar really applied the pressure and with a burst of goals upset the College confidence and at three quarter time held a very handy lead. College, whose fitness seemed to be waning, came back strongly, and, with great play by Clarke, almost caught up to Grammar. However, some steadying marks by the Grammar "high flyers" stopped the College run, and another two goals put the game beyond doubt.

Final Score:

G.C.	G.G.S.
8.7 (55)	12.8 (80)

Goal-Kickers:

Clarke (4), Wolter, Wade, Robertson, MacGillivray.

Best Players:

Hutton, Clarke, Power, Lindquist, N. Steele, Longden.

FOURTH P.S. MATCH

The Geelong College v. St. Kevin's, at St. Kevin's,

Although the St. Kevin's ground was reasonable when the team arrived, heavy rain set in and the match was played in pouring rain throughout, one half of the ground being a sea of mud and water. The wet conditions made good play almost impossible and errors were made continuously by both teams. However, considering the conditions, play was surprisingly good, and the scores were even at half time. Robinson and Wade had done well for College.

The third quarter again proved to be College's downfall, and St. Kevin's, with good team work, established a handy lead at three quarter time. The wet conditions showed up the inexperience of the College players, who showed lapses of concentration. The final quarter was even, but St. Kevin's had too great a lead and ran out comfortable winners.

Final Score:

G.C.	St. K.C.
5.9 (45)	9.10 (64)

Goal-Kickers:

Wade (3), Clarke (2).

Best Players:

Robinson, Clarke, Wade, Longden, Durnan.

FIFTH P.S. MATCH

The Geelong College v. Wesley College, at Syndal.

For the first time ever, the First XVIII travelled to Syndal to play Wesley. The oval was heavy in parts and a strong wind was blowing down the ground. College won the toss and made good use of the wind, and had a good lead of 35 points at quarter time. Good ruck play and quick movement of the ball to the forward line was a feature of the quarter. Wesley did not use the wind to advantage in the second quarter; College defended well and had a lead of 12 point at half time. The third quarter again was College's worst quarter, and Wesley, with very determined play, kicked four goals against the wind, and College led by only three goals at three quarter time. The last quarter was a thrilling affair with Wesley gradually overhauling the College score, but College showed good stamina, and, as players lifted themselves, the team ran out winners by 6 points giving College their first P.S. win of the season.

Final Score:

G.C.	W.C.

Best Players:

Clarke, Lindquist, Longden, Sutton, Andrews, Bouchier.

SIXTH P.S. MATCH

The Geelong College v. Xavier College, at College,

Xavier had the advantage of the breeze in the first quarter, but College, playing strongly, were able to hold the visitors, and Xavier led by only 3 points at quarter time. This was to prove the best quarter by College for the whole match. College also failed to capitalize on the advantage of the wind, and the Xavier team had lifted their game considerably. At half time, Xavier led by 15 points.

Xavier continued to improve as the game progressed, and, despite desperate efforts by College, Xavier's superior skill and team work enabled them to build up a good 29 points lead at three quarter time. College rallied in the final term but could not bridge the gap, and at the final bell College were down by 34 points.

Final Score:

G.C.	X.C.

Goal-Kickers:

Clarke (3), P. Steele (2), Lindquist (2).

Best Players:

Lindquist, Clarke, Sutton, Longden, Durnan, Wade.

SEVENTH P.S. MATCH

The Geelong College v. Brighton Grammar School, at College.

This match proved to be College's worst effort for the season, but credit must go to Brighton for their determined play and will to win. The game did not reach a high standard at any time, the blustery wind and heavy conditions making judgement of the ball difficult for most players. Both teams were relying on individual effort more than team work, and this led to crowded play with little system. Brighton won this match because they had several tall, high-marking players, and College could not counter them. The match maintained interest throughout, as the scores were close until half way through the final quarter, but Brighton, with four straight goals, made the game safe.

Final Score:

G.C.	B.G.S.
4.9 (33)	9.4 (58)

Goal-Kickers:

P. Steele (2), Clarke, Crockett.

INTERSTATE FOOTBALL CARNIVAL

This year, College were hosts to visitors from Scotch, Adelaide and Hale School, Perth. A wonderful week of football, fun, and fellowship was had by all members of the teams, their coaches, managers, and visitors.

Parents and friends of the College who acted as hosts to our visitors and members of the College team provided outstanding support.

Although the football was marred by some wet weather during the latter part of the week, the carnival produced some very good football from all sides. The College, with very determined and close checking play, proved to be the best team and were undefeated for the carnival. David Clarke, the College captain, was the outstanding player of the carnival.

Scores:

College, 12.7 (79), defeated Hale, 10.8 (68).

Goals: Clarke (6), Crockett, Robertson, Dickson, Durnan, MacGillivray, Steele.

Best: Longton, Clarke, Steele, Crockett, Durnan.

1963 PREMIERSHIP TEAM v. G.C. FIRST XVIII

It was with great pleasure we welcomed to the school the 1963 premiership team, led by Mac Paton (Captain), Paul Sheahan (Vice-Captain), Rodney Robson (Organizer).

The match proved to be most interesting with the 1963 boys emerging winners by the slender margin of 1 point.

In the first half, the Old Boys were sadly out of touch and this allowed the fitter present boys the opportunity to have an eleven point lead at half time. The third quarter was very even as the Old Boys gradually found touch. Players such as Paul Sheahan, Rod Robson, Mac Paton, Rob Russell, Trevor Leigh and John Gardner, began to play very well. At three quarter time the First XVIII led by a handy 12 points.

46—THE PEGASUS,

The Old Boys really applied pressure at the start of the final quarter, and with fine play, and showing their great experience, they gradually closed the gap. Amid great excitement, Rob Russell kicked a point which bounced many times before rolling through the point area to give the 1963 team a well-deserved 1 point victory. David Clarke, the First XVIII Captain, received a trophy kindly donated by the Geelong Amateur Football Club. This was presented by Mr. Jim Fidge.

Scores:

V. H. Profitt Trophy

For the team having the best performance for the season.

Won by the U15A XVIII.

Coach: M. Stock, Esq.

Captain: R. K. Laidlaw.

UMPIRES

Umpires' training was concentrated at the school this year, instead of at Kardinia Park. Mr. Alex Stevenson, the coach, trained the small group vigorously throughout the season, maintaining their all important physical fitness. Now that the new gymnasium is open, an even higher standard of physical fitness will be attainable next year.

The school possessed three experienced umpires in Hugh Seward, Geoff Morrow and Syd Weddell, and these three produced the highest standard of boy umpiring seen at the College. Once again, this year, they umpired Open House football matches. They must be congratulated for their precise decisions and the utmost control they maintained.

The highlights of the season were the appointments of Geoff Morrow to the annual match between the First XVIII and O.G.C.A. (this year, the 1963 Premiers), and of Syd Weddell to the Second XVIII match.

Those who umpired this year were: H. G. Seward, G. T. D. Morrow, J. S. Weddell, J. M. Slattery, P. R. Wynne, P. J. D. Donnan and K. A. Fagg.

HOCKEY

Master-in-Charge: R. S. Hunt, Esq.

The hockey season started well, when over fifty potential players turned up for team selections for the First eleven playing in Melbourne, the Second eleven playing in Geelong and for the two Under 15 teams.

Training was again restricted, as in the past, to a ground at the Senior School and another at the Preparatory School. More often than not, the condition of the Senior School ground left much to be desired and this hampered team training. There were two training nights and the Open and Under 15 teams took it in turns to train on the Preparatory and Senior School grounds.

 Sitting: D. I. Silke, S. McD. Davey (Captain), R. S. Hunt, Esq., F. E. S. Soon (Vice-Captain),

 In Front: G. N. D. Simmonds.
 Absent: E. W. Spencer.

The First eleven started the year with two crushing losses, but settled down to complete the season with four wins (two forfeits!). The 1970 team was built around S. Davey, H. Pinniger, D. Silke, F. Soon and D. Wood, the only remaining members of the 1969 team. Although the team combined well in the matches, personal differences sometimes tended to break team unity. Credit must again be given to Mr. Hunt for shaping eleven individuals into an efficient team and for his courage in transporting the team in the school mini-bus to the matches. The true success of his coaching was reflected by the team in winning the Open division of this year's Lightning Premiership.

The Second eleven, playing in the Geelong Competition, teamed well to finish third for the season, in spite of missing certain important players during some of their matches because of illnesses. The two Under 15 teams showed plenty of determination in the playing of their matches, and the Under 15A team finished third out of nine teams in the competition.

Several matches were played by the First and Second teams against the fairer sex during the season, the most memorable being a combined First and Second team against Clyde at Woodland. The match was played in the midst of a snow storm and a draw was declared after playing for forty-five minutes. Male superiority was again proved when we won all our social matches, but the fairer sex won on the battlefield with the boys receiving more injuries than is possible in a normal match.

Parents of various team members, Old Collegians and the respective coaches all gave much help and encouragement throughout the season. The ground staff also worked hard to keep the Old Prep. Oval in a playable condition for all our matches.

BASEBALL

Coaches: C. King Esq.; R. W. Seaton, Esq.

Although the Under 18 team was not particularly successful this year, winning only three (one was a forfeit) out of the eleven games played, there were a number of games which were very even. Many of these games against Geelong Association teams could have been won with a little more concentration on the part of the College players, who lapsed into elementary errors under pressure.

John Runia was elected as Captain of the Under 18 side, and also capably filled the vacant catcher's position. Jamie Mann took over the arduous task of pitching and, although at times erratic, generally acquitted himself well in this vital position. He was also handy with the bat, as was Geoff Morrow, Jeff Hutchison and John Van Groningen. The leading averages were:

- Geoff Morrow, 6 hits, average .545, 11 times at bat.
- Jamie Mann, 11 hits, average .354, 31 times at bat.
- Jeff Hutchison, 10 hits, average .323, 30 times at bat.
- John Harris, 8 hits, average .305, 26 times at bat.
- John Runia, 8 hits, average .250, 32 times at bat.

Mr. C. King and Mr. K. McKechnie rendered great assistance to the boys in the fundamentals of the game and also provided transport. We were also grateful to Bela Bard-Brucker, our scorer.

Those who played were: J. D. Mann (Pitcher), D. J. Runia (Catcher), J. N. Harris (1st Base), J. G. Hutchison (2nd Base), A. P. Thompson (3rd Base), J. L. Barkley (Short Stop), P. L. Champness (Left Field), J. P. Van Groningen (Centre Field), G. T. D. Morrow (Right Field). Others who played were: P. O. Campbell, J. H. Van Groningen, P. J. Deans, D. E. Clarke, P. J. Revie and J. L. Wishart.

The Under 15 team, under the coaching of Mr. Seaton and Mr. Norman, had a most satisfying season and were unlucky not to reach the finals. At the start of the season, no player had had any previous experience, but by the end of the season the team had become the best College Under 15 side for many years.

The team played nine matches, losing the first four, but winning the last five. Best players during the season were Jeff Mann as catcher and John Finlay as pitcher and short stop. finals onwards being played in third term. It would be more satisfactory if the tournaments were completed in the tennis season in first term, and it is hoped that this can be done in future years.

In an exciting match against the Old Boys, in which both Father and Son McAdam played, the final result was three matches all with two halved.

The mixed tennis with Morongo was a great success in every way and the male selection was inspired.

TENNIS

Master-in-Charge: R. S. Hunt, Esq.

Great interest has been shown in tennis this term with the courts being fully used throughout. There was especially strong interest in the House Tennis, and there was much competition within the Houses to gain selection for the House teams. Mackie House was just superior to the other Houses this year and fully deserved their win. This was the first time for four years that McArthur House had not won the House Tennis.

The School Championships were once again split into two sections, with the early rounds being played in first term and the quarter

CROSS COUNTRY

Master-in-Charge: R. Salen, Esq.

Captain: W.A.Hill.

The season opened with many enthusiastic runners turning out for hard training sessions over the picturesque, undulating terrain of Queen's Park, Montpellier and High ton. As the season progressed, due to the co-operation of Mr. Salen, we were able to vary this by going to train at Eastern Park and the Belmont Common.

This year, eight A.P.S. meetings were held and the Geelong College had representatives at each of these meetings. The first meeting of the season, which took place towards the end of first term, was held at Syndal, Wesley College being the hosts. The day turned out to provide us with a preview of what would follow in winter, and one had to run hard to keep warm.

After the May vacation, we settled down to regular competition, commencing with a run around the bay at Geelong Grammar. This run demanded more stamina than any other course we encountered, other than our own, as it involved approximately four miles of obstacles such as barbed wire fences, trees and poor surfaces, not forgetting the mud.

The following week, the course changed dramatically as we ran on concrete paths around the Albert Park Lake for the majority of the course. The hosts for this run were Caulfield Grammar. We then ran at the Mentone racecourse, being guests of Haileybury College. Carey were our hosts for the next run. Having changed their site from Bulleen to Clifton Hill for the run, they saved us an extensive trip through Melbourne.

Open Cross Country Championship
 three steps away!

We have further
 to go!

Sitting: R. G. Kroger, W. A. Hill (Captain), R. Salen, Esq., R. W. Moore, G. C. Wood.

Now came the highlight of the season; the run at the Preparatory School. Once again, our course was the subject of admiration, judging by remarks of the visiting schools, both participants and spectators. However, a minor point arising from the meeting was that the Under 14 course was too short.

After a turn at being hosts we journeyed to Scotch College. Their course bordered the South-Eastern Freeway, which had been built since we competed there last year. Our final run of the year was held at Melbourne Grammar and, after we had completed the course, our hosts provided us with a hot pie.

Throughout the year our performances, although not spectacular, showed a slight improvement on last year's efforts.

Following the introduction of School Colours last year, W. Hill and G. Wood were awarded colours this year.

Once again, we are indebted to both Mr. and Mrs. Salen for their untiring efforts in making this year a success.

ATHLETICS

Master-in-Charge: E. B. Davies, Esq.

Coaches: P. A. Cronk, Esq.; K. R. McKechnie, Esq.; R. W. Seaton, Esq.; D. A. Johnstone, Esq.; E. B. Davies, Esq.

Vice-Captain: C. W. Power.

The Athletics Committee was made up of the Captain, Vice-Captain, R. W. Moore, M. D. Kroger and H. W. Torode.

After our dismal effort at last year's Combined Sports, we looked forward with optimism to some improved performances in 1970.

Although we did not improve our position on the ladder, our points tally increased by 23½ points. Actually, only 50 points separated the last five schools.

During the season, eight school records were broken, and one equalled. Six new Under 15 records, one Under 17 (by an Under 16 competitor) and one Under 16 were established, and one Open record equalled. Our younger athletes show more promise than usual, and they should continue to improve. Many Preparatory School records were also broken and prospects for future years look brighter.

This year, we were able to increase our coaches panel, and this lifted the enthusiasm of the boys, and far more concentrated training was done, the athletes with few exceptions training hard and conscientiously.

On the subject of attitude, most boys in the school regard athletics as a necessary evil. It seems that if one does not think he can make the team, then there is no point in turning out. The coaches are sure there is talent going to waste because boys do not think they are good enough.

Although Harrison (Under 16) and Depeler (Under 15), both new boys to the school, improved our sprinting prospects, we are still sadly short of sprinters in depth. High and long jumpers are also very weak at present. If these events can be improved, a significant jump in our points total would occur. Other problems to be faced are: (1) Lack of pre-season training. With the opposition as it is, it is impossible to train athletes in six weeks. (2) Limited training time each week. Too often other school activities interfere with training. Relay teams suffered because of this. (3) Interference by the Standards Competition. It was hoped to have standards on some other venue, but this was not done. If the standards were to be held on Mackie oval, more standards could be obtained and the athletics team would not have any training problems. (4) The lateness of the School Championships. If the School Championships were held one week earlier an extra week of competition could take place. This would be invaluable to the team.

In an effort to get more enthusiasm in athletics it is hoped to include Discus, Javelin, and Triple Jump into the Athletic Championship. Also, it is hoped to interest more boys, especially middle distance runners, to take part in cross country racing and get a solid winter training programme. The Rolland Centre, now in full swing, should play its part in improving our athletes.

Our best performers this year were David Clarke (Open) second in 400 M., and fifth in 200 M.; Phillip Weston (Under 15) first in High Jump; Andrew Deppeler (Under 15) fifth in 100 M.; J. A. Johnstone (Under 16) fifth in 800 M.; J. R. Mann (Under 16) fourth in Shot Put and T. Hutton (Open) sixth in 800 M. David Clarke, after a wonderful season of cricket and football, was again an inspiration to the athletics team with his ability and determination.

The College team had its share of bad luck, as Steve Anderson, our best hurdler, could not compete, and Tim Hutton was forced out of the 1500 M. when another runner spiked his foot.

Coaches and masters officiating on School Sports days all worked hard and are to be congratulated on a job well done.

Mr. Crockett and Mr. McLeod, two new members of staff, took over the big task of controlling the standards this year, and they and all Masters and boys who assisted them deserve high praise for their contribution.

As usual Mr. S. Rankin and his staff had the tracks in very good condition at all times.

After months of planning and preparation, the Biennial Conference of the Junior Schools' Association of Australia was held during the second term vacation. Two days of discussion for the sixty-six headmasters who were in residence at the Prep was followed by an ecumenical service for all delegates at St. David's Church. The preacher on this occasion was the Rev. Dr. F. Cave of Melbourne University. The Refresher School continued for the next four days. After a very cold and wet week-end the sun came out on the Monday and the weather was perfect for the remaining days. This was all that was needed to make for the success of the conference. Every other arrangement went as planned and it was most encouraging to hear the favourable comments passed by the visitors. They had come from as far away as Perth in Western Australia and Charters Towers in Queensland and, for many, this was their first visit to Geelong.

The theme of the conference was "Creativity in the Junior School". Professor W. H. Frederick discussed this theme in delivering the Wells Oration in Morrison Hall on the Sunday evening. Our own Principal, Mr. Thwaites, spoke on the subject: "Creativity: an obligation of the Junior School", on the Monday morning. With these fine addresses, the keynote for the conference was sounded and the other speakers, lecturers, discussions and syndicate sessions followed with the same high standard. There is no question that the College has been greatly enriched because of the varied experiences gained through the conference.

The other outstanding event of the latter part of the year was the opening of the Stuart Laidlaw Memorial Swimming Pool. What a wonderful gesture this has been on the part of the Laidlaw family, and how grateful we are at the Prep that such generosity has been extended to us. It has been a great inspiration to all who are associated with the Preparatory School to see how an event of great sadness has been used to bring benefit to future generations of boys.

The swimming pool has done much to beautify the Prep. Already the surrounding lawns are adding their own beauty to that of the pool. As the warmer weather arrives, more and more use will be made of the new facility and it will not be long before swimming activities will be incorporated as a regular part of the daily life of the school.

It was at the opening of the swimming pool that our thanks to the Laidlaw family were expressed. Mr. Thwaites and Dr. Wettenhall spoke with feeling of the way sorrow had been turned to joy. We can simply repeat our heartfelt thanks.

Open Day for 1970 took as its theme 'The World of Tomorrow'. The costumes dreamed up for this occasion were almost breath-taking. It is nothing short of amazing that year after year the weather can be so kind to us and so many new ideas for fun-making can be produced.

Excursions have included the annual Second Form trip to Harrierville, science excursions to Torquay and the Batesford quarry and the First Form visit to Anakie. In these days when barriers between subjects are fast disappearing much use of these outdoor activities is being made.

During the second term vacation, a commencement was made on alterations to the Library to convert it into a Resource Centre. The old 2L room, alas, is no more. It is now part of the Library and will see even more activity than ever before. Now that the alterations have been completed, it will be possible for several groups to be working there at the one time. With this greater flexibility, the work of the classes will be able to be much more varied than before. During the year, a supplementary reading scheme was introduced. This has given considerable impetus to the reading habits of the boys and, already, benefits are being reaped.

During the year, Mr. Hatton has been travelling to Melbourne each week for lectures at Mercer House. He has now completed his course and is to be awarded the Advanced Certificate of Education. Mr. Whitton is at present in Paris, where he is studying the latest developments in the teaching of modern languages. He is due to return during 1971. Mr. Kemp and his family return from Japan in time for Mr. Kemp to take up duty again at the commencement of the new school year.

As the year 1970 concludes, we say farewell to Miss N. B. Grenfell, Matron of Rolland House, and the Rev. A. J. McAdam, our Chaplain. Miss Grenfell has served the school for nineteen years and has been Matron of Rolland House since its inception. It is impossible to enumerate the many ways in which Miss Grenfell has been a real friend to countless boys over the years. She has been a mother to all who have been under her care. Mr. McAdam is an Old Boy of the College and came to us as Chaplain after a wide experience in parish churches and with the armed forces. Not only has he taken Scripture, led Assembly and organised Social Service, but he has taken other subjects and acted as Form Master and House Master from time to time. Because of his ability on the sporting field, he has been a valuable coach of cricket, football, athletics and tennis. We wish both Miss Grenfell and Mr. McAdam long and happy years of retirement.

Other events of note have been the Morning Coffee Sessions, enabling parents to see the school at work and speak with the staff and visits by the Rev. Barry Rowe of Korea and the Rev. Alwyn Jones of the New Hebrides. In a much lighter vein, a yo-yo demonstration by experts was enthusiastically received!

A drama workshop was held in July. Boys of secondary forms demonstrated their ability to transform themselves into almost every character imaginable.

"Prep News" now has a new format. There are to be only two editions each year — but they are much larger and the variety of methods used for reproduction enable a greater range of original material to be published.

House Football.

House matches were very keenly contested, but Helicon House proved to be too strong, winning the competition from Minerva House. Matches were played in 'A' and 'B' divisions so that more boys could represent their House in competition.

Hockey

Coaches: D. A. Timmins, Esq. and G. T. Van Cooten, Esq.

The "A" Team were again the Premiers this year and the "B" Team were runners-up. Some strong opposition was encountered, especially from Winchelsea and Tigers. In fact, on the day of the Lightning Carnival at Stead Park, Winchelsea were the stronger players and succeeded in winning the trophy. The captains of both teams, Stephen Duff and Neville Daniels gave good leadership, and play during the season was noteworthy for the improved standard on the part of a number of boys. Several gained a place in the "B" team from the reserves and other players were promoted from the "B" team to the "A" team. All told there was much lively interest shown in the hockey activities by a large number of boys right through the season.

House Hockey

This is becoming a regular feature of the hockey season. It is necessary to draw in boys from other sports and it is interesting to see the natural ability that some boys have in being able to adapt from one sport to another. Of course, there are some interesting and even amusing sidelights, but much fun is always evident. After the points being tied for the first two rounds for all Houses, Minerva were the winners of the competition.

Athletics

Although plagued by wet weather, the athletics season proved to be one in which standards of performance continued to rise. In an

DECEMBER, 1970—63

Inter-School fixture between five Junior Schools, the Prep, gained many platings and certainly held its own with the other schools. At the Quadrangular Sports at G.G.S., Prep, boys again excelled.

The Standards Competition again proved its value, if judged upon the enthusiasm of the boys. With Low, Average and High Standards to aim at, there is always a target which appears possible to the competitor. Boys who gained High Standards in all events were D. Henderson, P. Chapman, M. Bell, J. Eastoe, D. Wilson and R. Vickers-Willis. Helicon House won the competition, closely followed by Minerva.

Athletic Sports

After the official opening of the swimming pool on Friday, October 30th, a good crowd gathered for the Athletics Sports held under excellent conditions. Seven individual and four House records were broken. The winning House this year was Pegasus, although the outcome could not be decided until the last event of the day had been run. This meant that Minerva came a very close second.

Cross Country

The two and a half mile course again proved to be very testing, but all boys completed the event. Mr. Thwaites presented medallions to the successful boys — Andrew Mahar and David Reddie of Second Form and Ronald Walpole and Phil Anderson of First Form.

Music

The highlight of Term I was the Scotch College Music Festival, where our choir sang several original songs and joined the other schools in massed choir work.

The House Music competitions in Term II brought forth our first efforts in contemporary music. Appropriately, Mr. Keith Humble adjudicated.

'Joseph' has dominated musically in Term III.

Working from a fine libretto by Queensland poet and playwright, Helen Haenke, the boys have created their own opera in six scenes. Several have had a hand in the dramatic production and each soloist and accompanying musician has created his own music. It has involved almost 100 boys, including three Bactrian camels. Another 50 meanwhile rehearsed for the carol service.

Many boys have done well in the recent A.M.E.B. examinations, most notably David Sutherland and Richard Bartlett.

Campbell House

This year we were very pleased to welcome Mrs. R. George to our teaching staff and hope she enjoys her stay at Campbell House. As the work of Forms Ia Ib involved teaching several groups, it was decided to have extra help to allow for more individual teaching. This arrangement has worked well and we are indebted to Mrs. L. Hatton and Mrs. N. Rachinger for their assistance in this regard. We were also fortunate to have Mrs. J. Stewart take charge of Form III while Mrs. Coulson was on leave.

Once again it was necessary for Form III boys to travel to the Preparatory School more than we had hoped. Next year this travelling will be restricted as much as possible and these boys will report to Campbell House each morning, and not at the Preparatory School.

There was a good attendance at the annual meeting of the Parents' Association when Mr. Thwaites installed the committee for 1971.

President: Mrs. J. M. Richardson.

Vice-President: Mrs. R. Dennis.

Secretary: Mrs. D. Biciste.

Treasurer: Mrs. P. Richardson.

Committee: Mesdames I. Backwell, W. Holloway, D. Fulton, A. Waterhouse, V. Plueckhahn, C. Warmbrunn.

With a donation from the Association we have purchased further equipment for our playground. During the year, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Annois also donated equipment, for which we are very grateful.

This year, for the first time, Form III joined in the Campbell House Sports and added to the success of that day.

The annual Christmas Party was held on Monday Dec. 7th, our guest of honour being the Rev. A. J. McAdam, Chaplain of the Preparatory School.

BLUE

I have always loved the sea, it has an irresistible attraction about it, just what the attraction is I don't know, but I cannot leave it.

One morning, I went early down to the beach. The beauty and simplicity of non-civilization stirred my soul and I felt in touch with God. Walking along the cool soothing sand once again, I looked seaward, and screamed and cried within myself at the ultimate beauty of the green lines moving over the water and breaking in creamy, white, seemingly edible foam. A sense of overwhelming desire made me burn with angry love. I lifted my head to the sky and with all my power and feeling, tried to stare out the young sun. I felt strangely depressed when I found I could not.

Putting my board down, I stood erect and inhaled the fresh, stinging air. I was the only one on the beach and I felt selfish of it and scorned the later day when the water and sand would be covered with hundreds of people, eating, drinking yelling, bringing civilization to this place of ecstasy. I looked again towards the waves, rejoicing as one slithered shorewards, pure, hollow. Not a minute more could I wait.

A chill crept up my spine, half from the water's icy chill and half from the thrill of life and actually being here, being able to do this . . . this beautiful thing. Again I screamed within myself, again a cruel itching love for the sea took over my body and I exulted inside. I began to paddle with strong rhythmic strokes and as I did so the cold water washed over my board and ran under my stomach in small oozing waves. I was in a dream world, but I was knocked out of my trance when hit by a broken wave. I struggled for an instant, then the wave passed under me. I rested.

I had returned to reality, remembering, these waves were not tame. I had to tame them. To do this I must get to the green water out beyond the break. I climbed over one more wave and I was there. I sat up on my board and waited.

As I sat there I thought of things that troubled me, for here I could not be disturbed. I was in a world of my own; here I could straighten out my life.

Soon I caught a green form, and excelling myself, I streamed in front of the curl, cut back, hit the white and turned into the tube. Oh what heaven, what a tremendous stimulation of the senses. The wave died. I returned to catch another. I rode more and more and many more, and I thought to myself, I have tamed them, I am master, waves do what I want them to, for me!

It was when my triumph was at its highest that the sea decided on revenge. On the horizon a huge wall was travelling towards me. I panicked and started to paddle towards it, hoping to ride over before it broke. Foolish, for I knew too well the first in a set is the smallest.

The monster began to arch its back, the hair on its shoulder prickled, it started to break. I paddled feverishly but was forced to go through the lip as it broke. Regaining speed, I made it over the second and third, but the fourth I could not; I had to try and ride this fifteen foot cat so sleekly gliding through the sea. It was when I turned that I saw my stupidity had tricked me. I was in the clutches of the open sea, this was no safe point break. But I had to catch it, if not I would be left here at the will of any current that cared to grab me. Choosing the right moment I paddled. The surge picked me up, such speed, such a feeling I had never had before, but I was dropping down the face, I had to keep on the shoulder or be caught by the lip.

I trimmed my board to get speed for the climb, I felt as if I was bouncing on a rough road, my board was not made for heavies. Regaining height on the wave, I had time to think, but that was a fault, the lip broke on top of me and I started to fall. Where was my board? Dive for the bottom, that's what to do, oh hell! I headed for the safety of underwater, feeling the tons of white water crash down on me. My head felt like a bloated balloon, throbbing as I struggled and fought. Slowly I felt the wave leave me behind.

I rose to the surface and gasped for air. I felt as if I couldn't get enough of it, then realising my position I looked around for more freak sets, but the horizon was flat; I turned then to the shore and started to swim. I had enough sense to know not to rush but to swim slowly and keep my eye on the sea. Suddenly I became aware of something I had never known, fear of the sea. As if deliberately, the water turned colder and its colour changed to a vicious grey.

Looking below me as I swam, I could see sinewy shadows moving as I moved, it could be seaweed, or large fish . . . or shark!

I wanted to lift my legs out of the water, I thrashed the water, panic. I felt lost, the sea had turned on me, treason, how could it? Damn, how could it? Faster I swam, jittering, shaking with fear and anger. I swallowed water, but only to spew it up again.

Slowly I came to my senses and once more began to swim steadily towards shore. Time seemed to have no meaning, I just swam with tired uneasy strokes.

At last my feet touched ground, I looked up, the shore was twenty yards away. My stroke quickened, I swam a few more yards, then started to walk. My legs were sticks of jelly.

As I crawled up the beach, I heard voices, two figures were walking along the sand. Collapsing on my stomach, I cried. Had the sea really turned on me? Could I ever go back?

M. Boyd, II.

THE SURFER AND HIS KINGDOM

Dipping, gliding, flowing over, under, into
 the green wall of power.
 A deep rail turn and

72—THE PEGASUS,

the tanned god
powers to the lip.
Re-entry,
super-smooth, fluid,
back into the curl;
side-slips to be
lost in the dark womb
of the wave.

Full speed, turn on,
drive, crouch, drive;
bottom turn,
devastating.
The great green giant
builds,
hisses,
claws for the surfer
as he escapes the
foaming teeth, again.
Repeatedly the surfer powers,
powers to the cascading roof
of his domain,
suspended; then
down he surges
racing to the bottom;
and finally,
kicks out,
leaving the wave,
conquered,
to die — alone.

John Finlay, IV.

SEDIMENT

I searched,
for fifteen minutes
I searched.

Picking their faces,
scouring every inch
of body.

But not one I found
would communicate,
they just kept quiet.

—M. Boyd, II.

FEATHERTOP

Monstrous, hazy figure in the distance,
standing tall and straight.
With clouds drawn low
like a curtain of darkness
across the heavens.
Can I conquer you?

—I. Hope-Johnstone, II.

POEM

What were you before my days,
So old but still as young,
Wedged and squeezed inside that rock,
Your body now imprisoned?

—M. Witcombe, II.

THE WRECKERS

An unbroken shell,
Standing empty,
Silent,
Accusing,
Beneath cold steel and glittering flame,
Faded memories and secrets,
Seep from fatal wounds,
Slowly diminishing.
Brittle trinkets splinter and crackle,
Beneath the hands of murderers.
Rustling letters waft across the floor,
The last of a distant age,
Disfigured,
Brusquely swept away,
Before the winds of another generation.
Not wanting,
Not caring,
Live for the day,
Yesterday is gone.
Incinerate all in high blast furnaces.
Memories bring only sadness,
Sweep them into corners,
Tomorrow is hidden,
Why drag up the past?
Hide it!

DECEMBER, 1970—73

Burn it!
Today is today.
Not yesterday,
Tomorrow behind the corner,
Invisible.
Who cares?
Life is for enjoying,
Civilisation is eternal!,
There are no consequences!
Why think?
Thinking is unhappiness,
Remembering.
In dusty books,
All the knowledge that man has striven for,
Erupts in flame,
As from the road,
The wrecker watches.

—R. Everist, II.

MY PLACE

Found i a cherry tree
covered with red growth.
I enjoyed myself.
Thought i,
this is mine
a private retreat.

Came i back
one week later,
to replenish myself,
but it was gone.
Oh yes the tree was there,
but my place was gone.

—M. Boyd, II.

THE SURFER

A man and
His machine,
Unique,
Defy nature's forms.

Rodney Hyett, IV.

VALLEY AND STREAM

Cool, clear, water
Trickling
Between its slatey banks
Sharp,
Shrill,
Bird calls filling the clear air.

The sound of rain pattering
On the surface of a pool.
Wind, leisurely breezes
Through the many grasses and
Old gum trees.

Essence of gums fills the air.
A bullfrog with hiccups
Leaps in the pond.

M.G.T., I.

GUM

Swaying in the gentle breeze
The old grey gum so solemnly stands,
With wrinkled skin and uncut hair
He watches ages pass.

J. Laidlaw, I.

WIND

Wind
across the barren land
slowly erases all traces of mankind's existence
and leaves a plain of sand.

Wind
in the cities
hurries people homeward to the comfort of their fires
where they sit, engrossed in their pities.

—Dan Wood, V.

74—THE PEGASUS,

WIND

The wind whistles
Through the tree tops
Lashing branches
Side to side.
The leaves make
A mad clatter
As the wind swirls through them
Like sticks in a river.

R. Clarke, I.

THE HUNT

The barks of the hounds drifted down through the trees. For a second he stood there, his finely muscled form silhouetted against the blue sky. Suddenly, his tense form broke, and he was away. His slim body pressed close to the ground, he glided across the windswept paddock. Slowly the trees faded into the distance. Slowly but surely his speed increased, his muscles rippling under his shiny coat, his legs moving in rapid succession. Like an arrow shot from a bow he skimmed across the springy turf, his soft paws barely touching the ground. Closer, closer he came to his destination. With a final sprint he slid down into his earth. He had slipped through the trap for he was young and strong. But his youth would end and his time would come.

K. Henshaw, I.

THE HURRICANE

On it came,
Howling, billowing,
Bringing destruction in its path
Clattering against closed shutters,
Uprooting great trees.
With a great rumble a small building collapsed
to the ground
Shaking the earth with great fury.
Then as quickly as it had come it left,
Leaving havoc behind it.

David Hone, I.

THE GIANT

He towered over us. The city was black. Everyone panicked with fear. His enormous feet crushed and destroyed everything in his path. He looked with his boulder eyes at the small, helpless 'ants' scuttling through the logs which seemed like matches to him. His big, hefty feet stomped through the blades of grass leaving them bruised and limp. Little did he know what he had done.

Martin Perkins, 6.

A BOY'S HEAD

A boy's head is a jungle,
A jungle full of teachers,
Mathematics, science and atomic bombs.

In it there is a man,
A man who clogs up your brain
With cement.

There are ideas,
Big ideas and small ideas;
Big ideas try to get rid of small ideas.

There is a TV show
On at 6 o'clock
And an empty barren desert
Covered in sand.

Ralph Humphries, 5.

THE KING OF THE BEASTS

The lion is the king of the beasts
Its roar is a warning to other animals to hide
They never know if they are the target
Of the great pounce
The lion does not even fear
A larger animal than itself
And its motto still is
ATTACK
The roar stings the opposition's ears
The lion leaps but misses
And his prey survives.

Michael Larcombe, 5.

DECEMBER, 1970—75

ON LOOKING AT A PIECE OF OP ART

descending into the endless movements of the curves that never stop floating, the rivers turn to mountains that blurr and bend into the murky sea of black that changes to a desert dry white that takes your mind into a bent rolling void that is non-existent in a world where the eyes focus, the lines become sharp and the feeling of never ending rhythm is gone.
Nothing can look at the face of infinity.

D. Gray, II.

SYMPHONY

Elusive, agile,
Perfect in purity,
The lone melody filters into the conscious.
But now,
Another entity
Complements with subtle harmony.
Now more,
A multitude of weaving singing voices,
Together, apart,
Always progressing.
I listen, hear,
And hearing understand, and learn
What words will never say.
Separate, yet one.

—Donald Thorn, V.

FOOTPRINTS

Footprints,
footprints walking to the sea.
Nothing.
Footprints v/alking up the beach.

Waves making footprints vanish,
never to appear again.
Nothing.
The beach is bare.

—A. Mahar, II.

DAY-DREAMER

She thinks of the rocks of the calm still sea.
The surface broken only by the gulls
As they glide down on their prey.
She thinks of the fog as it settles down over the sea,
And the faint thick cry of the foghorn,
Which warns the coming ships of the great
grey monster
Resting on the sea.

—G. Illingworth, II.

FOSSIL

I sat there
encased in a tomb
of scarred and ageless rock,
untouched by day
or week or year
or century.

And now
there is just a hole
in which I slept
for a million decades.

—D. Gray, II.

HISTORICAL RELICS

When they were common,
We didn't think of them.

When they were few,
We called them quaint.

When they are gone
It's a downright shame.

Why didn't Somebody . . . .

—Rowan Paton, IV.

76—THE PEGASUS,

WIND

Kites dance frantically,
 Balloons bob wildly,
 Trees sway deliriously,
 As the evil god besets them
 Intent on devastating — Furious!
 In a frienzy he blows, joined with Cold,
 Hard,
 Heavy,
 Raindrops.
 He scorns the little child's cry
 As he sweeps its toy into his dark domain
 Far away . . . .
 Lost!
 Forever!

Robert Crockett, IV.

SHARK

Sleek and cylindrical
 it lurks;
 a hideous machine at death.
 Slits for eyes,
 its sythe like marble teeth
 protrude from a gaping jaw.
 It swims around,
 moves in slowly,
 slowly,
 a red haze fills the water —
 shark moves off content.

Simon Bryant, IV.

SILENCE

Umbrellas of green cling to the trees,
 Enveloping with moist, nocturnal coolth
 The rock strewn waters running
 Through the still morning mist . . .
 While the garrisons of reeds
 Surround the battle-scarred swamps
 And the deadly-silent guerillas
 Lie in wait.

—W. Green, V.

MOUNTAINS

Praise the mountains, rising majestically above
 all terrain,
 Overseers of all surrounding existence.
 Acclaim the mountains, towering magnificently
 overhead,
 Dwarfing all verdure neighbouring them.
 Eulogise the mountains, shrouded in clouds
 and mist,
 Enveloped by an impregnable layer of snow,
 Glorify the mountains, picturesque sanctuaries
 of nature,
 Sheltering many wonders of animation.
 Laud the mountains, everlasting monuments
 of God's creation,
 Standing tall and rigid on the horizon.

David Mallett, IV.

SNAKES

Said the snake to the lizard, "Would you like to come to dinner to night"?
 Said the lizard to the snake, "I would like to come".
 When the lizard came to dinner he asked,
 "What is for dinner?"
 The snake said, "You are for dinner," and ate him up.
