THE Second Term of 1919 begins on Tuesday, June 10th.

On the first day of term the School assembled in front of the Norman Morrisen Memorial Hall and went through the ceremony of saluting the flag. The particular flag used on the occasion was the Union Jack presented to the College by Campbell College, Belfast, Ireland. At opening prayers, three members of the College Council, the Rev. J. A. Forrest, Mr. S. B. Calvert, and Mr. Ford Shannon, were present. The Rev. W. Maguire also attended. The Headmaster said how glad everyone was to see the Rev. J. A. Forrest with us once again after his service as Chaplain in France. He also welcomed the new boys, and asked the old ones to see that they had a good time. Mr. Forrest then addressed the boys in his usual happy vein, telling in a racy style some of his experiences at the Front, and in particular of how he had come across various¹ Old Collegians under unusual circumstances.

Owing to the influenza restrictions at the beginning of the year, School work did not begin until March 11th. To try and keep the work as far as possible up-to-date, Correspondence Classes were arranged for boys who intended to do the Public Examinations' course. The number of enrolments of boarders was the largest for some considerable time, but some of the New South Wales boys, on account of the influenza, have not yet returned.

It has been a great delight to have Old Boys who have returned from the war dropping in to see the old school at all kinds of odd times. We hope to see more of them in the near future. The School does not forget all that they have done for her in fighting for their country.

We wish to thank Mrs. Philip, of Balmoral, for the framed photograph of her son, the late Lieut. E. T. Philip, who was killed in action in June, 1917. It is now hanging in the Sixth Form Room.

Mr. H. H. Washington, Manager of the National Bank, Geelong, has very kindly "extended for another year his prize for the best student in Commercial Subjects in the Intermediate Examination Form.

The vacancies on the College Staff have been filled by the appointment of Mr. F. Crichton, a Graduate in Agricultural Science, who comes to us from Wesley College; Mr. T. W. G. Dawson, an Old Collegian, who has been on the staff of All Saints' Grammar School, Bathurst; and Mr. C. R. Woollacott, formerly of Prince Alfred College, Adelaide.

The Singing Class has been put into the capable hands of Mr. Frank Shrimpton. Mr. Shrimpton has been honoured by being chosen to succeed Mr. Bertram Johnston as conductor of the Peace Choir in Geelong.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. H. Grant, which took place in a private hospital in Melbourne during the Christmas vacation.

We wish to acknowledge with thanks the receipt, from the author, of a copy of "Melburnian Sonnets and Songs," a collection of verses written by the Rev. E. J. B. White, of Malvern, and published from time to time in various periodicals, especially the magazine of the Church of England Grammar School.

Many letters have been sent to the College expressing regret and sympathy at the misfortune which has befallen our boat crew. Amongst others who have written, are the Headmaster or the Sportsmaster of the Geelong Grammar School, Wesley College, and Xavier College.

Of the four boys who have been acting as Prefects this term,—J. B. Hawkes, W. R. Macpherson, W. C. Peter, and F. M. Lee,—two are leaving the School. Jack Hawkes, as Head Prefect, Captain of the Cricket Eleven, Public Schools' Tennis Champion, Vice-Captain of the Football Eighteen, and Hon. Secretary of the Athletic Sports, will be hard to replace. We shall greatly miss Ronny Macpherson too, who has represented us well in every branch of sport, but more especially as stroke of the crew. If for no other reason, we shall miss him because of his cheery optimism. Our best wishes go with them both in their future careers.

It was with great regret that the boys learned of the departure of the Rev. J- A. Forrest from St. George's Church. Ever since Mr. Forrest came to Geelong he has taken great interest in everything connected with the College, and he has been a conspicuous figure at all their functions. To show their appreciation of Mr. Forrest, the boarders made him a presentation of a travelling-bag. J. B. Hawkes, the Head Prefect, in handing over the bag, spoke of the good feeling that existed between Mr. Forrest and the boarders, and Mr. Forrest made a characteristically happy response. Our good wishes go with him and his family to their new sphere at Canterbury.

The work of the School was much interrupted towards the end of the term by the outbreak of influenza. The number of boys affected, together with those who stayed away through fear of infection, made a big gap in the attendance, and consecutive work was almost impossible. Happily the type of disease was not virulent, and the care and attention of Miss Price and of the nursing staff brought all the invalids through, safely.

Swimming.

OUR Swimming Sports this year were held on March 19th, and we were lucky enough to get a line day for them. The entries were slightly smaller than other years, but this was due to so many boys not being back. The Committee had a hard task in getting everything ready, but with the aid of Mr. Young, who very kindly acted as starter, every event was got off promptly, and the sports were very successful indeed. J. B. Paterson succeeded in winning the championship very easily, his only other opponent, however, making a plucky attempt. Of the other events, the Novelty Race, swimming while carrying eggs in spoons, provided much amusement, and H. Hill aroused enthusiasm by his splendid swim under water. The following were the results:—

Under 16 Handicap (50 yards)—1, H. Macmillan, (7 secs.); 2, D. Davies (1 sec.); 3, L. Solomon (7 secs.) Time—42secs.

Senior Championship (100 yards)—1, J. B. Paterson; 2, N. A. Box. Time—1min. 24SECS.

Dayboys' Handicap (50 yards)—1, H. Hirst (6secs.); 2, L. Solomon (8 secs.); 3, D. Kennedy (5 secs.) Time—36secs.

Novelty Race—1, R. Morton; 2, E. Greeves.

Relay Race (30 yards each)—\, C. McArthur and D Morrison (5secs.); 2, D. Davies and N. Richardson (6secs.) Time—46secs.

Cricket.

THE first term's cricket has been a disappointing one for the College. Mainly owing to the influenza outbreak the team had only a fortnight to practice before the first match, and the batting consequently was very weak indeed in all the matches. With several back from last year it was hoped that we might win a couple of matches; but the boys showed no confidence at all when opposing just moderate bowling. Our bowling has been quite good, and C. McArthur's effort against the strong Melbourne Grammar School side was very creditable indeed. The fielding has been on the whole very good, this fact being wholly due to the practice in the dinner hour, which improves the players wonderfully. No player has stood out in the team, and it is to be hoped that the team will improve in the last term, although there will be some more gaps to fill. The matches this term were only for one day, but the usual two days' matches will be played in the third term.

GEELONG COLLEGE v. WESLEY COLLEGE.

Wesley won the toss and elected to bat on one of Rankin's best wickets, but started off extremely badly, having at one stage 4 wickets down for 35. However, mainly owing to the good batting of Newham and the forceful hitting of Scott, the total eventually reached 165. Scott made 51, and was extremely lucky in his hitting, while Newham made 40. Hawkes was the most successful bowler, getting 4 wickets for 50, thus completing his 100 wickets in Public School matches, With only 165 to face it was fully expected that the College would be able to make the required number, but a batting collapse resulted instead, and the whole side were out for the poor total of 49; Sharland 12 and Hawkes 10 alone reaching double figures. The batsmen showed no confidence at all opposed to just ordinary bowling, and the match ended in an easy win for Wesley by 116 runs.

GEELONG COLLEGE v. MELBOURNE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

We expected great trouble with the strong Melbourne Grammar batting side, and to make things worse Sharland was unable to bowl, having injured himself in the previous match. Melbourne Grammar won the toss and went in on a beautiful fast wicket. They had at one stage 1 down for 150, and a big score seemed imminent, but when all other bowlers had failed, C. McArthur rose splendidly to the occasion, and in the end we had 9 down for 302, when they declared their innings closed. Cuming was top score with a well made 76, but nothing was more delightful to watch than Mollison's 43, when he executed brilliant strokes all round the wicket. Colin McArthur obtained the good average of 6 for 94, and he really deserved his success, Our batting was again weak, though partly disorganised through Sharland having to go in last man. J. Hawkes made 23 in good form and seemed like making a score, only to fall like many others to Cuming's bowling. The only other doubles were F. Lee 13 and J. Maddern 12 not out. Cuming, with his slow bowling, secured 8 for 43, but if watched his bowling is not difficult, and runs could be scored very quickly. Melbourne Grammar won by 1 wicket and 220 runs. Scores:

GEELONG COLLEGE v. SCOTCH COLLEGE.

These two teams expected to have a good even match but bad weather marred the game. The wicket was in a bad state through heavy rain in Melbourne on the Friday night, and the College on winning the toss sent Scotch in to bat. At lunch time the scores were 7 for 84, of which Cock had made 51 not out. He deserves great praise for his effort, as it undoubtedly saved the side from total collapse. Rain set in after lunch, and at 2.30 the umpires decided to abandon the match as the wicket was unplayable. For the College J. Hawkes obtained 3 for 14, while J. Carmichael got 3 for 21. It was bad luck not to be able to complete the match, as it would probably have been an interesting finish.

War Tanks.

A LECTURE BY LIEUT.-COLONEL PURNELL.

A lecture on War Tanks was given in the Norman Morrison Hall on Saturday evening, May 3rd, by an Old Collegian, Lieut.-Colonel F. C. Purnell. The Hall was well filled with present boys, old boys, and friends. The Headmaster, who presided, introduced the lecturer to the audience. He mentioned that early in the war Lieut.-Colonel Purnell had done excellent service as Commanding Officer of the Geelong Camp; he had subsequently gone to Europe to offer his services to the British Army authorities, and had been sent by them to France, to assist on the staff of the Anglo-American Tanks Commission. He had received the special thanks of the French Government, and had been permitted by them to bring back to the Geelong College some interesting war mementoes, which were now on their way to Australia.

Lieut.-Colonel Purnell said that tanks had not been "invented," they had "evolved." Caterpillar traction had been first thought of in 1908, but nothing was done in that connection till well after the beginning of the war. The Allies had not anticipated that the Germans would have such an immense number of machine guns, but when this was realised the Navy came to the rescue. Their designers got to work and prepared a few designs. It is for this reason that the parts of a tank are mostly called by naval terms. By 1915 experimental machines were in use, designed for the purpose of searching out and destroying machine-gun nests; a purpose that they have since achieved. The name "Tank" arose from the fact that originally the parts were prepared in different places in Great Britain. To hoodwink the workers in the factories they were said to be "water carriers for Mesopotamia," and the first batch were all labelled, "With care to Petrograd," in case of curiosity on the part of Secret Service agents. The camouflage was successful, as it was not till four days before the tanks were in the line that the Germans knew of their existence. The lecturer mentioned the different types that had evolved from the first design, and spoke of the Mark V as being the best type of any at the beginning of the Armistice. Reference was made to the fact that at one repairing workshop 3000 men were employed on tanks alone, and that of these 1300 were Chinese, who had proved to be model workmen. The greatest scourge of tanks was fire, due to the inflammability of the petrol.

The French were working along the same line as the British in complete secrecy. The French tanks were lower and offered less surface to gun-fire, but were awkward to manage and could not mount a ledge. At the time of the Armistice the French were turning out from fifteen to twenty a week, much of the work being done by girls and women.

The Germans' first tank appeared in April, 1918. They launched six heavy 35-ton tanks, of which the Allies immediately captured two. The armour of these tanks was almost invulnerable, being magnificently treated. Up to the time of the Armistice the Germans had put only fifty tanks into the field. What was their defence? They had had no experience, and the Hun soldier was lacking in initiative. However, they tried several devices. Their most troublesome weapon was their 77 field gun, but to use it they had to expose their gun. They then got to work with trench mortars, as being less expensive and less conspicuous. They employed hand grenades as well, but these were useless unless thrown three at a time. Finally the anti-tank gun came on the scene.

After eulogising the cleverness and courtesy of the French officers and men, Lieut.-Colonel Purnell mentioned some of the ways in which the tanks had proved valuable in warfare, and he ended by giving some personal reminiscences of the war districts in France.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Lieut.-Colonel Purnell at the instance of Chaplain-Captain J. A. Forrest, supported by Mr. S. B. Calvert.

Rowing.

The Annual Regatta was held on the Barwon on May 8th and 9th, under good weather conditions. A fair number of spectators assembled on the banks to watch the racing. The heats on the first day passed off excellently, being run up to time, and providing some good finishes. On the second day, however, two of the finals, the Middles and the Juniors, had to be postponed through members of the competing crews being laid up with influenza. Mr. Hill acted as starter, and the other masters kindly officiated as judges.

The following were the results of the races:—

Forrest's crew gained the better start, and held the advantage to the end, winning by one and a half lengths.

As soon as cricket was over Mr. Dawson set to work to form a second eight. Four of last year's second crew were available, and most of the others had been in an eight before, so the work was not altogether new to them. The crew trained well, and under Mr. Dawson's coaching, came on well, and it was a great disappointment to them that the race with Grammar had to be put off on account of the influenza epidemic, five of the crew being affected.

The crew was as follows :—

R. K. McArthur 9.2 (bow)
 J. F. Forrest, 9.13 (2)

The Public Schools Boat Race.

When it was known at the beginning of the year that five of our last year's crew would be available this year, supporters of the College felt confident that we should make a good showing on the river. The crew got to work early, and under Mr. Henry Young's expert guidance, soon reached a high pitch of excellence. Great keenness was displayed, and until about three weeks before the date fixed for the race training operations went on satisfactorily. The first rift in the lute was the forced retirement, under medical advice, of F. W. Gilmore. However, P. Adzen took his place at 4, and proved himself an efficient substitute. When the influenza broke out in the School an attempt was made to isolate the eight, but it was ineffectual. C. C. Bell (No. 2) was the first to succumb, followed soon after by T. W. Robertson (No. 5). Still, with such a cheery and determined stroke as W. R. Macpherson. and with two good substitutes from the second eight in J. R. Macmillan and A. M. Baird, it was felt that it was still possible to put a good crew on the river. When, however, Macpherson, himself, and J. G. Steele (No. 0), both fell victims to the scourge, and the second eight had been disbanded for the same reason, we realised that the only possible course left was to withdraw from the contest, and this was accordingly done.

To say that we were disappointed, is to put it mildly, but, though present boys, old boys, and supporters of the School in general shared in the disappointment, the greatest amount of sympathy is due to the coach and crew. After such a period of keen and strenuous training, backed up by high hopes of a successful issue, it was indeed cruel luck to be denied even the pleasure of a race, and too much praise cannot be given to the crew for the uncomplaining way in which they received the reverse.

A letter was received from Mr. H. Stewart, Hon. Sec. of the Public Schools' Sports, to the following effect:—"The Committee of Management for the Public Schools' Boat Race desire to tender to your crew, coach, and the College, their regret that your crew has had to withdraw from the contest owing to influenza, and their hope that the illness of your boys will not be serious. Their absence will be keenly felt by all interested in School rowing, and we sympathise with you all in your misfortune."

In letters received from other schools, such expressions of sympathy as these, occur:—"I am extremely sorry that fortune has been so unkind to your crew, who were looked to as winners of the race by so many people." "It is hard indeed to be denied that which has more virtue than the prize itself, viz., the struggle to gain it. The disappointment is a cross that lies heavy on the boy's high and laudable hope. May there be for him and for his School, at the back of it all, a crown bringing in more than the much—the very much—that has been given up."

One Old Collegian telegraphs colloquially : "Crew, stiff luck. Hope best next year. Cheero." Another writes: "I shall say nothing about our luck with the Boat Race and crew; words fail."

The preliminary heats of the Boat Race were rowed on the Yarra on Friday, May 23rd. In the first heat Geelong Grammar School and Geelong College were drawn together. Owing to Geelong College having withdrawn on account of influenza, Geelong Grammar School were given a row over. In the second heat Scotch College and Wesley College met. Scotch College, who had the centre station, were first away, and were half a length ahead at the bridge. As they rounded the big bend Wesley drew up, and were level. Scotch forged ahead again, and, in a desperate finish, Scotch won by a canvas. Time—5min. 24secs.

In the third heat Xavier College (centre station) met Melbourne Grammar School (north station). The Xavier crew led at the start and were never caught, though the Melburnians made a gallant effort to make up the leeway. Xavier finally won by three-quarters of a length. Time—5min. 30½secs.

The final heat was rowed on Saturday, May 24th, and provided the most exciting race seen in a series of races which have been noted for their excitement. The positions were :—Xavier College (north station), Scotch College (centre station), Geelong Grammar School (south station). The crews, for once, got away punctually. The Geelong Grammar School got off smartly and led to the big corner, when Scotch overhauled them, with Xavier half a length behind. Grammar kept too far out and lost ground. After Brander's Ferry the crews closed in, and half way down the Henley staging Xavier and Scotch were level. A desperate struggle ensued, and amidst the intensest excitement, Scotch and Xavier passed the winning post level, with Grammar a length behind. Time—5min. 13secs.

According to the regulations for the race, as it was a dead heat, it had to be rowed off later in the afternoon. This race again left nothing to be desired in the way of interest. It was a neck and neck struggle between the two, resulting in the end in a win for Scotch by a canvas. Time—5min. 38secs.

Our Illustrations.

One of the pictures shows a group of College Boys watching a cricket match against Geelong Grammar School, in 1909. It may interest pupils of that time to try to distinguish their contemporaries. Most of them were evidently in a happy mood. Legs are much in evidence; possibly a Sherlock Holmes may identify the owner of the boots in the foreground. In a clear print twenty-two of the group can be picked out who have taken part in the Great War. One has gained the D.S.O., two the M.C., and one the D.C.M. Five have made the supreme sacrifice.

It is hoped that the other picture, Queen's Bridge, may be of interest to old and present boys, as the scene of many a happy excursion by road or river.

WE congratulate Lieut. A. G. Maclean on winning the Military Cross. The Commonwealth "Gazette" of November 27th, 1918, states that it was awarded "for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Two villages were reported to be strongly held by the enemy, and although sniped at from their outskirts he advanced with the greatest courage and determination, and by a thorough reconnaissance ascertained that the enemy had only a few scouts forward. He was then able to furnish information which enabled the brigade to take up a fine position, and subsequently to inflict heavy losses on the enemy."

Alan Maclean returned to Australia in the Leicestershire, looking fit and well. Norman is still in Egypt recovering from an attack of malaria.

Alister is in England, or possibly on the Rhine. When he wrote last he was just recovering from an attack of influenza.

Eric Finch is expected back in Australia shortly. He seems to have led a charmed life, as he has been solidly stretcher-bearing since the first week of June, 1916, and has escaped any serious injury or illness.

Alexander ("Mick") Morris has settled down at Maroona. Though copies of the "Pegasus" were sent to him regularly while he was in France he received none after 1914. We hope that this was not the case with many Old Boys.

We regret to have to announce the death of an Old Collegian, the Rev. A. H. Moore, B.A., who for over 15 years had been Minister at Scots' Presbyterian Church, Ballarat. Mr. Moore, before entering the Ministry, had teaching experience and for a time was on the College staff. He was ordained as the first Minister of the West Perth Presbyterian Church in 1898, and in 1903 he went to Ballarat. He was Moderator of the Ballarat Presbytery in 1911, and had been clerk of it since 1914.

The inter-Collegiate cricket match at the Melbourne University resulted in Ormond winning the premiership. In the final match against Trinity a fine performance was put up by N. Longden, who took the whole ten wickets in the second innings at a cost of 50 runs, and in the first innings he took 7 for 41.

Ormond College was also successful in winning the inter-Collegiate boat race. Three Old Geelong Collegians had places in the winning crew, viz.:—E. E. Mackay (str.), W. E. Macmillan (4), and N. A. Longden (6).

Capt. J. I. Connor has distinguished himself by research work into the probable causative germ of the influenza epidemic.

S. T. Barnfather, A.A.I.S., has been admitted an associate of the London Chartered Institute of Secretaries.

Amongst the Old Collegians who have returned from the war and found time to look up the School recently are: D. Ellis, D. W. Paine, J. W. Salmon, A. L. Brumley, R. W. Hope, D. H. Oliver, T. W. Parrington, J. V. Pearce, J. D. Rogers, S. R. Warnock, H. I. Gibb.

"Tommy" Doughton and "Herb" Birrell paid a visit to the School one day during term and spent a pleasant hour going through the new buildings, noting changes, and indulging in reminiscences of the College as it was fifteen years ago.

We are glad to know that the following Old Boys have returned safely from the war: Dr. S. Appleford, Dr. W. A. H. Birrell, J. L. W. Sharland, J. K. Spalding, L. W. Nicholson, T. E. Rand, W. E. Thacker, A. R. Urquhart, W. E. Macmillan, Alister Campbell.

The latest English news from Gordon McArthur reported that he was stroking a Jesus College Eight (fixed seats), and in the Inter-Collegiate races, which took place in March, his crew got into the semi-finals. Photographs of the crew appeared in a large number of English papers under the title, "A One-legged Stroke."

Capt. Billy Reid, in a home letter, says that he volunteered for the Army of Occupation early in April, and was then at Cologne, having a good time fishing, shooting, and riding.

Annual Re-Union, 1919.

Owing to the prevailing epidemic of influenza the Committee of the Old Boys' Association decided to postpone indefinitely the Annual General Meeting and Re-union until such time as matters become more normal.

The date had been fixed for the 20th June, but it was considered unwise to hold a re-union at present.

Our Roll of Honour.

It is with a great feeling of thankfulness that, as far as we know, no further deaths of Old Boys at the war have occurred since the previous issue of the Pegasus. The names of those who have fallen are already noted in the general list of volunteers, but they are printed here in full, as a gallant band of heroes, worthy of our never-dying, grateful, memory.

JUNIOR CADETS.

Mr. Dawson took charge of the Junior Cadets on the re-opening of the School, and judging by their increased efficiency, it is expected that those boys who join the "Seniors" next term, will do so with a good foundation upon which to commence the harder work.

SENIOR CADETS.

The Senior Cadets, under Mr. Hill, have done some good work this term. Part of the time of one half-day parade was devoted to route marching, and the attention of the cadets to marching and order was a credit to the College. However, when there is nothing but general work to be done on parade, some cadets appear to forget that what is worth doing at all, is worth doing well; and they, by their inattention, succeed in prolonging the parade, much to the regret of those who have been trying.

The band, which is rapidly progressing under Mr. Orton's instructions, was a great help on our route march.

Next term we hope to commence practising for the rifle matches which take place in November. After the team has been selected, its members will go regularly to the butts under the supervision of Mr. Crichton, who is to coach them. It is to be hoped that they will win the Gumming Cup.

A re-organisation of the Companies in the Area is expected to take place shortly. Under the proposed scheme the College will once again be the headquarters of a Company, and the Company Commander will have the assistance of two Platoon Commanders. If our Area Officer is able to introduce this arrangement, it will greatly benefit our corps.

A word of praise is due to the Non-Commissioned Officers for the manner in which they have carried out their duties this year.

The Library.

Through the kindness of Mrs. R. C. Webb, the following books have been added to the Boarders' library this term:—Almost Human, We of the Never Never, Hereward the Wake, Tanglewood Tales, Petrol Patrols, Over There, The White Company, Lost Endeavour, The Woman in White, Flower O' the Lily, The Young Anzacs, Playing the Game, The Treasure of the San Philipo, The Winds of Chance, Carry On, Under Haig in Flanders. The fiction shelves have been overhauled and the most dilapidated volumes have been thrown out to make room for the newer ones, Le roi est mort. Vive le roi!

Letters from Old Boys at the Front.

The following letters may in some cases seem to be hardly up to date, but we shall let them stand as typical of experiences not likely, we hope, ever to be repeated.

From A. A. W. Hooper, France, 9/3/19 :—

"The December Pegasus arrived a few days ago, and I found it most interesting I hope to get back to Australia by July or August and will look forward to a visit to the old School. . . . I was lucky enough to get part of my last leave at the same time as Frank Richardson, and we had a few days together in Edinburgh. I met Jim Hope in Piccadilly and did not recognise him at all at first, he has changed so much. I also saw Angus Urquhart one evening dancing at the Grafton Galleries. My Major has gone to England, sick, so I am commanding what is left of the battery. Most of the men have been demobilised, and nearly half of the horses sold. . . , ' , Travelling in this country is rather an expensive pastime. The trains and hotels are cheap, but food is very dear. I have been a good many times to Brussels, and like the place immensely. It is a jolly fine town, with lots of splendid buildings. There is an excellent opera there, which alone is worth going a long way to see."

From T. Hawkes, at Sea, 2/11/18:—

"It won't be long now before we get to England, and none of us will be sorry. . . . At Durban we were lucky enough to get three days' leave. Durban is absolutely one of the most beautiful places you could wish to see. The way it is set out, especially the residential parts, beats Sydney, I think. Capetown, too, is a beautiful city. We all expected to get leave here, but the authorities came off and told us that the whole place was down with Spanish influenza, and that we could not land on any account. We were only a couple of days out from Capetown when the men started going down with the thing, and in a week it had piactically turned the boat into an hospital ship. . . . I was very lucky, as since I've come on board I haven't had a thing wrong with me."

From L. Reid, Belgium, 18/3/19 :—

" . . . You will note, that I am still out in this cold, dreary country, but am expecting to be sent for demobilisation at any minute now. I am lucky in not having to do a year's 'Army of Occupation' on the Rhine, as most others in the B.E.F. will have to do, as I come under the Repatriation order. I am at present billeted at Tinbot, a small village about 20 kilos, from Liege, and am having quite an enjoyable time, as there is very little to do. We have lost most of our horses, and I cannot say that I am in the least sorry to bid them farewell, as each man had about ten horses to look after. . . . The Belgians gave us a great welcome, especially at Lille and Brussels, where the English and Canadian troops were reviewed."

From H. MacKnight, France, 2/1/19:—

" . . . Just a few lines to thank you for your kind Christmas and New Year greetings contained in the last Pegasus. Please accept my sincerest good wishes for the prosperity of the College and the Association, and for the happiness of all boys, past and present. Over here we are looking forward to a speedy return, and the renewal of old acquaintances under the good old conditions of peace. I have met various Old Boys recently, amongst others Major Tom Kerr, Major Jim Kininmonth, Major Berry, Captain Arthur David, Lieut. 'Sleepy' Maclean, Captain Lamble, and Hal Sewell. . . . At present I am in Charleroi tasting civilisation. Some of the tales told by the Belgian civilians here about the Hun are simply appalling. The country here is of great historical interest; for instance, the house in which I am living is called the Chateau Croise, because it is alleged that on the site now occupied by the front garden the last 'crossing of bayonets between the contending soldiers after Waterloo took place.' This is about 52 kilos, south of Waterloo, and even to this day they dig up small iron cannon balls, about 1½in. in diameter, and round lead rifle bullets in the garden."

From A. Sinclair, Egypt, 31/3/19 :—

" . . . I joined the 8th Regiment at Tripoli in Syria exactly a week after the armistice was signed. The regiment was there for four months, during which time I had four days' leave to Becharri, a village in the Lebanon mountains. It is about 40 miles from Tripoli, but is well worth the ride. Just above the village in the snow is a clump of five or six hundred cedar trees. These are protected, as they are the only ones of their kind in the world. It was from here that the timber was taken to build Solomon's Temple at Jerusalem. . . . We left Tripoli at the end of February and came down to Moascar. Soon after our arrival this disturbance among the native population arose, and we were sent out here to do guards at various towns. This place, Minet el Pamh, is a very poor sort of town, but the country round about is beautiful. Fresh water channels from the Nile flow past here, and as far as one can see there is nothing but beautiful crops of barley, beans, oats, sugar-cane, cotton, and peanuts, interspersed here and there with clumps of date palms. Of course the natives have very primitive methods of working their ground, and it is quite a common thing for a camel and a cow to be working together in a plough."

From C. Hendy, France, 8/1/19:—

" . . . The Pegasus is always very welcome as it brings back many pleasant memories of the old School. After reading it through I passed it on to our Brigade Major, Captain Lamble, and he was very pleased to get it. Last month I went to Paris on eight days' furlough, and had a very enjoyable time. I went to see some of the sights, including the famous palaces of Fontainbleau, Malmaison, and Versailles. Paris was looking very pretty—it is literally draped with Allied flags, and many of the large drapery establishments were very prettily illuminated at night with coloured electric lights."

Random Notes.

In proposing a vote of thanks to Lieut.-Colonel Purnell for his lecture on War Tanks, Chaplain-Captain Forrest related the anecdote of the English Tommy and the French Poilu, who had become chummy. On parting Tommy, to air his French, said, "Au Reservoir!" Not to be outdone in courtesy, the Poilu replied, "Tanks !"

We are told that the plural of "solo" is "duet."

"Bacon was a renowned navigator who had a ship called "The Squirrel." He was also an explorer, and often sailed away for many days without returning for a long time."

"The monkeys (at the Zoo) would chase each other all over the place and sit there waiting for a person to throw a nut or biscuit into them."

First Invalid (reading a home letter) : "The car was running splendidly, and as the roads had just been repaired we simply flew . . . !"

Second Invalid (interrupting) : "Oh, cut out all about flu!"

First Invalid (continuing) : "We arrived safely and thus ends a . . . !"

Second Invalid: "Oh, cut out enza!"

Master : "By what method do you prove this theorem?"

Boy : "By the method of superstition."

How I went Fishing.

It had been a delightful summer day and twilight had settled quietly in. Folks at the little seaside town where I was spending my holidays were strolling baek from their afternoon bathe, risking the ire of land-ladies driven to desperation by the nonchalant stragglng of their paying guests. Feeling virtuous in that I had for once finished my evening meal betimes, I cast around for something to do to fill in an idle hour or two, before retiring. My eye lighted on my fishing tackle, and at once I was possessed with a mad desire to go and catch some fish. The village was noted for fish, but unfortunately they were always caught out of the holiday season, and by local celebrities; but though this fact was weil known to me, I determined to be the happy and conspicuous exception who would come home laden with piscatorial spoils. I crossed the picturesque bridge spanning the refreshing-looking stream, and made my way to a secluded pool under some hanging rocks, known only to me and—all others who ever pretended to fish in that river. Selecting my seat with care, I dropped a handline from the rocky ledge, and threw out another line with my new half-guinea rod. Then for a considerable period I had leisure to soak mysejf in the atmosphere of the place. By this time the sun had set and darkness came on apace. It was extraordinarily quiet. The tide in the river was setting seawards; the smaller waves made a pleasant tinkling sound as they ran merrily on, while at intervals a larger one would strike against the rock with a gurgiunk, gurglunk, not unlike the croak of a fretful frog. A solitary star sent a message of gold across the ripples. Some water-fowl on the bank noisily welcomed a late-comer, who from their clamour might have been an original Anzac returning to the bosom of his family. Sea-gulls squawkily changed their resting place. The only other sounds were the far-offt whistle of a railway engine, muffled by distance; the excited barking of a rustic's dog; and some happy children's laughter. Someone came along and cast a line, but after an uneventful wait, wient off grumb-lingly to other pastures. Restfully I drank in the beauty of the night, and when the rattle of the mail-coach announced once more the claims of civilisation, I returned to my temporary home, fishless, but contented.

A Great Football Team.

Dear Sir,

In looking through the photographs of the football teams in the College Pavilion it struck me what a powerful team could be selected from those who have represented the School since the Pavilion was built—the time back to which my knowledge of the College football extends. I thought it might be interesting to form a model team from them which would perhaps bring back memories of many a strenuous contest. I am well aware that those who remember the Kearneys, Morrisons, Bakers, and others would choose differently, but I can only speak of what I know. Perhaps one of them would like to pit a team against the one I have selected, but alas! to get together even those I have chosen is impossible since the war. I should like to point out, too, that I have chosen them on the merit of their play while at School, else how could I have omitted lack Baker, George Heinz, Joe Slater, or Bert Rankin, who developed into players of the first flight after leaving School?

For my ruck I should choose George McNeilage and W. McCulloch, a very strong combination; backed up by Jack Hawkes, as a clever rover. For the back lines there would be many candidates, but it would be hard to beat Hugh ("Sunshine") Campbell, Phil Pullar, and E. ("Ghost") Webber; the last two to act as change rucks. On the half-back line there would be Tom Dickson, W. J. ("Billy") Reid, and W. ("Brumby") Baud, all having determination and dash. The centre line would comprise J. R. P. Mackenzie, F. B. Crawford, and Roy Pillow. Half-forward would be more difficult to pick, but I fancy Peter Campbell (who would act as change rover), Jack Urbahns, a good man on his day, and Keith Doig. If Keith does not like this position, we will comfort him by appointing him Captain, and telling him he can play well anywhere. For full forwards, we are fortunate in having such a clever trio as Jack Birnie, Alan Tait, and Tom Doughton. That completes the team, but when I find that I have been compelled to omit such men as G. C. Reid, Tom Kerr, Frank Young, A. R. McLennan, T. Hawkes, E. Mackay, etc., etc., it is evident that a second team could be chosen, which would make a game worth going a long way to see.

Hoping that "Teddy" may unearth some talent this year equal to the above,

Yours faithfully,

COLLEGE BARRACKER."

H. Thacker, Printer, Ryrie Street, Geelong.
